Santa, there will be some cookies, candy and milk for you by the fireplace.

Love,
Chuckie

Charleston Likely To Outshine Thunderbird At Schiller Dance

A Charleston contest (remember the dance that stormed the country al ost 40 years ago?) shoulu be a "panic" when the annual "Roaring Twenties" dance is held at the Schiller Recreation Center auditorium from 8 until 11 p.m. Monday, Dec. 30. Henry Cincione's Orchestra, furnished through the courtesy of the Columbus Federation Musicians, will play.

There will be prizes awarded also for the boy-girl whose costume best represents the era. Tom Crawshaw, director, stated that the dance contest is for singles only, and with the prizes again going to the most skillful boy and girl.

Ice skating lessons have been set up at the park pond with Ron Kitchon supervisor of the sport, giving instruction without charge at 4:30 in the afternoon, and again at 7:30 in the evenings.

During the holidays the Center will open for longer hours, although it will be closed all day on Christmas and New Years. On Mondays, Thursdays and Fridays until school reopens, it will be open from noon until 9:45 p.m. On Saturday it will be open from 9 a.m. until noon, and on Christmas and New Years Eves, the Center will be open from noon until 5 p.m.

IF YOU WISH to spend more time on your feet and less time on the ice, Ron Kitchton at Schiller Park is just the man to see. The Ohio State Physical Education student is giving free ice skating lessons at the pond every afternoon and evening. Here he is shown with Joe Miller, 51 Frebis-av and his sister Debbie who, while usually being able to stand up, both admit that there is a lot they need to learn.

ANOTHER FLAG FLYING

TO EMPHASIZE the international affiliation of Canadian Optimist Clubs with those of United States, the Canadian flag will be displayed at all South Optimist Club meetings. The flag was presented to President Neal Greenfield, right, by Treasurer Williard Bennett.

Pupils Evacuate Reeb School For Four Minutes

The smell of smoke and hot wires sent 730 students of Reeb Avenue School, 280 E. Reeb-av, out into the cold Friday. The school principal said the evacuation was handled in an orderly manner and students remained outside until firefighters gave permission for them to return.

A fire department spokesman said the smoke apparently came from an overheated light fixture. It was dismantled as a safety measure.

We wish all our friends and customers a very Merry and Bountiful Christmas.

Liquor Permit Transfers Asked

Three applications to transfer permits allowing sale of beer and wine for carry-out have been filed with the Ohio Department of Liquor Control.

They are:

- From John L. and Donna Jean Spies, 745 Frebis-av, to Margaret L. Archer, Beer Dock, at the same address.

Students Will Learn Practical Art Of Selling By Trying It

Ten energetic young ladies from West, Bishop Ready and Central high schools are getting on-the-job training in salesmanship and public relations at Hartley Newspapers.

Their job is to visit homes throughout the county, determining what features the public likes best about the community papers, selling new subscriptions and renewing old ones.

If they haven't knocked on your door — chances are they will soon.

The girls are studying a number of business subjects in each of their class schedules.

They are gaining bookside knowledge of American enterprise and, in the after school hours, getting practical experience in public relations, applied psychology, salesmanship, and learning to talk in an intelligent business manner with adults.

They work two hours each afternoon and make weekly class reports to class instructors.

Learned early, these ABCs of the business world should carry the girls far along the road to successful careers.

Paid on a commission basis, the girls are learning the value of individual effort, incentive and competition.

Commissions have been high during the Chritsmas season. With new Hartley sales

Teenagers Set To Aid TB Canvas

With the title of Youth Chairman, Jim Branham, 685 Morrill-av, will lead 100 teenagers Tuesday and Wednesday, Jan. 3 and 4, as they aid the Franklin County TB Society's "Checkmates" program.

The Barrett Junior High student and his group will distribute posters in Lincoln Park, urging every resident to get free tubercular tests.

Last June when a similar check was made in the area four cases of suspected TB were revealed in addition to an alarmingly high number of persons with the tubercular germs in their bodies.

Anyone over one-month-old will be offered free skin tests, while free chest x-rays will be available to those 15 or older.

Branham will be working under the supervision of E. Clifford Roberts, director of the program and Mrs. Elizabeth Ohlinger, 725 E. Markinson-av, general chairman.

The Lincoln Park canvas is only one of the many anti-TB measures carried out locally through support of the once-a-year Christmas campaign.

Official Names Primary Accident Areas, Causes

Failure to keep an assured clear distance ahead and left of center violations were listed as the primary factors contributing to accidents on Wilson, from Broad to Livingston, during the last half of November.

According to a selective enforcement bulletin issued by F. C. McWilliams, captain of the Traffic Bureau, special attention has been asked for the area between noon and 6 p.m.

Another South Side location, the intersection of Thurman and Washington-avs, will receive increased enforcement from noon to 3 p.m. Changing lanes without safety was reported to be the cause or contributing factor in this location.

Police List Accident Areas

Failure to keep an assured clear distance ahead and changing lanes without safety were listed as the primary causes or contributing factors in accidents in the two South Side precincts.

The semi-monthly selective enforcement bulletin issued by the Columbus Police Department listed the intersections of Nelson-rd and Livingston-av and Parsons-av and Barthman-st as high accident locations. Special attention was called to the hours of 4 to 6 p.m. at the first intersection and noon to 3 p.m. at the second.

Accidents in the City of Columbus totaled 921; hazardous moving violation arrests totaled 1,705 for the first 15 days of December.

Will Clear Route For Expressway

WHAT DO YOU SUPPOSE?

THERE'S A RULE that says it just isn't cricket to peek at Christmas presents before that wonderful day arrives. But that doesn't stop millions of children from giving mysterious boxes a little shake before Christmas to get at least a hint of what is inside. Above, Linda Hunter, 1038 Jaeger, let her curiosity get the best of her recently when she stopped into Schiller Recreation Center after school. Linda who is a sixth grader at Siebert is hoping to find a pair of ice skates under the family tree on Christmas morning.

STORK EYES CALENDAR

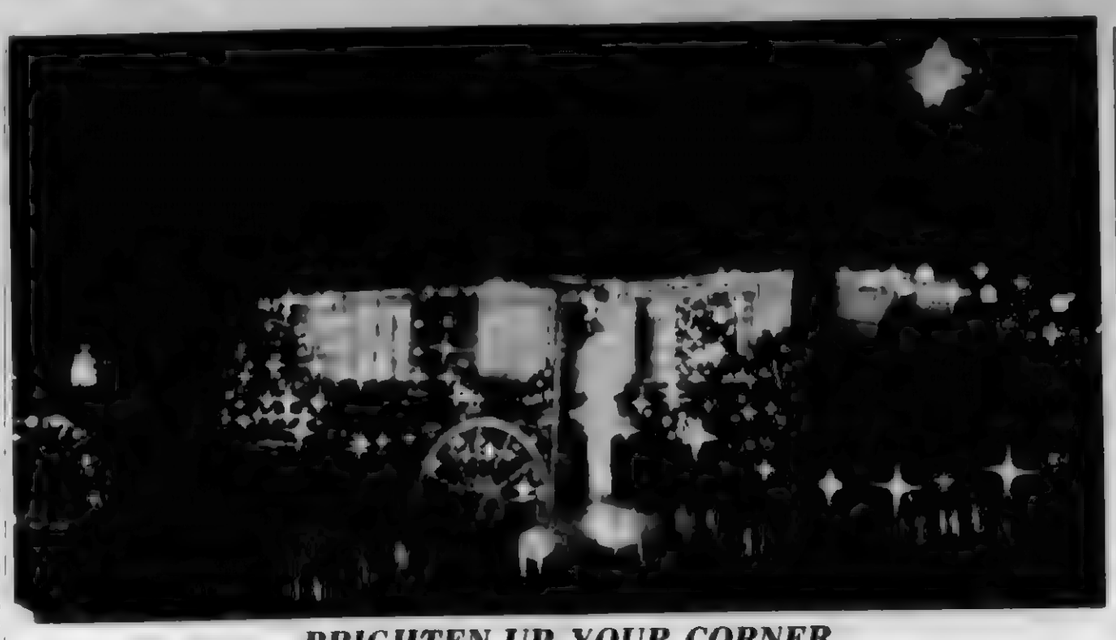
First Baby To Reap Jackpot Of Prizes

Santa Claus isn't the only one flying over rooftops this time of year. Ole Mister Stork is preparing for his big trip beginning in the wee hours of New Year's Day.

When the word got out that local merchants were going to give the first baby's parents a giant array of merchandise and services, Mr. Stork began scratching his head.

He knew that this was one time he could not dillydally around. He made up his mind to make his deliveries early so the proud parents could register their little newcomers in time to be eligible for all the prizes to be announced next week.

Anyone living in this newspaper's circulation area, and anticipating a little bundle on the first will want to remember our Thursday, Jan. 2, noon deadline.



That first lusty cry that means, "Hey, world I'm here," should prompt parents to register the birth at the Hartley Newspaper office, 2465 W. Broad-st. Society Editor Janet Michael will be on hand to receive the nominations.

1. Parents of the winning baby must currently reside in the area regularly covered by this newspaper. In event eligibility of any applicant is in doubt, the circulation department will verify whether the area regularly is served by the paper.

2. Exact date, hour, minute, place of birth, as well as the baby's sex, weight and name (if chosen) must be certified in writing by the attending physician.

3. Application statements must be received in Hartley Newspapers' office by noon Thursday, Jan. 2. Applications may be deposited in the mail slot beside the door on New Year's Day when the office is closed. Telephone number must be included.

4. Hartley Newspapers will not assume responsibility for locating the winner. Parents must establish positive proof of the birth according to the derby rules.

BRIGHTEN UP YOUR CORNER

CLOSE TO A THOUSAND LIGHTS, inside and out, make the home of Mr. and Mrs. Vaughn V. Hudson, 1730 Frebis-av, a brilliant spot from the middle of December until after New Years. With the same enthusiasm with which he attacks his yard and garden in the summertime, Hudson has decorated the home from chimney-top to fence-level every Christmas of the eight years the Hudsons have lived on Frebis. Especially interesting is the spray of hay forks that he has welded together to hold pots of flowers and vines as soon as spring arrives, but as Christmas he electrifies with blinking bells. Taking pride in the colorful Christmas show he has created, Hudson considers the $8 or $9 jump in his electric bill a small price to pay for the pleasure his family and others get from the display.

How Christmas is spent in other countries, or continents, has always intrigued this columnist as she scurries through her own lengthy "to do" list of the holiday season. A newly-acquired hobby satisfied our curiosity about one faraway spot of the globe this year.

The hobby, writing to pen pals, gave us first-hand information about Australia, the Down Under continent. Although one may not realize it, Australia is really our "little sister" of all the continents in the world, dating back to the time when we were both British possessions. Her development was delayed while England tried to quell the activity started by a little tea party held in Boston.

Ina wrote on December 10 that the street decorations were going up and a Nativity scene was about to be displayed, complete with floodlights, in her home town of Lara. Since the seasons are reversed from ours, the Australians will be in their summer season for a few days before Christmas. A few days before she wrote, the thermometer had registered 98 degrees. As WE wrote, the old mercury was down to zero, with gooseflesh on our gooseflesh. It didn't help matters any to know that Australia winters get down to a nasty (?) 40 degree low. Would that our winters would get that nasty!

Most of the customs are as we know them, naturally, with Old World origins. Evidently the aluminum tree fad has not yet reached Australia, for the evergreen trees are to be seen everywhere. Prince Albert, consort of Queen Victoria, born in Germany, is credited with introducing the custom of his native land to the people of his adopted empire. (The many German immigrants to America in the early 1800's had given America an earlier introduction to the custom.)

Even if the temperature soars to 100 degrees, the traditional meal for Dec. 25 features roast park, ham or turkey, plum pudding and Christmas cake for the day's hot metal. Ina herself prefers the day's cold meal, when she serves pickled pork.

Most residents head for the beaches or hills after their big meal at home, to relax with with an outing of swimming and picnicking. Those staying in town hold parties as a rule. Since most factories shut down for three weeks at this time, there is much traveling done right after Christmas. Relatives are visited and much sightseeing goes on. The children have six weeks off and do not return to school until Feb. 1, 1964.

Boxing Day is another custom that survives in Australia. The name stems from the fact that Christmas in olden days was celebrated in a holy and religious manner. No chores were done and the day was spent in a quiet and meditative fashion. The gifts were "boxed" and not presented until Dec. 26, hence the name. You know, some old customs should be revived!

Some of our downtown merchants would be happy if shopping hours were here, as they are in Australia. The stores close at 5:30 p.m., the butchers at 5 p.m. Before World War II, the stores stayed open until 9 p.m. on Fridays. At one time, some firms tried to introduce later hours, but the unions put an end to it.

Ohio is not the only spot that has a daylight savings hassle, for Mrs. Hillman reports that her state is also having a pro and con discussion of the subject at the present time.

Not one, but three Santa Clauses, appeared in a procession in the nearby city of Geelong on Nov. 1. Each of the city's big stores provided one for the occasion. Needless to say, the children didn't mind the duplication in the least.

One store name would seem familiar to Columbusites — Woolworth's. Just as in America, the firm formerly advertised "Nothing over 50 cents" but are a regular department store now. The company's stores are found all over Australia, even have a branch in New Zealand.

We in America, when shopping or working, take time for a "coffee break." In Australia, it's more apt to be tea. On a recent tour, Ina reports that she and her Mother's Club stopped for afternoon tea, had Devonshire tea, hot scones, cream and jam for 42 cents. It's really 3/6, but since she's smart and her correspondent is stupid, she always has to translate her currency into ours.

Even though much of the customs, language, etc. of England has been instilled into Australia, differences of expression have sprung up. Recently the equivalent of our PTA held an end-of-the-school year party for the teachers, complete with Christmas presents and an afternoon tea. Each member was to bring a "plate." (This plate was to contain cookies, or something for the spread.) A new member, English, thought the request was an odd one but she showed up carrying an empty plate. She and the others had a big laugh from the incident, proving a sense of humor is a handy asset in any part of the world.

Unwittingly, this weekly visitor caused an incident that brings a chuckle just to remember it. When the Lenox tribe took a quick vacation to New York and Philadelphia last summer, this columnist bought a Dutch cookbook and sent it to Australia. Mrs. Hillman decided to try the recipe for old-fashioned caramel candy.

She didn't boil it quite long enough, but the family decided to try it anyway. One by one, the four Hillmans got gummed up and sticky from the sweet concoction. The little girl, Tui, pulled hers out as if it were chewing gum, and said "Look Mom, by the foot and by the yard." Ina's family didn't let her forget the incident right away, naturally.

Being a brave soul, she tried again and all turned out fine the second time. The ladies of the Hungarian United Church of Christ might be interested to learn here, that one of their cookbooks is also in Australia.

Australians were just as shocked as we in America, by the tragedy that took place on Nov. 22. Memorial services were held there, just as they were here, for the slain president.

Writing to Mrs. Hillman has given a new dimension to our life. We've learned to look at our everyday surroundings in the way a stranger to our shores might look at them. It has heightened our appreciation of the good aspects, made us ashamed of the less wholesome phases. We corresponded with folks overseas before, but they were transplanted Americans, so gained no new viewpoints. The experience makes us want to gradually acquire more pen pals around the world. We are thoroughly convinced that a world-wide peace will only be possible when the common people communicate directly with one another. It was with complete agreement then that we read of the "People to People" movement in the November issue of the Reader's Digest.

Several actions are possible in this movement, but one that most anyone could do conveniently at home and at leisure, is promising to correspond with someone abroad. For complete information on this project write People-to-People, P.O. Box 1201, Kansas City 41, Mo., or write an 11c airmail letter to Ina Hillman, Rennie-st, Lara, Victoria, Australia. Many of her friends would like to correspond with Americans. It's also a wonderful week to think of such matters, when one is celebrating the birthday of the Prince of Peace and considering ways in which to better our lives.

New officers of Southern Way Chapter 467, OES, were installed earlier this month in a ceremony held at the South Gate Masonic Temple. They are as follows: Mildred Beickelman, worthy patron; Raymond Spencer, worthy patron; Lelia Dick, associate matron; Morris Jordon, associate patron; Keith Moerch, conductress; Nellie Walter, secretary, and Evelyn Ebert, treasurer. The installation officers were Julia Frank, past matron, and Claribel Soderstrom, past matron and president of the OES Hospital Circle.

The Colmery-coached South High Bulldogs will play a non-conference game in their basketball schedule on Friday, Dec. 27, at Chillicothe.

The family of Rev. Ellis Wesner, 308 Southwood-av, planned a one-day holiday visit with relatives in Indiana this week.

New officers for the Luther League of Emmanuel Lutheran Church are Yolanda Paska, president; Charlotte Heil, vice-president; Kathy Heinlein, secretary, and Paul Quickel, treasurer.

Although wornout with all the excitement of the past week these youngsters have reserved enough energy for the other big event of their lives—their birthday: Cheryl Yenicchek, Brenda Roush, Leonard Phillips, Rondy Hough, Danny McClain, Angela McGarish, Patti Hall, Sandra Scarberry, Jeanette Milam, Richard Ellis, Patricia Daugherty, Beverly Blackburn, Charles Melvin, Jerrie Behm, Erma Zornes and Randy Dennison.

End-of-the-year birthdays, adult section, are these: Pauline McCain, Howard Eberts, Buss McCaffrey, Mrs. Robert Peterfish, Gene Schrader, Mary Black, Helen Bronscome, Dohrman Frye, Robert Robert Frye, Grace Ward, Grover Hendricks and Adeline Reed.

Congratulations are in order for Joyce Reese, a South High graduate of 1961, who is now a young business woman. Joyce operates her own beauty salon at 297 E. Whittier-st. Quite an achievement for one so young, we think.

Officers for the Senior C.E. of Southwood Church of Christ include Theresa Siebert, president; Betty Gray, vice-president; Sue Smith, secretary; June Torr, treasurer, and Virginia Ling, Teens-for-Christ representative.

New members of the Thurman Avenue Methodist church will be welcomed on Sunday, Dec. 29, at the church.

If plans are continuing as planned, three neighbors will be listening to the New Year's bells from hospital beds. Rita Tapia, 720 E. Mithoff-st, and Rose Morris, 732 E. Mithoff-st are hoping to be roommates while at Mt. Carmel. Esther Workmaster, 724 E. Mithoff-st, will be elsewhere. Since we're not sure which one we'd rather not be guilty of misinformation.

New Year's Eve services to be held at various churches in the area include St. Paul Lutheran Church at 7:45 p.m. A watch nite service at the Washington Avenue E U B Church; a 7 p.m. prayer service at Hope Lutheran Church. Hope will also hold a reception for new members of the church on Sunday, Dec. 29. Southwood Church of Christ will hold an evening of fellowship, followed by services as the new year approaches.

Emmanuel Lutheran Church will hold New Year's Eve services at 7:20 p.m.

Area EUB youth will attend a mid-year Youth Fellowship Rally to be held Friday, Dec. 27, from 9:30 to 3 p.m. at the Burgess Avenue EUB Church.

Officers and circle chairmen of the WSWS of Ohio Avenue EUB Church are as follows: president, Mrs. Ralph Long; first vice-president, Mrs. Spencer Bowen; second vice-president, Mrs. Don Phillips; recording secretary, Mrs. William Hyltor.; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Don Frantz; treasurer, Mrs. Katherine Whalen; spiritual life, Mrs. James Nelson; missionary education, Mrs. Don Badger; Christian social relations, Mrs. Paul Hill; local church activities, Mrs. Clarence Hartman; missionary education for youth, Mrs. Edward Bornshine; missionary education for children, Mrs. Carl Gerhard. The circle chairmen are: Martha, Mrs. Robert Harris; Rebekah, Mrs. Edward Bornshine; Ruth, Mrs. Hazel Taylor; Lydia, Mrs. Harold Harmon; Mary, Mrs. E. Nietz; Dorcas, Mrs. William Gerhard.

The Junior C.E. of the Southwood Church of Christ will present a program on "Footprints in the Sand" during the evening church hour on Sunday, Dec. 29.

Two unusual features marked the golden wedding anniversary celebration of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Freytag, 303 E. Stewart-av, the first part of December. The six grandchildren presented a musical program throughout the reception and the neighborhood children gave the celebrants a "shivaree" or belling. The talented young Freytags include Martha and Linda, twin daughters of Mr. and Mrs. John Freytag, and Anita Fred, Billy and Margaret, children of Mr. and Mrs. David Freytag. The "serenading" was performed by Paula and Gail Gearhart, Joey and Susie Koehler, Patty and Randy Carroll, Bobby and Tommy Bray.

The week's ailing list includes Eleanor Tope, in room 731 of Grant Hospital, Geneva Jones, convalescing from surgery at Mt. Carmel; Margie Coffman, at home after a trip to the hospital, as is Jim Robison, Sr.; Moni Middlesworth who fractured a knee; Kenneth Wells, undergoing therapy; Nettie Burch and Lora Schwartz, who have been ill; Helen Arrick improving at home.

It's time for the final report on another "Gifts for the Giving" project which we're happy to report was again on the success side of the ledger. The donated items were lovely, and it was once again possible to give every patient remembrances for every member of his, or her, immediate family. In addition, four worthy families will have a happier holiday season, from the surpluses left after the distribution. So, EVERY donor should feel a sense of accomplishment in the strictly South Side project.

We hope we've named all the donors, week by week. In case a human frailty caused us to omit anyone, please forgive us.

Our thank you's are never complete until we include those wonderful friends and neighbors who leave their many tasks to go with us to the Benjamin Franklin Hospital on distribution day. First and foremost, our loved "Dee Dee" Bier, who enjoys making the rounds of the hospital too much to miss it, and who managed to work on some dolls this year, despite her new duties as nure. (Our "Doll Lady" secured a large doll for Mr. Paternoster's daughter as the youngster had asked for in Mrs. Robinson's Nov. 27 article about this project.

Mr. Bier made the rounds with his wife this year, we're happy to report. Old faithfuls, Lana Itsken and Helen Souder, again were our mainstays.

Newcomers whom we hope will join the "caravan" on a permanent basis, include Vera and Hancel Rice, Margaret Donahoe and Ruth Kleinlein. Mary Merritt and Louise Kennedy of the hospital staff helped make the distribution enjoyable and pleasant

We've always maintained the South Side is a community with a heart, and the successful completion of "Gifts for Giving" once again proves the veracity of that contention. And now, to each and every reader, "Happy Holidays."

Good Resolutions For 1964

Fly the flag proudly at every opportunity. Show our neighbors that we believe in America.

Try just a little harder to be patient.

Find delight in simple things.

Realize that the harder we work, the luckier we get.

Practice calling upon God not just on special occasions but daily.

Appreciate our power to laugh — especially at ourselves.

See what is beautiful — not just look at it. Look into people, not just at them.

Explore the dim recesses of our minds — even though the trail has never been blazed.

Learn one new skill.

Greet one old friend through a surprise phone call or a letter.

Keep learning because when you're through learning — you're through.

Rediscover and reassert our faith in the spiritual values on which America was built and bloomed so early.

Make big plans; aim high in hope and work.

Accept daily reality with a smile.

Choose one side of the road or the other.

Talk less and think more.

Condemn less and commend more.

Carry the Christmas spirit into the other 51 weeks of the year.

The Gay Philosopher Says: "It's not the size of the dog but the size of his bite that counts."

Three Nationalities

In our papers last week Jerry Spears carried a special Christmas message in which he stated that the shepherds and wise men represented three nationalities. Some readers have inquired what these three nationalities were and Mr. Spears points out they were Hebrew, Hindu and Greek.

Lucky '64 Stork Derby Winner Will Be Heir To Windfall Of Prizes

Expectant mothers, proud grandparents-to-be and well-wishing friends and relatives take note.

Midnight, New Years' Eve, is post time for this newspaper's annual Stork Derby.

The year 1963 is fading fast and as had been the custom over the years, a baby is the official welcoming committee of one to usher in the new year.

In addition to being pictured on the front page next week, "Little 1964" will receive a huge array of merchandise and services from local business establishments providing he or she meets all the requirements of this newspaper's Stork Derby.

As soon as possible after the baby is born, entries will be accepted at the Hartley Newspapers office.

TIME'S A WASTIN!

Fast steps must be taken for the baby to be properly registered at Hartley Newspapers office, 2465 W. Broad-st. Deadline for entries is Thursday, Jan. 2 at noon. Janet Michael, society editor, will be on hand to receive nominations.

REMEMBER THE RULES!

1. Parents of the winning baby must currently reside in the area regularly covered by this newspaper. In event eligibility of any applicant is in doubt, the circulation department will verify whether the area regularly is served by the paper.

2. Exact date, hour, minute, place of birth, as well as the baby's sex, weight and name (if chosen) must be certified in writing by the attending physician.

3. Application statements must be received in Hartley Newspapers' office by noon Thursday, Jan. 2. Applications may be deposited in the mail slot beside the door on New Year's Day when the office is closed. Telephone number must be included.

4. Hartley Newspapers will

"HEY MOMMY, GUESS what tomorrow is? Yep, my birthday. Remember what a commotion I caused last year? What a lot of prizes I got for being the first baby born on the first day of the year. Bet you don't think I would remember all that. Oh, but I do. I became the first new citizen of South Side at 5:22 a.m., Jan. 1, 1963. My little wrist tag bore the name of Danny Lee Young, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jay J. Young, 806 Koebel-rd. I remember when we left Grant Hospital to go home, I found out that I already had two sisters. I sure have gained a lot of weight this year. I weighed in at 9 lbs. and 9 ozs. and tip the scales at 26 lbs. now. I got my first haircut last week and I think it looks pretty good. Some new baby is going to be born on my birthday, Mommy. I hope he or she enjoys the Stork Derby title as much as I have."

Office Will Close At Noon Tuesday

Hartley Newspapers offices will close at noon Tuesday, Dec. 31, so that employes and their families may observe the New Year's holiday.

Offices will open for business as usual on Thursday, Jan. 2.

D. Clapham, J. Serrott Win Lighting Contest

The Christmas decorations at 549 S. Sixth-st won the top award for Don Clapham and John Serrott, owners of the home, in the annual contest sponsored by the German Village Society.

The plaque was awarded by Chet Long of WBNS-TV who, with Hugh DeMoss of WLW-C TV, judged the homes in the German Village area.

Tom Green and Dick Ayers, 754 Mohawk-st, took second place and the third place went to G. A. Fenice and C. E. Caudill at 727-729 S. Sixth-st.

Those receiving honorable mention are Mr. and Mrs. Ivan Pusecker, 219 E. Beck-st; Mr. and Mrs. August Hussey, 95 E. Deshler; Miss Annette Jackson, 541 City Park; Don Wheeler and Don Demorest, 555 City Park; Miss Jean Larason, 552 S. Sixth-st; Miss Cloe Samuels, 770 S. Sixth-st; Ferd J. Thomas, 697 S. Fifth; Mr. and Mrs. Richard King, 836 S. Pearl-st; Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Schola, 616 City Park; Mr. and Mrs. Earl Snyder, 175 E. Deshler; Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Dempsey, 871 S. Lazelle; Mrs. Grace Widmayer and Mrs. Eugene Schlereth, 223 Jackson.

BE IT RESOLVED

At this time of year, with everyone making resolutions, it is a good time to dispose of those unwanted household items that always seem to turn up when needed least. A fast-sell Hartley Newspapers Want Ad will solve those problems and put extra cash in your pocket. Resolve to call BR. 4-1155 now and dispose of unneeded items.

The South Side, sometimes referred to as the step-child of Columbus, continued in its determination to become a better place in which to live.

Business men, civic organizations, individuals pitched together not only to gain the attention of the city to their needs, but to follow the old adage, "God helps those who help themselves."

Whole blocks turned out to clean up and spruce up, parents and children alike threw themselves wholeheartedly into recreation programs designed to cut down on juvenile delinquency and increased support of community projects designed to help South Side projects was noted.

Community associations were formed to push for the street lighting, the improved streets and sidewalks, and the sewers that other areas in Columbus take for granted.

And, it seemed a much more friendly ear was turned their way from City Hall.

The German Village Ordinance was passed which provides for the creation of an historical area in a location a few years ago slated for slum clearance. The construction of a police sub-station and a Recreation Center in the Lincoln Park Home Area was welcomed. Attention was given to cleaning of the Scioto river to help with the flooding problem, and work on the Shadeville Sewage disposal plant begun.

The opening of several new schools was also a step in the right direction.

Rome wasn't built in a day, and the South Side which had been deteriorating over a long period of time cannot stage a come-back overnight.

But it's on its way, and more and more people are becoming proud to say they live on the South Side.

JANUARY

3—Building permits were issued for three construction projects, an ultra modern 44-unit motel at 920 S. High-st; the Lockhurst Apartments, Inc., and alterations and an addition to the Church of Christ in Christian Union. Winchester Estates began talks for possible annexation to the city of Columbus.

10—W. Ralston Westlake and M. E. Sensenbrenner announced their plans to run for mayor and began to lay the ground work for the presentation of their platforms. Williams-rd was closed until March to facilitate construction of a new sewer line.

17—After a bitter debate in city council, legislation was passed for the building of a police sub-station on the Lincoln Park School grounds. The School Board approved plans for the construction of an elementary school on Moler-rd, east of Fairwood-av.

24—The $9.5 million Frank-rd extension project was reviewed by the Traffic Commission. Spanish - speaking residents were able for the first time to hear Mass, at Holy Cross Catholic Church, in their native language.

31—Council of South Side Organizations gave it approval to the much debated construction of the police station on the Lincoln Park School grounds. City Council appropriated $129,000 for appraisals and the first land acquisition work for Children's Hospital Urban Renewal Project.

FEBRUARY

7—Democratic candidates outnumbered Republicans as the primary race deadline fell. As was expected, Westlake and Sensenbrenner officially tossed their hats into the ring. The city signed a contract for a federal grant of $2.3 million for the Children's Hospital Urban Renewal project. Total cost of the operation, which was to cover 55 acres, was estimated at $4.5 million.

14—The South Side Cooperative Association stated its goals for 1963 in an endeavor to make the area a better place to live. A youth dramatic group was set up at Schiller Park.

21—Plans were drafted for the construction of a $329,000 recreation center to be built in Lincoln Park. Chief of Police George Scholar singled out four South Side streets, Livingston-av, Main-st, S. High-st and Parsons-av, as traffic problem areas and began to prepare a plan of attack to alleviate the situation.

28 — The Broad - Main - Livingston Council began talks on how to improve the neighborhood. South Side Branch YMCA initiated a kite flying project to advertise a membership drive. Area youngsters began a campaign for stricter enforcement of tobacco sale laws.

MARCH

7—St. Stephen's Community celebrated its 44th anniversary as a South Side tradition. South Side YMCA membership campaign forged ahead as civic leaders climbed on the bandwagon. City Council appropriated $14,500 for growth and improvement in Schiller Park. Manager of the Great Southern office of the Ohio National Bank, William Bighouse, died.

14—Council of South Side organizations took a slap at what it termed "lack of foresight" in area building projects. South YMCA leaders stated that their drive for "Y" members was to benefit both area youth and community. Aquinas was eliminated from the Central District AA basketball tourney.

21—Wayne Woodrow Hayes doffed his coat and donned his baseball cap as he stormed up and down the sidelines at the Barrett Junior High School PTA meeting, lecturing to the group. The South Side YMCA campaign began to pay off as money and members began coming in.

28—Various activities were shown off as the Schiller Recreation Center held an open house. South Sider Stelios Stelson began to get results from his one man drive to promote better understanding between the Free World and Communist countries. Leaders of the "Y" membership campaign were still beating the drum and stepping up the tempo as the deadline approached.

APRIL

1—South Side residents were asked to take precautions as six rabid skunks were discovered in Franklin County since the beginning of the year. The "Y" was still at it. Russell Taylor, director of the Columbus Metropolitan Housing Authority, was an influential factor as the City Planning Commission approved the site for an additional senior citizens housing project at Alum Creek-dr and Frebis-av.

11—The Easter Bunny made an appearance at Schiller Park and hid over 2,000 eggs. The "Y" membership drive ended and a total of $10,000 was amassed. Mike

IT ENDS LIKE THE SONG

"WHEN A LOVELY FLAME DIES, Smoke gets in your eyes"—so go the final words of the song and the last days of the old year. As we begin the new year we may recount many of the happy and sad moments of 1963. And it is with the light shed by the "burning" of the old year that we are prepared to meet 1964 with its prospects of success, contentment and happiness. (Staff Photo by Ron Barlow)

County Dems Set Inaugural Events, Ball

MET IN HOSPITAL

Brave Couple Builds Strength In Others By Telephone Ministry

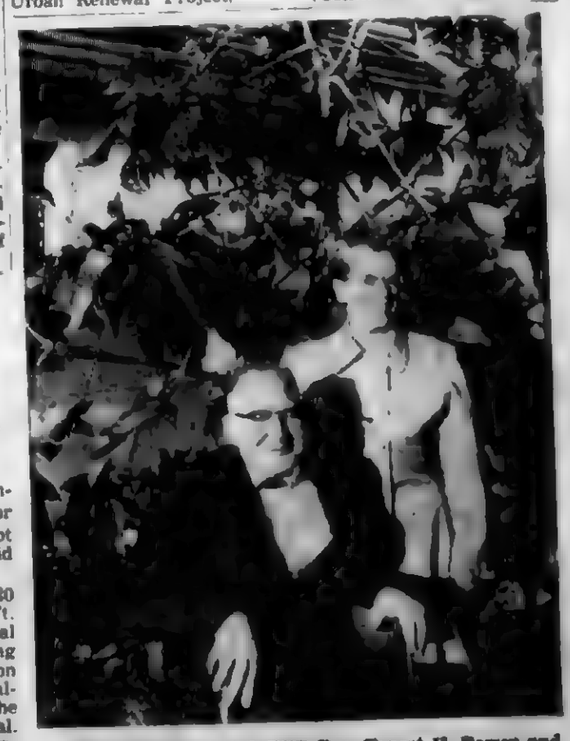
By JANET MICHAEL

No matter how cold the weather gets, the hearts of many people are warm and thankful for the help and guidance they received from Rev. and Mrs. Ernest H. Bowen.

In a small but homey Sullivant Gardens apartment at 740 Renick-st live a couple devoted to each other and to the higher goal they both share.

Endowed with the willingness to help people whenever and wherever they can, Rev. and Mrs. Bowen deal with the forgotten people—the shutins, the physically handicapped, and those who are just simply lonely and need a reassuring voice.

The simplest tool, a telephone, has made tremendous differences in the lives of those who have come in contact with the couple.



Both are physically handicapped and through this they have strengthened their faith and are helping others achieve this goal.

A unique and beautiful love story began nearly three years ago in, of all places, a hospital. Two people, who at that time were total strangers, entered University Hospital for major surgery. One was not expected to live, the other did not want to live.

Pearl came to Columbus 20 years ago from Windsor, Vt. She worked as a practical nurse, all the while suffering from arthritis. Her condition grew steadily worse and finally she was admitted to the hospital. Condition — critical. The night before her operation she was told that she would never walk again.

"As I lay there I prayed

MRS. PAUL R. BAUSCH

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Emmelhainz of 3000 Kropp-rd, Grove City. Mr. Bausch is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Bausch of 5201 Bausch-rd, Galloway.

Rev. Theadore Proehl performed the ceremony at St. John's Evangelical Lutheran Church, Grove City, on Oct. 27.

The bride wore a floor-length gown of Chantilly lace over taffeta. Iridescents accented the scalloped portrait neckline and the bouffant skirt was enhanced with motifs of Chantilly lace.

Her veil of illusion was held in place by a crown of seed pearls and she carried a white orchid surrounded by white chrysanthemums and accented with ivy.

Mrs. Sandra Hollar was matron of honor. Miss Jean Krieger and Miss Joan Schoch, cousins of the bride, served as brideamaids.

Their headpieces were dior bows of matching brocade turquoise taffeta. They carried bouquets of yellow pom pons and chrysanthemums entwined with turquoise lace.

Mr. Allen Schoch was best man. Ushering the guests were Mr. Wayne Emmelhainz, brother of the bride, Mr. Steve Bausch and Mr. Donald Bausch, brothers of the bridegroom, and Mr. Leroy Geyer.

Home from a trip throughout the midwestern and southern states, the new couple is residing at 6051 Bausch-rd, Galloway.

YWCA 'Scioto River Swim' Stresses Physical Fitness

A "Scioto River Swim" will be inaugurated at the open house Thursday, Jan. 9, 9:45 a.m. and 7:30 o.m. at the YMCA, 65 S. Fourth-st.

Swim from "the Broad Street Bridge to Chillicothe," in the YWCA pool. This is an opportunity for distance swimming and is open to anyone who is able to qualify by swimming a few laps of the YW pool. It is not a race. Swimming will be done in the pool in segments of 440 yards (22 lengths of the pool) and the distances chalked up on the Scioto River wall map.

Red Cross certificates will be awarded to those who complete distances of 10, 20, 30, 40 and 50 miles. Purpose of the 50-mile Scioto River Swim is to help people become physically fit.

Eugene (Sheeny) Uncles will give a talk about "Water Safety." A movie of "mouth to mouth resuscitation" and a demonstration of judo, gym classes, beginning and synchronized swimming, will be shown.

Baby sitting service will be provided for the morning session and for the participants in any YWCA activity, Monday through Thursday, at 25 cents per child.

Call the YWCA, CA. 4-9121 and register for the "Scioto River Swim" and inquire about winter quarter classes in physical fitness and self-improvement, slim 'n trim, judo, fitness and fashion, senior Red Cross life saving, volleyball and swimming, beginning through synchronized.

Christopher Leadership Course Offers Free Demonstration

A free demonstration meeting of the Christopher Leadership Course will be held Monday, Jan. 6, 8 p.m. at St. Mary parish hall, 684 S. Third-st.

Although the course is sponsored by the Columbus Diocesan Council of Catholic Men, the demonstration — and the course itself — is open to anyone, Catholic or otherwise, who wishes to develop his or her confidence, influence and speaking ability.

Presenting the demonstration, and conducting the course which will begin at St. Mary Monday, Jan. 13, are class leader John McGath of St. James the Less parish and assistant instructor Lou Kulas of St. Agnes parish.

Describing the effects of the course, McGath said, "Thousands of people have taken the course, some of whom were embarrassed at first to stand up and say their names. It has made them competent speakers, eager to participate and able to express their views."

Like all the instructors, McGath and Kulas are volunteers who receive no pay except "the pleasure of seeing people come to a realization of their own capabilities." This enables the DCCM to offer the course at a very low price, little more than the cost of the books used.

Two-hour classes will be held each Monday from Jan. 13 to Mar. 16. The 10 sessions are entitled "How to Be a Leader," "How to Bring Purpose into Your Leadership," "How to Develop Your Latent Abilities," "How to Speak with Conviction," "How to Organize Your Talks," "How to Speak Impromptu," "How to Put Your Imagination to Work," "How to Conduct a Successful Meeting," "How to Develop the Personality That Attracts" and "How to Reach Out to the World."

What does the average person get out of the course? McGath has the answer, "In these 10 sessions he has improved his confidence. He has learned and practiced formulas for remembering names, organizing action talks, and impromptu speaking. He has learned the value of enthusiasm and of using objects and visual aids in presenting ideas.

"His vision has been enlarged as he examined the influential fields of education, writing, government and social service in eight idea-building sessions. He has learned to use human interest stories to illustrate ideas.

"He has been convinced through his own success that the human relations rules of Christ are effective for changing the world. He has learned that leaders must act, that there is a new role for him in bringing Christ to the marketplace."

He said that everyone has untapped leadership ability, and that the course helps them understand their abilities and teaches them the techniques that enable them to be effective leaders.

"If you don't believe it, come to the demonstration and see for yourself. The only cost is an hour of your time," McGath said.

Another demonstration, for those unable to attend the first meeting, will be held Thursday, Jan. 9, 8 p.m. at the Catholic Center, 80 S. Sixth-st.

It's Mike, Not Mark

We erroniously reported recently that Groveport's Mark Green was named as Otterbein's "most improved player" at the Otters' recent grid banquet.

The honor fell to Mark's older brother, Mike Green, a sophomore at Otterbein. Mark is a freshman at OSU.

IT'S PUPPY LOVE

BEING A VERY little and a very young puppy, this young poodle had no serious objection when he was wrapped up in a gay Christmas box. When little Jan Deal of Ashville opened what proved to be her favorite present, it marked the beginning of a mutual admiration society. Jan is the three-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Art Deal.

CREATION...

ISN'T IT AMAZING ...Scientists say that there are no two snowflakes alike! How many snowflakes do you suppose there have been since the beginning of time? Billions? It staggers the imagination when one thinks of all the things that God has created from nothing.

Genesis, the first book in the bible means beginning. It tells of many of God's more major creations, and how He created all these things for the benefit of man. Attend church, study God's word and learn more of God's plan for man.

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny; the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.

EVERYONE IN THE CHURCH ... THE CHURCH IN EVERYONE

HELP!

Is There A Philadelphia Lawyer In The House?

What last week looked like an impasse has been settled —or almost so — between the Village of Groveport and an array of parties.

When the company doing business as the Qwik-Wash went out of the self-serve laundry business in Groveport, a water bill covering a four-month period was left unpaid. It totaled about $1,800.

Gene Matton, an attorney, purchased the machinery from the company and sold it to J. D. Hunter who also acquired the lease on the storeroom where the Qwik-Wash was located. This room is in a building at the western section of the village on Groveport-pk and owned by Norman Zitzke.

When a meeting was called by Eric Mengering, chairman of the Board of Public Affairs, to determine who should foot the bill, everyone showed up but representatives of Qwik-Wash who could not be reached.

Threats flew back and forth, with the city threatening to turn off the water, Hunter threatening to move out and find someone to sue, and the landlord equally unhappy.

However, by Saturday each of the three parties had sent the village solicitor, Charles Roger Andrews, a check for one-third of the amount due to be held in escrow until they could reach an agreement among themselves as to what releases were due to whom from whom.

The village's position was protected throughout the negotiations by provisions of the water ordinance, as the landlord can be forced to pay a tenant's bill.

However, it was recognized that Zitzke had a legal claim against the original leasee, if the Qwik-Wash liabilities had not been transferred along with its assets.

If this were the case, there was still the question whether the obligation now lay with Matton and/or Hunter.

Apparently Matton, who at the meeting of the board had stated he would pay only 10 cents of the bill (and produced a dime for an immediate settlement) reconsidered his position, at least for the present, to avoid "having his water turned off."

Chronology—

Mileusnich, president of the Council of South Side Organizations, planned the biggest area clean up of all time.

18—William P. Hoermle, Sr., city councilman and South Side businessman, headed a program to locate all cases of tuberculosis in high TB incidence areas. The city Traffic and Transportation members denied the plea of Barrett Junior High School Principal Kenneth Obert for the installation of a traffic signal at the intersection of Bruck-st and Thurman-av.

25—Council of South Side Organizations gave the needed push to a drive to clean up the South Side. Vice-president and treasurer of the Nippert Electric Products Co., John E. Nippert announced that he was seeking a post on the Columbus Board of Education.

MAY

2—German Village received the right to operate as almost a separate municipality. The TB Society began its "Operation Checkmate," which consisted both of TB skin tests and chest X-rays for South Siders. Political tensions ran high as voters prepared to select four from a slate of 10 council office seekers at the Primary Election.

9—Livingston-st residents carried on a project to ban trucks from that street between College-av and Hamilton-rd. Thirteen juniors were selected from South Side schools to attend Buckeye Boys' and Girls' State conventions.

16—Plans were set for the second annual Southern Kiwanis Summer Festival. Residents received the news that Franklin County was to receive 78.28 miles of road construction at a total cost of about $131,672,000 as a part of the State of Ohio's five-year construction. Two marching bands from Marion-Franklin High School joined the "big parade," which was the highlight of the three-day Armed Forces Celebration.

23—The South Side Settlement House painted a sad picture of the area welfare problem. City Council drew the boundry lines for the new Buckeye Junior High School and Moler Elementary Schools.

29 — South High School graduated 350 students. In conjunction with the Catholic Welfare Bureau and under the direction of Msgr. Lawrence Corcoran, the Little Brothers opened a free lunch stand to help alleviate the welfare crisis.

JUNE

6 — Joanne Picking was named the first-ever Miss Columbus. German Village planned its fourth annual Haus und Garten tour. The TB Society's "Operation Checkmate" was still going strong as many early cases of TB were detected and nipped in the bud. The Columbus Recreation Department opened South Side playgrounds. German Village elected five society trustees, with Frank Fetch, the grand old man of the village, heading the list.

13—South Siders displayed flags in tribute to our national emblem on Flag Day 1963. Dr. Earl Hayes Baxter completed his term as head of staff at Children's Hospital. Dr. Baxter, an internationally known pediatrician, was credited with building of the institution into one of the nation's most outstanding children's health centers. Gloria Jean McBride was awarded second place in the Miss Ohio Contest.

20—Council of South Side Organizations put out a call for funds to make the Fourth of July fireworks display a real success. Six new principals were appointed to take posts in area schools in the fall.

27—Preliminary bids were studied for the new Lincoln Park Recreation Center. President of the Council of South Side Organizations Mike Mileusnich invited representatives of the 41 South Side junk yards to meet with the council and discuss ways of improving the area appearance.

JULY

3—Area auto parts dealers agreed to try to clean up in an endeavor to clean up the South Side. Council of South Side Organizations made the final arrangements for the gala Fourth of July fireworks display. Planned Parenthood Center at the South Side Settlement House declared its information bureau a success and planned to continue the operation.

11 — Judy Robinson was chosen Miss South Side. The Charitable Foundation of the Young Business Men's Club donated $500 to the Links, the service group which supports the South Side Settlement House summer camping activities.

18—Ground was broken for the Lincoln Park Recreation Center. The German Village Commission was given offices in Columbus City Hall. Members of the Marion Franklin Area Civic Association petitioned City Council to organize the city's recreational program.

25—Plans on the Frank-rd extension came to a stop as City Council took more time to study the project. Dianna Cary strode her way to queen of the National Campers and Hikers Association.

AUGUST

1—The Lutheran Senior City, a $2.5 million project, was 25 percent of the way to completion. Three South Side bus routes had to be changed due to expressway construction. The German Village Haus und Garten tour netted $3,500.

8—Schools were urging area students to register as vacation rapidly drew to a close. Plans were set for Governor James A. Rhodes to officiate at the opening of the Franklin County Fair. The well-baby clinc, an organization giving free vaccinations to children, opened an office in Lincoln Park.

15—$750 of taxpayers money was lost in vandalism at Fairwood Park. New German Village Ordinance eyed with doubts and approval by residents. Programmed mathematics introduced as space age 3R in Columbus City Schools.

22—County Commissioners gave unanimus approval of Project 33. Plans were being made for a new junior college to be started in the fall at Central High School. Mrs. Lorraine Rogers, 460 Kossuth-st, took second place in the amateur oil painting class at the Ohio State Fair.

29—Schools opened with a new record of 98,000 student enrollment. The SSBIA held its seventh annual auction at the Steelton Merchants' parking lot. Proceeds were to be used for South Side improvement.

SEPTEMBER

5—Relief from unpleasant odors on the South Side will be seen with the completion of a new chemical plant in '64. The Christian Church at Wilson-av and Fulton-st opened its doors to an interracial congregation. Homework Assignment Notebooks were introduced to students at Barrett Junior High School as a new approach to homework. Former Columbus Mayor M. E. (Jack) Sensenbrenner opened his campaign for mayor in the November election by labeling the Westlake administration indecisive and lacking in leadership.

12—New officers of CSSO were sworn into office by Mayor Westlake. Hartley Newspapers-Shade Restaurant Golden Wedding party was held in Canal Winchester. Frank Fetch, known as Mr. German Village, headed the slate of officers installed at the quarterly general membership meeting of the German Village Society, Inc.

19—Governor James Rhodes, joined by Mayor W. Ralston Westlake, cut the ribbons signifying the $3 million diversification program was substantially completed. Mrs. Elizabeth Zipf, 850 S. Champion-av, celebrated her 99th birthday.

26—Schiller Park opened registration for winter activities. Bids were opened on the administration and service buildings of the $15 million sewage plant south of Shadeville between Rt. 23 and the Scioto River. Michael Lower, principal of Marion-Franklin Junior High School, was elected president of the Kiwanis Club of Southern Columbus. The CSSO held its first meeting Sept. 26.

OCTOBER

3—Unique Fire Fair was held at the Fire Headquarters, 200 Greenlawn-av, as part of the National Fire Prevention Week. Mrs. Mae Palmer, teacher at Marion-Franklin Junior-Senior High School was given a special tribute for her years as a dedicated teacher by the PTA. Unique neighborhood seminars were presented to the Marion-Franklin PTA by Dr. Harold Eibling, superintendent of Columbus Schools. Jim Lyle, 408 Thurman-av, was South Side's only semi-finalist in the National Merit Scholarship competition.

10—At a meeting held by the South Side Optimist Club, Miss Isabelle Wallace, a teacher of Barrett Junior High, where she has taught since 1924, was honored by former students who attributed their success in life to her. Columbus Municipal Court Judge Alan E. Schwarzwalder denied a motion to dismiss Sunday sales violations charges against Ontario Stores of Columbus, Inc.

17—Settlement house director Bernard Wahl gave answers to who it hurts when child welfare stops. CSSO continued its fight against unauthorized junk yards and failure to comply with zoning regulations that frequently were overlooked on the South Side. Joe McGrath, 138 Concord-pl, was the winner of round one in the Hartley Newspapers Football Contest. Jerry Ryan, chairman of the Franklin County Democratic Executive Committee, presented a proposal that would establish branch offices for an extended period of time before each election in the various municipalities in Franklin County.

24—Problems of welfare clients were to be studied by the Citizens Committee for Public Welfare. Halloween parties were being planned for every age group on the South Side. Lions opened sale for 15th annual edition of the Southeast Lions Roar newspaper. Naming themselves the "Sparks," a small group of women formed the nucleus of a guild devoted to the fund-raising activities for the Peck O' Wee Ones Foundation, the shelter for severly retarded children located at 4216 E. Main-st.

31—Columbus Mayor race was top voter attraction. An estimated 104,000 Columbus voters were expected to cast ballots, Nov. 5, to elect a mayor, four councilmen, a city attorney and four school board members. German Village

MIKE MANLEY is considerably more courageous than most of his eighth grade classmates, and he proved it. When the auditorium at Buckeye Junior High was thrown open forthe first noon dance recently, it didn't take too much coaxing to get him on the dance floor with Valeria Webb. According to a staff member of the school, most of the young men of his age prefer tag to the twist, at least in public.

Students And Faculty 'Crow Over' New Buckeye Junior High School

Not only the faculty, headed by Lewis Feesler, principal, but the entire student body seem proud of the new 18 classroom Buckeye Junior High School on Parsons-av that opened its doors for the first time this fall.

And it is no wonder.

Although the school is similar to other new ones in Columbus, it seems just a little bit superior.

Designed to accommodate students from the feeder schools, Fornof, Parsons, Scioto Trail and Stockbridge, the $1.8 million building now has 550 pupils.

How long it will remain uncrowded is a moot question, as next year twice as many seventh graders are expected as will be graduated and although school authorities were told that children from Southern Pines would be of elementary age, five new students were registered after the first weekend the new subdivision was opened for occupancy.

When school began in September, the building was incomplete, but the finishing touches are drawing to a close. The cafeteria is now finished with the exception of a snack bar that will soon be opened, and the auditorium will be complete when the seating is installed. The gym was made ready for the first basketball game within the past 10 days.

Some of the features of the new school include rooms that have been planned for "team teaching," tiered blackboards that can be put up and down as blinds to eliminate premature erasing of teaching materials and a telephone system connecting each room with all others.

The home economics, shop and science facilities are remarkable for a junior high level, and the isolation of the music department is a welcome change to teachers who have lectured in competition with Sousa marches.

Careful utilization of space has been followed, as was pointed out by Feesler, who mentioned that the cafeteria serves as a study hall throughout the day except during the noon hour.

CARRYING TRAYS was a novel experience for Junior Harmon and Shirley Roberts when the cafeteria at Buckeye Junior High School went into operation for first time the day before Christmas vacation began. Mrs. Elwood Webb, cafeteria director, and her three aides prepared the first meal which suited the young people to a "T." And why not? The old standby of tomato soup and hot dogs headed the menu.

Commissioners denied certificate to Miss Mary Dineen, 672 City Park. Division Kiwanis Post went to Ed Gearhart, 708 Chelsea-rd. Carla Jividen was elected South High homecoming queen.

NOVEMBER

7—Sensenbrenner won back Mayor's post; voters approved all city, state issues in the November elections. Kids, 1,572 of them, whooped it up at Schiller Recreation Center Halloween party. Otto C. Heinzerling, director of the Peck O' Wee Ones, was nominated for Sertoma Award.

14—Bill F. Thiemt, known to South Siders as the editor and publisher of the Columbus Herald, last German newspaper in the city, and his wife left Columbus for Florida. South 'Y' Club combined TV with turkey shoot at the South Side Y-Park on Rohr-rd. Increase of adult interest in Schiller Park classes were reported.

21—Mr. and Mrs. Lew Eakin, 3850 S. High-st, returned from trip to the Holy Land. Columbus School Board approved the demolition of two houses on school-owned properties to clear sites for a play area and for a future school. Croft Merritt, assistant to the service director, advises the Council of South Side Organizations to use petitions to get the sidewalks and street lighting called for in sections of the South Side.

27—City Administration shaped up as Mayor-Elect M. E. Sensenbrenner filled four more posts. Hartley Newspapers Suburban Homemaker Contest came to an end and three local finalists were sent to Chicago on an all-expense paid holiday to take part in the National competition. Saint Nick was slated to arrive by helicopter at Great Southern Shopping Center. Churches set services for day of Thanks.

DECEMBER

5—The sale of two sides by Walter T. Dickerson Co., at the Lockbourne Industrial Park, announced by President Owen T. Dickerson, marked the opening of a manufacturing area unique in the State of Ohio. Incorporated in the plans are airport facilities with a 5,000 foot runway, 38 individual hangars, maintenance shop and parking for transient aircraft. Columbus School Board approved the tentative selection of possible school sites in four locations along the city's southeastern boundaries.

12—First South Side substation built for police use only was dedicated as the Lincoln Park District Station at E. Woodrow and Ann-sts. Otto C. Heinzerling received the Sertoma annual Service to Mankind Award. Columbus City Council acted to move the office of the German Village Commission to the building owned by the German Village Society.

HERE'S HOW TO GET TO
Schwartz Bakery 486 E. Mound St.

From NORTH, EAST or WEST, come down either S. Grant Ave. or S. Washington, from Main, Town, Oak or East Broad. Turn left off Grant or right off Washington, as E. Mound St. is 2-way between these two Streets.

From the South, get on Grant Ave. BEFORE Livingston Ave, go North on Grant St. to East Mound St., and turn Right.

We know it's a little difficult to reach us while the freeway is being built, but it's worth it to get Schwartz Baked Goods, famous for Quality and Taste for over 40 years.

We take this opportunity to extend our Season's Greetings, and to say "thanks for your loyal patronage."

May the New Year be an especially happy one for all those it is our pleasure to serve. Thank you for your many kindnesses.

One of the most unique Holiday get-togethers in the area took place 10 days before Christmas in a progressive party idea. Participants were the families of Al and Betty Justus, Helen and Walter Denney, Helen and Al are brother and sister.

Patti Denney got the original idea and her relatives took to it with gusto. Al's Dec. 6 birthday cake and ice-cream celebration found the clan drawing for the continent that each family was to depict in the "Christmas Around the World" theme. Space in the various home and location was considered in deciding the course to be served by each participating family.

Now with the initial background for the affair, we'll continue with the notes made by Helen Denney, who kindly supplied this "nosy" correspondent with a vivid account of the fun-filled day.

"Off to Africa, the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Justus, 1238 Kelburn-av, Apt. D, for the appetizer. Sandy and John served "Missionary Blood Cocktail" (fruit juices), "Zombie Punch (some juice with rum added), African shrimp and lobster. The table was decorated with wooden carvings of a giraffe, native heads and fish. The language spoken was a very little recognized form of Swahili. The home was decorated in holly and poinsettias.

"Across the Suez Canal (Mound Street) to Asia, home of Patti Denney and Ann James, 152 S. Harris-av, for the soup course. On the front porch were two pottery dishes for food for the camels, the "Santa Claus" of Syria. If you are good the camel leaves presents; if not, he leaves a black mark on you and no gifts. "Season's Greetings" in Syrian welcomed us. The music of Israel was playing as we entered.

"The hostesses wore shoes made in the Philippines. Pat's were manufactured, but Ann's were made by sixth grade students. A beautiful coffee table of inlaid ivory and gold, sent to Patti from a friend in Afghanistan, was the point of interest in the living room. The dining table was decorated with Japanese figures praying that the food would be good; a lighted candle as used in mass, and money from Asian countries. The soup, Purpoo Mulligantunny (lentil soup) was served in white porcelain bowls of China and we drank the soup. This took a little doing, as it was slightly thick.

"From Asia across the North Pacific Ocean to North America, the home of Mr. and Mrs. L. Thomas Moore, 189 E. Markison-av, for the salad course. The "Noel light" from Quebec, Canada, greeted us on the porch. The host and hostess, dressed as natives of Mexico, invited us to break the "pinata" and receive a gift.

"Pictures of many fascinating places in North America decorated the dining room. The table with the cloth of our traditional Christmas, plus dolls from the many parts of the United States and Mexico made a very pretty picture. Waldorf salad with ingredients from various parts of the U.S., tossed salad with Canadian bacon and Hawaiian dressing, and Mexico green bean salad were served.

"Took off in jet from Miami, Fla., to South America, home of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Denney, 601 E. Molerst for the entree. Hay and water were on the front porch for Papa Noel's pony. The living room became a Peruvian market with straw mats on the floor with toys and trinkets for the guests. Since the religious emphasis is high in South America, the Creche was placed on the coffee table. Christmas music of the South American countries, performed on the "Eighteenth Century Glass Instrument", also referred to as "The Glass Harmonica", was playing. The dining table was decorated with a map of South America showing the countries, the capitals and their flags.

"A doll from Brazil, dressed in native costume was also on the table along with table tents showing a scene of one of the countries and giving a bit of information about the country, which were read by the guests. White Rhine wine, a product of Chile, Arroz com pollo (chicken and rice) and Panstone (Brazilian holiday bread) were served with cafe, te and leche. With a fond "Adios, hosta la vista," we left South America.

"Now across the South Pacific to Australia, the home of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Justus, 1447 Wilson-av, for the desert. A blazing yule log, a "C'Lherrio, ole bean." "Merry Christmas welcomed us to Australia. "Deck the Halls" and English Christmas carols played in the background while Bus read the legend of Christmas in Australia. Plum pudding with a lighted large red candle and holly was served with hard sauce and coffee. The hostess, Betty Justus, spent seven hours preparing the plum pudding."

The "tour" began at 1 p.m., the last home was reached at 6 p.m. The Columbusites found it not only fun, but educational, for research was done at the library, foreign cook books and any source of information of foreign customs. The foods were made from "scratch", with no idea of what the results would be. Mrs. Denney had her first go at making bread and had so much fun she plans a repeat performance. Highly efficient, the groups had a secretary, a reporter and two photographers to take movies.

World travelers who made the trip were Albert and Betty Justus, a son James, and his girl friend Joan Swartz; another son, John, and his wife Sandy; Walter and Helen Denney; their older daughter Patti, and a friend, Ann James; the younger daughter, Diane, and her husband, Tom Moore. Joe Justus, a third son of the Wilson-av residents, was unable to attend as he was away at school at Miami University in Oxford, O.

The closely-knit family has always done things together. Although it's still not fully discussed yet, there are tentative plans to hold a similar affair in the summer as an outdoor day of fun and education. We hope they do, for it's heartening to hear of such original ways of spending leisure time.

Newly-installed officers of the WOC, Hope Lutheran Church, are as follows: Mrs. Kenneth Storck, president; Mrs. Mark Paxton, vice-president; Miss Sandy Parks, secretary; Mrs. Robert Gongaware, treasurer; Miss June Wulfert, secretary of education, and Mrs. F. G. Appleman, secretary of stewardship.

The holiday plans of the Wesner family, 308 Southwood-av, were changed unexpectedly by the hospitalization of Mark at Children's Hospital.

Birthdays at this time of year seem anti-climactic to the celebrants, as one speaking with the voice of experience. Greetings, then, to these youngsters: Dexter Blake, James Bryant, Robert Goeller, Gene Wiley, Cheryl Christy, Sara Woods, Frances Oberkonz, Micky Robinson, Carrie Cooper, Jimmie Farris, Michael Hunter, Michael Music, James Burchett; Peggy Sailor Tchlea Speakman,, Richard Gaulka, Donny Plank, Su Ellen Cahill, Lila Lee Claffey, Sydney Church, Karen Waidner, Deborah Komives, Joan Church, Katherine Naegele and Barbara Jordan.

The anniversary department for the week includes these happy couples: Mr. and Mrs. Ray Finch, Mr. and Mrs. William Plank, and Mr. and Mrs. Dick Merriman.

The monthly euchre party of the Harmony Glee Club will be an event of Saturday, Jan. 4, at the Club House, 435 E. Kossuth-st.

South Side women are issued a cordial invitation to attend the 7:45 p.m. meeting Tuesday, Jan. 7, of the South Side "Y" Mother's Club, at 190 Southwood-av. Mrs. Walter McCain will be the featured speaker for the evening.

Norma Jacks, 1114 Champion-av, is one who gladly said "Good-bye" to 1963, as first one member, then another of her family required hospitalization. Currently it is her mother, Mary Geissinger.

Meetings, here and there . . .

Trudean Guild 12, predominantly composed of South Side members, will journey to 758 Dartmoor-rd in Grove City, home of Miss Grace Ward, for the 9:30 a.m. meeting on Tuesday, Jan. 7. Trudeau Guild 10 meets at 8:30 p.m. Wednesday, Jan. 8 at the home of Mrs. William Paulus, 68 E. Welch-av.

Camp Fire Girls committees that will meet within the week at the office, 718 S. High-st, include the Horizon Club Cabinet, Monday, Jan. 6 at 7:30 p.m., and the Public Relations Committee, Wednesday, Jan. 8 at 7:30 p.m.

HOW TO LIVE WITHOUT REALLY TRYING

Indolent Is The Word For Alvena

By JANE ROBINSON

A study of Alvena puts props under the theory of environment overcoming heredity.

She is a squirrel who can't crack a nut, refuses to climb a tree, is mortally afraid of any bug and is addicted to Coca-Cola.

This unlikely creature was adopted by King Baer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Baer of Groveport, when found in Columbus as a two or three-week-old orphan last spring.

Originally christened Alvin (which was feminized recently upon the advice of a veterinary) Alvena is not only domesticated—she's just plain civilized.

Instead of sitting up to eat like any self-respecting squirrell, she prefers to lie down on her back and nibble away. She has made it plain to the Baer family that she would prefer to die of thirst rather than deign to drink water from anything but a glass, and has to be watched like a hawk to keep her from sneaking upstairs for a siesta in the nearest bed.

Not particularly courteous, she scolds like a fish-wife if anyone attempts to take her away from her beloved master, but thinks nothing of drying her face on the nearest sleeve after washing. But, if there isn't anyone's sleeve handy, she will occasionally stoop to using her bushy tail as a towel, one of the purposes for which a squirrel's tail is designed.

Jealous as a spoiled child of the guinea pigs that another member of the Baer family is raising as a biology project, the rambunctious rodent demands an equal-rights program, pretending to crave lettuce and other leafy vegetables which are the mainstay of the guinea pigs' diet. But her appreciation of oranges and apples rings true.

Although it is the opinion of this writer that Alvena is just too lazy to crack a nut, Mrs. Baer claims that she is unable to, because she never had the opportunity to strengthen her jaws by gnawing on tree trunks.

But after all, why should she bother when King is glad to do it for her? Besides, it would take time away from her hobby of watching television.

Once in a while, sporting a tiny harness made by Mrs. Baer of braided bias tape and on a cat leash, Alvena goes strolling in the great outdoors, but she doesn't really go for it. She runs into things that move—like ants and birds—which just "give her fits."

Described as "completely Coke-crazy," Alvena loses all self-discipline at the sight of a shot-glass, which she associates with her obsession, chattering like a magpie and eager as an alcoholic at a cocktail party.

The zenith of happiness to this odd-ball is to lie on her back and invite King to scratch her stomach.

If she were a cat — and the Baers claim she acts like one—she'd purr.

What a tough life Alvena leads!

ALVENA HAS IT made, but she doesn't seem to realize it. Owned by King Baer of Groveport, the pet squirrel has apparently retained one of the basic instincts of its natural environment. As the winter months approached, her appetite doubled as she stored the fat that a wild squirrel would need for survival until spring comes again. She did not know that her food ration, as supplied by King, is no seasonal affair.

She did recover and while she was convalescing, God showed her that purpose.

In a bed in a room down the hall lay Rev. Bowen. As a child he was as active as any other youngster. Even as a man he worked at various jobs, not knowing what was about to happen.

One morning as he was getting ready for work he was aware of a "falling forward" sensation. Within a few weeks he was partially paralyzed. No longer able to work, Rev. Bowen entered Belview Rest Home.

Until 1953 no one had been able to diagnose his ailment. Then in 1953 he entered University Hospital for observation. At that time his condition was poor. Following a series of tests and X-rays, the cause of his trouble was found.

FIND RARE AILMENT

A small bone at the base of his skull was pressing against the spinal column, causing paralysis. He was told that he was born with this extra bone and that gradually the bone would pierce the spinal column. Without the operation he was given 12 years to live. He was also told that there were only three other such operations on record and only one of these had survived.

After much thought, Rev. Bowen agreed to the operation. Told that if he did live, he would spend the rest of his life in a wheel chair with total paralysis, he rededicated his life to the preaching of the gospel.

Not only did Rev. Bowen survive but he also has limited use of his hands. Eagerly he looked forward to fulfilling his vow.

The two people who had faced major operations found each other. Their love and concern for one another led them to the altar. Soon they were working together toward a higher goal.

Together they established a telephone ministry. Rev. Bowen is alerted by ministers as to who is in need of counseling. The word got around and soon people began calling for kind words and prayers. Rev. Bowen has talked to people in all walks of life. Usually he reads a suitable passage from the Bible, gives encouragement and offers prayer. Most of the time Mrs. Bowen is on the extension phone, joining in prayer and giving her womanly wisdom.

Rev. Bowen is unable to accomplish all he would like to do. Recently he was loaned a tape recorder. As soon as it is feasible, he plans to record sermons and send them to his telephone congregation and folks in rest homes and hospitals.

It has been said many times that everyone on this earth has a purpose. Rev. and Mrs. Bowen found theirs.

Kiwanis Clubs Begin Round Of Installations

Eleven Kiwanis clubs of Division 10-West will welcome incoming officers at installation rites and parties during the next few days.

An Editor's Outlook . . . by Jenkin Lloyd Jones

Prayer For '64: 'Give Us Wide-Mindedness'

Perhaps the best New Year's resolution which the American people could adopt collectively is a prayer for wide-mindedness.

This should be a prayer for stretchable brains—brains capable of adapting themselves to startling new conditions. The world is moving very fast and philosophies geared to conditions of 20 years ago, or even 10, are no longer big enough.

Jones

But there is a difference between stretchable brains and those that are merely soft. The soft brain imagines that changing times have destroyed eternal values:

"We better grab that government dough or some other town will." "Heck, Ma, all the kids are doing it." "They're grading on the curve and since everybody else cheats I've got to." "Easy on them bricks, boy. When the job's finished they quit paying us."

The theory that electronics and atomic fission have rendered obsolete such things as decency, honesty and self-reliance certainly has contributed to our morals and malaise and rubber standards of behavior. We don't need that kind of flexibility.

But we do need to understand vast new forces abroad in the world. Since 1945, when man first learned to turn matter directly into energy, the physical world has assumed queer shapes, and we have a lot of re-learning to do.

A few weeks ago I stood inside a vacuum chamber at Douglas Aircraft's new Space Research Center at Huntington Beach, Calif. By the use of liquid hydrogen the temperature will be pulled so close to absolute zero that the molecules of air will actually fall to the floor like snow. And the vacuum will be so close to complete that the metal of the missile being tested will exhale, i.e. air will be pulled out from the molecules of metal.

What metallurgist 20 years ago would have imagined such a thing as breathing steel?

Before the rise of behaviorist psychology we were taught that sin was sin and if the sinner didn't conquer it he'd be punished in Hell. Then we became bemused by the belief that sin was only relative, if, indeed, it existed at all. The chief evil was frustration. So we tried unfrustration on the theory that it would make our children happy, and we have reaped the sorriest lot of causeless rebels, smothered in over-indulgence, unhappy with the world, contemptuous of their parents, and gagging at their own boundless egos.

So the new psychiatry is wondering if frustration is half as bad as self-nausea, and if, maybe, a turn away from doin' what comes naturally and back to some absolute values wouldn't make the kids a lot happier.

Our schools need attention. It's not enough to plead that they are better than they were. The dynamics of the times demand that they be much better than they are. The field hand has been tractored out. The hod carrier has been automated out. Within a decade few men will be employable in industry unless they have a minimum of substantial technical skill.

Yet we have too many schools still in low gear to accommodate field-hand mentalities or hod carrier ambitions. Schools that are either prolonged kindergartens or blackboard jungles won't meet the challenge.

We're going to have to give up the old democratic ideal of the same school for everybody. Yet we don't want to make the European mistake of condemning all slow starters to watered-down schooling. There might be some fast finishers among them.

We have a lot of experimentation to do before we come up with school systems that will develop the maximum potential in each child, and our present parent-teacher associations, with their preoccupation with cake-baking bazaars, are not going to help much. We need new and more critical citizens organizations devoted to improving our schools.

Our cities are growing bigger and we'll soon have a crowded country. We used to have wilderness to burn and that's about what we did with it. Now conservation is a big thing. We can clean up our rivers. We can have roads that are not paved aisles between billboards. We can improve our recreation areas. Every citizen can throw some weight in favor of keeping the beauty America has and restoring much that has been lost.

It's time more decent people took an interest in prisons. This is our greatest single area of social failure. In many states the repeater rate runs up to 60 per cent. Yet while you can get many hundreds of thousands of citizens excited about a rare disease like muscular dystrophy almost nobody wants to mess with criminals. This is ridiculous. We should either have guts enough to execute repeaters or we should devote enough money, time and talent toward our "correctional" institutions to make them really correctional.

We could use a little less bridge, a little less TV, a lot more attention to the kids, and a more thoughtful reading of Page 1. Let 1964 be a year of polished-up enthusiasms. The finest aim of life is to have a few sincere mourners at your funeral.

(COPYRIGHT 1963, GENERAL FEATURES CORP.)

. . . And A Happy New Year!

A busy time indeed is this period between Christmas and New Year's Day. It is a time of fellowship and good cheer; a chance to reflect on the events of the past year, and an opportunity to contemplate what is in store for us in 1964.

Historians will mark 1963 for the tragic assassination of President John F. Kennedy, and as the year of serious internal strife over the question of civil rights. But as in every inventory, the one for 1963 will not be without some assets to be recorded.

We were given a measure of hope through a further thaw in the cold war. The signing of a nuclear test ban treaty and relaxing of travel restrictions between East and West Germany — at least for Christmastime visits — were welcome bits of news. And on the national level we enjoyed general economic gains that seem destined to hold through 1964.

Although the year 1963 was not a total loss locally, neither was it a smashing success. We continue to enjoy an area-wide building boom, and unemployment is not a serious problem. As responsible citizens we endorsed both local and state issues directed to adequate educational facilities for our children. And we extended our generosity to the unfortunate children who become wards of our county.

But we have lost ground in the battle against juvenile deliquency. Too many juvenile offenders are being given probation after probation because we will not demand and support adequate corrective measures. And the adult population continues to demand more and more protection from our police, while allowing the police department fewer and fewer man hours of personnel.

But 1963 is history and 1964, hope. Perhaps in the new year we will adopt a policy of profiting from our past mistakes and being encouraged by our past successes. Maybe our new year will bring with it a new type of inventory — a personal inventory. We know it is easy to take the other fellow's inventory. May we learn in 1964 that it is more profitable to take our own inventory.

We hear more and more about the rights of the individual, but there is less emphasis on the responsibilities of the individual. May 1964 be the year that we accept our responsibilities of citizenship and thereby protect our rights — collective and personal.

We enter 1964 with increasing demands from a loud minority that we eliminate from public life any and all religious oriented teachings concerning the higher, spiritual life. May 1964 be the year that we answer this challenge by re-affirming that we are one nation — under God.

And as we accept the many wishes for a happy and prosperous New Year, let us realize that it is our year, and that it will be as happy and as prosperous as our individual efforts will permit.

Civil Rights Rally Deserves Attention

The many-faceted civil rights movement is one that commands the attention of every thinking American, for it poses questions of vital concern to all sections of our country. Columbus and Franklin County residents will have an opportunity to become better informed citizens through attendance at the Columbus Civil Rights Rally set for Sunday, Jan. 19, at Veterans Memorial Auditorium.

The rally will feature prominent speakers from both the national and local levels. Virtually every group active in civil rights movements will be represented. And the rally has broad support from almost every responsible community-oriented organization.

The Columbus rally was inspired by the highly successful and thoroughly peaceful "March on Washington" staged last August. The local rally is being planned as a dramatic-though-orderly way of acquainting area residents with a total picture of problems in the civil rights effort.

Speakers will include baseball great Jackie Robinson and Greensville, S.C. attorney John Culbertson. The program will be moderated by Russell M. Jones, who, as executive director of Community Resources, Inc., was a prime mover in organizing the rally.

We commend this rally to all area residents. Those who attend in a spirit of citizenship, and with an open mind, will surely be better prepared to assist in the solution of the many problems related to civil rights.

I Want You—and I'll Get You!

One Man's Opinion . . .

From beneath the piles of Christmas wrappings and amid the laughter of little children at play, I issue a plea to manufacturers for a New Year's resolution.

When your many engineers and inventors are deep in conference to concoct a bigger and better thing-umajig for junior's use in destroying attacking Martians or a giant size cannon to use in blowing up the king size tank he got this year — please resolve to simplify your simplified plans for putting the thing together.

RON BARLOW

Who in his right mind wants to spend Christmas eve trying to make part CXI-4 connect properly with rod A-21-B and use bolt AX-3-31 and nut K-14-F to hold the connection?

This type of direction, read from a blue print the size of a postage stamp, took me clear through "A Christmas Carol" and the first half of Handel's "Messiah" to figure out.

And if it is conceivably possible to pre-construct your latest brainchild before shipping it — don't fail to advertise the fact. I, for one, will be among your first customers.

RON BARLOW

Variety . . . by I. F. Howell

THE PRESIDENCY

Much was said during our 1963 national tragedy about the continuity of the Presidency. This was emphasized when Lyndon Johnson took the oath as the new President just 99 minutes after the death of President Kennedy. There is much confusion about the exercise of powers during the disability or inability of a President. But the line of succession after his death is clearly provided for.

George Washington took his first oath as our first President in 1789. He set the two-term precedent broken only by Franklin Delano Roosevelt in 1940 and again in 1944. Thirty-five men have been President, one of them serving two divided terms. Benjamin Harrison served one term between Grover Cleveland's two.

The 174 years down to 1963 seem still more bound together when we look at some more dates. Abraham Lincoln was born only 10 years after the death of George Washington. Warren G. Harding was the first President born after the death of Lincoln. Washington was the only President to die in the 18th Century. Jefferson and John Adams died on the same day, July 4, 1826.

Fifteen Presidents have lived in both the 19th and 20th Centuries. John F. Kennedy and Lyndon Johnson were the only ones born in the 20th.

Besides being the world's hardest job, we can almost call the Presidency the most hazardous. Eight Presidents, almost one-fourth of all of them, have died in office, half of them by violence, the rest from sickness and exhaustion.

It says here . . .

So long as we have the Presidency, there'll always be a man to serve in it.

Guest Pulpit . .
1964 Offers A New Heart, A New Spirit

As I write these lines, the intensity of the Christmas rush has abated and the year's end is just ahead. As you read them you will have already plunged into 1964, coming to grips with life as you find it, facing its challenges and opportunities which will tax your abilities to the limit.

Rev. Witherspoon

I keep wondering: Does the end of the year really bring anything to a close? Can I blot out my transgressions, shortsightedness, and errors by turning a page in the calendar? Do I truly get a "new leaf all unspotted" for 1964? I'm afraid the past cannot be dismissed that lightly.

The moving finger writes, and having writ; moves on;
Nor all your piety nor wit can lure it back to cancel half a line,
Nor all your tears wash out a word of it.

It takes more than a change in the calendar to make a change in ourselves. The great battleground for 1964 will not be the political arena, the stock market, or the chambers of the diplomats of the world, but in the heart of man where character struggles take place. Here the issues of life are decided; here our destiny is determined. And it is here that we all need Divine Grace. Th Prophet Ezekiel gives this promise:

A new heart will I give you, and a new spirit will I put within you; and I will take away the stony heart and give you a heart of flesh. And I will put my spirit within you, and cause you to walk in my statutes, and you shall keep my judgments and do them; and you shall be my people and I will be your God.

Best Wishes To Rod

To The Editor:

The very best of success and happiness to Mr. Cochran in his new position.

Being an "outdoors" woman, I never miss your writings; then clip and send to my son, Charles E., at Chevy Chase Club.

So we will both miss you!

STRICTLY FRESH

It's always wise to be tolerant of a person who disagrees with you; after all, he has a right to his ridiculous opinion.

It's nice for children to have pets; until the pets start having children, that is.

If you think that cheap politicians still exist, take a look at your tax bill.

A picnic is somewhere too far to go to eat too much.

Many a person is dominated by a rich uncle's will power.

Economy is a strange word today; it means the large size in soap and the small size in cars.

Some say that many of the so-called open minds should be closed for repairs.

Frosting On The Cake

By "UNCLE DOC" ROSS — U.S.A.

It's the "long haul" that gets so many men down. Every day longer that frustration and postponement of achievement lasts, that day sees more and more dreams die on the vine of struggle.

Great ideas never survive by themselves. Vision without action is nothing and can best be described as wishful thinking that lacked both substance of purpose and persistency of effort.

There is no mystery about the two kinds of success. First, and all too often, there is the "success that kills" because very able, but unwise men never learn the secret of balance. Then there is the success that adds years to one's expectancy because it has been achieved as "an artistic way of ambition" instead of drive-drive-drive that ends in a vascular accident in the brain, an ulcer in the digestive tract, or a "flicker in the ticker."

More and more people are waking up to the sad fact that "status" is the biggest fake on earth. Most of it is 90 percent front and 110 percent worry. All of this sort of psychological malpractice of the individual against himself is so worthless.

People are learning how to THINK about things that are truly important parts of happy living. Religious attention to simple diet and moderate exercise, and safe and sane recreation — these are the eternal verities in the art and science of day-by-day living.

Add to such wisdom, the spiritual sensitivity required to practice constant cooperation with Almighty God, and the prognosis is tops for life.

The Whos, Whats And Whys Of Big Brothers

Somewhere in your neighborhood there is a boy who needs a man.

You haven't met him yet. This boy is fatherless; he is without male guidance and companionship.

LIKE ALL boys he has problems — "growing up" problems.

The Big Brother Association knows who that boy is. But Big Brothers needs men like you to help him.

John Doe has heard about Big Brothers. He's curious but he doesn't really know much about the organization.

BECAUSE he's interested, he asks questions:

"Sure I'd like to belong to Big Brothers but I'm not a rich man. How much does it cost to be a Big Brother?"

The expense to you, John, is time—not money. This boy is eager for adult companionship. You can't buy his friendship. He wants your company, not your coins. The only monetary expense is a yearly $5 membership due.

"BUT I'M married. I've got two boys of my own. I can't be a father to three."

A Big Brother is not a father to his Little Brother. He must not dictate orders but counsel and guide.

"Haven't most of these boys been in some kind of trouble or something? I don't think I could handle a delinquent boy."

THESE ARE not "bad" boys. They are average, normal boys whose only "problem" is a need for adult, male companionship.

"Look, I drive a truck. I'm not a white collar worker."

Big Brothers need men from all walks of life, all faiths, all colors and creeds.

"WELL, MY problem is time, too. With two active boys of my own I don't know when I'd be able to spend time with another."

A Little Brother would enjoy doing the same things your own sons do. It's not really the amount of time you spend with the boy but how important you make him feel that time is to both of you. We do urge each man to make two contacts a month — one a personal get-together.

"I'm not exactly the athletic type and let's face it, I'm not getting any younger."

LITTLE Brothers need the attention and friendship of a man, not another glove for a baseball game. Your age is insignificant to the boy. However, Big Brothers must be 21 and preferably older.

"Say, I have a younger brother who likes kids, but he isn't married."

The single and married man are both equally welcome and needed as Big Brothers.

"ANOTHER thing — I live way up North here. Where would my Little Brother live?"

Big Brothers tries to match the man and the boy in every way possible — by location, by interests, by faith and creed — in the belief that this initial identity will provide both with a comfortable start.

"What if I couldn't think of anything for either of us to do together?"

BIG BROTHERS has an active year-round schedule of events, providing the opportunity for man and boy to get together.

"How old are Little Brothers?"

Generally, they range in age from 8 to 17 years.

"WELL, exactly what are you looking for in a Big Brother?"

We're looking for a mature man of good character who is willing to take an interest in a fatherless boy, hopefully on a long-term basis (not just a couple of months) by way of personal contact.

"Just supposing I wanted to learn more about Big Brothers. Who would I contact?"

THE BIG BROTHERS office is located at 2104 Tuller-st, Columbus. Information can be obtained by calling 294-4423.

National Big Brothers Week is January 5-12.

As of Dec. 1, there were 238 boys on the Big Brothers "waiting list," each eager to find a friend.

ONE OF them might be waiting to meet you! Won't you let us find you a Little Brother?

Big Brothers Is...

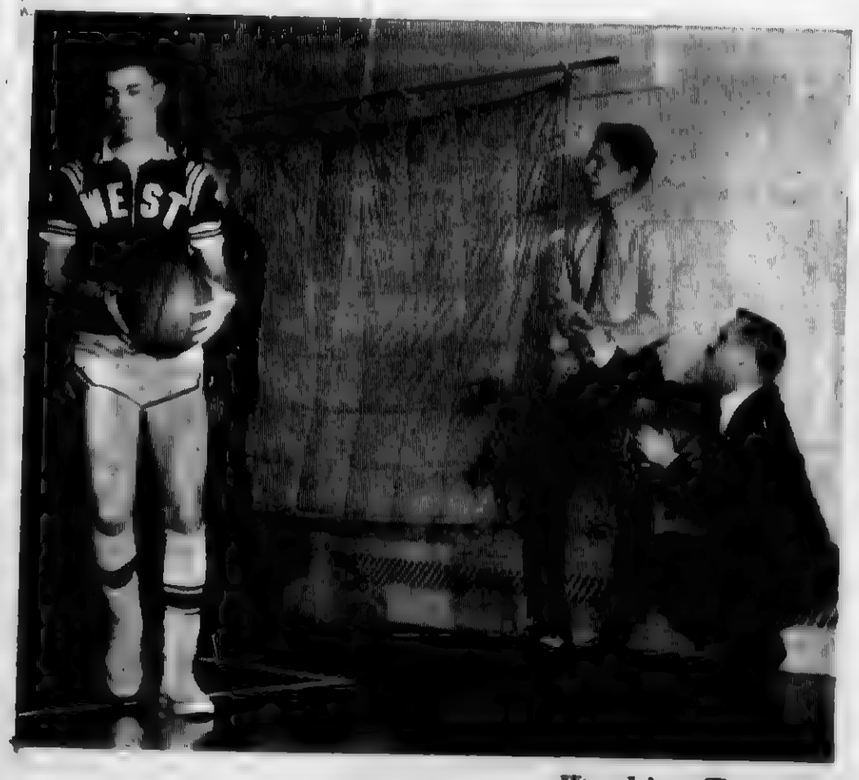
...Meeting People

AN IMPORTANT part of growing up is the ability to meet people in all walks of life. The task wasn't difficult here as Big Brother Luther Lalendorf introduces Little Brother Charles Gilmer to OSU All-American eager Gary Bradds at a recent BB function.

Big Brothers Is...

...Building Together

ALTHOUGH the project here is kite instruction, Big Brothers aims include the building of American citizens from the raw fiber of youth, which only needs direction to achieve important goals. Here, former Columbus Mayor Ralston Westlake takes a short reprieve from City Hall duties to work with Allen Ault and his two Little Brothers.



Big Brothers Is...

DISCOVERY together should be the theme of every Big and Little Brother relationship. At right, James Eckels, 593 E. Jeffrey-pl, looks over the Ohio Hall of Fame at the State Capitol with Little Brother Larry Pauley, 3737 E. Main-st. Big Brothers and the Hall have a common dedication to the nation's youth.

...Discovering Things

Big Brothers Is...

...Working Together

Big Brothers Is...

Bums, Balks, Balance Made '63 Great Year

The turn of the old to the new each year about this time is conducive to a review of the past before it grows dusty and is filed with the forgotten.

A chronology of 1963 sports might run something like this:

FRED TAYLOR'S Lucasless Buckeyes surprised everyone but Fred Taylor by gaining a share of the Big 10 title with Illinois to start the year off on the pleasant side.

But while the Bucks were scoring impressively on the N. High-st front, a high school cage coach named Bob Hart and his East Tigers were methodically laying a path to a AA state basketball title.

The talented Tigers had opened with eight straight, stumbled to Dayton Chaminade and then proceeded to reel off 17 more, the last a 41-32 verdict over Cleveland East Tech in the state finals.

FOR THEIR efforts, Hart was tabbed as Ohio high school cage "Coach of the Year" and his Tigers received a city's acclaim for returning the state title to Columbus after a 12-year absence.

Buckeye cagers were absent from the NCAA basketball finals for the first time in four years.

Rival Cincinnati found the third time wasn't the charm as Loyola put on a frantic finish, matched only by Bob (world's fastest human) Hayes' recent 9:1 finish in a 100-yard dash.

Spring brought birds, blossoms and baseball with the latter gaining the spotlight in local sporting interests.

There wasn't much to crow about on the major league fronts if you weren't a Yankee fan.

JOEY JAY and the Redlegs took disastrous nosedives while fans took odds on whether lightning would strike twice in Los Angeles.

The Indians, with new manager Birdie Tebbetts and a "youth movement" were exciting until the usual mid-season collapse knocked the bottom out of an early autumn Series trip to the Lakefront Stadium.

Closer to home, it was the same ol' Jets until something strange happened.

LARRY SHEPARD'S crew suddenly picked themselves up from the cellar to become the hottest item on the International League market, providing local supporters with an exciting br. id of baseball in the waning summer months.

Loyal fans gave General Manager Harold Cooper a vote of confiden e by turning out for late-season games after Coop had speculated a the future of minor league baseball in Columbus.

But before the Jets got rolling area fans were pulling for a high school baseball team from Dublin, which had its sights set on the A state title.

THE EFFORT fell one game short as the Shamrocks lost out in the finals (3-0 to Powhatan) but the loss took little luster away from an outstanding 21-1 season for Dick Close and his Irish team.

The spark of the Dublin drive came from the strong right arm of one Dave Bakenhaster, who recorded 16 of the Shamrock wins and finished his high school career with six no-hitters, including a full whitewash job on New Paris Jefferson in the state semi-finals.

SUCH performances were destined to earn the Dublin dandy a big league contract in the St. Louis Cardinal chain.

But while some were stepping on the threshold of the major leagues, others were bowing to aging legs and long hours on the diamond.

1963 was the year Stan Musial hung up the spikes, closing an era of truly great baseball achievement.

BUT THE biggest story of the baseball timetable was to be reserved for the World Series.

Sandy Koufax and his LA mates dissolved a legend by proving the Yankees were really human after all by sweeping the autumn classic in four straight.

In boxing, fight fans booed Sonny Liston's early KO of nice-guy Floyd Patterson but tempered their disappointment with admiration at the slugger's awesome finality.

CASSIUS Marcellus Clay charmed some with poetry, irritated others with his ultra ego and disappointed all by not climbing in the squared circle with Sonny Liston.

The new strike zone was a good deal for the pounded pitcher but the men in blue evened the scales by bulging box scores with balks, balks and more balks.

In Kansas City, KC owner Charlie Finley battled for his place in the sun by trying to lasso the rainbow to give baseball its pot of gold.

The 50-mile hike became an outgrowth of the New Frontier. Those that could, did, while those who couldn't, dreamed.

1963 WAS the year the Saturday Evening Post replaced Sports Illustrated as the conscience of American sports at great personal expense ala Wally Butts and Bear Bryant.

We had the Kentucky Derby in our own backyard and didn't know it until Never Bend, Candy Spots and No Robbery took a back spot to John Galbraith's Chateaugay and set sportswriters thumbing through their French dictionaries.

Local "boy - made - good" Jack Nicklaus quieted all critics who cried "flash-in-the-pan" by literally replacing Arnold Palmer as the golfing world's kingpin.

JERRY LUCAS' belated return to the hardwood in a Cincinnati Royals uniform was a big item and brought the cheers of a faithful following who jammed the coliseum for Luke's homecoming in a pre-season exhibition game.

Coming attractions for '64 provided delicious appetizers in the Capital City's host role for the upcoming PGA and Mr. Putt-Putt Tom Rohm's Jamaica road trip which guaranteed the '64 National Putt-Putt Tourney for the local links.

King football strolled into the sporting picture as leaves began to turn and proved why it's still number one son in the hearts of local patronage.

THE NEIGHBORHOOD horseshoe strained at the seams once again on five football Saturdays, giving OSU the top national attendance for yet another season.

Woody Hayes brought the forward pass out of mothballs but it couldn't make the difference as the Big 10 title and the Rose Bowl found another nest.

Paul Brown was number one on the "strike out" parade but his old Browns, under the direction of "buddy-buddy" Blanton Collier went down swinging shortly later when record-smasher Jim Brown couldn't hold together a leaky pass defense, et al.

Y. A. TITLE made the Giants go again while Paul Hornung's "vacation" took its toll on the Packers.

On the local front, high school gridders provided one of the finest seasons on record with an assist from the weather man.

The City League race, which found South, Central and Whetstone breathlessly tugging at the title when the final gun sounded, exemplified the thrilling balance of area grid races.

WATKINS Memorial recorded its first-ever perfect grid season, Groveport and South ended long - standing flag droughts (19 and 38 years, respectively), while West Jefferson became the first Madison County team ever to win a Franklin County League football title.

All in all, it was a fascinating 365 days for a grateful sporting world.

All that remains are resolutions for '64. Last year we made some for everybody. This year, we make only one and that for ourselves.

COME SPRING, we take what's left of our sad, sad golf swing to a patient and understanding golfing Socrates and plead for help.

This, my friends, we will accomplish, so help us Jack Nicklaus.

ON DESTROYER

Joseph S. Berardi, soiarman third class, USN, son of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Berardi of 1074 Columbus-st, is serving aboard the destroyer USS William C. Lawe, which returned Dec. 23 to her homeport of Mayport, Fla., after four months in the Mediterranean.

ON AREA COURTS . . .

South Climbs To 7-0; M-F Nips Malabar 5

South's Bulldogs put the victory bite on Chillicothe for win number seven in a row and Marion-Franklin nipped Mansfield Malabar on the Mansfield boards to share the area basketball limelight for the past weekend.

Rosary competed in the Ready Holiday Tournament while Aquinas and St. Mary were idle to round out area basketball fortunes over the past holiday duration.

JOHN COLMERY'S quintet eked out a 67-60 decision over tough Chillicothe Friday evening to keep its unblemished record intact. The Bulldogs found the hosts scrappy since the Columbus five didn't actually ice the win until two minutes remained in the ball game.

Paul Hunt's two free throws with two minutes left in the contest provided enough steam for the Rebs to coast home free of losses.

Bill Bullock led the Rebs with 19 markers while teammate Paul Hunt added 17 to the winning South total. Steve Campbell paced the Chillicothe five with 18 points in a valiant losing effort.

MARION-FRANKLIN journeyed to Mansfield Malabar and found the trip quite profitable as they came home on the long end of a 46-44 score. The hard-earned victory was win number four as opposed to the same total of losses for the M-F quintet.

The Red Devils couldn't get untracked in the first stanza as the M-F attack managed only four points in eight minutes. The second period found the Devils hotter than tobasco sauce as the Columbus boys found the range for 16 points to enable M-F to pull within two (22-20) at the break.

THE RED DEVILS continued on where they left off as the visitors took a four-point lead going into the final period and made it stand up for the win.

John Jackson gave M-F adequate offensive strength from his corner with 14 markers although he relinquished point laurels to Mansfield's Tom Downs who caged 19 in a losing cause.

This Friday's basketball card has St. Mary (0-4) at Reynoldsburg, and Rosary at Dublin for FCL contests.

On the following evening, St. Marys hosts league affiliate West Jefferson in the only area Saturday game.

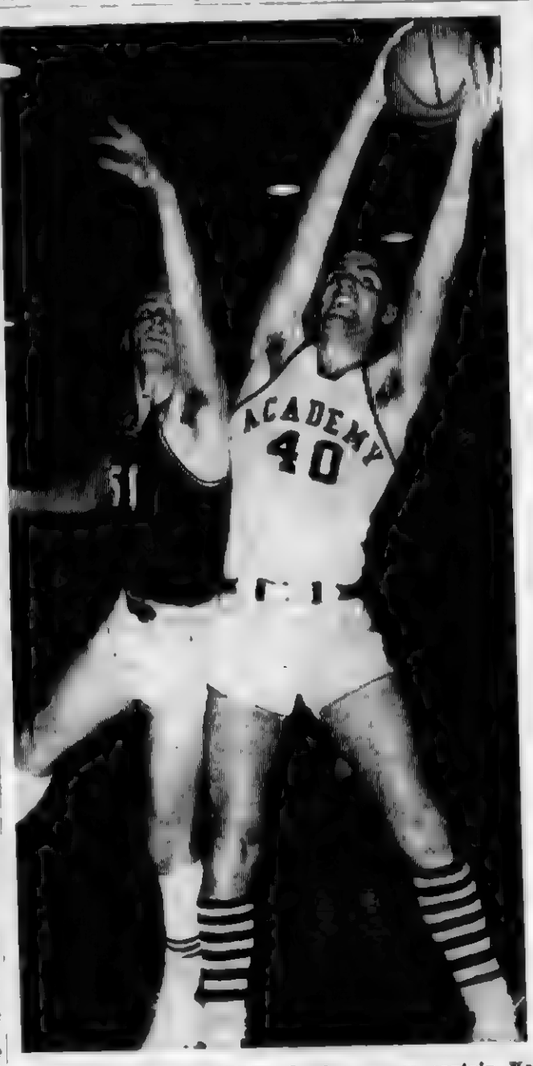
Hartley Papers Offer Free Game Cook Book



To help area hunters get off the New Year on the right foot (by helping the little lady who must make their game edible), the Hartley Newspapers Sports Department is offering, free of charge, the 21-page booklet "A Guide to Game Cookery."

The booklet, whose preface details game care, includes suggestions for venison, rabbit, squirrel, pheasant, duck and seven additional wild game products.

The booklet will be available while the supply lasts at the front office counter of Hartley Newspapers, 2465 W. Broad-st.

THREE'S A CROWD—and nobody knows that better than Rosary's Ed Roehrenbeck (51) as the Crusader cager finds himself sandwiched between Academy's Ken Holzman (40) and George McCulloch (4) on this rebound effort. HOLZMAN HANDLE—Academy cage captain Ken Holzman (40) clamps down on this rebound Friday night at Ready despite efforts of Rosary's Ed Roehrenbeck to complicate matters. Action occurred in first round play of Silver Knights' Holiday Tourney.

ACADEMY SECOND AS...

Dublin 5 Cops Ready Crown

Dublin's Shamrocks, paced by "MVP" Mike Ryan, swept to wins over host Ready, 60-53, and Academy, 68-57, over the weekend to take championship honors in the Silver Knights' first-ever Holiday Tourney.

The Vikings, who had downed Rosary, 44-39, Friday to gain a finals berth, finished second while Ready, a 53-47 winner over the Crusaders in Saturday's consolation round, gained third place.

THE SHAMROCKS' Ryan poured in 21 and 23 points respectively to pace Dublin to its title in the two-game tourney.

Ready, behind Hank Martensen's 23-point effort, challenged the Irish all the way to the final frame Friday, leading by one slim point after three periods.

The Silver Knights were more effective in their consolation win over Rosary, erasing a six-point halftime deficit by limiting the Crusaders to three points in the third period.

PAUL EBERTS and Mike Horgan split scoring honors with 13 points apiece.

Academy had used the same formula on Rosary in Friday's opening round, making hay in the third stanza while the Green and White was handcuffed on a single bucket.

Captain Ken Holzman paced the Vikings in both tourney efforts with 20 and 15 points against Rosary and Dublin respectively.

TERRY Larrimer was the only other double-figure performer for the runner-up Vikings, collecting 11 markers in the finals loss to the Irish.

Dublin pulled ahead for keeps late in the first quarter against Academy, maintaining a healthy lead right up to the finish.

For double-loser Rosary, Rick Stokes proved most effective in the scoring line, dropping in 24 points during the set.

TEAMMATES Ed Roehrenbeck and Jim Groce were close behind with 23 and 22 points.

The Ready tourney left the four member teams standing with these records at its finish: Dublin (4-4), Academy (2-4), Ready (2-4) and Rosary (1-5).

Split Season Or Not? That Is The Question

INSIDE ON THE Outdoors By ROD COCHRAN

The last segment of the split season on waterfowl is now history, and it provided some of the best duck hunting of the year despite the cold weather just prior to the opening. Running from Dec. 23 to 28, these few days offered some good shooting for black ducks.

Speaking of ducks brings to mind an invitation to all area sportsmen extended by the League of Ohio Sportsmen to attend a waterfowl discussion meeting the afternoon of Jan. 4. The location is the Neil House.

IT HAS ALWAYS been a point of conflict between Lake Erie area hunters and down-state gunners, as to when the open waterfowl season would be held. Up north they must have a earlier season to get much shooting, and down here the big ducks do not congregate or migrate through until later.

A compromise has been the split season. This year it opened on Oct. 21 and ran through Nov. 15. It remained closed until this last five and one-half day segment. This sort of skirts the immediate problem, but the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, which provides the limits within which states may open their seasons, imposes a penalty for taking split seasons. Their reasoning, and it is sound, is that more ducks will be shot during split seasons and therefore they should be shorter.

All this becomes very complicated, because states have the option of lowering the bag limit and getting more days of hunting. Which is best for the hunters — more ducks or a longer season? That is the question.

ANOTHER PROBLEM is that Ohio does not allow Sunday hunting, yet Sundays are counted in the total days we are allowed. Many states permit hunting on the Sabbath, and as a result get four to six more duck hunting days a year.

Well, if all of this is hazy to you or if it interests you, then plan on sitting in on the meeting this Saturday. It promises to be a good one.

The main tactic for hunting ducks late in the year is to find open water. All the little farm ponds and pot holes are frozen over, and those ducks that are braving the ice and snow will be found on open water sometime during the day.

WHERE STREAMS are constricted at riffles and where they make a bend, are good places to hunt. These areas paid off this year for Christmas week hunters.

RecreationDept.Opens Sports Program Jan. 4

The Columbus Recreation Department has expanded the Boys' Recreation Clubs to include 36 different sites for a Saturday morning program, starting Jan. 4.

The program will run 10 consecutive Saturdays, and the last program will be held Mar. 7.

THIS PROGRAM is for boys from the fourth through ninth grades and will provide opportunities for various physical activities; learning new skills, the appreciation of the values of playing and having fun together and learning to practice sportsmanship under proper leadership.

The physical activities will include basketball, volleyball, wrestling, tumbling, group games and physical fitness tests.

The program will be conducted by physical education teachers and physical education students under the supervision of the Columbus Recreation Department.

ALL BOYS from the fourth through ninth grades may join one of these clubs without charge.

The fourth, fifth and sixth grades' program will be from 9 to 11 a.m. and the seventh, eighth and ninth grades' program from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. at any of the following locations:

NOT FOR THE MODERN MISS are the decorative opera glasses used by fashionable women after the Civil War as an accessory. Brenda Garrett peers through a pair.

A PAIR OF PRIZED Benjamin Franklin bifocals, true museum pieces, are tried on for size by Warren C. Huff, optician. The glasses are the most treasured piece in his extensive collection of antique spectacles.

Optician Collects Glasses To See Through and To Be Seen With

Ben Franklin invented bifocals as a practical way of viewing things both near and far. And for a modern day optician, collecting glasses gives him bifocal vision of the history of spectacles.

About eight years ago Warren C. Huff, 248 Columbian-av, started collecting glasses, all collector's items, from all over Central and Western Ohio. By advertising and attending private sales, he has collected an impressive array of antique eyeglasses.

Interest in his profession and in the startling advances science has made in the manufacture of corrective lenses and well fitted frames prompted Huff to become an avid collector.

The star of his collection is a pair of Benjamin Franklin bifocals. "It's the only pair I've ever seen outside of museums," he said. "They're very rare; these were made about 1750."

Noting the cycle of fashion trends, Huff commented that rectangular shaped frames were first introduced about 1770 or 1780 and are coming into vogue again. Oval frames followed about 1800, he added.

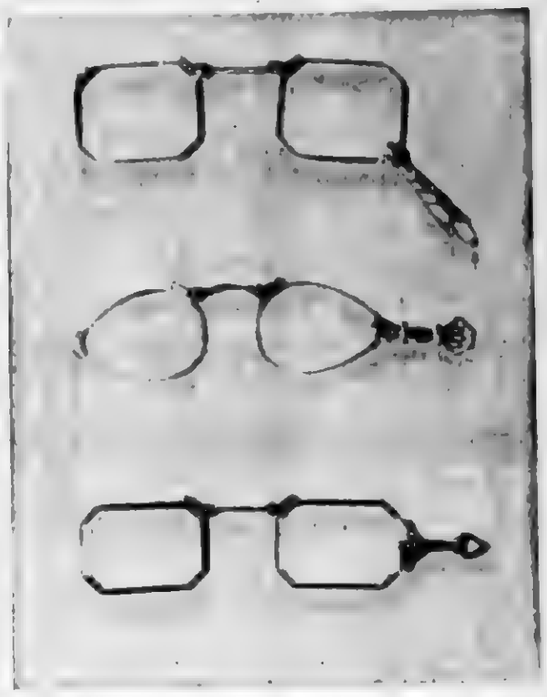
The glasses in his collection are all handmade, mostly of an inferior grade of "pot metal," soft and easily molded into shape.

Ingenuity took the place of know-how, as in the old telescopic temple shafts that allowed them to be made shorter or lengthened to fit the face.

Sun glasses were hinged, either in the front or sides in blinder-fashion, to screen the sun's glare with colored blue or green glass.

Commenting that the glass industry only got started in this country about 1740, Huff points out the obviously inferior glass used in the lenses in his collection. Since there were not tools for the purpose, the glass wasn't edged or machined.

Most surprising in Huff's entire collection are three pairs of beautifully wrought silver opera glasses, made soon after the Civil War.



Intricately hand-carved, they were used as an accessory only, absolutely necessary for the opera or any grand affair, but utterly useless as an aid to vision.

The lenses are clear glass, without any magnification. The pairs in Huff's collection had never been used, and still bear their original price tags.

Glasses today, refined as they are, are still basically the same. Ben Franklin, were he still alive, would probably note that glasses still have two uses: to see through and to be seen with.

FRAMES OF INFERIOR "pot metal," and hand-carved wood cases distinguish Warren Huff's antique collection from today's modern eyeglasses.

STRICTLY FOR LOOKS, not for "looking." These opera glasses, so popular about 100 years ago, were carried like a piece of jewelry, and the clear glass lenses in the beautifully made silver frames were never intended to aid vision.

Service Held For Marshall Baby Friday

OUR 40th YEAR!

The family, pictured above, is enjoying the first ride of the year in their hand-crafted Rodenfels Chevrolet. They'll have fun hugging the curves, racing the wind in breathless pursuit of the exciting times ahead. Everyone at 555 West Broad invites you to climb aboard.

Whether or not you are an actual Rodenfels Chevrolet owner makes no difference. This is the year you can be. Last year was our best year ever. We blushingly whisper that again in 1963 Rodenfels sold more new cars and trucks than any other Central Ohio dealership. We thank you for this patronage and pledge to continue to deserve our first-place position.

1964 will bring into being our 40th year. We are encouraged by the timeworn adage "Life begins at 40". You will hear more from us later on how we plan to observe the milestone. In the meantime, our associates in the Used Car Department, Parts Department & Service Department join us in wishing that our 40th year will be your finest as well as ours. Incidentally, our Service Department is very big on sleds.

May The Melody Linger on!

Mayor Jack Sensenbrenner will accomplish much for the welfare of our big Central City if he remembers all the fine things he said in his inaugural address.

We believe the city has a good administrator and a good council. The help of the Republican Council is necessary if Columbus is to move ahead. We see no reason for any impediments to success for our city in the months ahead.

The Sensenbrenner Inaugural Ball Saturday night was a big success and a good time was had by all.

While the event was sponsored by the Democrats, the Republicans were very noticeably present, including many party regulars as well as office holders. All of which would at this point indicate a strong feeling of cooperation ahead.

Now that the ball is over, it's hope that the pleasant melody will linger on.

And then there was the guy who complained about another surplus, too many fights in the Civil Rights Bill.

INGENUITY

A factory manager's assistant, being a bright young fellow, was selected by "the boys" to buy a wedding gift for the boss. So the assistant visited all the 2,000 employes and collected a quarter from each.

With the $500 he bought 2,000 packs of cigarettes, the kind with a gift coupon with each pack.

He traded in the coupons for a silver coffee service and gave that to the boss as a wedding gift. Then he gave each employe a pack of cigarettes.

When the firm's president heard about these goings on, he was so intrigued by the young man's ingenuity that he ordered him to report at once. "I can use a man like him in management," he explained.

But he had to wait two weeks before the interview took place. With the 5,000 trading stamps the ingenious one had collected when he bought the cigarettes, he got himself a complete fishing outfit and left on vacation! —Contributed.

IT'S THE HEAVENS they're interested in. On the ladder demonstrating the use of the 10-inch telescope at the Bonner Observatory at the South Y-Park on Rohr-rd is Charles Legg, 640 Bulen, eighth grade student at Roosevelt Junior High. With him is Roger Cole, 2581 Sherwood-dr, who often works with him. Although Charles has a professional interest in astronomy and hopes to make astronomical research his life-work, Roger is an OSU student majoring in anthropology and pursues the science as a hobby.

Anyone For Star Gazing?

YOUTHFUL ASTRONOMERS MOON-STRUCK SCIENTISTS

By JANE ROBINSON

Are there any adults around who want to develop an inferiority complex the easy, do-it-yourself way?

Here's a quick, painless method that should work with at least 90 percent of the patients.

Take a trip out to the South Y-Park observatory with Charles Legg as your guide and let him explain the universe to you.

It isn't the "immense universe-insignificant me" concept that will knock your ego.

It's just that it is extremely deflating when you realize an eighth grader is having quite a struggle in "talking-down" to you in an effort that you may at least vaguely follow him.

Charles, the unofficial director of the Bonner Observatory (after all, who is going to say officially a 15-year-old is the director of such a facility?) with his friend Roger Cole were quite busy recently during the lunar eclipse.

In the early hours of Dec. 30, a morning so cold their tape recorder froze-up and their camera grew a beard of frost, they were, with precision, measuring the times of the passing of the earth's shadow over the craters of the moon.

The observations were made by the young men to be sent to Sky and Telescope Magazine, publication at the Harvard University Observatory where the results will be compiled with similar observations from all over the country. (A lunar eclipse, unlike the solar one, can be seen from the entire hemisphere.)

From the accumulation of data the scientists will be able to draw certain conclusions, Charles and Roger explained. (It is not quite so damaging to the ego to have the ABC's of astronomy spelled out by Roger, as he is a junior at OSU and obviously more mature.)

For example, the shadow of the earth is supposed to be twice the diameter of the moon, but during this latest eclipse showed itself as larger.

A possible explanation is that volcanic eruptions of last summer have left a layer of dust in the atmosphere sufficiently dense to create a shadow, but the junior astronomers refused to draw any definite conclusions on

East Freeway Project Causes Signal Changes

A series of changes affecting traffic pattern, control devices and parking in the East Freeway downtown construction area was authorized by the Columbus Traffic and Transportation Commission during its final meeting of 1963.

Upon recommendation of John L. Gallagher, chief traffic engineer, the following changes were approved:

The flasher light was removed from E. Fulton-st at 18th-st; stop signs were reversed so that E. Fulton-st traffic now stops for 18th-st traffic; and two-way traffic has been restored in E. Fulton-st between 17th and 18th-sts. E. Fulton-st traffic will also stop for 17th-st traffic.

Also approved was the removal of the traffic signal at 18th-st and E. Mound-st, and 18th-st traffic now is required to stop for vehicular movement in E. Mound-st.

Commission members also approved changes in the Mound-st area of East Freeway construction, including the following:

Removal of traffic signals from Parsons-av at Fulton-st and Mound-st, at Rich-st and Washington-av, and at Fulton-st and Washington-av. Other traffic signals ordered removed were those along E. Fulton-st at Grant-av, Sixth-st and Fifth-st.

Women's Pages Feature Latest Spring Fashions

WRFD's women's director, Marianne Tomlinson is attending Press Week, this week (Jan. 3-10) in New York City, where American designers are releasing their latest fashions to invited members of the press. (See the Women's Pages for Marianne's special feature story and pictures on the newest fashions for spring, '64.)

Also, Marianne will feature special interviews with the top designers on her programs starting Monday, Jan. 13. She is heard four times a day, Monday through Friday, at 8:20 and 9:20 a.m. and 3:20 and 4:20 p.m., on WRFD.

Portrait, Inaugural Address Of Late President Available

A beautiful four-color "official" photograph of President John Fitzgerald Kennedy by Fabian Bachrach and his historic inaugural address are now available from this paper as a public service. Both are about 12"x16" and suitable for framing.

This commemoration set is free with a new one-year subscription to any Hartley Newspaper. It is also available for $1, in cash, check or money order, for each set desired.

Coupons are available in an advertisement in this paper. Orders can be placed by mail or the sets can be picked up at the Hartley Newspapers' office, 2465 W. Broad-st, Columbus, O. 43204.

WOULD YOU HAVE THE HEAR

He Has Typed

By JANE ROBINSON

John Rogers has taken life in his stride, faltering as that stride may be.

All of his life has been spent as a severly handicapped spastic and he can still laugh at himself.

When he learned he must be bonded as the treasurer of the newly-formed chapter of the Columbus chapter of the National Association for the Physically Handicapped, he quipped, "I wonder how far they think I'm going to run with the money."

There really isn't too much to smile about in the life of a man to whom every step is labored, each word a project within itself, a cup of coffee a challenge and a shirt button a true nemesis.

But after almost 50 years of battling himself and, too often, an indifferent world, he holds only one bitterness.

Trying as a young man to support himself through door-to-door magazine sales, there were not too many doors slammed in his face.

But he encountered repeatedly what to him was a much more humiliating experience.

Rather than giving him the opportunity to make his offer, many housewives would give him a nickel or a dime, and ask him to be on his way.

John was not looking for charity.

He was an inteliigent, educated and ambitious man, trying to make an honest living.

And it's a goal he's never fully reached.

But he's traveled a long way since infancy, and that road should be something of an inspiration to some of us who think we have a "tough row to hoe."

Crash Victim Still Critical

Still in critical condition in Room 989 at University Hospital is Lincoln Park Elementary School teacher Larry Roush of 875 S. Ohio-av.

Recently appointed to the Lincoln Park faculty, Roush, originally from Gallipolis, was home for the holidays. On Christmas night he was seriously injured in an automobile crash.

Not only is blood needed for Roush, but the city's blood supply is also limited at present. A plea is sent to all Columbus residents for blood donations.

'Streamlined' Council Sessions Are Promised

Bill Fornof has come up with an idea that — if it ...orks — should be good news to every weary delegate who ...s resolutely if not patiently awaited his chance to be ...ard at City Council.

The morning after he was elected president of Colum...s City Council, he was ...arin' to go" with plans to ...t up a new format for coun... procedure.

It involves the abolition of ...e "split committee hear...gs."

Currently, each of the six working committees meets separately and then brings its recommendations to the floor at the general session.

Although this procedure was adopted to expedite legislation, according to Fornof, it has often defeated its purpose by placing before the other four councilmen legislation upon which they are "cold."

Completely uninformed, they have been faced with two unattractive alternatives — that of questioning the judgment of their colleagues with what was sometimes time consuming inquiry or voting on legislation upon which they had little basis to form an opinion.

"It was rocking the boat if we took the former course, and certainly embarrassing when questioned by a constituent if we chose the latter," the new president pointed out.

He proposes that council meet at 4 p.m. on Mondays rather than at 6 as is now customary.

Each of the working committees will sit with the rest of council present and with privileges of the floor if they desire. At this preliminary session the entire body would have the opportunity to become familiar with proposed legislation before it hits the floor, without destroying the committee system which gives each chairman an area of responsibility.

It would be at this time that department heads would work with the committees and thus be relieved of the neces...

Directors' Pay Scale Reviewed

Mayor Jack Sensenbrenner ...dhered to the letter of the ...w salary ordinance when he ...sked authority to set the ...alary of four of his cabinet ...fficers at $15,000 a year.

But, according to Bill Forn..., new council president, he ...idn't exactly follow the in...nt.

In December, Fornof stated, ...ouncil purposely put a wide ...ange on the salaries for di...ectorships with a $12,500 ...oor and $17,000 ceiling.

It was then provided that, ...t the request of the mayor, ...ny figure within the limits ...f the sliding scale could be ...et for the individual posts.

Primarily, the need for ...alary increases became logi...al after division heads were ...aised to over $12,500 thus ...o...e directors received less ...ompensation than their sub...rdinates.

Mrs. John Rathburn and son John Ricci

AND HERE IS THE WINNER!

A little dividend in the form of a seven pound, five ounce baby boy was paid to Mr. and Mrs. John Rathburn, 370 Hanford-st, at 10:28 a.m., New Year's Day, and according to the Stork Derby rules, became the first 1964 baby born in the South Side.

The bearer of this title, Little John Ricci Rathburn, will reap a bevy of prizes offered by area merchants.

Being born the morning after the night before, John's pleas to enter the world were misinterpreted by his mother. It seems that the Rathburns entertained friends on New Year's Eve and a lot of sauerkraut, salami and pepperoni was consumed. Her ensuing discomfort was attributed to her unusual diet, until a doctor at Mt. Carmel assured her that little John was going to arrive two weeks early.

Upon his arrival home last Sunday, John was greeted by his sister Suzanne, a sophomore at St...

Westlakes Are Taking Time To Consider New Business Plans

Former Mayor W. Ralston Westlake, relaxing this week at his home at 3294 W. Broad-st, discussed his possible choices of a new business career as a private citizen after his four years as Columbus' mayor.

"There are two or three things I'm considering--they are all interesting, and I'll give them some quiet thought while we're on vacation and make an announcement when we return."

The Westlakes will leave soon for a vacation "where it is a little warmer." Tentative plans are for a return visit to Ft. Lauderdale where they have made friends on former trips, and perhaps a boat trip to Nassau.

Westlake indicated he would definitely center his interests on the Hilltop. The possibility of re-opening the ruby glass works behind his home, where he manufactur...

By the time he was a year ...ld, his mother Julia, an Aus...trian immigrant girl, faced ...he fact that her first baby ...wasn't "just right."

He didn't smile, he didn't ...hold his head up, he didn't try ...to crawl, let alone walk.

And then she started on her ...round to various doctors, all ...of whom told her the same ...thing — John should be plac...ed in an institution. He had ...little muscle control, would ...never learn to walk or talk, ...and could not be educated.

This was tragic news to the ...young woman so tragic that ...she refused to believe it.

She accepted the truth that ...indeed her son was handicap...ped, but not that something ...couldn't be done about it.

And, bit by bit, something ...was.

His father made leather ...braces for him that allowed ...him to stand and eventually ...walk. A program of therapy ...and surgery gave him better ...body control. But most im...portant of all, Mrs. Rogers ...saw through the mask of his ...physical disabilities to his ...mind and personality.

By the time he was 11, she ...had convinced the Columbus ...Board of Education that he ...was an educable (no easy task ...as John was yet unable to ...talk) and in 1939 he graduat...ed from South High.

AS TREASURER of the newly-formed Columbus chapter of the National Association of the Physically Handicapped, Inc., John Rogers, 393 Gates, is ready to tackle the job. Engagement Announced

The engagement of Miss Dorothy Colleen George and Mr. Nile Russell was announced Christmas Eve in Honolulu, Hawaii.

A 1962 graduate of Waipahu High School, Miss George attended Hamilton High School in Columbus prior to journeying to Hawaii. She is employed by First National Bank of Honolulu.

Mr. Russell, formerly of Nelsonville, O., is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Russell of Vallejo, Calif. He was graduated from Vallejo High School and attended California Maritime Academy. He is employed as assistant collections supervisor, First National Bank of Honolulu.

The couple plans to wed in March.

'Soft' Spring Look Created By Designers

By Marianne Tomlinson
Women's Director WRFD

NEW YORK . . . Fashion editors from all over the world are gathered in New York this week to view the latest creations of the leading American designers.

These are the ladies (and, surprisingly, a few gentlemen too) who will be writing or talking about the latest fashion in the newspapers and magazines or on radio or television.

During Press Week, editors will see collections of coats and suits, dresses, millinery, shoes and other accessories, hair styles and cosmetics.

The fashion word for Spring 1964 is "soft" . . . And according to Webster's Collegiate, in this instance, it would mean "pleasant, easeful or comfortable."

The "soft" look is evident in all collections of fashion apparel from head to toe and in-between. Following in that order . . . In hats they are showing frothy florals, sheer fabric creations and even lighter, airier straws. In shoes, the one important requirement is that they be light in feeling . . . seen in open backs, shapely heels and softened toes. In ready-to-wear the word "soft" applies to coats and suits as well as dresses. Lines are easy and comfortable . . . nothing cinched in.

Coats for spring can go it alone but many times they come with coordinated dresses to give the costume look that so many American women have found practical.

Suits have the costume look too, with their silk blouses matching the lining.

"SOFT" LOOK for daytime with extra fashion news in the splashy print and the lower waistline.

Jackets are longer and quite a few skirts are pleated. Watch for the new-looking blazers usually with low double-breasted buttonings.

Dresses look like ladies dresses should look. For daytime and evening there are soft bloused effects, ruffled trim and wandering waistlines. The sportive look of Fall 1963 has taken its place in fashion history and in its place we have a more wearable, more feminine look.

The fabrics, even the lightweight wools are sheer and supple and demand soft treatment. . . Gathers, ruffles, sheer petal trims and lots of bows. Combined they create a very feminine picture.

Of course, there are only so many changes in fashion that you can see in one season. . . Change in sleeve. . . Change in waistline. . . Change in skirt. This spring look for more sleeves. Many are full and especially pretty in the soft fabrics. Some are bias cut to give them better draping qualities.

Waistlines are generally longer and never tightly fitted. Many just give the suggestion of a waistline by means of deft seaming. Skirts are pleated, tucked and gathered giving ease to the wearer and again prettiest in billowy fabrics.

It will be a colorful season. Vibrant colors are favored by all designers and they've used some astounding color combinations in prints. They have combined many vivid shades of yellow and pink, pink and green and green and blue. These are not demure little prints, they are real.

The industry is pleased. . . They feel sure you will like what they have created for milady this spring but I think the best news of all is that hemlines will remain the same.

"RENEGADE" EVENING costume from Harvey Berin's collection for Spring 1964 is typical of the "soft" feminine look that will mark the coming season.

Officers Elected By Forest Lawn Association

At a trustees meeting of the Forest Lawn Memorial Park Association, operating the Forest Lawn Memorial Gardens at 5600 E. Broad-st, the following officers were re-elected: Willard W. Miller, president and treasurer; Fred S. Morrison, first vice-president and secretary, and Ernie M. Wright, second vice-president.

President Miller reported a 50 percent gain in sales in 1963 over 1962 and that its officers were enlarged and modernized; that due to a public demand the new chapel mausoleum has been enlarged with a wing known as the Rose Room. This room, consisting of deluxe crypts and couches, will be heated and air conditioned. Thomas J. Tully is the architect. This addition will make Forest Lawn's new chapel mausoleum the largest in Central Ohio.

FOOD MARKETS THIS WEEK

Know How To Catch Up On The Food Bill?

By ESTELLE B. FRANKS

THIS WEEK LOOK FOR:

Fruits—apples, California navel oranges, grapefruit, bananas

Vegetables — potatoes, leafy vegetables, cabbage, broccoli

Other—canned corn, peanut products, dairy foods.

If you're like the rest of us, getting the food budget under control is important following heavy spending during the holidays.

Meat and poultry usually concern us most, since these items account for about one-third of the grocery bill for most families. On this score, marketing specialists assure us that we start 1964 with red meat and poultry in large supply — more plentiful than a year ago and generally lower priced.

Mrs. Franks

Beef out-put on a weekly basis continued around 10 per cent greater than a year ago with prospects that volume will continue heavy during the early weeks of this year. You can expect retail prices to remain at present levels with specials frequent and at tempting prices.

In general, ground beef and the cuts requiring long, slow cooking will be the budget-stretchers. Contrary to the impression you may have at the check-out counter, steak is lower priced than a year ago and will be featured in markets from time to time—especially round and sirloin cuts.

Pork supplies are expected to decrease moderately from the heavy fall volume, but will stay above last year's supply through the mid-winter months. Retail prices are not likely to change much, but specials on fresh cuts may be less frequent. Ham and bacon prices will stay comparatively low.

Chicken will continue to be an economy meat. Broilers will likely increase somewhat during January; expect current low prices to continue. Watch for outstanding buys on whole birds.

Apples without question will be the economy fruit during the winter months. Most popular varieties for eating and salads are Red and Golden Delicious; the Stayman is the all-purpose, and the Rome Beauty the baker. Navel oranges at present are the best value in fresh oranges.

Weekend specials will help a lot toward saving on other fruits, especially bananas and fruit juices.

Markets will be well-filled with fine potatoes at low prices; the fall crop throughout the nation was large. Nutritionists rank potatoes as one of our best vegetables, and wish that weight-watchers would not think of them as a high calorie food—actually they are not when served plain.

Canned corn is in record supply, perfect for such wintery dishes as scalloped corn, corn pudding or fritters. Fresh corn from Florida is not likely to be as plentiful, nor carry the low price tags, as in past winters. As a result of the Cuban situation, many acres formerly used for corn are now being planted in pineapples and sugar cane.

FIRST FEDERAL
reports a quarter century of progress

In order to know where we're going, it often pays to know where we've been. During the past quarter century First Federal Savings and Loan Association has grown at a rate even faster than the dynamic community we serve. The chart reproduced here shows the expansion of our assets from approximately $5 million to $76 million in this period of time. This means we have $15 invested in our Association today for every dollar invested in 1938. Today, we are in a position to make home loans in every part of the community, and we invite your patronage. It is reassuring to our customers to realize that in this 25-year period First Federal has not had a single foreclosure. If you plan to buy, build or remodel your home, be sure to see First Federal first.

CLASSES FOR EVERYONE

YWCA URGES YOU TO . . . 'DEVELOP A NEW SKILL'

Adding a new area of knowledge, development of a hobby or skill, or acquiring a brand new one, are offered as sure cures for winter doldrums by the YWCA.

Enrollments are now being taken for the winter term of adult education classes at the Downtown YWCA, 65 S. Fourth-st, with a wide selection ranging from Russian, English for Spanish-speaking people and car-care to handwork and crafts.

Beginning Russian will be taught by Mrs. George Trachevski each Wednesday, 11:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m., for 10 weeks.

Other daytime classes include Bridge I and II; Decorative Design; French for beginners, intermediates and advanced; Interior Decorating, knitting and crocheting, slip-covers and upholstering.

"Auto Know-How," teaching about car care, mechanics and safety, and including a field trip to a garage, is included in the schedule of evening classes, beginning the week of Jan. 20.

Mrs. Yoshi Nichols will conduct a class on "Flower Arranging Japanese Style," as a demonstration and workshop. Classes will be held Tuesday, 7:30 to 9:30 p.m.

Other evening classes include "Behind the Headlines," bridge I and II, cake decorating I and II, English for Spanish-speaking people, furniture refinishing and antiquing, knitting for beginners and intermediates, painting and sketching, sewing for the beginner, intermediate and advanced, and Spanish I and II.

Two unusual classes have been included in the schedule of classes at the Hilltop YWCA, 2879 Valleyview-dr, now easy to reach from all parts of the city and offering plenty of free parking.

Miss Freda Frazier will conduct an eight-week class, beginning Monday, Jan. 20, 1 to 2 p.m., "Reading the Bible Aloud." Miss Frazier will demonstrate that vocal expression is important for an appreciation of the beauty and joy of Bible reading.

"Beginning Oil Painting" will be taught by Mrs. Harry Hawes on Tuesday, 1 to 3 p.m., beginning Jan. 21, for a 10-week period.

Other classes offered at the Hilltop YWCA include "Joy of Speaking," knitting, advanced oil painting, decorator's workshop, "Let's Talk About Our Children," cake decorating for beginners, and rug hooking.

Call the YWCA, CA. 4-9121, for further information and registration for either Downtown or Hilltop classes.

PERMIT SUSPENDED

The Ohio Department of Liquor Control announced that Realco, Inc., owner of the Turfside Supper Club, 6239 S. High-st, has received a seven-day license suspension, beginning at noon, Jan. 6, and ending at noon, Jan. 13. The court ruled that the establishment had furnished liquor to a minor on Aug. 13.

WARREN REASSIGNED

Airman Stephen D. Warren, son of Mr. and Mrs. James D. Warren, 1176 S. Waverly-st, is being reassigned to Keesler AFB, Miss., to attend the course for radar operators. He graduated from Bishop Hartley High School and attended Findlay (Ohio) College.

Pres. Harry S. Truman asserted Mar. 14, 1946, that civilian authorities should control atomic energy but that the military should be consulted on matters involving the national defense.

LOCAL DEATHS

Public Library Driver Dies Of Heart Attack

Services were held at Margarum & Son Funeral Home on New Year's Day for Dewey Moore, veteran bookmobile driver for the Columbus Public Library. He died early Monday, Dec. 30, in Grant Hospital following a heart attack. Burial followed in Mifflin Cemetery. He was 65.

Mr. Moore, who lived at 147 Granville-st in Gahanna, was among the first driver-clerks hired after the library bookmobile service for county residents was launched in 1950. As a result of his long tenure, he probably was more widely acquainted with Franklin County youngsters and adults than any other single public servant.

He was a member of the Central of Jersey Grange and the Gahanna Community Church.

Survivors include his wife Genie; daughters, Mrs. Glenna Lott, Mrs. Grace Peters, Mrs. Eleanor Binns; son, Harold; brothers, John and Thomas Moore; sisters, Mrs. Dora Fravel, Mrs. Mary Parker, Mrs. Sarah Hubbard; seven grandchildren and one great-grandchild.

BARCH, Leola M., 3055 Bremen-st, died at age 73. A former employe of Lockbourne AFB, she was a member of Linden Lutheran Church, the Linden Republican Club and the Golden Age Club. She is survived by one son, two daughters, three brothers, six grandchildren and one great-grandchild. Funeral service was held Saturday, Jan. 4, at Linden Lutheran Church. Arrangements by Southwick Funeral Home. Interment at Fernwood Cemetery.

Date For Crusade Selected

July 10 through 19 is the date chosen for the Billy Graham Crusade at Jet Stadium.

Bill Brown, a 36-year old Philadelphian and director of the crusade, announced that meetings will be held nightly Friday through Sunday.

The stadium will accommodate up to 25,000 persons. Seating capacity is 12,000 but 8000 additional seats will be provided and still more persons may be seated on the outfield grass.

Paul R. Langdon is crusade executive chairman; Rev. Miles Simmons and Dr. Floyd Faust, co-vice chairmen; Douglas Sparks, secretary and Roy Von Ins, treasurer. Rudolph Janata is finance chairman of the crusade.

Brown will speak this Sunday, Jan. 12, 7:30 p.m. at Burgess Avenue Evangelical Brethren Church.

Services Being Held At Obetz

Evangelistic services are being held at Obetz Nazarene Church, Hillcrest at Canton-avs, each evening this week at 7:30 p.m., through Jan. 12.

Rev. and Mrs. G. H. Hoot of Winona Lake, Ind., are the evangelists. Mrs. Hoot plays the organ on a radio program at Fort Wayne, Ind.

Rev. Virgilene Richardson, pastor, will welcome the public.

MEN WORKING
This is the sign that should be lifted high in our beloved country — "Men Working." Men working with all they have and are, for a country that must show the world how to live in brotherhood and love and peace under God.
Let us resolve to dedicate anew our lives and our talents to our country and our God when we attend church this Sunday.

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for men and of His demand for men to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny; the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.
EVERYONE IN THE CHURCH ... THE CHURCH IN EVERYONE

FALL TO YATES — St. Marys' Jim Yates (14) took the best one-out-of-one in this particular wrestling match with West Jefferson's Jim Tinkler (13) Saturday evening in first period play. Ready to call a decision on this rebound tussle at the right is W-J's Tim Killeen (1).

PERFECT MARK AT STAKE AS . . .

South Meets West In CL Headliner

John Colmery leads his perfect Bulldogs into battle Friday evening with Fred Heischman's West Cowboys in the Franklin County "game of the week."

The Bulldogs and the Cowboys will wager identical 3-0 City League marks to see which team continues on in the championship picture.

EACH TEAM has not tasted the City League spoils over a long duration. South last took all the marbles in 1953 while the Cowboys have been trophy-seeking since 1937.

South would like to add the City League cage crown to its football championship of last fall while West hopes to blemish the Bulldogs' 7-0 all-games mark.

Fred Heischman looks for a real close contest, but his Cowboys are battle-tested after dropping verdicts to Zanesville and Chillicothe of the Central Ohio League.

THE SITE of the game has been tentatively set for South's gymnasium at 8 p.m. Friday evening with lots of action in store for those who venture away from their TV sets for one thrill-packed night.

Rosary's Crusaders started the year off on the right foot last weekend as they warped Dublin by a 74-58 count. Four Crusaders hit the double digits as the Rosary quintet flexed its offensive muscles much to the despair of the Irish.

Rosary got gradually warmer in the shooting department as the game progressed and handed the Ready Holiday Tourney winner a real waxing.

JIM GROCE (27) paced the winners and was given double-figure help from Rick Stokes (16), Don Spurlock (15), and Ed Roehrenbeck (14). The win left the Crusaders with a 2-5 season ticket.

St. Marys experienced difficult times over the past weekend on the cage front by losing to Reynoldsburg and bowing to West Jefferson in an overtime.

The Rams couldn't hold Jon Heischman of the Raiders down as the Reynoldsburg star gunned in 21 points to lead the 63-42 win for the hosts. Jim Yates garnered 16 markers for the losers.

WEST JEFFERSON found the Rams very persistent before St. Marys finally yielded 68-61 in one overtime Saturday night.

The Rams rallied to tie it up at 58-all at the final quarter gun, but fell behind in the overtime to make their loop mark stand at 0-4. Jim Yates fired in 21 big counters in a valiant effort for the Rams five.

AQUINAS found the road a little rocky at Lorain St. Marys where the Terriers bowed, 69-46. The hosts couldn't shake the visitors from Columbus until a 23-point last period settled the Terrier hash.

This week's roundball finds a full slate of contests on Friday night.

Dublin (4-5) is at St. Marys (0-5), West Jefferson (5-2) visits Rosary (2-5), Aquinas (2-3) journeys to Marion-Franklin (4-4), and West (4-2) treks to South (7-0) for the cage game of the week.

SATURDAY EVENING'S contests has St. Mary visiting Ohio Deaf and North playing at Marion-Franklin. Rosary travels to Bishop Ready (2-5) in the only other area game on Saturday night.

REST STOP — It may look like an ordinary drive-in attempt but the all-seeing lens here depicts St. Marys' Jim Yates (14) as he settles the basketball and takes a brief rest on the good left knee of West Jefferson's Dick Rice, much to the chagrin of the latter. (Staff photo by Larry O'Harra).

A Rookie Reminisces, Looks Forward To '64

When Dave Bakenhaster rode off the OSU diamond last May 24 on the shoulders of his teammates, he added the finishing touches to a sparkling high school pitching career.

"Bake" came home early last month — home to 5865 Post-rd, Dublin where he is spending the off-season with his guardian, brother Paul Bakenhaster.

His play at Brunswick, Ga. (Class D) and later Winnipeg, Canada (Class A) earned him a 9-5 record in his first pro ball test and post-season schooling in the Florida Instructional League supplied another dose of "on-the-job" training.

BAKE LOOKED back over his first pro season last week when we talked baseball.

"It was a lot tougher than I thought it'd be. I looked for a big adjustment but I still got a surprise. You just don't get those 18 and 19 strikeout a game in pro ball."

DAVE, WHO was basically a starter, got plenty of work, taking the mound every fourth day in regular rotation, besides seeing some relief action.

"The hardest transition to make was learning to spot pitch and set every batter up. The first thing you have to learn is that you can't throw the ball by the hitter.

"In high school, you work on spot pitching and setting a hitter up when you have a lead in the late innings. You just don't have that advantage in pro ball."

DAVE REMEMBERS his first outing at Brunswick. "I was a little wild and walked the first four batters. But George (Kissel) told me I'd better settle down because I was in there for nine."

Ex-Jet manager Clyde King was one of Bakenhaster's pitching coaches during the season but Dave's pitching selection remained confined to his fast ball and curve.

"The only variation I worked on was the change-up pitch plus 14 different kinds of pick-off plays."

"In one game at Winnipeg, I was really pitching great through the first two innings. Then, all of a sudden, I really got rocked. They were hitting everything I was throwing."

The answer to his problem came with the realization that the opposition had discovered that his grip on the ball changed between fast ball and curve. The "pounding" taught Dave to hold the ball the same on each pitch.

BUT THERE were humorous incidents also like one evening at Aberdeen, S.D., in his first month in the Canadian League.

Tempers ran short in a 17-inning game, finally called by curfew. In the 13th inning, a 42-man free-for-all broke loose following a home-plate collision.

"The next night, both teams lined up on the foul lines with same real Indians and everybody took a puff from a peace pipe. The paper played it up big and the game drew about 1,600 fans."

SINCE BAKE is a member of the Cardinal chain, the discussion eventually worked around to Stan Musial.

"Musial is even better than what they write about him in the papers. He was always willing to come out 20 minutes early a spring training to help some rookie with his batting."

With his time almost completely devoted to pitching, Dave, who was an above-par batter at Dublin, has had little opportunity to work on his slugging ability.

"I THINK I hit around .200 last year," Dave admitted. "I got batting practice once every four days and that was only about 10 swings."

We asked Bake about one intangible—his temper, a point several rival high school coaches had listed as a possible detriment to his advancement in pro ball.

"Paul (Bakenhaster) straightened me out on that point," Dave admitted. That's another thing they make clear in a hurry. They tell you they've got three coaches out there to take care of your problems on the field."

THE ADDED work of pro ball has had on adverse effect on the Bakenhaster arm. Only health problem came in the form of a pulled back muscle which has since cleared up completely after dipping an 8-2 mark to Dave's final 9-5 record.

During the off-season, Dave has been going through a regular routine (running, push-ups and basketball) to keep in shape. "I haven't thrown a baseball since I finished up the winter program in Florida (early December).

They don't want anybody getting stale. They told us we'd get plenty of baseball at spring training."

AND THAT'S the next immediate item on the Bakenhaster progress list. Dave reports at 10 a.m. Mar. 1 at St. Petersburg.

Dave is currently carried on St. Louis' 25-man spring training roster which protects him from the minor league draft.

As one of three rookies on the list, Bake will either be carried on the Cardinal roster for the '64 season or be sent down for more seasoning.

DAVE HOPES that a good spring training showing will earn him a ticket to the minors where he will get desired work rather than "sitting out" the season on the Card bench.

The assignment could be Brunswick or Winnipeg, Tulsa or even AAA affiliate Jacksonville.

Bake wished us a Happy New Year as we stepped out of his Post-rd address.

But the new year clearly belonged to himself and the rest of the Dave Bakenhasters who are looking forward to the "spring" of advancement.

ENDS BASIC TRAINING

Charles D. Horvath, 18, son of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh S. Jenkins, Jr., of 902 Carpenter-st, recently completed basic training, Dec. 6, at the Naval Training Center, Great Lakes, Ill.

Nature's Plea Echoed In 'The Quiet Crisis'

INSIDE ON THE Outdoors By ROD COCHRAN

"Where can I go now, and visit nature undisturbed?"

Does this question sound familiar? It could come from almost anyone today — a camper searching for wildness and solitude, a boater yearning for water not churned to a froth, a hunter questing for a game population worth pursuing. It is modern as today, yet was uttered more than 120 years ago by our best-known early naturalist John James Audubon.

SUMMED UP in this simple question is the great problem of conservation, for it is the keystone of the whole structure. If you have sufficient wild areas, then a lot of lesser problems are solved. You will have scenic places to camp, sweet water that harbors bass and trout, game for the hunter and well-managed timber lands for industry.

The importance of proper land management to our lives has been summed up for us in the excellent and fascinating book "The Quiet Crisis." It is authored by Secretary of the Interior Stewart L. Udall, with a lot of assistance from the capable historians and writers in the Interior Department.

"The Quiet Crisis" is an eloquent statement of conservation today, and should be required reading for everyone interested in the outdoors—sportsmen, farmers, bird watchers, campers, boaters, resource administrators and politicians.

THE CITY-DWELLER is also included, for cities, as few people seem to realize, are built in the outdoors. Our parks and open spaces in cities and between cities are fast becoming our most valuable real estate.

This book is written with a sense of history. It has depth. Fact has been winnowed from fiction, and you come to understand why the Indians were so much at ease with the land. Many of Daniel Boone's feats were not true, but the truth is enough to keep the legend alive forever.

Thomas Jefferson in the years between youth and maturity became a conservationist on his own and with little to guide him. Packed into this short book are the great men of our country.

SEC. UDALL has been in Columbus once in his role of conservationist, when he addressed the League of Ohio Sportsmen nearly two years ago. We talked with him for a few minutes while news cameramen, reporters and dignitaries milled around outside his hotel room.

IN SHORT order and in the midst of confusion he spoke of wilderness, mountains and water, sky and air where a man could be alone with himself. The public domain and parks seemed to be his chief interest and his dedication to them was unmistakable.

Udall spoke of Theodore Roosevelt, who ignited the first wave of conservation interest in this country, and quoted a writer as saying "He was a man with distance in his eyes." Udall has this look about him, and we hope you will too, after reading "The Quiet Crisis."

Fire Destroys Trailer Home

Damage to the trailer home of Claude Horn, 2281 S. High-st, was estimated at $800 by fire officials.

The fire, of undetermined origin, destroyed the trailer and its contents late Sunday night.

sity of burning the midnight oil as is often required under the present setup.

"A man's efficiency on the job the following day is impaired when he has to work half the night before," Fornoff stressed.

He in fact believes that if the system works smoothly, the entire council can largely eliminate sessions that in the past have lasted into the early morning.

After recessing at 5:30, council would reconvene at 7 p.m., with routine opening, readings of 30-day ordinances, the hearing of petitions and the public hearings of zoning matters followed by the passage of the legislation resulting from the afternoon's preliminary hearings.

With standing operating procedure thus streamlined, Fornof sees no reason for a major shake-up in committees.

However, he believes the setting up of a seventh major committee — that of urban-renewal — an urgent need.

"With $150 million worth of construction under way at this time, we need one chairman working with one committee to be aware of what's going on. With this information council can take appropriate action when it is needed," Fornof explained.

He went on that in the past urban-renewal problems involving money was turned over to the finance committee, that involving governmental red tape ended up a safety committee responsibility etc., with the result that council's overall approach to the matter was without coordination.

Moving Roland Sedgwick, who is interested in that field, to head this new committee would not involve drastic changes in chairmanships, as his present post on the service committee can be filled by retiring Council President Golda Mae Edmonston.

She has headed the public utilities committee, a post traditionally held by council president that, through an important one, does not carry a particularly heavy work load. This, as president, Fornof would take over in addition to his current job as head of the airport committee.

This arrangement will leave William Hormele to head zoning; Bob Southwick, finance; Harvey Alston, safety, and Ronald DeVore, judiciary.

Fornof was asked whether he believed the judiciary post would be acceptable to DeVore or if he would prefer additional responsibility. (Until last weekend DeVore was believed to have the council presidency sewed up.)

"He campaigned upon the amount of money that he had been able to save the city of Columbus through his chairmanship of the committee, he must like it," Fornof answered.

It could not be ascertained over the telephone whether Fornof had his tongue in his check when he made this remark.

In reviewing the events that led to his election as council president, Fornof repeated that he had not campaigned for the post—UNTIL last week.

According to him, at caucus Friday it was decided that his name would be offered from the floor and nominations closed with a unanimous vote for him following.

It was his impression that this was acceptable to every council member, and after the caucus he had accepted DeVore's pledge of complete cooperation.

Later that night he learned that DeVore was far from satisfied with the situation and the matter was indeed not closed.

"Then was when I began to fight," declared the voluble Fornof. "My dander was up."

The secret ballot taken Monday night precludes any definite knowledge of where Fornof's support came from, though it can be assumed two votes against him belong to DeVore and to Bill Hormele, who had very early pledged his support to DeVore and is known as a man who would not go back on his word.

"I don't even want to know who the other person was who voted against me," the new president said, taking the attitude that the matter is now not only dead but forgotten as far as he is concerned.

Asked to what he contributed his election, he stated he believed there were a number of factors, but that the support of Southwick who had been his running mate two years ago and "knows what I am" gave him at least half of his strength.

He also believes the fact that he is up for re-election in 1965 affected council's choice.

are."

Believing that one of the first walls the handicapped must scale is the feeling of isolation, Rogers has written thousands of letters to others in his same leaky boat, through Letters to the Editor had published all over the country clippings of inspiring success of the crippled and worked with the able-bodied to bring to public attention that there is a niche in the economic world for thousands who today are forced to "just sit."

Like many other spastics, holding a pencil is an impossible task for John, so he types.

That sounds easy until you realize that he has only one finger of which he has sufficient control to press a key.

He has about 35,000 words of an autobiography written.

Yes, you would have to call it autobiographical; but fundamentally it is about the people he has met during his life to whom he feels deeply indebted.

Of course, his mother leads the list, but it is loaded not only with Columbus personalities, but national figures who either personally or through their support of aid to the handicapped have materially contributed to John's efforts to lead a normal life.

With a sensitivity rarely met, he seems to recall every act of kindness that has ever come his way. He still remembers the disappointment he felt 10 years ago when, after standing in line for three hours for a football ticket, he was told, "All sold out."

But he recalls with keener pleasure the woman in front of him who insisted he take one of her two.

Pity is the last thing in the world John is looking for, and only welcomes publicity for the good it may do the organizations to which he is dedicated.

The National Association of Handicapped has thrown its weight behind National Employ the Physically Handicapped Week, but John, with his fellow members, believes this is a project that should operate day-in, day-out, not only during a week designated by Congress.

The part of his home known as "John's workshop" is now the pulse of his life.

There is his desk and files, his radio and televesion, and his library reflecting his wide range of interests including philosophy, adventure, history and biography (including rather to his mother's embarrassment a portrayal of the adventures of Christine Keeler.)

The telephone necessarily plays an important part in communication between the handicapped because of their limited mobility.

John is now employing an attachment to his telephone which allows him to use it much as an intercom system, with a button pushed alternately for speaking and listening which relieves him of the task of manipulating a receiver.

This man is not unique. Rather he is typical of those who were "born apart" and spend a lifetime trying to help themselves and others.

When one first meets him, his physical disability is such that a stranger might be inclined to agree with those doctors who said, "Here is an institutional case."

But he talks and as you read the sincerity and humbleness coupled with determined spirit and technical skill with which he writes, you know that the world has been made a little brighter that John is out in it—struggling—and not a spoon-fed invalid hiding away from the world to which he came so ill-equipped.

Again and again he lays his small triumphs at the feet of others — his mother, his teachers, his church (St. Leo's)—glossing over his own part in his rehabilitation. But you can't count out his "indomitable soul."

If more people understood that there are fine and eager minds behind the contorted bodies of the spastic, half the battle would be won.

Don't offer charity to the handicapped.

They, as John, seek only the chance to do for themselves.

In most of their hearts is not "Brother, can you spare a dime?" but "Sir, do you have a job for me. I'll do the best I can with what I have."

Bonney-Floyd Co. Is Sold To Shenango-Penn

John L. V. Bonney, Jr., president of the Bonney-Floyd Co., 611 Marion-rd, announced the sale of his firm last Thursday to the Shenango-Penn Co. of Dover, O.

A spokesman for the purchasing firm said the two firms will be closely tied together and no changes in personnel, services or operating policies are contemplated.

Bonney said the joining of forces, under a common sales organization, should mean greater job opportunities at the local plant.

'Tailgating,' Lane Changing Prime Accident Factors

Failure to keep an assured clear distance ahead and changing lanes without safety are listed as the prime causes of accidents at two South Side locations.

According to a selective enforcement bulletin issued by F. C. McWilliams, traffic bureau captain, the two locations are at the intersection of Nelson and Livingston-avs, and on S. High-st, from Moler to Merritt. The report covered the period from Dec. 16 to 31.

Special attention was called for the hours between 4 and 6 p.m. at Nelson and Livingston, and from noon to 8 p.m. on S. High.

Capt. McWilliams stated that 1963 "must go on record as a tragic one in the field of traffic fatalities." A total of 53 persons were killed in Columbus traffic.

He concluded that "every officer has a duty-bound responsibility to do his utmost to prevent a repeat of the record in 1964."

Faulty Chimney Blamed For Fire

Damage estimated at $1,100 resulted from a fire caused by a faulty chimney at 609 Linwood-av, last Thursday night, according to a Fire Department spokesman. Residents of the home, Mrs. Margaret Edwards, her four children and her mother, Mrs. Rhoda Batie, escaped from the home unharmed.

Battalion Chief Ralph Mason said a recently installed wood-burning stove had been connected to a chimney that had been covered over by a roof, unknown to the family. Sparks from the stove started a fire in the attic.

Firefighter Earl Wooten, 36, of 1505 Courtright-rd, was treated for an injured toe at Grant Hospital and released.

The man who comes to dinner
But Usually Stays
FOR A WEEK
. . . or more!

A bright, interesting, informative, entertaining visitor arrives each week at more than 75,000 Columbus area homes. Sometimes he comes just in time for dinner and sometimes for breakfast. Often his most welcome stay is for a week or more, as he's a tried and trusted friend, counselor and friend of the family — the Hartley Newspaper.

He's always sure of a cordial welcome from every member of the family circle. He has so much to tell us about the community in which we live, that his regular visits are looked forward to and thoroughly enjoyed by all.

Don't Slip Up On Snow Law

The question of snow and ice removal was a hot subject for the cold first days of the new year. Columbus Mayor M. E. Sensenbrenner was in the forefront of those who demanded more efficient methods of snow and ice removal from city streets.

Less than 24 hours after the mayor's call for improved procedures, he inadvertently but forcefully demonstrated a related winter hazard. The mayor sustained a severe arm sprain in a Friday morning fall on an ice-covered sidewalk. (It was reported that salt had been spread on the sidewalk, but had not melted the ice).

The mayor's fall garnered its share of publicity. But we wonder how many people had similar injuries because of the negligence of property owners. And we wonder how many people who demand quick action on the part of city workers will neglect sidewalks in front of their own homes.

There are city ordinances requiring property owners to maintain safe pathways in front of their properties. In Columbus, for example, the city code says that the owners, occupant or tenant of property facing a public street shall be responsible for clearing the sidewalk in front of the property.

The Columbus code calls for clear sidewalks by 10 a.m. of each day. It further stipulates that salt, ashes, sand or some other suitable material should be applied if necessary to make the walk safe for walking.

Violation of the Columbus ordinance calls for a penalty of up to $300 and up to 90 days in jail, and each day of violation constitutes a separate offense.

It should also be remembered that property owners or occupants are subject to civil suits for injuries to others because of their negligence.

And for those who would rather avoid the exercise of snow shoveling, there is a solution short of facing city action or civil suit. There is hardly a street in the area that does not have at least one young, enterprising fellow to handle the chore. And the last time we paid for the service, we found the cost to be most reasonable.

Poor Land Use Causes Most Pollution

"Farmers who are cooperating with the Agricultural Conservation Program in carrying out conservation practices to restrict runoff and erosion on farmland are helping solve an urgent problem of urban communities." So says Owen VanSchoyck, chairman of the Franklin County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee. And he is right.

VanSchoyck pointed out recently that city people should realize that soil conservation is not solely a farm or rural problem. Improper land use, he pointed out, results in downstream sediment damage which directly affects every citizen.

"Sediment," he said, "is the largest single pollutant of the nation's streams and reservoirs. It damages fish and wildlife, reduces reservoir storage capacity, clogs highway and drainage ditches and fills stream channels causing increased flooding."

All sediment has its source in erosion of one form or another, and there is ample evidence that wise farming methods can greatly reduce major sediment damage downstream. Farmers have been helping to solve the problem for themselves and for the city dwellers. They have participated in such programs as pasture, range and woodland improvement; terracing and contour tillage; erosion control and reforestation through seeding to grass or trees, and the erection of floodwater retarding and diverting structures.

And in the process of self-help, the farmers also have aided the city dwellers in the continuing fight against water pollution and water shortages.

Guest Pulpit . . .

We live in a divided world.

It is divided politically, economically, racially and spiritually.

Spiritually it is divided over the person of Jesus Christ, for He who was the great Inviter and the great Reconciler is also the great Divider.

He said in Matt. 10:34, "Think not that I am come to send peace on the earth; I come not to send peace, but a sword." — here is division. Again the Bible states, "Then shall two be in the field; the one shall be taken, and the other left." (Matt. 24:40) — here is division.

Rev. Hineman

The great divisive force in the ministry of Christ was His redemptive work on the Cross. The Christ of the Cross divided the malefactors, the soldiery, and the religious men.

Today, the Christ of the Cross is still the great point of division. He leaves no room for neutrality, indecision, or procrastination. He has said, "No man can serve two masters: for either he will hate the one, and love the other; or else he will hold to the one and despise the other. Ye cannot serve God and mammon." (Matt. 6:24)

UNIQUE STORE

The Freedom Book Store was opened at Gay and High-sts in December, 1961. Recently it had to move because the building was leased to another business. It is now at 75 E. Woodruff-av.

The store is sponsored by the Ohio Junior Chamber of Commerce and is the immediate responsibility of the Tri-Village Chamber. Staffed entirely by volunteers, it is strictly a non-profit enterprise. Its purpose is to display and sell anti-Communist books and pamphlets, including reprints of parts of the Congressional Record.

The store emphasizes both old and new in literature about freedom. In addition to reprints of our Constitution and other historical documents, there are the latest books prepared after a careful study by people who care enough about freedom to learn about its enemies. No free man wants to be a slave. Here he can learn more about those who would make him one.

There is a growing awareness among more and more people of the danger to freedom created and promoted by Communism. Surely the Jaycees cannot be accused of radical tendencies. They are simply pro-freedom, which we think is by definition anti-Communism.

The books at the Freedom Book Store are written by authorities on the subject of Communism. If one cares about freedom, here he can find out what it's all about and how to combat those who intend to destroy it unless they are resisted effectively by free men and women.

Prices are about the same as in commercial book stores. They are fair to private enterprise, believing that is a part of freedom.

It says here . . .

You have to know what tyranny is before you can destroy it.

'Hit Nail On The Head'

To the Editor:

I have followed Mr. Ryan's series on local politics with great interest. In your third article, you hit the nail right on the head.

I attended a Republican ward meeting for the first time just before the recent elections. What a farce! Besides my wife and myself, there might have been three or four other interested citizens; the rest were booth workers who were "encouraged" to show up that night. The total number at the meeting couldn't have exceeded 25, this from an entire ward.

Months before the election, I constantly phoned my ward committeeman asking if there were any meetings or get-togethers being planned. Same answer every time —none. I came to find out that the "meet the candidate" night was the only ward meeting held (that I was invited to) all year.

Your point that the political bosses of today have lost contact with the "man in the street" is well taken, and they (the bosses) couldn't care less. At least, this is my impression. I say this because there are some organizational (?) tactics that have been put into practice elsewhere with amazing results.

County and state chairmen of both parties are too interested in maintaining their iron-hand rule and will fight any move that might reduce that power.

Salvation Army Pleased

To the Editor:

From the response we have had from the less fortunate people of Columbus, we are assured that many hearts were made glad with the wonderful baskets of food and toys which were distributed by our organization on Dec. 23 and 24.

More than 15,000 people were affected by the "Share with Others" program . . . the public was most generous with contributions of checks, monies dropped in the Kettles, plus food and toys.

Appreciates Publicity

To the Editor:

We would like to thank you and express our appreciation for the splendid publicity extended to the West High Parent-Teacher Association for 1962-63.

Our publicity won a blue ribbon at the Parent-Teacher Association State Convention last October. This, of course, made us very proud.

Mayor Sends Thanks

To the Publisher:

I want to extend my sincere thanks for all of the wonderful news coverage you have given our village for the past several years. As mayor for the past four years it has been my special privilege to have worked with several of your staff. They have always treated me in the best possible manner and have always been willing to assist on any project the village was undertaking.

An Editor's Outlook . . . by Jenkin Lloyd Jones

The Irresponsible Weak Bear Watching

A couple of weeks ago President Sukarno of Indonesia made a speech in which he vowed to crush the Federation of Malaysia, his neighbor, and he swore that the U.S. Seventh Fleet could never stop him.

If he had used the word "would" he would have been right. "Could" was wrong. The U. S. Seventh Fleet could tie Indonesia into two fishermen's bends and a clove hitch. But it won't. It won't because the American people have a very guilty feeling whenever they indulge in war. They usually back into war by gradual degrees of involvement, and after it's all over they put their opponents in the sunniest room in the hospital.

Jones

Moreover, there's the matter of "moral suasion." The United Nations, which now contains 113 members, would have apoplexy if great big Uncle Sam started swishing poor little Indonesia around in what Mr. Sukarno calls "the Indonesian Ocean."

The majority of the members of the UN today are ex-colonies, just as Indonesia is. By collective moral suasion they have persuaded their white colonial overlords to give them their freedom. And friendly old Uncle, partly to salve his conscience for being first cousin to the white colonial exploiters, and partly to curry favor with this ephemeral thing called "world opinion," was especially loud in his demand that the British, the Dutch, and the French liquidate their empires.

Now, there's nothing unusual in the hunger of human beings to rule, or even to misrule, themselves. Our ancestors didn't march through the snow to Trenton for the exercise. But what is beginning to be more than a little irritating is the rise of a double standard of morality among the new little nations which have gained their independence more through the sufferance of their old masters than through their own valor at arms.

The standard works like this: If your country is little or new or poor or peopled by swarthy human beings it can behave like a juvenile delinquent and this is simply explained by exuberance. But if your country is old or powerful or generally white its conduct must be severely restrained or it stands accused of oppression.

There is one major exception to this generalization. Russia is powerful and generally white. But since it didn't have any colonial possessions in Africa and Asia it was loud in its denunciation of those powers that did. Thus, when the Russian armies enforced government without consent of the governed in eastern Europe and particularly when it raped Hungary and raised the Berlin wall there was some hand-wringing in the UN but no real reaction.

On the other hand, the UN has slapped an arms embargo on the Republic of South Africa because of its apartheid policies toward the colored races.

Now the Boers are full of peculiar self-righteousness, and their bogus Bantustans should fool no one. But the fact is that the South African government has to maintain a border patrol to keep more Negroes than could possibly be employed in the mines from sneaking into South Africa.

Compare this to the function of the Berlin wall. How can the UN view with such alarm a political entity that Negroes want to get into, while it looks with Olympian detachment on a political entity that whites are forbidden to flee from? The double standard.

The Indian government has been brass-banding for the "self-determination of all peoples" for 16 years now. Yet it has refused to permit the people of overwhelmingly Moslem Kashmir to vote on whether they would rather stay in India or join Pakistan. More double standard.

Old-time European colonization was sometimes harsh. But more often than not it was far more enlightened than the rule of native sheiks, chiefs, rajahs and witch-men who cheerfully enslaved, flayed and garrotted their own people.

The white man was certainly guilty of arrogance. He earned the soft but earnest curses of the native bearers and the rickshaw coolies. He cheated them by giving Lancashire shoddy for elephants' tusks and looking glasses for emeralds. But whence came the delusion that race prejudice is exclusively a white man's disease?

The Chinese have hated the "foreign devils" since Marco Polo. The Japanese made their World War II propaganda pitch in southeast Asia on rooting out the whites. And Jomo Kenyatta headed the Mau Maus in Kenya who carved up white families for no other reason than the color of their skin.

Yet while the UN rings with angry questions about the use of police dogs on Birmingham mobs it welcomes the seating of Kenyatta's Kenya with cheers. More double standard?

You do not build a peaceful world on irresponsibility. You do not make the foolish wise, the volatile steady, the violent gentle by handing them special licenses for misbehavior. Justice is not to be measured by a rubber yardstick. Understanding is a two-way street.

Frosting On The Cake

By "UNCLE DOC" ROSS — U.S.A.

Quality merchandise is coming back into the general public mind. People are finding out again that you get just about what you pay for if you do business with reputable businesses that bear a good name through the years.

The old, old saying that "there is no substitute for class" is again acceptable to millions of American citizens who are outgrowing the psychological tailspin of the Great Depression.

More and more children are not having their feet ruined by ill-fitting and so-called "cheap shoes." More and more women who were misled by the spike heel "style madness" are finding out all over again that a sensible heel is more comfortable and safer by far for both safety and wearing value.

Good paint is again being sold because people have learned the hard way that cheap, gyp paint will "cover anything" for a while, but goes bad weatherwise in a hurry.

Properly fitted glasses, purchased from an honest and professionally qualified service, are again losing much of the folderol about crazy frames. Intelligent people now know that correct lenses to see through are the real purpose of spectacles.

Good old fashioned soap that needs nothing added but plenty of hot water "makes more people safe" than all the blah, blah about the fancy stuff.

So, every so often a majority of our people come to their good senses about a lot of things. Price never sets a guarantee of quality on anything.

Notes written on Christmas cards give all of us once-a-year information about former South Side residents who still remember their friends of by-gone days. With this introduction, won't you join us in learning about the recent activities of some of our neighbors of yesteryear?

Jean MacDonald Hartman, a resident of Washington, D.C., for many years, pens that her daughter Sandy, a senior at Purdue University, will probably wed after her graduation. Her son Don is also at Purdue, a freshman in electrical engineering. Mrs. Hartman, better known as Bonnie Jean while a resident of Deshler-av, is a South High and OSU graduate.

From nearby Grove City, Vera Link Pestel writes that her daughter was a December bride.

From Dryden, Mich., Imogene Wilson Brown wrote that her daughter Sandy, a math major, is in her junior college year. While a student in the South Side schools, Imogene was a resident of S. Sixth-st.

Also from Michigan, another greeting card posted in Benton Harbor tells us that all is well with Jane Johnson, who once resided in the 1200 block of S.High-st. The Michigander has been busy helping her husband Howard clean the brush from 27 acres of land they purchased on Lake Busher. They hope to have a cabin on the lakeside. Jane reports she's firmly entrenched in the grandmother ranks, with 10 grandchildren to boast about. Both her sons and their families, Roger and Jim Wycoff, are Columbusites, while the daughters, Susie and Judy Smith, live in Benton Harbor.

Fred and Helen Driscoll, former South Siders now in San Diego, Calif., are happy to have their son Danny at home once again, after his stint in the Army.

Rev. Norman Schreiber and his family are now residents of Cleveland, O., so are still near Lake Erie. The Methodist minister had been serving a pastorate in Toledo, O., before his transfer. More accurately speaking, the Schreibers reside in Maple Heights. Another new resident of Cleveland is Marguerite Boring Watson, a long-time resident of 3939 Lockbourne-rd.

The love of teaching has drawn Hugh Morrison, one of our outstanding personalities, back into the active ranks once more. Most recently in Toledo, Dr. Morrison is now teaching at Miami University, Oxford, O., and finds it enjoyable and interesting. While a student at South High and OSU, Hugh resided on Welch-av.

Now a resident of Chelmsford, Mass., Emma Buchanan, retired teacher of Southwood School, sends greetings to all her former pupils and friends. She hopes to visit her native state one of these days. She would love to hear from Columbusites, we know, so we'll include her street address: 321 Billerica-rd.

"Home for Christmas" news includes the Smiths, residents of Massachusetts because the Army-officer husband is stationed there at this time. Mrs. Smith, the former Donna Grandon, and her husband were the guests of her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Elliott, residents of 346 Sheldon-av. The Smiths utilized planes to be able to get the most out of their holiday furlough.

CHEER FOR 30 FAMILIES

WITH JUSTIFIABLE PRIDE, most of the 45 members of the Swan Club viewed the array of Christmas baskets they had prepared for 30 needy families of the South Side. Ed Sullivan as chairman of the project packed the baskets according to the size of the individual families, with some receiving as many as four bushels of food. This season marked the 15th anniversary of the holiday project undertaken by the club which is made up of South Siders and meets twice a month at the Swan Bowling Alleys.

One of our favorite young lads, Jon Ellefritz, was home from his senior year at Miami of Florida for Christmas. Jon, the son of Margaret Ellefritz and grandson of "Bert" Rigot, spent last year's Christmas in far-away Japan as an exchange student in the "Junior Year Abroad" plan. He recalls that he was skiing on Dec. 25, 1962. Since most of Japan's nationals observe a different religion, Christmas is not the same as Americans know it, but most Japanese have adopted the gift-giving and partying aspect of it, sans the religious phase.

For Richard Baum, 17 E. Jenkins-av, his furlough from Camp Vandenburg, Calif., proved to be an activity-packed holiday indeed. Arriving home on Dec. 12, he was home in time to be the best man for the Dec. 21 wedding of his cousin, Mr. Robert Oberkonz, of Alkire-rd, to Miss Linda Bircher, a West Sider. On Dec. 23, the former South High student attained voting status by reaching his 21st birthday, a big event in any young life. Richard was due back yesterday, Jan. 8. Like many others he too gained precious hours at home by flying.

The household at 1411 S. Sixth-st was at full capacity on the "Big Day," with Don Dicke dashing down from Cleveland and Priscilla and Dick Roth traveling the upward road from Cincinnati.

Although not home on Christmas Day, three members of the Hasmus family, Pat and sons Billy and Ricky flew up from their new home in Ft. Lauderdale, Fla., to spend a week in Columbus. Ted, Pat's husband, is well-known to members of the Crystal Swimming Club as the manager of that local landmark and holds a similar position in Florida, so was unable to get away.

Pats father, William McCleary, 1630 S. Third-st, was also returning to Columbus after spending a month as his daughter's guest. He indulged in some of Florida's famed fishing for the first time and did himself proud.

Two more epistles came our way from former Central Ohioans, the Davis family and Irma Whitright, but we shall use that news in the near future.

The talented South High School Basketball team will get into the meatier part of its City League schedule when it returns to the fray on Friday, Jan. 10, against the West High Cowboys.

On orchestra concert is the offering of the Capital University Artists Series at 3 p.m. in Mees Hall, on Sunday, Jan. 12.

The Annual Congregational meeting of St. Paul United Church of Christ will be an event of Wednesday, Jan. 15, at 7:30 p.m.

Alpha Circle of South High EUB WSWS will meet at 7:30 p.m. on Tuesday, Jan. 14, while the Esther Circle will meet at 9 a.m. on Wednesday, Jan. 15.

The Capitol City Chapter Mail Bag Club will meet at the Church of Chr'st, LDS, Reinhard and 22nd-st, on Tuesday, Jan. 14, for a 6:30 p.m. potluck and 8 p.m. business meeting.

Now that the gifts of Dec. 25 are beginning to pall a bit, these youngsters can look forward to a few more because of birthday celebrations: Sharon Blake, Sandra Hickman, Michael Glick, Roberta Hodge, Nancy Fitzpatrick, Johna Moore, Brenda Workman, Donald Blair, Kenneth Groezinger, Jeanette Shields, Denise Yates and Ruthie Heimiller.

Teenagers include Timmy Clark, Virginia Deible, Ralph Denney, Joel Brown.

Wedding anniversary congratulations are extended to Peggy and Mike Shields. Special greetings to Mr. and Mrs. Carl Fischer, of Fornoff-rd, who reach their 51st year of wedded life on Wednesday, Jan. 15.

The ailing list includes Emma Blackstone and Marie Ruppersburg, in St. Anthony; William Miller, in Doctors; Mrs. Jack Wollett, in Grant; Mrs. Pearrell, victim of an auto accident; Medeline McDode; Nettie Burch, 2431 S. High-st; Arthur Bogard, in Mt. Carmel; Carolyn Keeling, who underwent a tonsillectomy, Elzie Hillyer, 289 Southwood-av; Bill Corbett, 1477 S. Fourth-st.

PNAO, Division 12, will hold its Tuesday, Jan. 14 meeting at the YWCA, 5 S. Fourth-st, at 7:30 p.m.

Meetings here and there . . .

The Evening Women's Guild of St. Paul's Lutheran Church will meet at the church on Friday, Jan. 9, at 8 p.m. Mrs. Thurman Krivda will be the hostess. Mrs. Richard Poenisch will lead the Bible study.

On Tuesday, Jan. 14, members of the Lutheran Aid Society will enjoy a banquet at 7 p.m. The annual affair will be held at Troutman Hall, Capitol University. On Wednesday, Jan. 15, the Congregational meeting will be held at 7:30 p.m.

Three circles of the Washington Avenue EUB Church have scheduled meetings for 7:30 tonight, Thursday, at different locations. Florence Circle will meet at the church; Vada Circle will meet at 2687 Eakin-rd, while 4562 Amesbury is the site of the Martha Circle meeting.

Members of the church who will attend the Central Area Crusade meeting at 2:30 p.m. on Sunday, Jan. 12, include Price Campbell, Robert Strawser, Herb Cripe, Marcella Heiser, Myrtle Badders, and Evelyn Trieb. The Youth Department of the church will be in charge of the kitchen and program for the monthly Family Night, to be held Wednesday, Jan. 15, at 6:30 p.m.

The regular meeting of the St. Leo's Altar Rosary Sodality will be Monday, Jan. 13, with a 7:45 recitation of the Rosary and an 8 p.m. meeting. The program will feature a travelogue. Mrs. John Heinmiller is chairman for the program.

Trudeau Guild 37 will meet at 8 p.m. Monday, Jan. 13, at the home of Miss Judy Wallers, 325 Sycamore-st.

The Wesleyon Service Guild of South Methodist Church will meet at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday, Jan. 14.

In future years, Jan. 11, will bring a wedding anniversary for these young couples: Saundra Ballenger, 471 Kossuth-st, and Ronald Lester, 1243 Faber-av; Mary Zang, 117 Frebis-av, and John Shannon, 1385 Vinewood-dr; Carol Lennon, 1398 S. Champion-av, and Jack Emmons, 1495 Doten-av.

The Past Executive Board of South High, Chapter I, will meet for a noon dessert luncheon on Tuesday, Jan.

Alexis Alva Treats His Kids And They Treat One And All

HOW GLAMOROUS can one be? Mrs. John Todhunter, whose two daughters, Phyllis and Susan, were among the artists of the ballet performance at St. Stephens Saturday night, introduced a professional touch when she brought an assortment of "wash and wear" wigs from her department at Lazarus. Here she is finishing the coiffure of Exie Goodwin, 833 Woodland, who appeared in the "Gavotte."

It was no wonder that Alexis Alva was beaming with pride last Saturday night.

Before the annual holiday party to which he treats his young prodigies a "Ballet Divertissement" was presented.

The artists?

The children from the South Side who are members of the ballet classes Alva directs at the St. Stephens Community House.

True, on the program appeared guests from classical ballet classes of Tatjana Smith and a professional group associated with Rick Norris who gave talented and polished performances.

But you should have seen "Mr. Alva's" girls.

He told of first answering negatively when asked recently if he had a garden, but then changing his reply to "yes."

"I have my ballet pupils—a garden of beautiful flowers," he answered the query.

In October, soon after the classes were begun, a feature story appeared in several of the Hartley newspapers concerning the enthusiasm of the children and the dedication of their teacher. Little was said about the talent of the children, as it was not too evident at that time.

But Saturday, less than three months later, to watch these same children dance was akin to a miracle.

Last fall the children had wanted to learn; now they had.

Their dancing, naturally, could not after a few months show the perfection years of training brings, but it was graceful, refreshing and in some instances approaching professionalism.

Alva who is also their choreographer and controurier assumed one more role after the program— and one that he took to with the same verve he throws into his teaching.

It was the one of host.

He treated the ballerinas, their families, the St. Stephens staff and friends to a supper fit for a prima ballerina. And then he distributed the gifts, each personally wrapped, that he had been accumulating since the like party last year.

When one has a Christmas list which includes over 150 children, one simply can't put off shopping until the last minute, he explained.

And to twenty very fortunate young ladies went, by lot, the tickets their teacher had purchased for them to attend the Columbus performance of Maria Tallchief, ranked as one of the four top prima ballerinas in the world today.

When Alva expressed his regret at not being able to provide seats for each and everyone of his students, one knew he would have if he could have found a way.

Alexis Alva spends so very many hours with the children than many fail to realize he is a volunteer worker who is paid only through the pleasure he gains from devoting his myriad talents—and his affection—to the youngsters who come to him.

And it's hard to say who takes the most pleasure in that world — the children of "Mr. Alva."

Classes for beginners are open now and anyone who is interested should call Miss Judith Stattmiller, 444-1960.

As everyone on the Community House staff knows, the director will never be completely happy until his classes can make up a troup large enough to produce a ballet performance without guest artists.

And that takes a lot of dancing feet.

Enrollment in one of Alva's classes is not for sluggards. But ask any of the children who work with him. It's worth every minute of it.

Nothing in human life is more to be lamented than that a wise man should have so little influence . . . Herodotus.

WHEN THE DIVERTISSEMENT WAS OVER, Alexis Alva, director of ballet at St. Stephens called for the performers and Tatjana Akinfieva Smith whose classical ballet students had been guest artists, to make their bows.

THE ONLY 12-year-old in the nation and one of Ohio's two representatives, to perform with the Frederick Franklin National Ballet in Washington last fall, Nannette Merritt, Grove City, was an enchanting "Snowflake," one of her several roles at the St. Stephens ballet dinner.

THE LITTLEST ONE there, Beverly Reid, 289 Woodrow, was chosen to give the beloved "Mr. Alva" the gift from the St. Stephens staff in appreciation of the countless hours he gives to the children of the South Side. William Santanich looks on as the ballet director, obviously touched, read the inscription on the gold cigarette case.

AFTER THE BALLET it was supper for the cast and their guests and then came time for gifts. Little Debra Lambert walks away with hers, past the table that moments before had been heaped high with presents from Alexis Alva for each and every child.

While Charles claims that he was born with his interest in astronomy, Roger states that his interest was kindled when the first satellite was put into space in 1957.

The boys, both members of the Columbus Astronomical Society, have a mutual respect for each other and frequently work as a team. Roger, however, as a university student who also works for his father has only an avocational interest in astronomy, doesn't "eat and sleep" the science as the younger boy does.

Charles is in charge of the youth tours of the observatory that are available to the public upon reservation through the South Side Branch YMCA, and also acts as the librarian of the local astronomy society.

Jim Wagner, director of the "Y" stated that the organization would like to see an astronomy club formed under its sponsorship and that Charles has volunteered to lecture. He asks that anyone who is interested to contact him at the YMCA office.

The second is the varying work load, involved in fulfilling the duties of the cabinet posts.

Fornof explained that only three directorships are established by charter — those of service, safety and utilities.

Of the charter group, Fornof stated the service director's work load is by far the heaviest, and Council believed that with the $5,000 salary range, recognition could be given to this fact.

Again, in the ordinance trio, the finance director holds a very great responsibility.

When Sensenbrenner appeared with his request for a blanket raise to the $15,000 figure, he ignored the planning and urban renewal posts completely.

Fornof explained this by stating that although by law these directors are just that, historically they have not been recognized as director, but merely as division heads.

Taking the stand that if what Sensenbrenner wanted was a "blanket" figure, all six directorships should be included, Fornof attempted to see this realized.

When the amendment to Sensenbrenners' proposal only mustered four votes, the amendment was struck. Its proponents feared it would endanger the entire salary amendment, as it was to be passed as emergency legislation, which requires six votes.

"I have been conferring with good friends and advisors," Westlake said, "on the possibilities of this land. Among considerations is the construction of court-type apartments. Since the access dead ends there, the apartments would be completely private as well as convenient.

"The land is already zoned for industrial, so its development as a site for an industry is even possible. We have already turned down a number of proposals along this line, because they weren't in quite the proper vein.

Communities, Businesses Make Big Advances

Columbus Public Schools Add, Improve Facilities, Programs

Progress in Columbus Public Schools during 1964 was written last year as the system made plans and took action in educating Columbus children.

The school population reached a peak of more than 98,000 last September as 4,773 more students were enrolled. An increase of almost an equal number is expected this year.

JANUARY

The drop-out rate in Columbus Public Schools was announced at less than 33 percent, a decrease of over four percent in the last year and a half. The Columbus drop-out average is now less than the national average.

Donald E. Calhoun, Jr., was appointed by the Board of Education to serve the unexpired term of Mrs. Ralph H. Davidson, who resigned. The board elected Paul R. Langdon president for 1963. Homer Trantham was elected vice-president.

Board of Education appropriated $35,457,489.70 for the general operation of the schools. The figure compares to a net appropriation of $33,466,889.77 for the 1962 fiscal year. The increase is needed to educate an additional 4,500 pupils.

The schools took steps to retrain the unemployed. First classes for persons desiring to be service-station attendant-mechanics began at Walnut-Ridge Junior - Senior High School.

Plans to open a two-year post-high technician school were announced. Curriculum of the school will be in three areas: Business Data Processing, Electronics Technology and Mechanical Technology.

FEBRUARY

Preliminary drawings were approved for remodeling of West High, Roosevelt and Everett Junior Highs, Fair Avenue, First, Linden, Olentangy, Burroughs, Eleventh Avenue and Clinton elementaries.

Eight committees to study adoptions of new textbooks were named. Since 1960, 37 new textbooks have been adopted in the Columbus Public Schools.

Enrollment in Evening High School topped 1,500, according to G. B. Newton, who directs activities of the school. In 1956, only 700 persons attended classes.

The teaching staff hit a record high of 3,252, according to I. F. Young, assistant superintendent in charge of teacher personnel. The new figure is 26 higher than at the opening of school in September.

Three teachers and an educator were nominated for Valley Forge Freedoms Foundation medals. Teachers nominated were Mrs. Margaret Holmes, Clinton Elementary; Miss Pauline Jones, South High, and Miss Isabelle Wallace, Barrett Junior High. The educator was Floyd Carlisle, resource teacher in the area of social studies.

MARCH

Bids were awarded for additions to Eakin, Kent, Leawood, Maize, Willis Park and Woodcrest elementary schools at a total cost of $486,856.

The Columbus public schools were named by Freedoms Foundation as one of three top systems in the nation on the basis of teaching citizenship and Americanism. Approximately 40 other school systems were considered.

Dedication of four new elementary schools were announced. Dedication of Walford was set for Mar. 12, Calumet on Mar. 26, Watkins on Apr. 30, and Sixth Avenue on May 20.

Westmoor Junior High school was named first winner in a Junior High School Safety program sponsored by the Columbus Police Department and Columbus Automobile Club.

APRIL

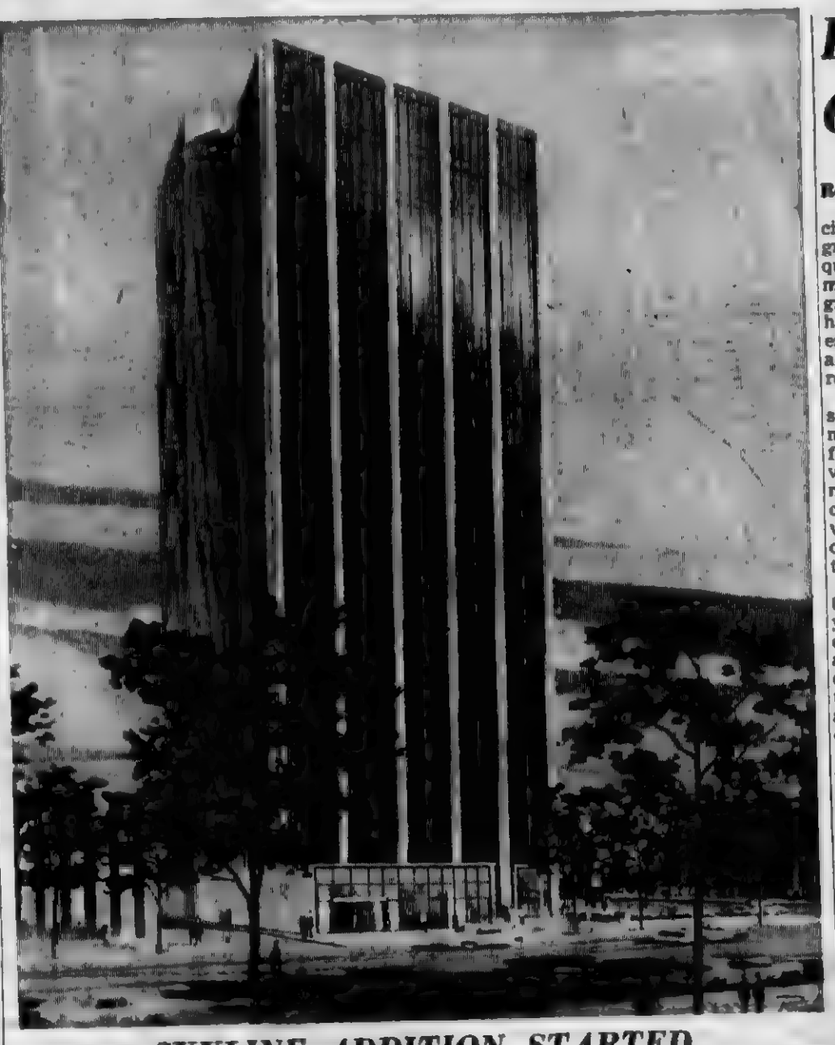
Addition work to Heimandale Elementary at a cost of $110,640 was announced.

The East High School basketball team was officially congratulated for winning the State Class AA basketball championship. The Board of Education passed a resolution honoring the team.

The Board of Education awarded bids for three new elementary schools, Devonshire, Moler and Valley Forge, at a total cost of $883,675.

Superintendent Harold H. Eibling was presented "An Outstanding Office Award" by Charles A. Hill, publishing director of Modern Office Procedures magazine. The award was one of three given nationally.

The Board of Education announced it would hold "Neighborhood Seminars" in Columbus schools on May 1, 8 and 15. School Board member Donald Calhoun, the chairman, said main topics would be "What the School Dollar Buys Today," "Where the School Dollar Comes From" and "Where Do We Go From Here?"



MAY

Architect David Schackne, Jr., announced that Columbus is building schools for less today than in 1951. Schackne pointed out that the Board of Education recently awarded contracts for three schools for less than similar facilities cost 11 years ago.

The Neighborhood Seminars announced in April, drew an estimated 6,000 citizens.

The Junior League of Columbus presented three awards to the Board of Education for architecture: un-

SKYLINE ADDITION STARTED

TWENTY-FIVE STORIES of ultra-modern rooms and fixtures will make up the new Columbus Center, now under construction at Broad and Third-sts. Scheduled for completion in May, 1965, the skyscraper will feature a restaurant on the 24th floor, a two-story lobby with terrazzo floor, and a marble, wood and glass wall decor. Landscaping on the plaza will surround the reflecting pools and green-tinted solex glass will reduce the sun's glare. Spearheading this newest major addition to the rapidly expanding Columbus skyline is John W. Galbreath. City National Bank and Trust Co. will be the prime tenant.

COSTS MAY RISE

Expect Highs In Building To Continue

By ROBERT P. FLATH
Home Builders Association of Greater Columbus

Columbus, during 1963, enjoyed another record year in residential construction and indicators point toward construction on a similar level in 1964, according to Corwin L. Knowles, current president of the Home Builders Association of Greater Columbus.

Knowles feels consumer interest is high — the Columbus metropolitan area anticipates a good level of business and a growth factor of importance still prevails.

Politics May Affect Picture

There are, of course, some "ifs" which might have a bearing on the construction level next year.

One of these is the impact of the proposed income tax reduction. If they materialize in '64 — and the always unpredictable effect of national elections — Knowles feels, after studying reports of three leading housing economists, that the national level will show a slight increase in both number of living units to be added and the dollar volume.

Other Construction Dated

In the Columbus area, he predicts a leveling off of apartment construction, which this year has exceeded all prior year production as well as predicted activity. The vacancy rate is not presently alarming and if production of units now in the "pipeline of construction" concludes the building activity, no catastrophic situation will result.

Costs are expected to edge up a little as a result of increased land, labor and materials cost. Here again, the increase, if any, will be nominal.

Remodeling Extensive

Considerable activity in the remodeling phase of the residential construction industry is anticipated.

Many people are taking advantage of the "slack period" in the building season to have major improvements and additions made to recreation rooms, family rooms, kitchens and bath areas. Even reasonably new homes are thus being kept current with comfort, convenience and efficiency products.

Economic Progress Expected

Knowles looks for the residential industry to continue to be a large and important factor in the local economy.

The over-all political and economic climate of progress will be continued, and the building industry benefits from this. The community, in turn, benefits from the industry's activity.

IN THE AMERICAN TRADITION . . .

Ours Is Area Of Dedicated People

How does one describe the Columbus Metropolitan area? It can be geographically bounded, and certain landmarks and historical sites can be pointed out. But these are merely superficial—we are more concerned with the "heartbeat" of the many neighborhoods that make up the Central Ohio Community.

The heartbeat is people — their attitudes, their culture and the products they produce. Our community heartbeat is strong because we maintain in this Atomic Age a "melting pot" character in our population. It is not unlike the collective character of early American pioneers. They contributed divergent attitudes, desires and abilities to the creation of our great nation.

So, today, do people of varying backgrounds and abilities pool their hopes and their resources to the making of a better Central Ohio Community. Columbus, as a state capital, draws to the area many people from all sections of the state. But there is an ever-increasing interdependence of Columbus and its satellite communities.

This Progress Edition deals with the widest picture in the Central Ohio Community — home, school, church and industry. But most important, we are telling the story of our people—for all progress comes about through their combined, dedicated efforts.

We feel the stories here positively show that people are our most important products.

Retail Sales Climb 5%, Generate '64 Optimism

By PIERRE D. HALE
Retail Merchants Association

The retail business of the city is one area in which both growth and development are quite apparent. The Columbus market in recent years has grown rapidly in population, has produced one of the greatest sales increases in the state, and is among the leaders in retail sales per capita.

According to Federal Reserve Bank and OSU Department of Business Research figures, the 1963 retail sales volume of the Columbus metropolitan area is five percent higher than in 1962. This would indicate a dollar volume of some $1.1 billion, an all-time high for the area.

A bit surprising is the fact that Christmas business this year, with five less shopping days between Thanksgiving and Christmas, gives evidence of surpassing last year's volume by about the same figure as the yearly gain — five percent.

To produce and handle this volume of retail business required the services and facilities of more than 5,000 retail stores and more than 43,000 employers and employes. The retail industry is the third largest employer in the city.

Because of increased earnings, a growing population, expanded employment, more spending on the part of government and business in general, people in Columbus as well as throughout the country are buying heavier than usual. They feel prosperous and their mood is confident.

Merchants in turn have followed closely the changing pattern of shopping habits and needs, and have been able to supply those needs as they developed. Competition has been further intensified by the addition of more than 250,000 square feet of selling space. The market has been intensely competitive, and this situation has worked to the advantage of the consumer and the desirability of the Columbus market as a place to shop.

This combination of circumstances and facts has been responsible for the fine showing of the retail industry in 1963. They will also be valuable in shaping plans to better serve the buying public in 1964.

Business generally is optimistic over the prospects for next year. Many of the favorable factors present this year will be evident in 1964.

There is but very little doubt that personal income will continue to rise. Increased government spending is apparent, and business plant and equipment expenditures are expected to increase. Few of our unusually large construction projects will be completed in 1964, and development of the Market-Mohawk and other areas will probably be getting under way.

New hotel-motels and other close-in living facilities will increase the number of people readily accessible to the downtown area. Newly completed stretches of our expressway program will add to the ease and convenience of shopping in the central business district for suburban and trade territory consumers.

Add to all the other developments the fact that personal savings are high, that credit is available, and that a tax cut is almost sure to come early in the new year, and you have the needed generators for the production of a still greater purchasing power.

Nationally a three to four percent gain in 1964 retail volume is the figure most frequently mentioned. If that forecast is accurate, Columbus retail volume, frequently one to two percent above the national level, will again be headed for another record-breaking year.

NATIONALLY

Business Outlook Favorable

By JOSEPH E. LINVILLE
Executive Secretary, Ohio Savings and Loan League

Although the present business recovery cycle is as long as any in post-war history, prospects are bright that good business will continue at the present high level through 1964.

This expected continued high business level for the next 12 months is based upon enactment of the proposed federal income tax cut promised by the present administration and influential members of Congress. A tax cut will undoubtedly stimulate consumer demand.

Family formations should rise even more during the middle years of the 60's. The increase in the number of families will generate more demand for hard goods and, at the same time, cut down the rate of housing.

Any realistic appraisal of business prospects for 1964 must take into account the political aspects which always are influential factors in our economy.

Every incumbent administration struggles vigorously to promote a healthy economy for the country during an election year. The political history of this nation has proved that the unemployed, the businessman and others adversely affected by a declining economy will vote against the incumbent administration.

President Johnson has announced budgetary policies that could promote more private investment in areas now considered the province of the federal government such as urban renewal.

While the specter of inflation still hovers, it appears that our fiscal and monetary policies will remain in the area described as "comparatively easy."

If all these important factors develop during 1964, it should be an excellent business year. Our gross national product easily could reach the $265 billion mark by the end of the year.

Housing starts, which increased from 1.5 million in 1962 to 1.8 million in 1963, should show some slight increase again in 1964.

A word of warning, however. This glowing business picture of the future could be dimmed if one or more of the economic factors mentioned here would fail to materialize during the year.

There are possible minus factors that must be watched. The two most important of these are:

The problem of employ-

MRS. DAISY JOHNSON, a resident at First Community Village, has her picture painted by a visiting New Jersey artist, Helen Van Wyk. The painting exhibition is only one of the many cultural programs that have been held at the Village since it was opened in February, 1963. The Village is a living center for persons of retirement age.

People At First Community Village Enjoy Many And Varied Activities

By JENNY WEBER

In the rolling country of the Scioto River Valley, only seven minutes from downtown Columbus, is a new kind of retirement center—where the emphasis is on living rather than retiring.

Fifteen years ago it was a dream of the late Dr. Roy A. Burkhart, senior minister of First Community Church. He saw a need for a retirement center that would be a way of life, a place where there would be a creative edge to each day.

He envisioned a place where the devil of loneliness would die and the spirit would be nourished.

Today that dream is reality. The $5.6 million First Community Village opened early in 1963. It has become home to nearly 200 persons of retirement age.

The program under the guidance of minister-director James W. Bidle is unique for its person-centeredness. It is developed around the individual. No person is asked or expected to conform to any set pattern.

The Village thrives on an air of freedom—freedom to choose the type of dwelling you prefer, freedom to choose your own friends, freedom to participate only in activities you wish, or freedom to participate in none if you choose.

However, most Villagers choose active and busy lives. They find that without the problems of caring for a big house and lawn, there is time to do some of the things they've always wanted to do.

Several Villagers are taking music lessons from another resident who was formerly a band instructor at Northwestern University.

One retired teacher became so enthused about her piano lessons that she bought a piano. "I've wanted to learn to play for so many years," she told friends.

A knitting champion is sharing her skills with her neighbors. A ceramics enthusiast is conducting weekly classes in the Village craft rooms.

Many work in charitable projects sponsored by their churches or organizations to which they belong.

One man who came to the Village to "wait to die" got so involved in the activity of the place, he threw his tranquilizers away and became editor of the bi-weekly newspaper, VIM. He was also elected mayor of the Village and heads the Village council which works closely with the program staff.

Discussion groups range from current events to Bible study. They meet in any one of the Village's 14 beautiful warmly decorated lounges.

Some persons have their meals in the Village dining rooms, others fix their own in their apartments.

Special diets are planned for those who need them. One man who retired because his diabetic condition had worsened is now back at work on a half-day basis. He staunchly maintains his improvement is due to his diet.

Villagers thoroughly enjoy visits to Beulah Park and Scioto Downs. They attend many of the events in downtown Columbus and have bus service directly from the Village to downtown. Last summer they chartered buses and took trips to nearby cities to tour historical sites, go shopping for antiques, and just to look at the scenery.

For those who want to contribute their talents to the community, there is plenty of opportunity. For those who prefer a more restful atmosphere, this is available too.

First Community Village is filling rapidly, but some accommodations are [illegible]. For further information write: Rev. James W. Bidle, First Community Village, 1800 Riverside-dr, Columbus 12, O.

MANIFEST NEW AWARENESS

Protestant Churches Face Impact Of New Challenges

By G. WEIR HARTMAN, Executive Director of Columbus Area Council of Churches

Continuing growth, ecumenical conversation, action on civil rights, refugee service, and response to a national emergency highlighted a busy year for Columbus area Protestant churches.

It would be a misnomer to speak of 1963 as a normal year for the churches. Technological, sociological and political changes have accelerated, and the churches are affected as radically as other institutions in our society. The year's review reflects this impact in the response which the churches have given to the challenge.

In general, it can be said that a motivating drive of the churches has been to make them relevant to the life of our people. No longer is the church a comfortable retreat from the struggle, a place of quiet where men can get away from it all. The churches manifest a new awareness that they must be involved in the struggle if they are to witness to the Gospel of Christ and be instruments of the Lord of the Church.

New Congregations

The establishment of new congregations is moving at a slower pace. But five new congregations were organized, two were authorized for relocation, one congregation laid a cornerstone, two dedicated new buildings and several purchased new sites. More congregations dedicated additional facilities.

Much attention is now being devoted to a study of changing inner-city areas. Churches are aware that their role in these areas must be altered to meet the shifting needs of the people. This is a most disturbing challenge to church leaders, and they are not yet clear on a good policy to make the churches relevant in these areas.

Senior Citizens Housing

A major thrust for the churches is in the area of adequate housing for older citizens. The Presbyterian Church Homes, Inc., at Waverly with 365 units is now nearly filled and rendering great service. First Community Village, a project of First Community Church, with 450 units, opened for its first occupants and is expanding its program service.

The Lutheran Senior City, which will provide 269 units, is near completion on its site off Johnstown-rd in eastern Columbus. The Ohio Synod of the United Presbyterian Church has announced its decision to erect a high-rise building for senior citizens to be erected in Thurber Village. This is a new type of service being developed by the churches.

During the year five more congregations applied for membership in the Council of Churches and were accepted. They are Stewart Memorial Christian Methodist Church; the Salvation Army, of which Brig. Albert E. Avery is the officer-leader; Livingston Methodist Church, Rev. Roland G. Perkins, pastor; Holy Trinity Lutheran Church, Rev. Paul J. Renz, pastor, and St. Andrew Presbyterian Church, Rev. G. Terry Bard, pastor.

While the denominations of these congregations are members of the National Council of Churches, membership in the Columbus Area Council is voluntary and by vote of the official body acting for the congregation. The council is not an agency of unity, but rather of cooperation for congregations in the community. It does not affect denominational autonomy and invites all congregations to cooperate for their own advancement and welfare.

President Kennedy Memorial

The most critical moment which the churches faced during the year occurred on Nov. 22 when our President was assassinated. Stunned, as was the nation, the churches responded immediately by being open for prayer and holding services. Even on the Friday evening of that fateful day, churches were already offering services and they continued throughout the weekend without exception.

Immediately upon news of the assassination, spokesmen for the churches appeared on radio and television to represent the churches in offering tributes to our most youthful and promising President. The Council of Churches planned a television service in memoriam to the President to represent the affection and esteem of our Protestant churches for Mr. Kennedy, which was telecast with similar services of the other major faiths. Through their agency, the Council, the Protestant churches were geared with a ready-made organization to lead them in this time of national emergency.

National Council Assembly

Another highlight of the year was the Triennial Assembly of the National Council of Churches held in December in Philadelphia. The National Council embraces 31 denominations, of which there are 238 congregations in the Columbus area. Nine leading churchmen of local congregations were involved in the assembly as delegates, consultants or accredited visitors. Actions of their national agency affect the local congregations and set forth goals and pronouncements which serve as stimuli and guides for local church thought and action.

The Christian Churches (Disciples) can take pride in the fact that they gave a great layman, J. Irwin Miller, to head the National Council during the past triennium. Miller was accorded a standing ovation by the 5,100 attendants upon his retirement from this post of national leadership. The new president, Bishop Reuben M. Miller, is of special interest to all Evangelical United Brethren people because he is the senior bishop of their church.

Setting the pace for the Protestant churches of the nation were actions in favor of Civil Rights, integration of churches, against the growing disease of gambling, tributes to President Kennedy, commendations to the broadcasting industry, support of the United Nations and making the church relevant to the critical problems which society faces in these times. Undoubtedly, these actions will have a profound influence on the nation in the months and years ahead.

Local Council Election

As the National Council selected a clergyman to succeed a layman as its president, so the Columbus Area Council of Churches elected a pastor succeeding a layman, to lead them in 1964.

At the fall assembly and election in October, Dr. Raymond E. Dronsfield, minister of Overbrook Presbyterian Church, was elected to be the new president beginning Jan. 1. The minister succeeds a vigorous layman, Henry C. Ruegg, a member of Westgate EUB Church, who has served the post for two years. During Ruegg's tenure, significant advances have been made in membership of congregations, financial support and expansion of organization and program.

Cuban Refugees

Stirred by the plight of Cuban refugees in Miami, the churches agreed to take action. Eleven churches brought in a total of 31 Cubans on Friday, May 3. After a reception for the guests and their sponsoring committees at Bexley Methodist Church, the committees took their refugees to their respective locations.

Monthly get-togethers were held for a few months to provide fellowship and communication among the refugees. While some of the families found it difficult to make adjustments, others found it relatively easy and are now employed and living in their own homes or apartments. It was a good project in Christian mercy and international relations.

Columbus is becoming a strong center for state denominational offices. This past year saw another communion, the United Church of Christ, move its state headquarters to Columbus. They are located in the Chittenden-Temple Hotel. This brings to six the number of denominations that have their state offices in the Capital City. The others are Assemblies of God, American Lutheran, Lutheran Church in America, Methodist and United Presbyterian.

Growing Dialogue

A word should be said about the growing dialogue and cooperation between the Protestant and Roman Catholic Churches. The World Faith and Order Conference at Montreal in August, and the Vatican Council have further opened up conversations between Protestant and Roman Catholic leaders. Increasingly, projects of cooperation are taken up in which all faiths participate.

A significant program is the Week of Prayer for Christian Unity held each Jan. 18 to 25. This year, plans were worked out by a joint committee in which the same prayers and Scriptures were used simultaneously in Protestant and Roman Catholic Churches. In areas of broadcasting, studies, community action, and especially in memoriam to President Kennedy, there was increasing activity in cooperation and joint action.

Radio and Television

One new program was added to the fine list of existing programs. It is "The Big Question," seen each Sunday morning. It features representative clergy of the major faiths, along with a professional person in a certain field, discussing major issues of the times.

The relationship of the churches with the stations is good and an excellent list of programs is maintained under the direction of Prof. Armin Langholz, with the cooperation of the other faiths.

Boy Scouting

Since the religious activities of Boy Scouting have been assumed by the Protestant committee on Scouting and moved over under the Council of Churches, the first retreat for Protestant Scouts was held in June at Camp Lazarus. It provided a pleasant outing for the Scouts under religious auspices and enabled the pastors and Scout leaders to strengthen the religious program and promote the church awards. The churches view Scouting as a valuable program of the church for reaching boys at their points of interest and relating them more closely to the church.

The principle of church cooperation is becoming more widely accepted. More congregations are entering into the movement, and more councils are being organized each year. It is an effective way the churches witness to the community and the challenge of the modern city makes united action essential. Also, as churches grow in the ecumenical spirit, they are increasingly willing to share with Christians of other persuasions in service and action. This is true in Columbus, and on the national and world levels.

THE LATEST in religious music is one of the many items offered to customers at the Christian Book Store, 179 S. High-st. Christian Book Store Experiences Increased Demand For Literature

By EON BARLOW

This has been a year of outstanding growth and service for the Christian Book Store, 179 S. High-st, according to its owner and manager, Mrs. Mildred Smith. Much of this growth, according to Mrs. Smith, can be attributed to an apparent nationwide trend toward more reading of Christian literature.

Nearly every type of aid to Christian worship is available in the attractive store established more than 10 years ago by Mrs. Smith. The store not only offers books or religious significance, such as those by authors Billy Graham and Dale Evans Rogers, but also has a complete line of Christian pictures, printed material, figures and teaching aids.

Popular record albums include selections by George Beverly Shea, Ernie Ford, Curt Davis and several quartets. Mrs. Smith reports that during the past year the record department has expanded tremendously and now offers almost every outstanding artist in the religious music field.

At present the Christian Book store is furnishing more than 400 churches with supplies and books. According to Mrs. Smith, this is an increase of 1000 per cent during the past five years. She added that requests for her supplies and literature are coming from all over the world. "Only recently," she said, "I filled an order for a missionary serving in South Viet Nam."

Another significant trend seen by the book store proprietor is the increased requests for Bibles during the past year. The store has complete inventory of Bibles including the King James Version, the American Standard Version and others.

Mrs. Hazel Armentrout, who has been associated with Mrs. Smith for the past 10 years, stated that religious art has also grown in popularity during the past years. Many of the pictures available are reproductions of original paintings by well-known artists.

Along with her duties at the book store, Mrs. Smith is a member of the national board of directors of the Christian Book Sellers, a world-wide organization. As a representative of the Great Lakes District, she covers the largest membership district in the world association. "My job with this organization keeps me as busy as running the store," she stated.

The outlook for this outstanding Columbus business in 1964 appears bright. With an added emphasis on Christianity in family, business and social activities, Mrs. Smith feels confident her store will continue to grow and serve the ever increasing needs of a public seeking to increase the knowledge of its faith.

Photographer To Offer Movie At Central YMCA

"Scandinavian Summer," a color motion picture of special interest, will be presented locally by Arthur Dewey, distinguished world traveler and professional cinema-photographer. Dewey will present the narration in person.

The film lecture is being presented by the Central YMCA and is the third in a series of five filmed lectures dealing with the "World Around Us."

This showing, which is open to the public, will be presented in the First Community Village Auditorium, 1800 Riverside-dr (corner of W. Fifth-av and Riverside-dr) on Wednesday, Jan. 15. The program begins at 8 p.m. Season tickets are available at Central YMCA. Individual admissions may be obtained at the First Community Village Auditorium.

15 Industries Sign Leases In Science Center

OLD HALL READIED FOR SCIENCE ERA

With sponsors secured for the major areas and 15 exhibitors who have signed three-year leases, plans for the opening tof the Center of Science and Industry in the early spring are progressing rapidly.

The center, located in the old Memorial Hall, 280 E. Broad-st, represents a dream that began with the Franklin County Historical Society's board of trustees and prominent Columbus executives in 1957.

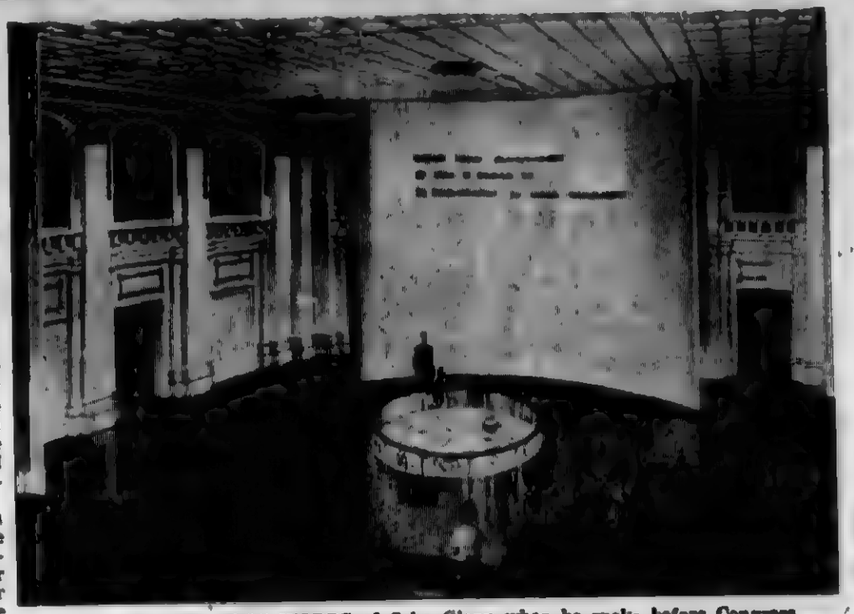
After a report was shown to county commissioners showing how the educational and cultural needs of the entire state could be met through such a center, $502,000 was allocated to the renovation of Memorial Hall and the building leased at $1 a year to the historical society.

The exhibit areas will house semi-permanent displays devoted to science, industry, health and history, and will also provide space for the traveling exhibits of such groups as the National Aeronautics and Space Administration and the Smithsonian Institution. These displays will provide new interest for frequent visitors.

Companies that have secured leases include Jeffrey Mfg. Co., Ohio Bell Telephone Co., Western Electric, North American Aviation, Columbus and Southern Electric Co., Ohio Fuel Gas, Roby and Associates, Ranco, Inc., Industrial Nucleonics, Battelle Institute, Denison Engineering, Hanna Paint Co., Franklin Glue Xerox Corp. and Standard Oil of Ohio.

An auditorium seating 225 persons located off the main lobby will show scientific, industrial and historical films on a continuous basis throughout weekends and at other times when arranged for by special groups. Lazarus is the sponsor for this facility which will also be available for the meetings of science-minded hobby groups and other organizations.

The "transparent lady," a striking plexiglass creature made in Germany and sponsored by the Columbus Junior League, will be housed in her own 100-seat auditorium. She will narrate in detail how each of her organs functions and is heralded as a unique exhibit that is not only educational but also should teach those who see her a respect for the miraculous processes of the human body. The auditorium itself is under the auspices of the Tuberculosis Society of Franklin County.



Through the Planetarium with adjacent astronomical exhibits the basic understanding of space can be gained that is a need today not only for the scientist, but also for the ordinary citizen.

Sponsored by Battelle Institute, it highlights the history of the thinking of man, from his earliest observations to the vast field of space technology as understood today.

"The Street of Yesteryear," complete with operating craftshops and a nickelodeon theatre, will recreate an Early American street. This exhibit, sponsored by Edward Durell of the Union Fork and Hoe Co., will be devoted to the period between 1840 and 1910.

The major collections of the Franklin County Historical Society will be housed on the ground floor, and the Radio Amateurs of Columbus will operate the combined radio-television studio which will include a transmitting station.

Classes for both children and adults will be set up, and according to Daniel F. Prugh, executive director of the Historical Society, the arrangements for three classes in history and science have already been made.

BEARING THE WORDS of John Glenn when he spoke before Congress after orbiting the world, the cyclorama wall in the lobby of the Center of Science and Industry was given by Miss Irene Hersch in memory of her father Gustav Hersch. Focal point of the main lobby will be the silent swinging Foucault Pendulum, suspended from the 50-foot ceiling. The 400 pound brass ball's action shows that Earth is revolving on its axis.

Columbus Man Takes Top Trucking Crown

Paul D. Goode of Columbus, crowned king of America's tandem-axle drivers at Miami Beach, is Suburban Motor Freight's first national winner in the United States Truck Safety Roadeo. But there's more — cups more!

Matching his skill, knowledge and reflexes against 92 other premier professional drivers, Goode was the 1963 winner of the Charles G. Morgan, Jr., Memorial Award, sponsored by the American Trucking Associations, in recognition of neatness, courtesy, personality, safety record and all-round performance in the classic competition. Paul also won the Electric Auto-Lite Co. award for having the best safety record of all prize winners, and the judges loaded him down with yet another trophy, the Champion of Champions Cup sponsored by the International Teamsters.

Paul was a member of the team of five Ohio champions that racked up the highest average in the U.S. Roadeo, thereby winning the State Team Trophy.

Topping all this came special recognition from Sports Illustrated. Editors of the magazine presented a trophy to Goode on Earl Flora's WBNS-TV sportscast.

Goode is 35-years-old and has 15 years of faultless driving for Suburban. He and his wife Irene have six children in their Columbus household.

Suburban Motor Freight, a pioneer national regualar common carrier, operates daily and directly through the six-state area of Indiana, Illinois, Kentucky, Ohio, Michigan and West Virginia, and provides select connecting carrier service to 41 other states, Washington, D.C., and Canada.

Main Federal Assets, Reserves Show Growth

Harold C. Esper, president of Main Federal Savings, has announced that 1963 saw a gain of $4,250,000 or close to 16 percent over 1962 in assets, bringing Main Federal's assets to near $27 million.

The institution reported that record dividend payments of $840,000 were recorded. Dividends are based on a four percent rate for the 1963 dividend payment.

Three thousand new savings accounts were opened at Main Federal, with funds totaling over $2½ million. There is a total of 13,300 savings accounts amounting to $23,500,000.

Wilbur Morrison, executive vice president, pointed out that 700 families were made home owners by Main Federal, with loans of over $14 million.

According to Esper, Main Federal's reserves now total $1,320,000, an increase of $135,000 during 1963. Esper said that "with the opening of our new Granville Road office in the early spring of 1964, we're anticipating substantial saving, loan, and reserve increases. We believe the steady growth of the north Columbus area will provide us an opportunity to be of utmost service to that area with our forthcoming Granville Road branch office."

Esper further attested that "the steady growth in home construction and family desire for existing structure home ownership will, for the most part, be maintained in 1964."

March 4, 1826, the Granite Railway Co., was granted a charter for the first railroad in the U.S. The road was used to haul stone for construction of the Bunker Hill Monument.

Landmark Sales Near $90 Million During '63

The five and one-half million bushel grain terminal at Hamilton and Groveards is only one of the facilities of the Landmark Farm Bureau Cooperative serving 78 locally owned Landmark Farm Bureau co-ops throughout Ohio.

The company, which does business from a six-story building at 245 N. High-st, under the direction of Kenneth N. Probasco, general manager and executive vice-president, has more than $25 million invested in facilities, building, offices, land, plants and equipment.

The company whose business totaled almost $90 million during 1963 acts not only as a wholesale procurement, processing, distribution and manufacturing agent, but as a grain marketing agency as well.

Among the staff members at Landmark are experts in accounting, advertising, market research, sales, agronomy, purchasing, animal science, engineering and business management.

INTENTIONS SURVEYED

A survey of consumers' buying indications indicates purchase of automobile and homes will hold level of 1963 during the new year. The report stresses that such information is useful only as a forecast.

C&SOE Schedules Plans For Continued Expansion

With the gradual increase in the economy of the nation, the service area growth of the Columbus and Southern Ohio Electric Co. requires long-range planning by the company.

One of the reasons for this steady growth, according to the utility company, is the amount of electricity consumed by each customer. Americans now have more electricity than the next five nations of the world combined. For example, the U.S. now has three and a half times as much as Russia, its closest competitor. The average American home uses twice as much electricity for lighting alone as the typical Russian home uses for all purposes.

This year the Electric Co., with budget and construction plans already scheduled for the next decade has continued its expansion of facilities with the installation of new distribution equipment, transmission lines, and the completion of the newest generating unit at its Conesville plant near Coshocton.

This latest addition at Conesville makes a total of over a million kilowatts of electric power capacity for the Columbus and Southern Ohio area. It is, however, only one phase of the company's improvement and expansion program requiring expenditures of almost $200 million during the past 10 years.

Electric utilities are increasing their network of interconnected systems groups in order to improve the reliability of their service by exchanging power in time of emergency. Owned by investor-owned electric companies, this huge grid today covers more than half the North American continent.

Almost two years ago the Columbus and Southern Ohio Electric Co. initiated a long-range study of the economy of Central and Southern Ohio and its probable growth over the next 25 years. The study is being completed by Battelle Memorial Institute and will be available in the near future. The results will provide guide-posts for use by the company and by various communities of the region for stimulating economic and cultural growth in the area.

As company officials see the future, it is in a period of sound and steady growth, and 1964 should be a firm year moving steadily toward future progress and prosperity for Central and Southern Ohio.

The world's largest breeder reactor installation, Enrico Fermi Atomic Plant, near Monroe, Mich., went into nuclear operation recently too. The plant's reactor will produce heat for the generation of electric power and, at the same time, will breed a new man-made fuel — plutonium.

The Fermi project is the joint effort of three groups representing 33 electric utilities and 15 manufacturing firms in cooperation with the U.S. Atomic Energy Commission. Columbus and Southern Ohio Electric Co. is a member of this Power Reactor Development Co.

ment. There will be a steady increase in the labor supply brought about by the vast number of young people entering the labor forces as the babies of the forties reach their maturity. Jobs must be created for them by private industry, not government.

The increases in state and local government taxes. Any boost in local government taxes will tend to offset the benefits of a lower federal tax bill.

Basically, however, the American economy is on an exceptionally sound footing. The problems facing our economy are not insurmountable.

In 1963 . . . about 4700 Western Electric employees helped make Bell telephone progress in Columbus

Yes, Jo Ann Massie, pictured above, and about 4,700 other men and women — your friends and neighbors — make Crossbar and Electronic Switching System equipment at Western Electric's Columbus Works, 6200 East Broad Street.

These telephone products, along with those manufactured in 12 other Western Electric plants across the country, are continually added to the Bell Telephone network. W.E. makes them to satisfy the ever-increasing needs of Columbus and the nation for dependable, low-cost communications services we have all come to expect.

We're proud that the high quality products we turn out, with the design and development help of Bell Laboratories, keep Ohio Bell and the other Bell telephone companies across the nation supplied with the equipment they need to serve you. We're gratified, too, that our $26 million payroll, taxes and substantial local purchases are adding to the economic welfare of this growing community.

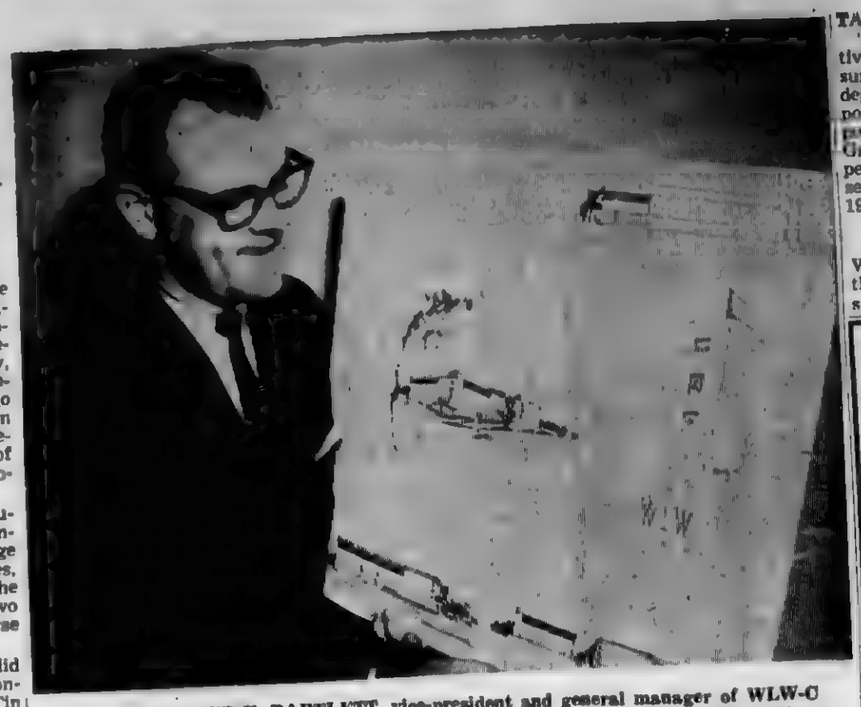
WLW-C Launches $1 Million Program To Expand Studios

'WLW-C, TV-4, Columbus' first television station, begins its 16th year in the midst of a million dollar construction program that will eventually more than triple the station's physical plant and make possible live colorcasts from its studios. As a part of this program, color film telecasting equipment is now operating and bringing the weekly color total on the channel to more than 50 hours.

In addition to the long strides in colorcasting at TV-4, the year of 1963 was quite eventful. The station increased its early evening newscasts to a full hour with "Home Edition" and "The Huntley-Brinkley Report," and introduced the only seven-days-a-week early and late evening sports, weather and newscasts in Columbus.

Election returns were telecast in color for the first time, the first TV-4 editorial was aired, Ruth Lyons topped her previous Christmas Fund for Children totals with $391,820.73, and Nancy Dawn and the Lucky Pennies joined the weeknight "Jamboree" show.



Monopoly is less a threat to press excellence than monotony. There are newspapers dropping from presses all over the U.S. that are alike as sausages . . . Barry Bingham, editor and publisher of Louisville Courier-Journal.

The "Church By the Side of the Road," the nation's oldest continuous religious program in broadcasting, celebrated its 40th anniversary, Dean Miller returned to Columbus from Hollywood to do the weekday morning "Dean Miller Show," and TV-4 telecast an extensive series of programs explaining the Columbus Blue Plan.

Jimmy Crum trekked thousands of miles to bring Central Ohio audiences coverage of the Pan American Games, OSU basketball games, the Indianapolis 500, and two special documentaries on horse racing.

The news department did specials on the governors' conference in Florida, the Tin Goose, our overweight society, the first major TV appearance of Ohio's controversial Finance Director, Richard L. Krabach, and the Upper Arlington Fourth of July Parade. The TV-4 cameras were trained on the solar eclipse from the station parking lot.

This partial record of the past year pales in comparison to the future the station envisions. The 16th year for television in Columbus will bring from TV-4 such major events as the 1964 political conventions and the presidential election, colorcasts of the 1964 Olympic Games from Japan, World Series Baseball in color, OSU basketball games, Cincinnati Redlegs baseball, colorcasts of the NCAA football games from college gridirons, the Emmy Awards, still unforseen major news events, and of course, more and more local color programs.

WALTER E. BARTLETT, vice-president and general manager of WLW-C TV-4, inspects the architects' conception of the studios when the million dollar expansion program is completed.

Reliance Finance Expands Into Second Location

Late in 1962 Reliance Finance Co. visualized a need for a second Columbus location on the East Side. Plans were made to go into the new Hamilton Shopping Center and in Aug. 1963, the new office was opened under the stewardship of Mr. Bob Collins.

This office serves the Whitehall area and is also easily accessible to residents of Groveport, Lockbourne, Canal Winchester, Lithopolis, Obetz, Ashville and surrounding territory, plus the South Side of Columbus.

In addition to the new office, the West Side location at 587 Wedgewood-dr, in Westgate Shopping Center, is managed by Charles DePoy. W. J. Billiar is general manager of the company.

Buckeye Federal S&L Will Open Two New Branches

Buckeye Federal Savings and Loan Association, during 1963, experienced one of the most successful years in the association's 69-year history, according to William S. Guthrie, president.

During the past year Buckeye Federal, Guthrie said, continued to show high gains in both savings deposits and home loans. Buckeye's assets increased during the year by $10,295,946 to a new all-time high total of $103,385,823.

Net gains in savings accounts mounted to $9,256,133, increasing total savings to a new high total of $89,520,417. Net gains in loans amounted to $10,680,143, raising total loans to a new high total of $89,650,561, Guthrie said.

In 1963, Buckeye Federal continued its expansion and improvement program, and added three new branch offices. These offices are located in the downtown area at 43 E. Long-st, in North Arlington at 4455 Kenny-rd and on the East Side at 4380 Livingston-av.

Additional new branch buildings planned for 1964, include one to be located at Parsons and Olpp-avs, and one in the Great Western Shoppers Mart. Both of these offices will be opened next summer.

Effective the first of this year, the Home Savings Company offices in Gahanna and Westerville combined with Buckeye Federal, and this acquisition raises Buckeye Federal's total assets to nearly $118 million.

In summarizing Buckeye Federal's expansion, Guthrie stated: "This growth pattern is one which is commensurate with Buckeye's size and the strength of our association. It reaches our present customers in strategically located new offices, but also enables us to reach new people to keep pace with the growing Central Ohio area."

TAXES AFFECT ECONOMY

The extent of economic activity, employment and consumer incomes is expected to depend upon approval of proposed cut in personal and corporate taxes. With taxes cut, Gross National Product is expected to hit $625 million, a seven percent increase over 1963.

WHAT MAKES A SAVINGS AND LOAN GROW?

It grows through trust and faith, through a reputation for fair and friendly business dealings . . . and a sincere interest in the people who trust it with their savings.

It grows through service: through a save-by-mail plan that turns any mailbox into a teller's window; through the convenience of free parking right at the door; through easy-save accounts that help sort dreams into realities; through a carefully thought-out plan for college savings individually calculated for your child's age and school choice.

It grows through people. People with money to invest; people who need to borrow. What made Franklin Federal grow? You did. This is why seventy-four years after our founding, we welcome some 25,000 customers at Franklin Federal . . . downtown at Main and High, and at the new Franklin Federal East, opened just this past July at 3870 East Livingston Avenue.

Huntington To Expand Computor Service, Open Two New Offices

Completion of two new banking offices, further advances in electronic bookkeeping and "topping out" for the 12-story Huntington West office building were among 1964 plans announced today by Clair E. Fultz, president of Huntington National Bank.

"Our growth was greater in 1963 than in any previous year of our 98-year history," Fultz said. "All of us are dedicated to making 1964 even better through expanded and improved services to the families and businesses of Central Ohio."

Work is under way on the two new offices, and both should be open by mid-summer. The Henderson Road office, on N. High-st, will be the 12th Huntington banking office. In Canal Winchester, a new, modern office with drive-in windows is being built to replace the present Canal Winchester office.

At Broad and Front-sts, "underground" work has been under way for several months on the multi-story Huntington West. Tunnels connecting the new building with the bank's main office building, at 17 S. High-st, are near completion and foundation work is proceeding for the new building. The new structure, which will include an underground parking garage and drive-in banking windows, is scheduled for occupancy in February, 1965.

"Many of our checking account customers now are receiving completely automatic statements, and, by sometime next year, all accounts will be processed electronically," Fultz said.

"All deposits and withdrawals will be processed through our Burroughs computer system," he explained, "and all statements will be printed by the computer."

"The growing use of checks has piled up such a mountain of paper work that our men and women need help," Fultz said. "For example, the number of items processed here daily, laid end to end, would reach to West Jefferson.

"Our Burroughs system has been programmed for more and more work since installation of the first unit in September, 1962. Now, by 'reading' the little characters encoded with magnetic ink, it can process more than 1,500 items every minute.

"This relieves our men and women of much tedious bookkeeping detail and allows them to devote more time to personal service for our customer.

"We are all pleased with the way electronics is helping us better to serve our customers. And we expect to take even greater steps during 1964 to make our facilities and services available to the families of Franklin County."

Clair Fultz

"A lot of men who complain about the stupidity of their boss would be out of a job if he were any smarter."

Telephone Building And Equipment Are Saved By Kinnear Fire Doors

In these days of increased public concern over potential dangers posed by fire and explosion, it is significant that a Columbus firm, the Kinnear Manufacturing Co., 1191 Fields-av, is the designer and producer of automatically-closing fire doors and shutters that really pay off in a fire emergency.

For example, on Christmas morning, 1962, a fire and explosion rocked a six-story building occupied by a beauticians' supply company in a downtown section of Springfield, Mass. The holocaust sent flames and smoke billowing through the structure causing a half-million dollar loss. The three-alarm fire raged for two hours in sub-freezing temperatures before being brought under control.

Meanwhile, across a narrow alley, in the New England Telephone and Telegraph Building, over 60 individual windows were safely covered by Kinnear "Akbar" rolling fire shutters that lowered themselves automatically, by special heat-sensing mechanisms, within minutes after the fire gained headway.

The presence of fire shutters not only prevented damage to millions of dollars worth of sensitive electronic equipment in the telephone building, but permitted business as usual the following day. Only the slight odor of smoke revealed the fact that a disastrous fire had occurred nearby.

Veteran firemen were loud in their praise of the phone company's fire shutters which virtually shut the flames out of the building.

What Kinnear "Akbar" fire doors do in all such cases is to block draft and thus prevent the spread of fire, either within a building or from sources close outside, as in the case of the fire in Springfield, Mass.

These nationally known doors can be installed in all types of buildings, old and new alike. They are provided with automatic closures, but can be arranged for manual, chain hoist, or crankshaft operation for service door use.

Kinnear "Akbar" doors carry the label of Underwriters Laboratories. They serve to reduce fire insurance premiums, in addition to protecting life and property from fire.

Since Kinnear first pioneered the interlocking metal slat curtain principle over 60 years ago, the Columbus company has manufactured an ever-broadening line of rolling doors, grilles and shutters for a wide variety of uses.

Some of these applications are: service doors, fire doors, counter shutters and special enclosures and rolling security grilles in interior, as well as exterior openings. The types of buildings using popular Kinnear doors include industrial plants, warehouses, office buildings, schools, hospitals, department stores, hotels — virtually all kinds of commercial, industrial and institutional buildings.

The basic advantage of the rolling door idea, as applied by Kinnear, is the space-saving feature. While opening and standing open, the interlocking slat door coils overhead into a compact housing, freeing valuable doorway, entrance and storage space for productive use.

The Kinnear Manufacturing Co. not only provides a complete line of functional rolling doors, but offers also a complete door service, including specialized door engineering and installation. Every Kinnear door is registered, with complete design and installation drawings on permanent file to assure availability of parts for many years.

Some idea of the operational scope of this long-established Columbus firm is obtained from the fact that Kinnear plants are producing steadily in Columbus, San Francisco and Toronto. Kinnear offices and agents operate in principal U.S. cities.

New Buildings Constructed To Meet City School Needs

usual architecture of Calumet Elementary; contemporary architecture and landscaping of the Administration Building, and landscaping and general site planning of Whetstone Senior High School.

The Board of Education radio station WCBE-FM now beams out 32 hours of programs a week. In 1956, the station was on the air only five hours a week.

JUNE

Contacts for construction of Monroe Junior High School were awarded.

JULY

The Board of Education announced three types of diplomas will be awarded to graduates: The Diploma of Graduation with Distinction, a Diploma of Graduation, and a Diploma of Completion.

The proposed 1964 budget for Columbus Public Schools was set at $38,029,280, an increase of $2,571,790.30 over 1963. The largest increase was in the area providing directly for the instructional program.

AUGUST

The Columbus Public Schools, in conjunction with the Columbus State Hospital, launched a program for emotionally disturbed children. William A. Jenkinson was employed as first principal of the school.

One-hundred television receivers plus language laboratories for Clinton, Dominion, Johnson Park and Westmoor Junior High schools were approved by the Board of Education.

The City of Columbus obtained the Eighth Avenue School site for use as a fire station in exchange for cash and real estate in a location that can be used for school purposes.

Rutgers University notified the Board of Education that "Study Guide for Neighborhood Seminars" was awarded a citation for outstanding achievement in the budget and financial catagory of the Third Annual School Public Relations contest.

SEPTEMBER

Approximately 65,000 Columbus Public School children received at least one newly adopted textbook when school started. Nearly 20,000 new books were purchased to replace worn-outs.

Eight school dedications were announced. To be dedicated September were Eastmoor Junior High, Brookhaven High and Kenwood Elementary. During October, Alum Crest, Brentnell, Salem and Forest Park elemcntaries, and McGuffy Elementary-Junior High were dedicated.

City Attorney John Young notified the Board of Education that it does not need to rescind or modify its policy of prayer in the schools. In September of 1962, the Board of Education passed a resolution which "supported and encouraged" the instructional staff to continue to make use of prayer which is proper, fitting and appropriate to the occasion.

"Lesson of Love," a film documentary on the education of blind children in Columbus Public Schools, was named a national winner in film competition in New York City. The program was prepared by WBNS-TV in cooperation with the Department of Special Education.

OCTOBER

Four Columbus teachers were selected by Freedoms Foundation to receive Valley Forge Classroom Teachers' Medals. Honored were: Mrs. Margaret H. Holmes, Clinton Elementary; Miss Isabelle H. Wallace, Barrett Junior High; Mrs. Helen M. Hord, Franklin Junior High and Miss Pauline Jones, South High School.

Superintendent Eibling announced six committees will conducted follow-up studies on recommendations made by citizens at the spring Neighborhood Seminars. The committees are to report findings no later than June, 1964.

Only one of six teachers interviewed is hired by the Columbus Public School System, I. F. Young, assistant superintendent in charge of teacher personnel, announced.

Over 61,000 citizens attended open houses held in the 141 Columbus Public Schools, according to C. L. Dumaree, assistant superintendent in charge of administration.

Contracts for construction of Maybury Elementary School were awarded.

NOVEMBER

Columbus citizens passed by a 69.2 percent vote a 15-mill school renewal levy. The overwhelming support of the levy was the largest favorable vote for an operating levy since 1954. Not since 1939 have Columbus citizens rejected a Columbus school money issue.

Paul R. Langdon, president of the Board of Education, led a field of 10 candidates vying for four seats on the board. Donald Calhoun, (r) was also returned to the board. New members were Mrs. Chester H. Jones, housewife, and Robert A. Ramsey, a lawyer. They will replace senior members Daniel W. DeHayes and Homer Trantham. DeHayes has been a member of the Board of Education since 1953 and Trantham since 1951. Neither sought re-election.

The Board of Education made a matter of record the occupancy of six new buildings: Brookhaven High School on Jan. 28, Buckeye Junior and Eastmoor Junior High schools and Moler and Valley Forge elementaries on Sept. 4, and Devonshire Elementary on Oct. 7.

DECEMBER

Peak enrollment in the Columbus Public Schools hit 98,439 during the fall. The enrollment figure is an increase of 4,773 pupils since 1962.

Twenty-seven projects will be undertaken in the 1964 Columbus Public School building program. Funds are earmarked for: five new schools, six additions, six remodeling, two site expansions and eight new sites. The expansion program will enable the schools to house a 4,500 pupil increase during the coming year. Funds for the 1964 building program are the last of a $29,850,000 bond issue which Columbus voters approved in 1959 to finance a five-year building program.

The number of teachers in the Columbus Public Schools rose to 3,690, an increase of 330 since 1962. The 9.8 per cent increase includes additional teachers, resource teachers, visiting teachers and administrators.

Citizens Research Had Eye On Local Government In 1963

By EDMOND M. LOEWE,
Executive Director
Citizens Research, Inc.

Keeping a watchful eye on local government should be the task of every taxpaper and voter in our community. Helping conscientious citizens to carry out this task is the job of Citizens Research, Inc., which has been serving the people and public officials in Franklin County in this capacity since 1938.

Citizens Research is an independent, non-political, fact-finding organization devoted to efficiency in local government. C-R's two main function are (1) to assist public officials in improving the operation of government, and (2) to keep the public informed about local public affairs.

During 1963, the efforts of Citizens Research were highlighted by the following reports and surveys:

In early 1963, at the request of the Development Committee for Greater Columbus, Citizens Research surveyed the park and recreation functions of the City of Columbus. The final report, published in April recommended consolidation of all park, zoo, and recreation functions into one new department, and the transfer of the reservoir park activities from the Water Division to the Parks and Forestry Division. The consolidation recommendation would require a City Charter amendment, but the transfer of the reservoir park functions was approved by City Council and carried out in Aug. 11, 1963.

To help local citizens better understand our county government, a Citizens Handbook on Franklin County was published in conjunction with the Columbus Jr. Chamber of Commerce in June. The Columbus schools were presented 250 copies of the handbook for civics and social study classroom use. About 400 additional copies went to interested citizens, public officials and libraries.

Property Tax Rates

A May report revealed that the Columbus property tax rate for 1963 of 32 mills (or $32 per $1,000 of assessed valuation) ranked sixth among the eight largest cities in Ohio. Akron's rate was highest with 42.40 mills, and Canton, the lowest among the "Big Eight" at 29.70 mills.

City Improvements

At the end of each year, Citizens Research reviews the efforts of the City of Columbus in carrying out its construction and improvement projects as outlined in its annual Capital Budget. In its January, 1963 report, C-R listed the 67 projects (appropriating over $13,700,000 in city funds) which were initiated in 1962, as well as the 21 projects (whose estimated costs were $5,931,000) which failed to get off the ground in that year. C-R's analysis of the city's 1963 efforts will be released in January, 1964.

School Budget

The Columbus School Board's request budget of over $38,000,000 was approved in July, 1963. A C-R report on the budget indicated that: (1) this 2.5 million increase over 1963 appropriations would not require a property tax rate increase, in 1964, (2) a 15-mill voted property tax levy due to expire on Dec. 31, 1964 would probably be up for renewal on Nov. 5, 1963 (it was on the ballot and was approved), and (3) there was a good possibility that a tax increase for operating purposes in 1965 and 1966 as well as 1964 could be avoided.

Housing Rehabilitation

C-R's final 1963 report focused attention on the problem housing areas in Columbus. To increase and improve the present efforts in this direction, Citizens Research recommended: (1) preparation of a master plan for urban renewal by the city, (2) creation of a mayor-appointed Citizens Advisory Committee for Urban Renewal, and (3) scheduling of additional city projects to conserve existing deteriorating housing areas, in some cases without the use of federal supporting funds.

All C-R reports, newsletters, and educational materials are available to interested citizens upon request to the Citizens Research staff office, 50 E. Broad-st, Columbus, O.

DISASTER AREAS DECLARED

Drought brings emergency disaster designation to 18 Ohio counties. Corn necessary to maintain basic breeding herds in good health will be made available to owners at 75 percent of the applicable county support rate.

Marble Cliff Completes 50 Years

Marble Cliff Quarries has just completed 50 years of operation in this area in quarrying high quality stone from limestone deposits northwest of Columbus.

The firm's operations, however, represent less than half the period during which stone has been removed commercially from pits at the site.

The first was removed by hand sometime prior to 1850. It is known that Marble Cliff stone was used in the State House, erected in 1851.

Quarrying operations around 1889 were conducted by Phelps & Taylor. Companies working the pits there during early part of the century included Scioto Stone Co., Woodruff & Pausch Stone Co., Columbus Stone Co., Casparis Stone Co., and Keever Stone Co.

In 1913, John W. Kaufman founded the Marble Cliff Quarries Co., which consolidated the various operations into a progressive, well organized enterprise.

As new uses were discovered for the high grade limestone deposited there, the company produced and marketed fluxing stone and lime for metallurgical purposes, burned and hydrated lime for chemical processes and building purposes, agricultural limestone, ready mixed concrete, asphaltic concrete, railroad ballast, road stone, and similar aggregates.

Marble Cliff's investment in plant, equipment and more than 1200 acres of land represents expenditures of more than $9 million.

The various plants and equipment use more than $400,000 worth of gas and electric power annually, as well as more than $100,000 worth of fuel and diesel oil, and $75,000 worth of coal.

Employment averages around 400, with a payroll in excess of $3 million.

The company became a "good neighbor" to the Tri-Village communities by reducing dynamite charges from 4,000 pounds to a maximum of 500 pounds per shot.

Use of seismograph recording devices permits close control of blasting operations, and prevents damage to adjacent property.

Dust previously discharged from dryers, kiln and crushing plants has been very substantially reduced through operation of dust control devices.

In addition to the quarry, Marble Cliff operates the Arrow Sand & Gravel Co., a small limestone mine and lime plant at Lewisburg, O., and the most recently acquired Black River Stone Division in Kentucky.

In 1960, Marble Cliff took options on approximately 3000 acres along the Ohio River, 30 miles upstream from Cincinnati. A shaft has been dug and test stone delivered to the steel mills.

NA Reports Five Areas Of Progress

In North American Aviation's 1963 annual report, new records were marked on several fronts—sales, earnings, employment, facilities and product diversification.

Sales and other income, reported on a consolidated basis for the fiscal year ended Sept. 30, amounted to $1,868,657,000 with net income at $41,196,000—both figures representing all-time highs for the company. It was the third consecutive year for record sales and the fifth year in seven that the figure has exceeded $1 billion. Net earnings per share, setting a new company record, were $4.91 on the average number of shares outstanding.

The report noted that while aircraft work accounted for about one-fifth of the output, non-aircraft sales totaled more than $1 billion for the second straight year. Space and atomic energy work accounted for an increasing segment of the firm's business, it was pointed out.

North American disclosed that it is now engaged in a larger number and wider diversity of programs than at any time in its history. And, according to President J. L. Atwood, "We anticipate high levels of activity to continue in the future."

WORKMEN MAKE READY to lay more pipe in this scene typical of the gas company's 1963 construction program. Improvements and expansion of natural gas service by the firm during the past year brought about an expenditure of some $2,478,000 in the Greater Columbus area.

NAME CHANGES JAN. 1

Gas Company Invests $2½ Million To Expand, Improve Local Service

More than $2,478,000 was invested by the gas company in the Greater Columbus area in 1963 for pipeline additions and replacements to help meet increasing demands for gas.

Elden H. Davis, Central District manager for Columbia Gas of Ohio, Inc., said these and other improvements in Columbus and Franklin County during the year were important in the delivery of more than 53½ billion cubic feet of natural gas to more than 203,700 customers in the county.

New Pipelines Built

The gas company built 107 miles of new pipelines to extend natural gas service to more than 6,800 new customers and expand and improve service to existing customers in Franklin County during the year, Davis said.

Over-all, $27½ million was invested in new construction by the gas company during the year, Davis said, and more than 570 miles of new pipelines were laid as part of the company's continuing program to provide the best possible service to its more than 850,000 customers in 56 Ohio counties.

Major projects completed in Franklin County in 1963 include:

• Construction of three miles of new pipeline along Beech Hill and Indianola-avs to improve service in North Columbus, cost $238,200.

• Replacement of three-fourths mile of pipeline on Ridgeview-av, cost $127,000.

• Construction of four miles of new pipeline along Rt. 23 to serve Green Meadows Country Inn, cost $97,800.

• Construction of one and one-fourth miles of new pipeline along State Rts. 161 and 3 to serve Huber Ridge Subdivision, cost $52,300.

• Replacement of one-half mile of pipeline along Hamlet-st, cost $50,000.

• Relocation of one-fourth mile of pipeline along E. Main-st to make way for North-South Freeway, cost $47,200.

• Construction of two miles of new pipeline along Woodcrest and Noe-Bixby-rds to serve Walnut Bluff Subdivision, cost $42,200.

The gas company and its parent corporation, the Columbia Gas System, Inc., are engaged in a constant search for more efficient methods of operation, Davis said.

Transfer Effected

A major step in this program, he pointed out, was taken with the transfer of Ohio Fuel Gas Co. Distribution Department properties to the new company, Columbia Gas of Ohio, Inc., on Jan. 1.

This means that Columbia Gas of Ohio now serves Ohio Fuel's former retail customers in Columbus and 47% other Ohio communities with natural gas, while Ohio Fuel continues to operate its transmission, production and underground storage facilities and continues sales to its wholesale customers.

Only Name Changed

"The only change for our customers is in the name of the company serving them, from Ohio Fuel to Columbia Gas of Ohio, Inc.," Davis said. "Our offices are at the same places and the same people are in the same jobs," he emphasized.

The separation of the distribution department into Columbia of Ohio is part of the over-all corporate simplification program of the Columbia Gas System begun in 1955, Davis said. Eventually it is planned to have one Columbia company in transmission and production, serving a Columbia distribution company in each of seven states.

Simplifies Regulation

"The significance of this change is that it will simplify the regulatory processes and reduce work which they entail. When the simplification program is completed, it will result in savings of substantial man-hours and dollars to both our company and the regulatory agencies — all to the benefit of our customers," Davis declared.

The gas company also continued to expand its underground storage facilities in 1963, with 40 new storage wells completed in 10 existing underground storage areas, Davis said. This underground storage program, developed over the years at a cost of more than $69 million, makes it possible for the gas company to meet the tremendous winter heating needs of its customers at rates that are among the lowest in the nation.

Record Volume Stored

At the beginning of the current winter heating season, Ohio Fuel had a record volume of more than 217 billion cubic feet of gas in underground storage, Davis said.

As Columbia Gas of Ohio, Inc., the gas company will continue to utilize the newest scientific devices and engineering techniques as they are developed, to bring the advantages of modern gas service to its customers in the year ahead, Davis said.

"It is because of this continued program of research and technological advancement — coupled with underground storage — that the gas company is able to provide the comfort, convenience and economy of natural gas heating to almost 96 percent of its customers in the Greater Columbus area," Davis pointed out.

Jerry Spears Co. Now In 36th Year Of Area Service

The Jerry Spears Co., 2693 W. Broad-st, is observing 36 years of service to Columbus area residents by calling attention to four "firsts" which the organization has accomplished at ith modern Hilltop chapel.

The company was the first in the Hilltop area with exclusive ambulance service, complete with inhalator and air conditioning; the first on the Hilltop with elevator service to casket and apparel display rooms and conference room; the first on the Hilltop with a fully air-conditioned funeral chapel and parlors and the first on the Hilltop to offer a pre-arranged service.

Both Jerry Spears and Jerry Spears, Jr., have restated their long-honored policy to aid the family in making arrangements to suit preferences and price range, using no pressure; to provide pre-arranged service only when the family desires; to participate and give full support to all civic projects and activities which contribute to community betterment; to provide ambulance service as well as funeral direction; and to refrain from all commercial methods or policies which might be construed as pressure tactics.

PREDICT LOWER EGG PRICES

Farm egg prices are expected to be about two cents a dozen lower during the first half of 1964 than in the like 1963 period. Egg-type chicks hatched in U.S. for the first 11 months of 1963 were one percent above same 1962 period.

Local Concrete Industry Aids Area Prosperity

Of the record-breaking total construction dollars spent in the Columbus metroplitan area in 1963, a greater percentage of those dollars has contributed directly to local business prosperity than ever before.

According to the Portland Cement Association, this healthy situation can be attributed to two things:

(1) A continued growth in the concrete industry's share of total construction volume.

(2) The fact that concrete construction calls for more locally produced materials and more local labor than any other type of construction.

A study made last summer in Cincinnati, and based on local business statistics for the year 1962 in that city, showed that locally hired labor and services and locally produced materials and equipment accounted for 62 percent of the cost of concrete pavements or other flat concrete surfaces; 68 percent of the cost of concrete in formed shapes or in precast products, and 82 percent of the cost of concrete masonry construction. Similar percentages would prevail in the central Ohio construction market, the local association pointed out.

Record volumes were reached in 1963 in the central Ohio production of ready-mixed concrete, concrete masonry units, prestressed concrete structural members, concrete pipe and miscellaneous precast concrete products.

Besides the industries engaged in the maunfacture and distribution of concrete products, several large pits and quarries operate in and near Columbus. These produce sand, gravel and limestone which are used as aggregates for making concrete. In addition, several large cement plants are located within two or three hours' haul.

The Columbus area also serves as the base of operations for a number of leading contracting firms specializing in concrete paving and in the erection of concrete buildings. Specialists skilled in concrete construction also are to be found among the many architects, structural engineers and consultants who engage in professional practice in this locality. In addition, the Portland Cement Association, a service organization which the cement industry supports in order to provide technical assistance to users of cement, and concrete, has its Ohio-West Virginia district office here at 50 W. Broad-st.

In 1963 the American Concrete Institute published a new building code that serves nationally as a guide for local code regulations. The new code carries a number of provisions that will require changes in the methods used for designing concrete structures. Between late February and early May, 1964, many engineering colleges and professional societies in major cities will be sponsoring seminars at which Portland Cement Assocation staff engineers will explain the new ACI code regulations to engineers and architects. In Ohio such sessions are being arranged in Cincinnati, Cleveland, Columbus, Dayton and Toledo.

Ramon Scruggs Will Speak To Columbus Urban League

A public relations manager for American Telephone and Telegraph Co., Ramon S. Scruggs will be the principal speaker for the 46th annual dinner meeting of the Columbus Urban League, Tuesday, Jan. 14, 6:30 p.m. at the Southern Hotel.

Announcement of annual meeting arrangements was made this week by Robert Lazarus, Jr., president, and Chester H. Jones, executive director, of the Columbus Urban League.

Scruggs, who is with the headquarters organization of the Bell Telephone System in New York City, is treasurer of the National Urban League. A native of Nashville, Tenn., he is a Fisk University graduate and participated in early efforts to study the Negro market.

In 1939, Scruggs became the first Negro white collar worker with Michigan Bell when he became commercial agent there. During his tenure with Michigan Bell, he was branch office manager, public relations staff supervisor and customer relations manager.

In Detroit community activities, he has been associated with United Community Services, Michigan United Fund, Citizens Advisory Committee on Equal Educational Opportunities of Detroit Board of Education, Mental Health Society and the Urban League.

Ramon S. Scruggs

He was also a member of Pioneers Club, Detroit Board of Commerce and Detroit Economic Club.

Reservations for the dinner may be made by calling the Urban League at CL. 8-9529.

Local Flood Protection Program In High Gear

By FRANK RYAN

The three "Big C's" of water management — control, conservation and consumption are the business of the Scioto Conservancy District. The district, created in May of 1961, is working against time, yet does not know when "H" hour will arrive.

Richard E. Midden, conservancy district secretary-treasurer, capsuled one of the prime concerns by of the SCD by saying: "We know there will be another flood, but we don't know when."

It is the job of those engaged in SCD work to see that future floods do not wreck the havoc of the devastating floods of 1913 and 1959. But there is more to the district's purpose than flood control, and there is more area involved than Columbus proper.

The Scioto Conservancy District serves a five-county area including Franklin, Pickaway, Ross, Pike and Scioto counties. In addition to flood control projects, the district is concerned with water supply, stream pollution and recreation.

The story of the district in its first two and one-half years is one of progress and cooperation. It is a story of careful, yet flexible, planning and of balancing plans with action.

Five Judges Direct

The district is headed by a conservancy court comprised of one judge from each of the courts of common pleas in the five counties. Judge Kenneth L. Sater, Franklin County Common Pleas Court, is presiding judge. The Columbus-based SCD staff also works under the direction of a three-member board of trustees and a three-member board of appraisers. The local staff includes a chief engineer and an assistant, legal counsel and a secretary-treasurer and an assistant.

The present district was formed following dissolution of the Sandusky-Scioto Conservancy District. The first major test was to organize a staff and define a plan of action. In furtherance of both objectives an early decision was made to rely on consultant engineers instead of employing a staff of engineers within the SCD. This saved valuable time that would otherwise have been spent in orienting staff engineers with the various engineering problems to be overcome.

The Columbus firm of Burgess and Niple was engaged to work under the direction of the district's chief engineer, Harry H. Turner, Jr. By employing the consultants, the SCD staff benefited from having an organized staff of engineers who were already familiar with many of the problems to be met.

Staff members also avoided much duplication of effort that many times is evident in the process of re-organization. Other conservancy districts throughout the state were visited. Meetings were also scheduled with representatives of the Army Corps of Engineers, who had compiled a Scioto River Basin Report.

The district received its original financial support from the release of $253,954 from assets of the dissolved Sandusky-Scioto Conservancy District. The sum represented monies due the five counties that comprised the newly formed Scioto District.

After its first six months of operation, the SCD was not only basically staffed, but the consultant engineer had completed 25 percent of the work on the official plan to be followed. By June, 1962, the consultant had completed engineering studies for the projects needed to meet the needs of the district for proper water management.

Flood Control Goals High

The projects were designed in anticipation of flood conditions 20 percent greater than the March, 1913, flood, the most severe to strike the area. The theoretical flood condition places the rain center at Bellepoint, just south of the most northerly proposed dam and reservoir project. In all, the official plan calls for construction of seven dam and reservoir projects and the modification of existing Hoover Dam and reservoir. A portion of the plan already completed includes channel improvement and local protection projects within Columbus.

The SCD plan calls for dam and reservoir projects at Bellepoint, Mill Creek, Alum Creek, Upper Darby Creek, Lower Darby Creek, Deer Creek and Rarden Creek, and modification of Hoover Dam and reservoir.

The City of Columbus completed during 1963 improvement of the Scioto River channel between Greenlawn-av and the Columbus sewage treatment plant. The 2.8-mile project included removal of trees, debris, islands and gravel bars along the bottom and sides of the river channel, removal of an intrusive levee extending downstream from the east end of the Frank-rd bridge, modification of an existing levee to form a new east (left) bank of the river, and placement of slope protection at a bend near the south limits of the project on the west (right) bank.

Two local protection projects were also completed by Columbus during the past year. The existing levee along Dry Run in the State Hospital grounds was raised and strengthened, and the levee along the east bank of the Scioto River southeast of Fifth-av was extended.

Columbus Spearheads Funds

Columbus has played a significant role in advancement of SCD planning. In September, 1962, the city purchased a two-year note for $950,000 from the District, thus enabling the District to assure financing of studies determining cost-benefit factors for the areas affected by proposed projects.

This study includes appraisal of more than 13,000 parcels of land within the 231 square miles of benefited area. The cost of the various projects is to be assessed in proportion to benefits received.

Cooperation by the city of Columbus also pushed closer to reality two specific projects — the Mill Creek and Alum Creek dam and reservoir plans. The District was faced with the need for financing of construction plans. Columbus officials solved this by naming the District to do the necessary planning. The District, in turn, hired Burgess and Niple to prepare construction plans. When the projects are ready for construction — late this year or early in 1965 — the District will purchase the plans from the city at cost and proceed to let contracts for construction.

Army Has Four Projects

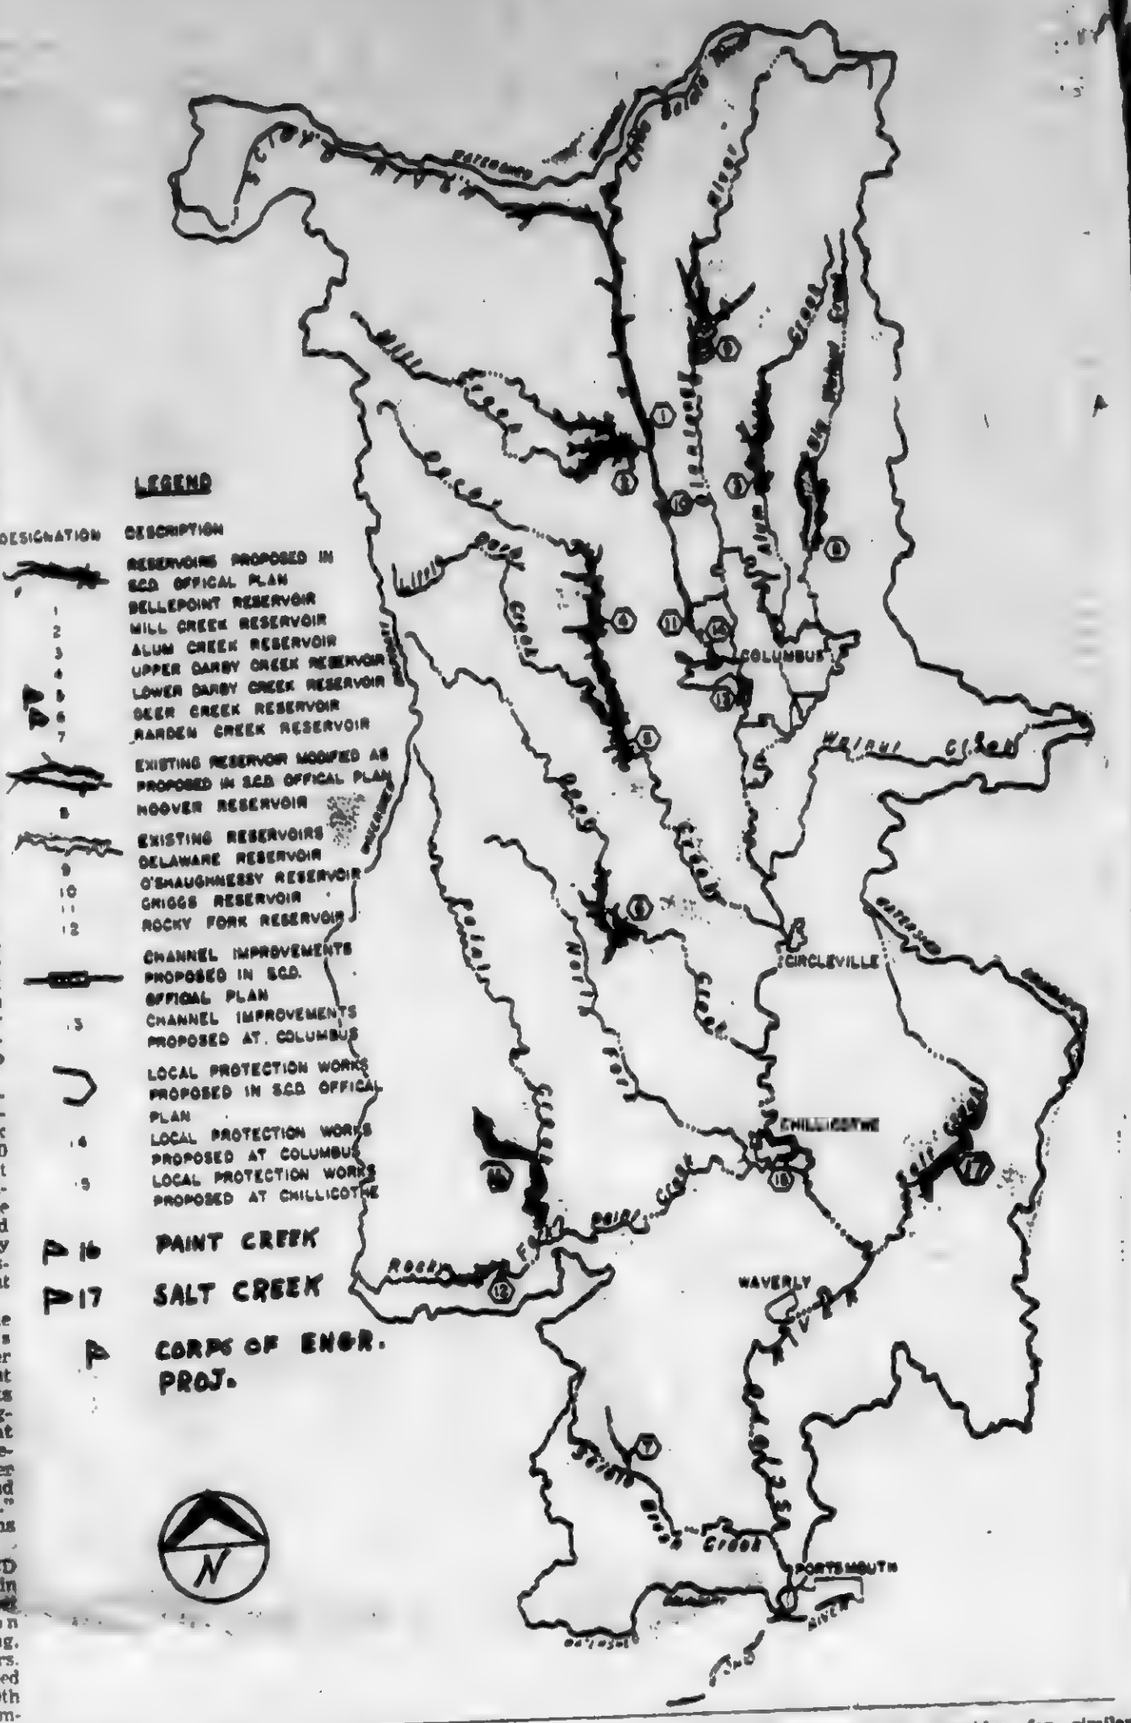
The Army Corps of Engineers and Federal Aid figure prominently in four additional projects that are in the construction plans stage. These include the Lower Darby Creek and Deer Creek projects. It is expected that engineer construction plans will be completed in 1964. It is also anticipated that Congress will be asked this spring to authorize construction funds for the projects.

The Corps of Engineers is also working on two other SCD-proposed dam and reservoir projects—at Paint Creek and Salt Creek. Federal funds now have been authorized for construction plans for the Paint Creek project. Completion of these plans is expected in 1965. While Congress has approved the proposed Salt Creek work, there has been no allocation of funds. Congress will be asked to approve construction plan money this year.

Projects Multi-Purpose

Most of the proposed dam and reservoir projects are planned as multi-purpose facilities. The District is cooperating with state agencies in areas where proposed projects can be integrated with plans for recreation areas.

The Department of Natural Resources has studied potential recreation values at the various dam and reservoir sites in the Columbus area. It is thought that the Alum Creek site is best for water recreation because of its terrain, nearness to Central Ohio communities and highways.



The Natural Resources report estimated that proper development of the Alum Creek facility would draw 2,000,000 visitors annually — making it the greatest recreation potential in the state. The state agency has been granted $1,600,000 from the recently passed $250 million bond issue for eventual development of the area.

Most common uses for the District's various facilities will be for flood control, water supply and conservation. But at least four of the projects will provide for "low flow augmentation." This means that water will be stored for release during the summer months when creeks and streams are at "low flow." This reduces the problems of pollution.

The total plan of the SCD is geared towards balance in water supply; enough to meet supply and conservation needs, yet prevent cascading, uncontrolled flood waters. Ohio has apparently survived the worst drought of the 20th century. It has served to emphasize the growing need for adequate water.

Central Ohio has known the devastation of flood waters, but we know, too, that such destruction can be prevented. The task of the Scioto Conservancy District is to beat the "flood clock" and the "drought clock."

Substantial progress has been made, but SCD Secretary Midden tempers his enthusiasm for past successes by looking to the ultimate goal. "We will claim no accomplishment," he says, "until people are protected."

Spring Conservation Requests Should Be Filed With ACP Now

Farmers who have been considering soil and water-conservation practices to be established on their farms with Agricultural Conservation Program cooperation next spring and summer should file their requests for program assistance as soon as possible, Owen VanSchoyck, chairman, Franklin Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation County Committee, has suggested. The 1964 ACP was drawn up several months ago, and applications are being accepted at the ASCS County Office.

The chairman explained that the sooner the application is filed, the easier it will be to obtain approval of the practice and take care of other program details before the work is begun.

Under the 1964 program, cost-share program assistance averages about half the cost of carrying out such conservation practices as establishing and improving vegetative cover of grasses, legumes, or trees for soil protection: installing erosion-control structures; and practices for the conservation or more efficient use of water.

In addition, the 1964 program provides for similar cost-share assistance to farmers in developing soil and water-conservation practices primarily for the benefit of wildlife. These include the establishment of wildlife food plots or habitat, ponds and shallow water areas, and other practices which provide important wildlife conservation benefits.

Trade Classes Offered At Central High

Ten adult vocational trade classes will be offered at Central High School during the spring.

Registration will be held on Wednesday, Jan. 15, in Room 1 of Central High from 7 to 8 p.m. Classes will begin the week of Jan. 20.

Classes offered are: Arc Welding, Electric Motor Repair and Rewinding, Electronics, Hydraulics, Machine Shop, Metallurgy, Oxy-Acetylene Welding, Refrigeration Theory, Tig Welding (Heliarc), and Tool Design.

Further information can be obtained by calling the Department of Industrial Education, 228-3821, Ext. 285.

American naval forces defeated the Japanese in the Battle of the Bismarck Sea Mar. 4, 1943, during World War II.

Local State Offices To Use Faster Telephone Service

Virtually all State of Ohio departments and offices in Columbus will get new streamlined telephone service—called Centrex—starting Saturday, Jan. 11.

At that time, the state's new telephone number will become 496-2000 and some 3,700 state employes will begin using new four-digit extension numbers that have already been assigned.

Connected with the Centrex system will be all state office telephones in Columbus served through the CApital 1-1265 number and several other departments with different phone numbers.

WHEAT CROP DOWN

Although winter wheat acreage for 1964 estimated at 2.3 percent over 1963 for nation, Ohio plantings down two percent. Texas showed the greatest increase—six percent—among the major wheat producing states.

Designed primarily for large, multi-station business and government subscribers, Centrex is a versatile and efficient phone system that has only been available for a few years.

Ohio Public Works Superintendent Alfred C. Glenow said its chief advantages for the State of Ohio will be:

- Direct Inward Dialing—Outside callers will be able to bypass present switchboards and reach the station they want by dialing "469" plus the new four-digit number of that extension.
- Direct Outward Dialing—State employes will be able to place their own calls in the Columbus calling area by dialing the digit "9" followed by the regular number.
- Four-Digit Dialing—Interoffice dialing within the system will be possible with only four turns of the dial.
- Call Transfer—Incoming calls can be routed to another station.

BEING TRAINED in the operation of Centrex, a streamlined telephone service, are these operators for State of Ohio departments, located in Columbus. The new system will increase efficiency and offers greater versatility.

Ultra-Modern Motor Hotel Is First For Downtown Columbus

Christopher Inn, Columbus' first downtown motel, opened July 29, 1963. All aspects of plans for the Inn have been directed toward participating in the growth of downtown Columbus by providing distinctive dining, meeting and guest accommodatons for visitors and residents in our capital city.

The building, which was opened July 29, 1963, rests on a five-foot thick, 58-foot diameter concrete pad containing 500 cubic yards of concrete and 29 tons of steel reinforcing. The entire building has nearly 6000 cubic yards of concrete and 470 tons of steel reinforcing. The foundations start 30 feet below street level, and a central core houses utility shafts and stairwell.

To the rear of the tower is a five-level rectangular building with meeting and dining rooms accommodating up to 500 people, and three decks of parking for 110 cars. Two high-speed, Otis Autotronic elevators provide rapid service to all levels.

The Inn contains 140 rooms, beginning in the fifth level; a circular swimming pool (on the concrete pad); meeting rooms and dining facilities for 500; a circular bar; a mezzanine overlooking the pool and a landscaped terrace outside.

Central air conditioning and heating; floor to ceiling windows in every room (it took 710 glass panels to enclose the building); snow and ice-free sidewalks and driving ramps and a staff of approximately 150 people.

The furnishing feature designs by Charles Eames, Mies Van der Rohe and Harry Bertoia. Each room has custom-built woodwork by H. J. Upperman & Co., of Amlin, O. Over 4,300 custom designed square yards of Acrilan carpet; more than 4,100 yards of drapery; Knoll pedestal chairs and tables for the dining room; special bedding units from Englander are upholstered with more than 1,500 yards from Herman Miller fabrics.

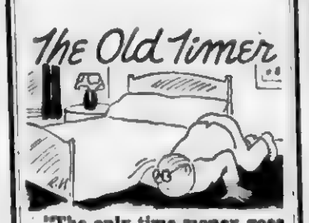
The executive staff is as follows: Henry I. Orringer, general manager; Paul J. Madzin, administrative assistant to the general manager; U. Max Behr, executive chef; Robert L. Roddenberry, maitre d'hotel; Ellen Penn Jones, executive housekeeper; William H. Ryan, sales associate; Jack Powell, building superintendent; Kenneth E. Kuck, comptroller.

The owners are The Christopher Inn Co., Raymond A. Connor, president. The architect was Louis F. Karlsberger and Associates. The general contractor was Elford, Inc.

COLUMBUS' FIRST dowatown motor hotel, Christopher Inn, is the ultra-modern "roundhouse" in the city of Columbus. The 16-level circular tower, which has 140 rooms, a circular swimming pool and parking for 110 cars, provides accommodations for dining, meeting rooms and guests.

Livestock Assn. Shows Gain In Cattle, Hog Sales

Producers Livestock Association in 1963 provided livestock sales and related services for 80,000 livestock farmers in Ohio, Indiana, northern Kentucky and southeastern Illinois, according to managment of the cooperative.



The 11-month totals available at this time indicate that 1963 will be one of the top years in number of livestock handled. In the first 11 months, the 24 area markets sold more than 2,700,000 head of livestock, a small gain of about 5,000 over the same period last year. The value of sales was close to $140 million. December may add another 10 million. Hog and cattle sales show a gain, but veal calf and sheep and lamb totals are down. Sheep numbers, it is pointed out, have been at an all-time low in Ohio, although the state is still the most important sheep state east of the Mississippi River.

Cattle are expected to continue to come to market in relatively large numbers in 1964, according to the association, but hog production in this area may be down somewhat under the 1963 level. Veal calves and lambs likely will show little change.

Producers Live Stock Credit Association loaned nearly $2,900,000 in the first 11 months of 1963 to finance livestock farmers.

One of the major innovations engineered by the association during 1963 was the introduction of the Tend-R-Leen feeder pig production in eastern Ohio. This new project is designed to provide additional income for farmers in the area, provide high quality feeder pigs for farmers in the state's Corn Belt, and ultimately to improve the quality of pork available to the public. Management believes it can be of major importance to the pork industry in Ohio.

Producers Livestock Association operates 20 area markets in Ohio plus 12 smaller branches, and four markets in Indiana. Lester Utz of New Washington, O., is president of the cooperative, and Gerald L. Hiller, 4175 Olentangy River-rd, is its secretary-treasurer and general manager.

Local Business Demonstrates Unparalleled Progress

By Kline L. Roberts, President
The Columbus Area Chamber of Commerce

Columbus, 1963, has been marked by growth and development virtually unprecedented in our lifetime. The challenge of this growth is being met by the Columbus businessman in a new spirit of responsibility.

During 1963, in this new spirit of responsibility, the Blue Plan was born — a dynamic "program for progress" which will serve our area for many years to come. In accepting its responsibility for future as well as present needs, our community has truly come of age.

What has sparked this new awareness of the concept that we must solve tomorrow's problems today? The answer is that our recent rapid growth has contributed to a new understanding of the potential of our community and the realization that this potential is limited only by our capacity and willingness to develop it.

Probably the most spectacular aspect of this growth during the past year was the building activity in the downtown area.

The total value of building permits for the first 10 months of 1963 in all of Franklin County was $173.5 million, or 25 percent higher than the $138.8 million total for the same period last year. Of the 1963 figure, more than $60.3 million went into the downtown area.

It is interesting to note that 66.8 percent of this downtown area total comes from private enterprise and, in a large measure, Columbus money. Among these projects are Nationwide Insurance building, $5.4 million; Columbus Plaza, $8.5 million; Columbus Center, $11.5 million; Christopher Inn, $2 million; Huntington West, $5 million; Dispatch building, $5 million, and 88 East Broad Street, $6 million.

The $6,000,000 Underground Parking Garage, now taking shape at the State House, has been a stimulus to business throughout the county as has the construction of the Innerbelt Expressway System and other capital improvements projects.

The Outerbelt Expressway, already starting south of Columbus, will give added impetus to local business developments and will be an important factor in all of the Central Ohio transportation and communications network when completed (about 1968).

Other developments now under way or planned for the near future include the Battelle Memorial Institute $7.5 million building plans, the $12 million new post office planned for the Spring-Sandusky Interchange, the $20 million Chemical Abstracts building development, the $12 million Franklin County Courthouse Complex and many others.

In two redevelopment areas, Goodale and Market-Mohawk, there are plans for hotels, office buildings, high-rise apartment buildings and other construction. United Redevelopment Corp. has already begun construction on a 10-story apartment building for the Goodale area, valued at $1,750,000.

Residential areas are expanding throughout the county as a result of our population increase of 50 percent since 1950. The total number of new dwelling units added between 1950 and 1960 amounted to 65,842; since 1960, 28,338 were added; and the first 10 months of 1963 the number of dwellings was increased 9,475, including 2,000 apartment units. This puts the Franklin County housing inventory at 242,394 dwelling units.

Throughout the year, business volumes have been moving steadily upward. The level of business activity for the first 10 months of 1963 was 5.6 percent higher than the same period last year.

Columbus continues to break its own records in business and industrial expansion. Franklin County gained 13 manufacturing industries this year, compared to 10 in 1962. In the non-manufacturing category (wholesale, retail and service), 193 new businesses were established, compared to 73 last year. The combined investment for these new facilities amounted to $9,655,824.

This year 582 non-manufacturing firms invested $46,832,100 in new buildings, expansions and remodelings, while in 1962 643 firms invested $45,407,639. In the manufacturing segment of our economy, 49 firms invested $677,920 this year, while in 1962 80 firms invested $3,389,676. None of these figures include equipment or machinery.

New buildings, expansions and remodeling included Ohio National Bank, $126,000; WTVN-TV, $120,000; Ohio Bell Telephone Co., $115,000; Ohio Warehouses, $350,000; Whitehall Discount City, $600,000; Northland Center (by Pacific Mutual Life Insurance Co.), $1,850,000; F. and R. Lazarus and Co., $1.5 million; Sears, Roebuck and Co., $2 million; Capital University, $1,025,000; Martin Marietta Corp., $120,000; Timken Roller Bearing Co., $92,000; Merchandise Properties, $400,000, and Hamlin, Inc., $400,000.

Total investment of new industries and local business expansions, exclusive of governmental projects, amounted to $57,155,844 in 1963, compared to $52,040,875 in 1962.

In addition to the expansion of established industries, we are also enjoying the creation of many new companies that are research-oriented. Among those begun during the last 10 years are CryoVac, Ohio Semi-conductors, Ray Data Corp., Solidstate Controls, Continental Electronics Corp. and Scientific Columbus.

During the final months of 1963 a Columbus Area Chamber of Commerce committee has been engaged in a vigorous effort to bid for the location of the Electronics Research Center of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration. Although the decision of the NASA site selection committee is still pending, we already have gained a benefit from the effort in the form of an increased awareness of our community's potential in the research field.

Columbus is rapidly becoming an important center for the collection and dissemination of technical information. Battelle Memorial Institute and the American Chemical Society's Chemical Abstracts are among the better known organizations engaged in such activities. But there are numerous others in the community, many of them specializing in fields related to the atomic and space age.

Our community ranks high in the nation in its scientific population. In 1960 we were in eighth place of all metropolitan areas in the United States in the number of scientists per 1,000 population and in 21st place in absolute number of scientists. More than 1,400 local scientists and 3,800 engineers are engaged in research, including 900 in electronics. It is significant that more than 60 percent of the college graduates hold advanced degrees.

And the concentration of professional personnel in Columbus continues to increase each year, due, to a large degree, to the presence of the Ohio State University, which is also growing rapidly.

The passage on Nov. 5 of the $250 million bond issue for capital improvements, from which $175 million has been earmarked for higher education and more than $71 million of that proposed for OSU, will provide a start on the campus plan adopted this year by the university. Planning studies are also under way for redevelopment of the heavily congested areas adjacent to the university.

The growth of industrial, commercial and public projects has produced an economic climate which favorably affects nearly every local citizen to some degree. In average income per household, for example, there has been an increase of 19.2 percent since 1953. During the same 10-year period, the total payroll has increased 51.3 percent, in line with the Franklin County population increase.

The estimated population of Franklin County for Jan. 1, 1964, is 761,282. In addition, the recent expansion of our Standard Metropolitan Statistical Area to include Delaware and Pickaway Counties gives us a total population of 838,678 in our official metropolitan area.

Local unemployment figures have shown a slight improvement during 1963 although the situation last year was good compared to the national rate of 5.9 percent. During the first 10 months of 1963 the unemployment rate was 3.4 percent, compared to 3.5 percent for the same period in 1962. Existing industries as well as new ones have contributed to this record through expansion of operation and increase in production. The local Westinghouse Electric Corp. plant, for instance, has added nearly 1,300 employes since the first of the year.

Columbus is presently being examined by several national companies and organizations which are considering location of regional offices here to take advantage of such assets of our community as the excellent highway system, low incidence of unemployment and fine educational atmosphere. But a determining factor in many instances is one that can't quite be pinned down with facts and figures.

It is that all important intangible called attitude or spirit of the people. All communities possess it, but for many of them its character makes it a liability. If what we have seen in the past year is any indication, the spirit of the people of Columbus is our greatest asset.

BSA Council Served 28,500 Boys In 1963

Central Ohio Council
Boy Scouts of America
R. W. 'Roe' Lutz, PR Director

During 1963 the nine-county Central Ohio Council, Boy Scouts reached over 28,500 boys ages eight through 17 with an active outdoor, camping, hiking, physical fitness and character development program.

This was made possible through the efforts of 9,454 volunteer leaders in cooperation with 386 sponsoring institutions providing facilities for 683 Cub packs, Scout troops, and Explorer posts.

Over 4,200 of these volunteer leaders received training certificates for completing specific nationally approved, council conducted training courses.

A total of 67,000 camper days were enjoyed by Scouts and Explorers in the 1,678 acres of council-owned-and-operated land and properties. The highlight in 1963 was the opening of the first section, Camp "B," in the new 1,200-acre Greenhills Scout Reservation in Hocking County, four miles southeast of Logan. Over 1,000 boys and leaders experienced wilderness camping in true Scouting fashion for six week in 1963 during the summer and are continuing to camp there during the winter.

A second milestone in Central Ohio Council was reached during 1963 when rehabilitation and new construction was started on Camp Lazarus. Work is now in progress on nine new troop sites, an improved water supply, new toilet and washing facilities, and a new maintenance and storage compound. These new facilities will be ready for Scouts for the summer season of 1964.

The current camp development and rehabilitation program now going on in the Council is the result of the successful Camp Capital Development Campaign held in 1962. When completed, facilities for Scouts and Explorers to camp on Council property will be increased by over 50 percent.

That boys continued to grow mentally and physically in the Scouting program is attested to by the fact that over 10,000 achievement and rank advancements were awarded to Cub Scouts, Boy Scouts and Explorers. Boy Scouts and Explorers were certified for 8,124 merit badges during 1963. Of this group 131 Scouts and Explorers earned the Eagle rank.

These boys practiced their "Good Turn" throughout the council in service to their sponsoring institutions, their communities through messenger service for United Appeal, community funds, county fairs libraries and similar activities and agencies. Many thousands served as ushers at football games, collectors for "Toys for tots" and other community-wide events. In all, they were practicing what they were being taught.

Central Ohio Council closed the year of 1963 with over 21,000 boys actively on the rolls—this is the highest in the history of the council and is a tribute to the interest, effort and ability of the volunteers that make Scouting possible in the lives of boys in our communities.

The Huntington "skyscraper", at No. 1 South High Street.

The story opened on January 2, 1866, at the corner of Broad and High. Partners Pelatiah Huntington and David Deshler started a bank with more hope than capital and more problems than customers.

Everything went like a plot from Horatio Alger. Sometimes. Other times it was "tune in tomorrow and see how our heroes make out." Still other times, the story wasn't even interesting. Just work and grow, work and grow.

1964 shapes up this way: The 12-story Huntington West, at Broad and Front, will be "topped out"; another new office, our 12th, will open at Henderson and High; a modern office will replace the present Canal Winchester Office; the first electronic data processing system in a Central Ohio bank will go into full operation.

That brings the story up to date.

You write the next chapter. Stop at the nearest Huntington office and check out the facilities and services. We've been polishing and improving them for 98 years.

THE PERFECT HOME

The female chimney swift is equipped with glands that help her provide both shelter and food for her young. These glands produce a fluid with which twigs of the swift's nest are cemented together and held to a flat surface — usually the inner wall of a chimney or well. After the swift lays her eggs, the glands dry up and become pouches, which she uses as "shopping bags" to carry food to her babies.

Your house, like the chimney swift's nest, must meet your family's individual needs. With a sensible loan to buy, build or remodel, First Federal can help provide the perfect home for you and yours.

A 10-QUART home milk dispenser, completely disposable, was developed by the Liqui-Box Corp. of Columbus for home delivery of milk by dairies in nearly every state. Assuring fresher and cooler milk for a much longer time, the dispenser remains in the refrigerator until it is empty.

Local Plant Develops New Milk Dispenser

A 10-quart home milk dispenser that fits nently into the refrigerator, which serves milk through its own self-contained spigot and is completely disposable when empty, is now available through all local dairies.

The home dispenser pack was developed by the Liqui-Box Corp., 1300 Corrugated-way, during 1963 and is now being used extensively throughout the country.

Because the container is not removed from the refrigerator, the new dispenser assures fresher and colder milk for a much longer time. Whether the homemaker wants a pitcher full of milk or an ounce or two, the tap serves her conveniently without having to remove bottles or cartons from the refrigerator.

The milkman places the container, called the Liqui-Box home dispenser, directly into the refrigerator. Due to its compact design, it occupies about the same shelf space as three half-gallon bottles or cartons.

The container consists of a double-wall polyethylene bag inside a corrugated package. On delivery the spigot is concealed behind a tab which is removed by the milkman or the customer.

The user dispenses milk through the molded plastic spigot, which prevents any exposure of the milk to air, thus assuring greater freshness than has been offered by conventional containers. Because the container never leaves the refrigerator, the milk stays at a more constant cold temperature.

Acceptance of this new concept has been so widespread since its introduction last summer, that Liqui-Box last month opened a new division in Dallas, Tex. In addition, the company has experienced continuous growth at its Columbus facility.

THREE ELEMENTARIES OPENED

Parochial Schools Studying New English, Math Teaching Methods

By MSGR. APPLEGATE
Supt. of Parochial Schools

The 1963 school year opened with a total enrollment of 22,847 students in the parochial schools in Franklin County, of which 17,397 were elementary and 5,450 high school students. This represents an increase of 497 students over last year. Thirty-two lay teachers were added to the teaching staff.

Three new elementary schools, St. Matthew in Gahanna, St. Brendan in Hilliard and St. Timothy in Upper Arlington, were opened in September, 1963.

During the past year, in-service programs were offered in modern mathematics and geography. The first Ohio Catholic Educational Convention featured lecturers in all subject-matter areas and gave the teachers opportunity to view the latest in teaching materials and techniques. The convention registered more than 7,500 teachers.

The "New Math" has been under the inspection and interpretation since 1960-61. The mathematics committee, chaired by Monsignor F. Thomas Gallen, St. Charles Seminary, has a membership of mathematics teachers from both elementary and secondary schools.

Since 1960, workshops in mathematics have been held for all teachers in the elementary schools and for mathematics teachers in the high schools.

The National Catholic Educational Association's publication for high school teachers cited the committee for its work. Since then letters from all over the country have come with requests for materials, outlines and suggestions from the committee.

The "New English" is also under study. This committee, chaired by Father James Cooney, St. Charles Seminary, has been set up to initiate the now called study of linguistics, merely a term that is supposed to say — where before we studied rules of snytax, now we "write down" what we want to say and then discover how this sentence fits into one of four "patterns" of sentences.

The student "creates" a "pattern" or sentence and then discovers that it fits into one or the other of four "patterns" or syntactic rules from which all our sentences are generated.

The history committee, chaired by Monsignor Hugh Murphy, St. Charles Seminary, will evaluate history textbooks for the elementary schools. An adoption of history texts is in order for this year.

The music, the languages and the sciences committees are meeting in the early new year to plan for future activities.

The elementary school teachers are looking forward to a "visit the classroom day" when teachers will observe the classes of fellow teachers.

Bishop Ready High School has lately sponsored two important meetings. In November, the guidance personnel of Catholic schools throughout Ohio met to discuss the establishment of an Ohio Catholic Guidance Council which would be a subsidiary of the National Catholic Guidance Council. Father Edmund Olley, executive director of the National Catholic Guidance Conference, was present for the meeting.

On Dec. 27 and 28, Ready High School also held a two-day workshop for math and science teachers. There they examined the new trends and programs being explored in the fields of math and biology, chemistry and physics. Speakers at the workshop included professors Daniel T. Troy, John W. Riner and Robert W. Howe from Ohio State University; Sister M. Cyril from Bishop Hartley High School; Sam Buck of Eastmoor High School and James Jonard of Whetstone High School.

Local Economic Growth Exceeds Ohio Average

By JAMES C. YOCUM
Director, Bureau of Business Research
The Ohio State University

Business activity in the Columbus metropolitan area advanced with resumed vigor in 1963. The 1963 record is a further advance in the cyclical expansion that has been under way since the trough of the mild recession in Feb. 1961.

The number employed in Columbus area manufacturing was up four percent in 1963 from 1962, compared to an increase of one percent in Ohio as a whole, and 10.6 percent in the United States.

In 1963 manufacturing payrolls in the Columbus area rose seven percent above 1962, while increasing 3.7 percent in Ohio as a whole and 3.4 percent in the United States.

Retail trade in the Columbus area totaled over $1.2 billion in 1963—a new all time high and up five percent from 1962. Columbus-area retail sales in 1962 accounted for about one-twelfth of the total retail volume in Ohio.

Columbus area bank debits in the first 11 months of 1963 totaled $14.8 billion compared to $14 billion in the same period 1962—a rise of seven percent.

New automobile purchases in Franklin County were up 13 percent from 1962 compared with a 10 percent rise in Ohio as a whole . .

The value of total construction activity in the Columbus area was up 27 percent from 1962. In Ohio the gain was 6.5 percent and in the United States as a whole, 9.9 percent.

The number of telephones in use in the Columbus area as of November, 1963, was 409,641, an increase of 3.5 percent from 1962.

Perhaps the most significant development in Columbus metropolitan area business statistics in 1963 was the recognition, in Oct., 1963, of the vitality and area growth of the Columbus community by the United States Bureau of the Budget, Office of Statistical Standards.

This agency, which has the authority to define "Standard Metropolitan Statistical Areas" for all cities and their surrounding areas in the United States, determined that Pickaway County and Delaware County should be added to Franklin County and henceforth form the Columbus Standard Metropolitan Statistical Area. As of Jan. 1, 1963, the population of the Columbus Metropolitan area is

Franklin County	737,062
Delaware County	37,813
Pickaway County	38,131
Total	813,000

Fairfield County and Madison County also approach the size of the non-agricultural labor force and the inter-county job-commuting patterns that meet the Bureau of the Budget's criteria for the inclusion of contiguous counties in a large-city metropolitan area.

It is likely, therefore, that before too long both Fairfield and Madison counties will also be added to the Columbus metropolitan "Statistical Area." With two additional counties, the total five-county population would be 908,000 as of Jan. 1, 1963, and with the 1963 growth added, the new Columbus standard Metropolitan Area will have a population of over 1,000,000 people.

This statistic is not meaningful merely as a measure of bigness. Its significance is that it does reflect the growth and dynamism that has characterized the Columbus area since World War II.

This Man Stays In The Home Five Or More Days . . . .

This little man represents the seven Hartley Newspapers which cover the wide areas east, west and south and go far into Licking, Fairfield, Pickaway, Madison and Union Counties.

He is a man who not only comes for dinner but a survey* shows that he stays in the home five or more days each week.

He carries the news of all these local communities along with numerous home like features and an aggressive editorial page, coupled with thousands of want ads and display ad messages from merchants in the area.

When you stop to think that these suburban papers have a staying power of five or more days, you must realize that the net impact is, therefore, at least five times the more than 70,000 circulation each week. Because our papers interest every member of the family, this should be multiplied again by at least four bringing it to a total of 1,400,000. (1,400,000 chances your advertising message has of being seen each week,) at a cost of one insertion.

This is just one of the reasons more and more business firms in Central Ohio are using the Hartley Newspapers.

Your business message in Hartley Newspapers will be in good company, the good company of a large number of the more progressive firms in Central Ohio.

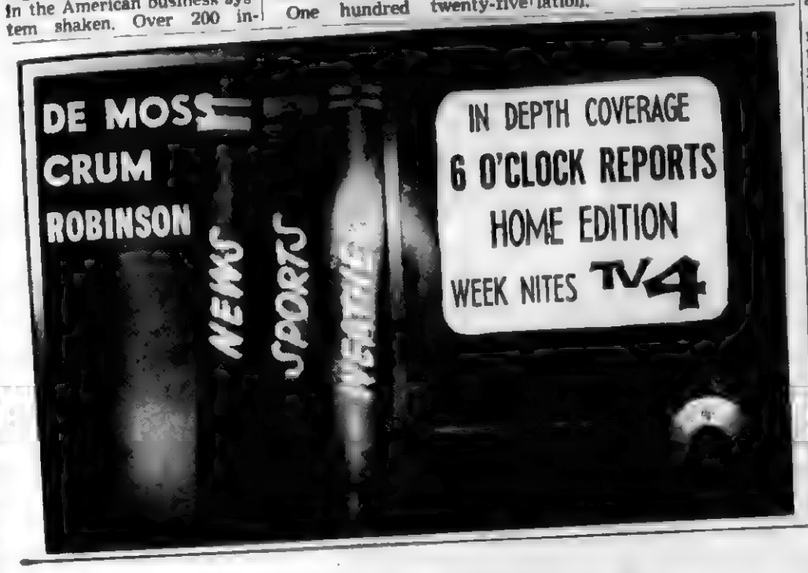
50,000 Customer Inquiries Handled By BBB In 1963

The 1963 annual report of the Better Business Bureau of Central Ohio, Inc. emphasizes the increased services rendered by the bureau.

An analysis of the total work load reflects that a little less than four percent of the total instances of services were complaints whereas about 96 percent represents inquiries and customer relations.



This indicates that the public wants to know the reputation and reliability of the firms with which they contemplate doing business. By making an inquiry first, the customers may recognize unethical business firms and thus avoid problems and having their confidence and trust in the American business system shaken. Over 200 instances of services are performed daily by the Better Business Bureau for business and the buying public.

The bureau conservatively estimates that in handling a little more than 50,000 inquiries, customer relations, cases of unsatisfactory experiences and investigations during 1963, the Better Business Bureau reports had a direct influence on how and where Central Ohio residents spent over $10 million. Such figures clearly demonstrate the degree of trust implied in every request for information the bureau receives and insure that this money stays in the legitimate channels of trade and investment in our Central Ohio marketplace.

One hundred twenty-five speeches and film showings were made by the bureau staff during 1963 to an audience of over 5,000 people, and there have been over 300 radio broadcasts and television appearances. The bureau publication, The Beacon, has a 11,500 monthly distribution.

Business itself is using the bureau more each year. At least 95 percent of the business firms in the Central Ohio area are considered eligible for membership in the bureau.

However, only about 10 percent of Central Ohio businesses now support the bureau's program which is benefiting all honest companies and lessens or eliminates the present clamor for additional restrictive anti-business legislation.

Council Reorganized By Girl Scouts In '63

Council Public Relations
SEAL OF OHIO GIRL SCOUTS

Culminating two full years of committee work, Girl Scout organizations in 10 central Ohio counties joined to provide service to all girls from seven through 17. The new Seal of Ohio Council was chartered by Girl Scouts of the U.S.A. in September.

The council now covers 18,000 registered Girl Scouts in Delaware, Fairfield, Fayette, Franklin, Highland, Hocking, Madison, Pickaway, Ross and Union Counties.

"This has been a year to remember," Miss Ruth Shollenbarger, executive director of the council, said.

"We have seen a changed program, which became effective in September, and which is designed to meet the needs of all girls. Four program age levels are now available to girls: Brownies, seven and eight: Juniors, nine, 10 and 11: Cadettes, 12, 13 and 14, and Seniors, 15, 16 and 17."

"Our council is presenting new and challenging ideas for troop activity to increase and retain interest of each registered Girl Scout," she indicated.

She pointed out that outdoor skills and activities are still important, but hostessing and homemaking arts are reemphasized in the new program. An integral part of Senior Scouting is the opportunity to investigate careers through special aide programs designed to train Scouts for a specific task and encourage service in that field.

"In 1963," Miss Shellenbarger continued, "Scouts of various ages participated in such community service projects as decorating shoes boxes for and supplying gifts to State School and hospital patients in cooperation with the Franklin County Mental Health Association; dressing dolls for Goodwill Industries' Dolly Derby; assisting with various phases of work of the Tuberculosis Society and other community agencies; serving as aides at a number of Columbus public libraries; helping with innumerable conservation programs including acting as trail guides and, during the recent drought, being fire wardens at metropolitan parks."

In May, Girl Scouts had an opportunity to exhibit and demonstrate their troop activities during a Program Fair held at Veterans Memorial.

During 1963, nationally, three local council Girl Scouts participated in the All-States Encampment and four attended the National Delegate Council meeting in Miami, Fla. On the international scene, local Scouts hostessed a visitor from Malaya for two weeks last summer. International exchangees worked on camp staffs. An estimated 200 adult Girl Scouts participated in the international dinner in February, and eight adults attended sessions at the National Training Center, Pleasantville, N.Y.

During the summer of 1963, 7,963 girls and 1,205 adults participated in the council's camping program. There are now 16 day camps and three established camps in the council area, Miss Shollenbarger said.

Another highlight of the year was completion of three new camp structures, troop camp buildings in Franklin County at Camp Ken-Jockety and Beckoning Trails, and a lodge at Echo Hills, all near Logan, O.

To provide these services, nearly 7,000 carefully trained adult volunteers gave untold hours of help to girls striving to reach individual goals.

"Two new staff members were added, bringing the total to 12, to assist our tireless volunteers in giving the best possible service to girls and their troops," Miss Shollenbarger continued.

The annual Girl Scout calendar and cookie sales continued to supply needed funds for facilities and maintenance of council properties. The Girl Scouts are partially supported by United Appeals in eight of the 10 counties.

"We have a challenge in the year ahead," Miss Shollenbarger said. "It's our 1964 goal to bring a better and a full year-round Girl Scout program to more girls."

The heights by great men reached and kept, were not attained by sudden flight, but they, while their companions slept, were toiling upward in the night. . . Longfellow

SELECT BARS, which help establish talking paths through crossbar central office switching equipment, travel on conveyor lines during assembly operation. During 1963 nearly 115,000 switches constructed by the Columbus Western Electric plant, each containing 10 of the bars, went to Bell Telephone Companies throughout the United States.

Western Electric Plant Sets Records During Past Year

The past year was one of continuing progress for the Columbus Works of the Western Electric Co. It was a year of several major achievements.

We hit a new high in volume. We achieved 100 percent efficiency in our manufacturing operations. Our quality reached an all-time new high.

These accomplishments were made without any delay in delivery dates to our customers and established us as one of the top manufacturing locations of the Western Electric Co.

It was a year of progress for the vast structure on E. Broad-st where the "Brains" of the telephone system – the intricately wired and complex switching units required to connect you with the party you dial — are manufactured for use in telephone company exchanges.

The spirit of teamwork prevailed throughout the entire year, a spirit that permitted us to ship nearly 19,000 crossbar frames to telephone exchanges all over the country.

It was also the year when we first started to ship the latest in telephone equipment, the new electronic switching system. More than 300 frames of this product were shipped during the year, including all the requirements for the first commercial electronic switching office in the United States at Succasunna, N.J.

Columbus was the only location producing this latest telephonic marvel to make your telephone more useful by providing such new features as call answering and recording, call transferring, customer control conferences, shorter dialing and many more.

We also produced other new items to help improve what is already the world's finest communication system such as "Call Waiting" which informs a customer using his telephone that an incoming call is waiting for him. He may place the party on the established connection in a hold position and talk to the party making the incoming call. Another is "Add-On" which allows the telephone user to add a third party to an established connection at any time.

Our contributions to the community increased to a new high during the year. Our sales approached the $100 million mark. Our payroll reached an all-time high of $27 million. In addition to this, we purchased nearly $5,500,000 from more than 780 local and state-wide suppliers.

It was one of our safest years. We received two prominent awards during the year. In May, H. I. Romnes, then president of Western Electric Co., presented us with the "President's Award for Safety," the company's highest safety recognition. This indicated the highest safety achievement of any of the company's 69 locations.

We also received our second consecutive National Safety Council Award as one of the nation's safest plants in the operation of light machinery. In mid-July a safety exposition and automobile check lane was held in front of our plant. Nearly 3,000 people attended and more than 500 motorists had their automobiles checked at that time.

For the seventh consecutive year, our employes received recognition for their "fair share" support of the community through United Appeal. Ninety percent of our employes pledged over $87,000. In addition, the company contributed funds to deserving educational, cultural and civic organizations.

The Red Cross Bloodmobile was at our plant four times during the year and, in every instance, was met with overwhelming response. In 1963 we increased our sponsorship of Junior Achievement of two companies, giving more high school girls and boys an opportunity to learn and understand the principles and responsibilities inherent in the American way of free enterprise.

In addition, a number of employes devoted their free time to political activity in the area in which they live. Nine employees successfully won elections to a school board, council posts, clerk-treasurership, ward committeemen, charter commission and a public affairs board.

More than 250 employes received suggestions awards during the year. This, together with our continuing efforts in engineering development, resulted in a new high level of reduction in the cost of our product through research and development.

Our progress this year was such that a "Family Day" tour of the plant was held on Oct. 27, the first such occasion since 1959. This event offered all employes the opportunity to show their families their particular job and the over-all operation of the plant. A most gratifying number of employes and family members, over 10,400, visited our buildings on this day.

It is with pleasure that I am able to present this, my first report, as manager of the Western Electric Columbus Works. I have looked forward to this opportunity as I have been much impressed with the vitality of the community as well as the fine spirit and friendliness of its people.

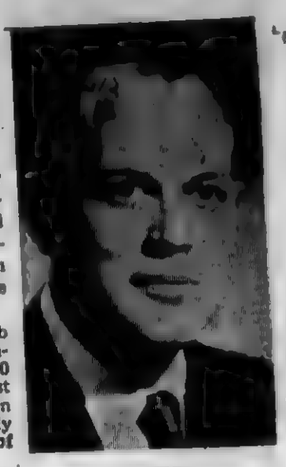
Airport Facilities Headliner Of Industrial Development

The inclusion of airport facilities in the plans for the Lockbourne Industrial Park promises a development unique not only in Columbus, but also in the State of Ohio.

This transportation facility will cost almost one-half million dollars, according to Owen T. Dickerson, president of the Walker T. Dickerson Co., which has acquired the land for the location of medium-sized manufacturers.

It will incorporate a 5,000-foot runway, 36 individual hangars, a maintenance shop and parking for transient aircraft.

Dickerson, has reserved 10 acres of the park, bound on the north by Williams-rd, east by the C&O RR, the south by Obetz-rd and the west by Lockbourne-rd five miles south of Columbus, for the relocation of the shoe manufacturing company now at 376 S. Front-st.



Recently he announced the sale of two industrial sites upon which construction is expected to begin in the spring.

The acerage has been platted into 44 sites, each with 200-foot frontage to allow a purchaser or leasee to acquire an area sized to his particular needs. No more than 50 percent of the land can be used for buildings, and deed restrictions have guaranteed an area that will not belie the name "park."

Quoting a rule of the thumb that indicates a completed industrial site represents 10 times the original land cost and improvements, Dickerson estimated the park eventually will bring an investment of $30 million to the area.

Land improvements that are on the drawing boards include utilities, through north-south street and a recreational park.

As the area is zoned M-1, or light manufacturing, occupancy is restricted to industry of non-objectionable character while providing employment and financial stability to the entire area.

WMNI In Sixth Year Of Radio Broadcasting

Apr. 26 of this year will mark another milestone for WMNI Radio. It will be six years since Columbus' "Beautiful Music" station inaugurated programming from its studio atop the Southern Hotel in downtown Columbus.

Keeping pace with the growth of Columbus, WMNI provides the listener with entertainment, information, and community service in a vital, expanding area in Ohio.

William R. Mnich is president and general manager of WMNI, which is incorporated as the North American Broadcasting Co. Mnich is a native Ohioan, a graduate of Ohio University at Athens, and has spent most of his life in broadcasting.

After months of exhaustive study and research in listener preference, in March, 1961, WMNI introduced a "new world of beautiful music."

WMNI's Beautiful music is pre-selected to offer the finest available from the world's great talents. The musical selections are scheduled to run in quarter-hour segments, uninterrupted, followed by a cluster of commercial and service announcements.

In May, 1962, WMNI launched another service into the aid. This was the WMNI traffic helicopter, now a familiar sight hovering over traffic congestions and assisting in the flow of traffic.

Since its inception, WMNI has broadcast literally thousands of hours of sports events. The Columbus Jets, OSU basketball and football and the Indianapolis 500 have all come to you "live" over WMNI. The voice of Joe Hill, sportscaster, is a familiar sound to Central Ohio's big and demanding sports-minded audience.

News and public affairs are under the direction and leadership of Bob Sherman.

WMNI employes participate in community affairs. Uppermost among these active, community leaders is Bill Robinson who lends his decade of experience in the fields of public information and communication to dozens of worthwhile civic projects and organizations.

Above all else, the people at WMNI have attempted to make WMNI Radio the symbol of good listening. Entertainment with taste, news with meaning, sports with excitement, service with distinction. These are the ingredients which are blended together into an over-all program, both on and off the air, designed to better the lives of the people in this area.

"It is the satisfaction gained from this attitude", says WMNI's president, William Mnich, "which makes our investment and responsibilities worthwhile."

RECIPE CONTEST BEGINS

What You Make May Take Cake

At what time in life is a good cook born?

Does she begin early and help her mother prepare Sunday night supper or does it take 20 years of practice or even 40 years of training and 15 grandchildren to bring out all of her best ingredients?

Or, are we wrong in believing that women are the best cooks at all? Perhaps, cooking is, after all, still a man's world! Hartley Newspapers hope to get all those answers in a special contest that begins with this week's paper. We know we have many excellent cooks — men, women and teenagers in our communities — and we want to give every one of them a chance to enter their favorite recipe in our big contest.

Hartley Newspapers will publish a special section about Mar. 3 entitled "Cook Book Section." This will be made up of the favorite recipes submitted to our cook book editor between now and the last of February.

Elsewhere in this paper today is a coupon to be used when submitting your recipe. Start clipping these coupons today and mailing them in to our cook book editor.

Many valuable prizes will be awarded to many of the persons participating in this big event. Prizes will be announced starting next week, and a complete list will be printed before the end of the contest.

The following simple rules will govern the contest

1. There will be five divisions: teenagers, brides of not more than one year, homemakers, senior citizens and men. Prizes will be awarded in each category.

2. Any reader of any of the the seven Hartley Newspapers may submit one recipe a week. Each coupon accompanying the recipe will entitle the participant to a chance on the valuable prizes.

3. Selection of the winners will be in the hands of a committee of judges who are active in the field of home economics and homemaking.

Turn now to the inside pages of today's paper and clip the cook book coupon and start sending in your entries right now. Judges reserve the right to print any or all recipes submitted.

Spring Tonic

With a white blanket of snow over all the countryside and the chill winds of winter howling outside the door, what could be more appropriate than to receive a copy of an attractive seed catalogue?

This happens to me about this time each year and right now I'm leafing through the pages and can taste those brilliant red tomatoes, the yellow corn and red ripe strawberries as well as smell the aromas of spring that come from the wide array of attractive new flowers for 1964.

If winter comes . . . can spring be far behind?

STUDENTS AT ST. MARYS of the Springs through the week, and diligent students of skiing on weekends are Pat Stedman, left, 1297 S. Fourth-st and Margaret Digel, 281 Reinard. With the stamina of youth they time and time again imitated their instructor, Charles Wright, as he showed them the elementary principals of skimanship.

WHO WOULD BELIEVE IT? THEY EVEN MAKE SNOW!

Corey Ford, the humorist, recently wrote that to him snow has all the attractiveness of an unmade bed.

But Benny Coffman and his business associates at Shady Spring Ski Trails feel quite differently.

They even stay up all night to make the stuff.

And Ford's theory that skiing interest is merely a conspiracy trumped up by wheelchair manufacturers and compounders of liniments was undermined by the hundreds of enthusiasts who flocked to the new resort one mile west of Carroll last weekend.

Although more than one sportman negotiated parts of the trail on portions of his anatomy other than his or her feet, there were no casualties and only one set of crutches in view.

Furthermore, the young lady on crutches swore that she had broken her ankle ice skating, and not on skis.

Reluctant to rely on forecasts of genuine snow, Coffman and his brothers-in-law, Bill Snider and Charles J. Eveland started at the 3 o'clock last Friday afternoon to lay a nine inch blanket of manmade snow on the three trails laid out through the hilly orchard land. Eighteen hours later they were finished and the trails ready for the rugged who braved the near zero weather and icy winds.

By grasping the rope tows the skier is effortlessly pulled to the take-off points of any of the three trails, designed for the beginner, the inter-

Religious School To Start Monday

Starling Junior High School, 120 S. Central-av, will be the meeting place for hundreds of Franklin County church laymen, teachers, religious leaders and workers attending the 18th annual School of Religion in a six-week session.

Sponsored by the Columbus Area Council of Churches, the school will open Monday, Jan. 20. For six consecutive Monday evenings, courses will be offered ranging from "The Christian Task at Home" to "The Art of Personal Prayer" and "Alcohol Education in the Church." Classes will be held from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m., with registration and book sales on opening night beginning at 6:30.

"To Grow in Grace and Knowledge and to be Profitable Servants of Christ in His Church" is the over-all theme of the study courses.

G. Weir Hartman, executive director of the Columbus Area Council of Churches, said, "We believe that this is one of our stronger programs in adult education. We anticipate an enrollment of 600 to 800 persons. One year we reached the 1,200 mark."

Persons wishing to enroll are asked to mail a $3 advance registration fee, name of the course desired and home church affiliation to: Columbus Area Council of Churches, 135 N. Front-st, Columbus 15. A $4 fee will be assessed those who wish to register on opening night. The only other cost will be the purchase of a textbook.

Courses and instructors are as follow:

One-Hour Courses, 7:30 P.M.

Petitions For Sidewalks Readied For Circulation

When the Council of South Side Organizations met last week, Mike Mileusnich reported that petitions will soon be circulated for widening of Lockbourne-rd and building of sidewalks in the area from Frebis-av to Williams-rd.

The area residents had turned to the CSSO several months ago in their effort to eliminate the necessity of walking in the heavily-traveled thoroughfare to and from school.

They also believe traffic conditions will be less hazardous with the street widened to 40 feet.

Representatives of the city planning and zoning board appeared at the meeting to discuss the channel improvement of Alum Creek and other waterways. The CCSO with its interest in the South Y Park on Rohr-rd is somewhat dubious of how the park will be effected by the program.

Some believe that if the improvement does not extend south of the park that the increased flow from the north will present a serious flooding problem.

Another speaker was Jerry Fedderson of the Recreation Department who gave a report on the recreation center now under construction at Lincoln Park.

Work is progressing on the overhead structure of the large gymnasium, which when complete, will permit it to be put under roof.

Once this stage is reached, the weather cannot slow the construction down as it has recently.

THEY TOOK OFFICE

Frightened Children Brings Appeal For Street Lighting

Members of city council can expect to hear from the residents of Hilock-ct in the near future.

They want street lights, and they want them now.

During recent weeks a group of little girls and a young boy on two separate occasions have been extremely frightened, if not actually harmed.

The first incident occurred when the 10 and 12-year-old daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Moss walking with a companion of their age was stopped by an unidentified man who jumped from his automobile.

According to the children, he grabbed the younger girl while the other two fled to a lighted home. In the confusion and hysteria of the latter, they inadvertently let the dogs out of the home to which they had fled for help.

The dogs apparently frightened the man and he released the child and drove off.

Although the children were taken to the Detective Bureau to look over pictures of known sex offenders, they could not make an identification.

The second instance was probably less serious, as the nephew of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Aljoe who lives with them fled as soon as a man, driving what the 15-year-old boy described as a 1956 red Thunderbird, stopped and demanded that he come to him.

After going back to the neighbor's yard where he had been, the boy started out for home, only to be stopped by the same car again. He then went back into the house and remained until it was ascertained the car had left the neighborhood.

Police told Mrs. Aljoe that although the boy had acted correctly, enough evidence did not exist to press charges against the driver if he could be located.

Mrs. John Berecz who, as president of the Stockbridge PTA, is extremely disturbed over the two occurrences stated that residents of the area feel that adequate street lighting would help prevent

IT WAS QUITE A BLOW

THE TRIALS AND TRIBULATIONS of a young lawyer (David Anderson, left) were portrayed when the Schiller Recreation Center's Dramatics Class presented a playlet last Friday during the weekly dance. When his first client, played by Susan Truax, between weeps and wails, told them of the horrible murder of her baby, he and his secretary (Margaret Wood, right) were all sympathy and surprise. The surprise remained but the sympathy waned when they learned the baby's identity—it was the distraught client's dog.

Something Special For Our Readers

The Kennedy Inaugural Address, with its now-famous "ask not" statement, is fast becoming a classic.

If you would like an attractive copy of the address, printed on durable parchment paper, mail $1 together with name and address to Hartley Newspapers, 2465 W. Broad-st, Columbus, O. 43204. The address completes the popular set of historical documents made available to friends of this newspaper in recent months.

As an added bonus, we will send you a 12 x 16-inch four-color portrait of the late President, taken by Fabian Bachrach.

Both items will be sent FREE to persons sending in a new, paid-in-advance subscription to any Hartley Newspaper. Hurry, the supply is limited!

ANNUAL MEETING SCHEDULED MONDAY

South YMCA To Make Significant Service Award

Recognition of significant service to the South Branch YMCA and to the community will highlight the program Monday evening when the award, secret until then, will be given to one or more South Siders.

The presentation will be at the 46th annual meeting scheduled for 7:30 p.m. by R. E. Madden and R. L. Hepner, members of the significant service committee.

New board members who will be announced by C. B. Beard, chairman of the nominating committee, will be installed by Robert C. Cooper, general executive of the Columbus YMCA.

CORRECTION

In last week's paper the name of the Borror Observatory at the South Y-Park was inadvertently misspelled. The observatory was named after the late L. E. Borror and his wife Mary who donated it as a service to youth. We sincerely regret the error.

Ed Findley, program chairman, has invited T. Kline Hamilton, president of Diamond Milk Products, to show, "A Pilgrimage to the Holy Land," a presentation of slides, at the meeting which is open to Y members and all interested people of the South Side.

Group singing will be led by James Gallagher, director of the South Side Optimists Junior Boys Glee Club, which will also present several numbers.

J. L. Davis, chairman of the board, will act as master of ceremonies. The invocation will be given by Connie Stewart, vice-president of the YPICC, and the benediction by Rev. Roland Perkins, pastor of the First Methodist and Livingston Methodist churches.

As refreshments will be served after the meeting, it is necessary to make reservations for the affair. Anyone who has not done so is asked by Jim Wagner, executive secretary of the South 'Y,' to call the office, 444-2151.

Wesleyans Plan Retreat

Columbus District Wesleyan Service Guilds of the Methodist Churches of the Ohio and Lexington Conferences have arranged for a spiritual retreat Saturday, Jan. 18, 10 a.m. at Maple Grove Church.

Mrs. Tina Lewis of the Lexington Conference, will direct the program, "I Give Myself Unto Prayer." Mrs. Mildred Lilly, accompanied by Mrs. Margaret Haney, will sing "The Lord's Prayer" at the morning session.

There will be a noon luncheon in Fellowship Hall, and the afternoon session will conclude with holy communion administered by Rev. John W. McMahan, senior minister of Maple Grove.

All members are urged to attend.

PHI KAPPA Psi Mothers' and Wives' Club will meet for a dessert luncheon Monday, Jan. 20, 1 p.m., at the Chapter House, 124 14th-av. Program will be "Hat Talk."

'Citizen And Community' Theme Of Public Meets

First in a series of planned programs on "The Citizen And The Community" will be conducted by B'nai B'rith Men and Women Tuesday, Feb. 4, 8:15 p.m. at the Jewish Center, 1125 College-av.

Program theme will be "The Citizen And Communications," and will feature a film, "A Salute To The American Theater," portraying attempts of the theater to deal with intergroup problems.

The film will be followed by guest speaker, Dean Lewis of WBNS Radio, moderator of "Open Mike," who will speak on local problems of mass communications media in Columbus, and then lead group discussions.

Everyone interested in the tonic is invited to attend. No admission will be charged, but reservations should be made with Mrs. Michael Rosen, BE. 5-5904 or Mrs. Sanford Shaw, BE. 5-6388 before Jan. 23.

The series is being arranged by the Anti-Defamation League Committees of B'nai B'rith Men and Women in Columbus, and the first program, Feb. 5, is planned in observance of February as Brotherhood Month.

Scheduled for Mar. 17 is the program, "The Citizen And Education," and will feature a speaker in that field. More details on this and other planned programs will be available at the Feb. 4 meeting.

Missionary Will Show India Films

David B. Bauman, missionary in the Gujarat Conference in India will speak at Oakwood Methodist Church, Oakwood at Newton-sts, Sunday, Jan. 19, 7 p.m. He will show colored slides of his work in India. Bauman is currently on furlough and attending Scarritt College at Nashville, Tenn.

Bauman is a conference evangelist, Baroda district superintendent and formerly superintendent of the Methodist Boys' Hostel at Baroda.

His visit is being sponsored by the Older Youth Group of the church with the assistance of the commission on missions.

A welcome is extended to all, particularly to the young people's organizations.

REV. CALVIN W. DIDIER, chaplain, Ohio House of Representatives and pastor of Hoge Memorial Presbyterian Church, discusses with Miss Freda Frazier the need for expression when reading the Bible aloud, to give the messages greater meaning. She will conduct a course on the art of reading the Bible aloud at the Hilltop YWCA Center, 2879 Valleyview-dr, west of Hague-av. The course is open to all ministers, church leaders and interested persons.

OPEN TO EVERYONE

Bible Reading Class Slated

Making the Bible come alive by reading it aloud with expression, to bring out its beauty and give greater meaning, is the new, unique course being offered at the Hilltop YWCA Center, 2879 Valleyview-dr.

The course is directed to ministers, Sunday School teachers and church leaders, but anyone interested in reading aloud may benefit.

Sessions will be held on eight Monday afternoons, 1 to 2, beginning Jan. 20. Cost of the course is $8, and anyone is invited to register by calling the YWCA, CA. 4-9121. Instructor is Miss Freda Frazier.

Another innovation at the Hilltop YW is a discussion group, "Let's Talk About Our Children," to be held each Thursday morning for eight weeks, beginning Jan. 23, 10 to 11:30.

The group is led by Mrs. Juanita Galbraith, who has had 20 years' experience in service with family relations, and is now associated with the Family Life Education Service of the Family and Children's Bureau.

There is no charge for the course. A $1 registration fee will be charged.

Designed to reassure parents and help them have confidence through understanding their child's behavior, such questions will be discussed as "What do I do about nail-biting, temper tantrums and discipline, my child's companions and amount of allowance?"

How young personalities develop, what causes perplexing behavior and how to bring children up to be happy, responsible adults are among facets that will be explored through discussion and exchange of ideas and experiences.

St. John's Evangelical Names Rev. Kutz As Senior Pastor

Formally installed as senior pastor of St. John's Evangelical Protestant Church (United Church of Christ), 59 E. Mound-st, was Rev. LeRoy Marshall Kutz, Jr.

Dr. Ben Mohr Herbster, national president of the United Church of Christ, installed Rev. Kutz last Sunday during the morning worship.

Prior to coming to Columbus, Pastor Kutz served in churches in Pennsylvania and New York. He was founder of a church camp in Locktown, Pa., and co-founder of that city's Alcoholics Anonymous. While in New York, he served on the board of the Buffalo Council of Churches and conducted a council sponsored weekly television program.

Pastor and Mrs. Kutz have co-authored "The Chancel," published by Christian Press. Articles and sermons of his authorship have been published in various periodicals.

Rev. LeRoy Kutz, Jr.

Pastor Kutz, his wife and their two children, Roy III, 16 and Rebecca Marie, 13, are residing at 4383 Kendale-rd.

Prayer Week In Progress

The annual "Week of Prayer for Christian Unity" will be observed Jan. 18 to 25 by churches in the Columbus area jointly with churches around the world. Theme for the 1964 observance is "The Great Shepherd of the Sheep" based upon the Scripture reference Hebrews 13:20.

Cooperating in the special week will be congregations in denominations associated with the World Council of Churches, and the Roman Catholic Church. For the second year, a joint committee of clergymen representing the Catholic and Protestant Churches in Columbus has published a Service of Prayer including the Scripture readings, Confession of Faith, Litanies, and prayers which will be used by many churches observing the Week. This is a new venture in church cooperation in the Columbus area.

To Be Enrolled By Holy Name

The newly formed Columbus chapter of the National Holy Name Society will formally enroll 110 residents of the State School on Sunday, Jan. 19, 10 a.m., at St. Joseph's Chapel in the administration building at the school.

The ritual will be conducted by Fr. Ralph Karl, O.M.I., assisted by officers and executive board members of St. Christopher Church, Holy Name Society.

The newly formed society will meet the third Sunday of each month.

PRIDE AND JOY!

Proud Father . . . you bet . . . this is my child . . . she's sweet, trusting, lovely and brings great joy to my life. I work harder in order to better my income so that I can provide for her. She thrills me, and already I am making plans for her future. Right now we are all dressed up and getting ready to go to church. I love her, and I want the best for her. I want her to know early about God, and that he means a lot to me, and I want God to mean a lot to her, too!

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny; the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.

EVERYONE IN THE CHURCH . . . THE CHURCH IN EVERYONE

ANYONE HAVE A CREATIVE URGE?

CERAMICS WILL BE the topic of the day when Mrs. Edna Behmer, right, instructor at the Senior Citizens Center, appears on Channel 6 WTVN at 9 a.m. Saturday, Jan. 18, with representatives from each of her five ceramics classes. Here she discusses with Mrs. Polly Ogan, staff member, just which examples of the hobbyists' art will be displayed on the program. Appearing with Mrs. Behmer will be Mrs. Martha Rittinger of Sunshine Terrace, Mrs. Harriet Evans, 915½ E. Whittier; Mrs. Edith Coleman, Westerville; Mrs. Etta Andrews, 1392 W. Wyandotte-rd, and Mrs. Nora Fleming, 1277 Linwood-av.

In the fiscal year of 1962, the Denver and Philadelphia mints turned out a record 3,400,000,000 coins, twice the number produced in fiscal 1959. Production is expected to be the same in 1962 and 1963.

Dog License Deadline Near; Shelter, Auditor Have 'Em

Ohio law states that "every person who owns, keeps or harbors a dog more than three months of age, shall before Jan. 20 of each year, file, in the office of the county auditor . . . an application or registration for the following year . . . After Jan. 20 a $1 penalty will be assessed when purchasing a 1964 dog license.

Thomas C. Justice, manager of the Humane Society, said applications are being taken at the Animal Shelter, 2770 Groveport-pk, or at the office of the county auditor, Arch J. Warren, Franklin County Court House. When applying by mail to the auditor, send the complete description of the dog (age, sex, breed, color, long or short hair), a self-addressed, stamped, return envelope, and the correct fee of $2 for a male, spayed female, or female dog, or $10 for a kennel license to the County Auditor, Franklin County Court House, Columbus, O., 43215.

In Columbus and Franklin County, every dog three months of age and older must be immunized and re-immunized against rabies every 12 months. In addition, under the present rabies quarantine all dogs must be confined, on a leash, or under the control of a responsible person.

FOOD MARKETS THIS WEEK

U.S.D.A. Serves Consumers In Many Ways

By ESTELLE B. FRANKS

THIS WEEK LOOK FOR:

Fruits—Apples, grapefruit, California navel oranges, bananas.

Vegetables — Potatoes, broccoli, cabbage, carrots.

Other — Frozen vegetables, canned corn and tomato products, dairy foods.

From meal planning to confident shopping, all consumers benefit from the services provided by the U.S. Department of Agriculture. Perhaps most of us seldom take time to think why or what the services are — as we do our food shopping.

We find that during the past year, U.S.D.A. inspectors examined all meat and poultry to be sold interstate, to assure homemakers of the wholesomeness. Half the beef sold off farms; more than half the total butter, cheddar cheese, and nonfat dry milk produced; more than half the chickens, and 88 percent of the turkeys were graded for quality, by U.S. experts. Grading assures consumers of reliable quality, impartially judged by nationally uniform standards.

Mrs. Franks

Last year, new standards were issued for nonfat dry milk and a number of other standards were revised to better reflect improved product qualities. New standards are being proposed for whole canned chicken and rolled (boneless) poultry roasts.

Regulatory laws administered by the U.S.D.A. help assure consumers that the foods they buy are marketed in free and open competition. Consumers are protected against false, deceptive, or misleading advertising of meat and poultry; misbranding of fresh and frozen fruits and vegetables; and dependable supplies of fruits, vegetables and fresh milk by such laws.

Because marketing takes about 60 percent of every dollar spent for farm-grown products, U.S.D.A. conducts research to hold down cost of handling, processing, transporting, wholesaling and retailing food. Other research aims at getting food to consumers in better condition.

U.S.D.A. scientists also create new foods. In 1963, crisp, puff-dried apple pieces were developed for snacks to eat as is, or for pies after reconstituting. "Instant" powders were produced from cooked dry beans, peas and lentils; firmly jellied applesauce was created.

Researchers found useful facts that help in the use of frozen foods, for example, that frozen orange juice concentrate will lose quality if temporarily exposed to temperatures above zero; that frozen unbaked fruit pies can keep their good quality at 10 degrees above zero for two or three months.

And in the future, consumers can look forward to more such services. Soon a newly developed super-concentrated apple juice will be produced commercially for market testing. Many more new products can be expected.

Home Trailer Tax Payments Due January 31

County Auditor Arch Warren reminded Franklin County house trailer owners today that the deadline for filing applications for the registration of their house trailers and for making payment of the tax is Friday, Jan. 31.

Warren emphasized that applications and payments received after this date are subject to a penalty.

Deputy auditors are on hand daily, Monday through Friday, from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m., and on Saturdays from 8:30 a.m. to noon, to assist in the preparation of the application.

Questions pertaining to the tax can be directed to CA. 1-1181, Ext. 269 or 270.

Blacklick Park To Show Films

"Switzerland" and "The Temperate Decidous Forest" are the films to be shown Sunday, Jan. 19 in Beech-Maple Lodge at Blacklick Woods Metropolitan Park. The films will be shown at 1:30 and 3 p.m.

"Switzerland" is a Walt Disney tour of the mountains and towns of Switzerland. "The Temperate Deciduous Forest" shows typical animals and plants of the temperate deciduous forest during all four seasons.

An early morning bird walk will be conducted on Sunday, Jan. 19. Participants will meet the naturalist at the Blacklick Woods Metropolitan Park Trading Post at 8 a.m. Binoculars and checklists will be furnished.

Central YM Will Launch Member Drive

W. H. Middleton of Middleton Brothers Printing Co., 47 Maple-st, will be chairman for the 1964 membership "Round Up" of the Columbus Central YMCA.

Middleton, active in YMCA activities for many years, will be "ramroding" the western format membership drive, with the assistance of "Wagon Masters" C. Howard Johnson, former utilities director and Charles Ream of F. & R. Lazarus.

The drive, Jan. 29 through Feb. 27, is expected to corral 1650 new members, and is for new and renewal memberships in the General Branch and Business Men's Club of the Central YMCA.

During the drive, free guest passes are available from any "Y" member, at the Central YMCA, 40 W. Long-st, 224-1131.

Is He All Right?

Happily, this time, the answer is yes. But 250,000 times each year across this country, the answer is a heartbreaking, fearful no.

Why does something go wrong when these tiny bodies are being formed? Why is a seriously defective child born to one out of every ten American families?

Can more of these children be helped with present medical knowledge?

What more must we know to prevent this from happening to babies not yet born?

Answers to these questions are being sought in nationwide programs supported by your contributions to The National Foundation-March of Dimes—the largest single source of private support for birth defects research and care in history. These answers will help prevent birth defects, a problem which concerns every family everywhere.

Girl Scout News

Schiller Neighborhood

Schiller Neighborhood Girl Scout leaders and committee members will meet Monday, Jan. 20, 7:30 p.m. at St. Paul United Church of Christ, 225 E. Gates-st with Mrs. Brice Griffith, neighborhood chairman, presiding.

"Cookies with a Promise" will be the theme for the 1964 Girl Scout Cookie Sale to be conducted Feb. 7 through 17 by Scouts of the Seal of Ohio Girl Scout Council.

"Proceeds from cookie sales promise an even better program for girls in the Seal of Ohio Council," Mrs. Harold Fetter of 6302 Brauning-dr, Reynoldsburg, said today.

An estimated 13,000 Junior, Cadette and Senior Girl Scouts will sell five different kinds of cookies door-to-door in the Council's 10-county area, according to Mrs. Fetter, chairman of the council's product sales committee. The council includes Girls Scouts in Delaware, Fairfield, Fayette, Franklin, Hocking, Highland, Madison, Pickaway, Ross and Union counties.

Funds realized from the sale help defray troop expenses and provide a sizeable sum for maintenance and improvements of council-owned and/or operated camps. This year there are 19 such camp sites.

District Product Sales chairman and committee members of the South Side Leader area include: Mrs. Acy Blair, 1600 Frebis-av, chairman, assisted by Mrs. Annie Armsted, 1853 Arborfield-pl, Northeast Trail; Mrs. Alvin Gorrel, 960 Ellsworth-av, Olive Wharton; Mrs. Vincent Loyola, 3038 Weirton-dr, Southwind Trail, and Mrs. James Donohoe, 186 E. Moler-st, Schiller Neighborhood.

The income tax amendment to the Constitution was declared in force Feb. 25, 1913.

South High News 'n Notes

Students at South High will have an opportunity to attend a special showing of "How the West Was Won," at RKO Grand Theatre on Thursday, Jan. 30. The time of this showing will be 2 p.m., and tickets will be on sale in the school cafeteria and in the front hall during the weeks of Jan. 20 and 27.

Both the Spanish Club and the Advertising Club will sponsor the sale of tickets, which may be purchased from any of the following students, for the price of $1. Diana Harlor, Becky White, Jo Baker, and Carol Maier of the Advertising Club; Patsy Whitmer, Darlene Holmes, Natasha Taers — Bijns and Karen Watterson of the Spanish Club.

Eastmoor and Brookhaven High School will also participate in this event.

Winter Concert

The South High music department is presenting a concert on Saturday, Jan. 18, 8 p.m. in the school auditorium. The theme is "The Broadway Sound."

Among numbers to be presented are excerpts from "West Side Story," by the orchestra; "The Sound of Music," by the band, and music written by Cole Porter presented by the pit band and senior choir.

The vocal department will present numbers for the first half of the program.

Tickets are on sale at 50 cents for students and 75 cents for adults.

With the area's proximity to Parsons-av where lighting now exists, the opinion was expressed by one prominent South Sider that the neighborhood might stand a better chance of getting lights than some others who have been on the waiting list for years.

Mike Lower, principal of Marion Franklin and president of the Southern Kiwanis club stated that he intended to bring the matter to the attention of the appropriate committee of the service club. The committee will obtain from Kiwanis International literature for distribution in the area that will help parents and children avoid the tragedies that can occur through the molesting of children.

FCL'S '63-'64 ROSARY CRUSADER CAGERS

WITH TWO straight Franklin County League wins under their belts, Rosary cage coach Bud Trapp hopes his Crusader hoopsters are ready to make their move. The Green and White hardwood corps includes, kneeling (from left): coach Trapp, Ray Arnold, Jim Groce, Randy Butler, Don Spurlock, Bill Haabrook and Tom Kulp. Standing are: Jack Schafhausen, Jerry Callihan, Lee Ross, Ken Pearrell, Bob Pinkerman, Mike Bender, Vince Phillips and John Brennan. Missing were Ed Roehrenbeck, Rick Stokes and Mike Himmelspach.

TERRIERS WIN TWO, BUT . . .

Rebs' Streak Ended As West Wins, 64-60

Fred Heischman's West quintet derailed the undefeated South High "express" Friday night at Capital University's Alumni Gymnasium before an overflow crowd to remain hot on East's heels in the City League race.

John Colmery sent his team on the floor in quest of win number eight in a row, but the Cowboys sent the Rebs to the showers on the short end of the ledger for the first time this season.

THE OUTCOME of the contest was decided at the little white lines at each end of the floor. The Rebs could can only 12 of 25 at the free throw line while West demonstrated coolness under pressure and sunk 22 of 26 to offset South's 24-21 edge from the field.

Marvin Iverson, South's main defensive cog against the taller Cowboys, got into foul trouble early but still managed to retrieve 15 stray balls before retiring to the bench with five personals.

Bill Bullocks solved West's "flat iron" zone for 22 markers while teammates Roger Harper and Joe Middendorf added 12 each in a losing cause.

JERRY FRANCIS of the Cowboys stole the heroics for the West quintet as he sank six foul shots in the last four minutes to ice the win for the West Siders.

The South slate now reads 3-1 in the loop while West boasts a perfect 4-0 mark in league warfare.

In other contests, Aquinas won a pair, nipping Watterson and Marion-Franklin by two-point margins while Rosary and St. Marys were splitting two decisions each.

AQUINAS NICKED Marion-Franklin at the Koebel-rd school by a 60-58 count on Friday evening.

The Terriers took command in the second stanza as the Aquinas five outscored the hosts 17-11 to gain a 29-25 edge at the intermission that gave the visitors all the edge they needed.

The Terriers' Jim Duckworth gunned in 19 counters to pace the winners while Marion-Franklin had the game's top scorer in Larry Almon who garnered 20.

Saturday evening was a big night for Terrier fans as the Aquinas quintet dumped tough Watterson, 53-51. The Eagles gave up the lead in the second period when the Terriers made their move and pulled out front.

TERRY KANE clinched the win for the hosts by sinking the game-clinching free throws to go along with his 22 game-high points. The double win gave Aquinas a 4-4 ticket going into this week's action.

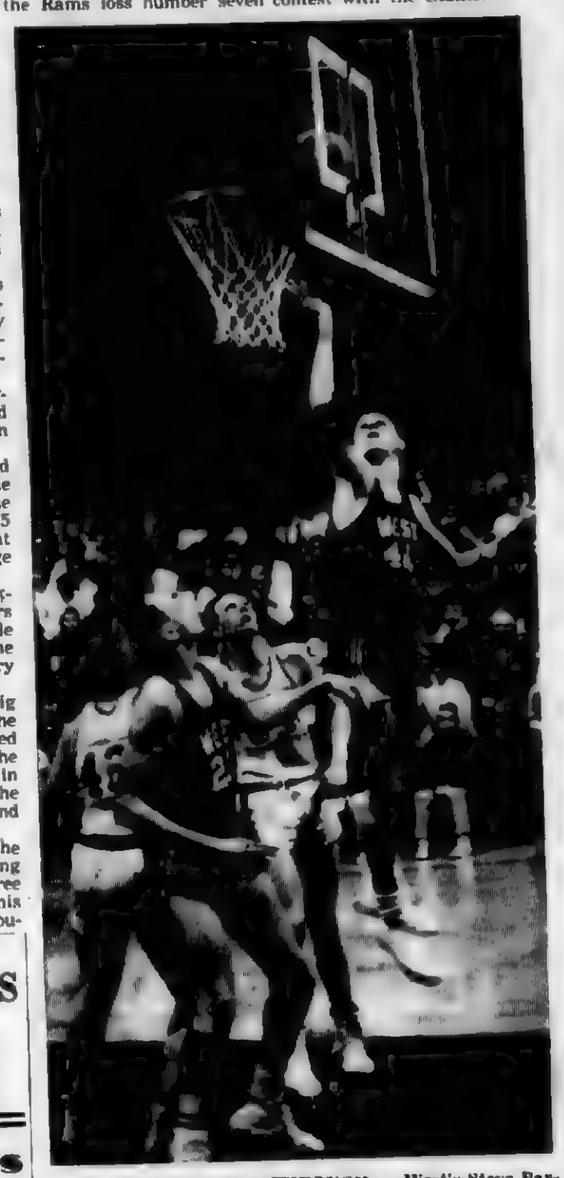
The Crusaders opened up their baskets and poured in a 73-65 win at K of C gym over FCL mate West Jefferson as three Crusaders hit the double figures.

JIM GROCE (23), Ed Roehrenbeck (17) and Rick Stokes with 14 markers paced the Rosary five to its third win.

Ready set Rosary down, 64-56, in the Silver Knights' gymnasium on Saturday evening to make the Crusader slate read 3-6 for the season.

The Silver Knights led all the way as Paul Eberts showed the Crusaders how with 15 points. The Rosary quintet placed Jim Groce at the head of the point-making department with 19.



ST. MARYS took a 55-44 lump at home Friday night as Dublin's Shamrocks gave the Rams loss number seven on the season. The Rams offered little resistance to the Irish as Jimmy Yate's 12 counters was the best St. Marys could offer while three Shamrocks hit the double digits, headed by Roger Seymour's 21 tallies.

The Rams took the lead in the second stanza and breezed in with the win behind Jimmy Yate's 12 points in the second half. The victory put the Rams at 1-7 for the campaign.

THE FRIDAY NIGHT cage menu finds St. Marys entertaining its Alumni, South (7-1) at East (7-1), North (3-5) at Marion-Franklin (4-4) and Rosary (3-6) journeying to New Albany (2-6).

Two games are slated in the area for Saturday evening as St. Marys travels to Ready (3-6) and Rosary treks to DeSales (5-5) for an important contest with the Stallions.

What Ever Happened To The Rivalry Game?

Last week we decided to do some investigating on a phase of athletic psychology — the traditional rivalry game.

ON THE national front, the evidence was plainly clear. We have Army vs. Navy, Harvard vs. Yale, Giants vs. Dodgers.

These are sure-fire bets for plenty of excitement on any given gridiron or diamond on any given day.

A quick glance at the Big Ten provided Indiana-Purdue (Oaken Bucket) or any old OSU-Michigan game.

SOME PEOPLE, however, just don't know when to lay off a good thing. Take Michigan, for example.

The Wolverines have standing 'rivalries' with more than their share of Conference opponents.

We get the impression that running battles with Illinois, Minnesota (Little Brown Jug), Michigan State and OSU have taken their toll on Michigan's W-L percentages over the years.

RIVALRIES aren't confined only to teams. They can sift down to personalities. Case in point — Arnold Palmer competing with Jack Nicklaus for the mythical "World Golf Title."

If more proof is necessary, catch the act when Bill Russell and Wilt Chamberlain meet, head to head, on the pro basketball court.

But a study of the "traditional rivarly" on the local front indicates something we've suspected in recent years.

THE TRADITION is no longer traditional and it's no easy job to find local schools with "honest-to-goodness" rivals these days.

In most cases, students who answered phones at local schools and were questioned on their big, athletic rival suggested we talk to the coach.

This amazing discovery proved either (1) the student wasn't interested in school athletics (unlikely) or (2) the old rock-em, sock-em rivarly just isn't around anymore.

IN PASSING, we do not wish to make any philosophical committment as to whether the rivalry itself is good or bad.

We only feel its absence has removed some of the color and sheen from the game.

A consensus, of students coaches, alumni and school principals decidedly showed that rivalries have tapered off during the past decade.

THE REASONS why were many and varied. Five — growth, league alignment, transportation, policy and school spirit — were most prominent:

GROWTH — As schools grow larger, necessary adjustments are invoked, some in the athletic setup.

Consolidation is the culprit in some areas as backyard rivalries die when students from neighboring areas play on the same team instead of against one another.

LEAGUE ALIGNMENT — Changes in leagues with accompanying demands to schedule all loop opponents in many cases elbow out the traditional rival who remains on the outside.

TRANSPORTATION — With a heavy bulk of high school students provided with their own transportation, old rivals intermingle more socially, breaking down the "us" and "they" attitude.

Scheduling has also promoted more and more "road trips" to far-flung areas of the state for an increased number of teams each year, sometimes at the expense of a less-attractive rival.

POLICY — Some school administrations have listed rivalry games as traditional trouble spots over the years and have been anxious to discourage continuation.

SCHOOL SPIRIT — is on the decline in some areas argue school officials and alumni. One high school principal blamed the decline on "increased demands on the student's time and a complexity of interests."

But all the answers can't be neatly deposited in categories. Two coaches suggested that rivalries "run in cycles."

While some officials are pleased at the rivalry decline, others are concerned and desire renewals.

FROM THE economic standpoint, they argue, traditional rivalry games always attract alumni and generally result in "the big gate."

However, athletic rivalries have not disappeared completely.

Games that pit Central vs. East, Eastmoor vs. Whitehall, Franklin Heights vs. Pleasant View, Marion-Franklin vs. South, Rosary vs. St. Marys, Groveport vs. Canal Winchester or West Jefferson vs. Mt. Sterling still rate high on the excitement plane.

THE LATTER case presents a situation that has become almost extinct in local circles. Each year, the winner of the "Battle for the Boot" retains a bronze football shoe until another gridiron renewal.

Of course, there are always some who can't be concerned with traditional rivals.

As one little girl at an area school which finds wins few and far between put it, "We worry about every game we play."

B. F. Coaltown Shares Top Trotter Award

An unprecedented deadlock in the state-wide voting caused presentation Tuesday night of co-champion Ohio Harness Horse of the Year plaques to Coffee Break and B. F. Coaltown at the U. S. Trotting Association's annual dinner session at the Deshler Hilton Hotel.

B. F. Coaltown, owned by Hill Distributing Company of Columbus, won eight of 21 starts as a three-year old trotter.

mediate and the more experienced.

While the novice can take his tumbles on a trail only 100 feet high and 500 feet long, the outdoorsman truly at home on skis will find the steeper and longer trails more to his taste.

But with bitter cold Sunday, the beginner and expert alike repeatedly found their way to the lodge and its huge open fireplace and hot food and drink.

And the pro shop stocked with all the paraphernalia that keeps skiing from being a chilling experience was doing a land-office business in goggles, mittens and tobaggans.

Although a good set of skiis, boots and poles are no more expensive than the equipment needed by an amateur setting out to conquer a golf course, they cost a pretty penny. Many, especially beginners who are interested in a cheap way to find out whether the sport lives up to their expectations, made the rental shop their first stop.

Before the opening of Shady Spring Trails last week, those with a yen to make like they are in the Alps or Sun Valley had to first make their way at least 60 miles to Mansfield. Now within a half-hour's drive of mid-town Columbus the slopes await.

With the trails lighted at night, crowds are expected throughout the week during the evening hours as well as on weekends.

And, if the weather continues arctic-like, some of those less stout will take their exercise dancing in the lodge, while admiring the prowess of the not-too-sweaty athletes from the picture windows overlooking the slopes.

It's all good clean fun, for those who can't dream up a business trip south.

But don't take the owners' reference to the man-made snow as "tender" too seriously.

It not only looks like the real McCoy — it feels the same when you hit it.

Take it from one who knows.

SHE'S HAD one lesson in the fine art of skiing, and Mary Lou Bronska of Beechwood-av was busy mastering what she had learned before tackling lesson No. 2.

Bartirome Named '64 Jet Trainer

The Columbus Jets have signed Tony Bartirome to succeed Angelo 'Tiny' Tunis as trainer of the 1964 Columbus club.

Bartirome, 30, formerly played first base for the Jets in the 1957-58-59 seasons and received a trial with the Pittsburgh Pirates.

The new trainer will arrive in Columbus shortly to confer with Dr. John Stevens and baseball officials before assuming his duties at the Jets' spring training headquarters in Daytona Beach, Fla., on Mar. 25.

Field And Stream Trips Boosted U. S. Economy

INSIDE ON THE Outdoors By ROB COCHRAN

You and I and the rest of the hunters and fishermen in the United States traveled 13.2 billion car-miles in pursuit of our sport last year. And like the national debt, it's a figure to play with.

It's a "fur piece" when you realize that it adds up to 144 one-way trips to the sun or 55,000 trips to the moon, although I don't know anyone who is interested in a one-way trip to either place.

LAID END TO END, these weekend hunting and fishing jaunts added up to 530,000 times around the earth. What does this mean? It means you're pretty important to our economy.

We spent nearly $4 billion on these outdoor trips, although it doesn't seem like I had my share to spend.

The statisticians have calculated that this $4 billion is more than we spend each year on physicians' services, telephone and telegraph, or radio and television receivers.

Baseball, often called our national sport, is mere peanuts by comparison. In fact, you can take money spent on baseball and add it to boxing, football, movies, theater, concerts and all other spectator amusements, and it still amounts to less than half of what went for hunting and fishing.

IN THE PAST five years the number of men who hunt has increased to a new high of more than 11 million or about one in five. Women are taking up hunting in a big way, too. Their number doubled during this period, and now totals about one million.

Fishermen have increased 22 per cent in five years, so that today there are an estimated 30 million hunters and fishermen in this country.

The increase in participation in hunting and fishing is greater than the population growth as a whole, and our population is called "mushrooming" by most writers. When you add camping, boating, hiking and the like, outdoor recreation truly becomes a significant part of our economy.

Do not forget these facts when you talk or write to your congressman, Governor or public official. You are important — collectively more important than some factories, mines or industries. And wise use of the outdoors is what will keep you in business pursuing your form of recreation. All of this adds up to conservation. It is one of our basic needs today.

Another Case For Planning

People of Hilliard have good reason to regret that the Blue Plan for the Central Ohio Community is just now getting off the ground, rather than having been in effect for 10 years.

If there had been a Blue Plan before 1956, Hilliard might not now have to worry about impending obsolescence of a sewage treatment plant. Hilliard residents will continue to pay for the facility until the year 1997. But its usefulness may terminate as early as the fall of this year.

Hilliard is dumping its sewage treatment effluent into the Scioto River under a permit granted by the State Department of Health. The City of Columbus has long claimed that detergents in the effluent are responsible for the periodic water odor and taste problems experienced particularly on the West Side of Columbus.

The Columbus solution of the problem hinges on servicing Hilliard through the East Scioto Trunk Sewer. This means that the cities will have to devise a service payment plan agreeable to both communities.

But sewage treatment service out of the City of Columbus will not solve the Hilliard problem of being stuck with a $600,000 sewage treatment plant. And the means for paying off the bonded indebtedness of the plant will be eliminated if Hilliard is serviced by Columbus. The money that now goes towards amortizing the plant will be channeled into Columbus service charges.

It would appear that the plant is solving a relatively short-term problem at a relatively high eventual cost. It seems that Hilliard, a village when the plant was first constructed, was without any other recourse when the initial decision for the plant was made. There was no Blue Plan to consult. Columbus was unable to tell Hilliard officials just when service from the capital city might be expected.

The story of Hilliard's present plight should serve as an added incentive to all communities to work toward complete success of the Blue Plan goals of integrated, county-wide planning.

We do not operate on the premise that the Blue Plan in and of itself is a cure-all for planning ills. When we speak of what the Blue Plan might accomplish we envision a plan with teeth; one that will not be prostituted to the whims and fancies of either the politician or the developer.

The Blue Plan, as we see it, is a master plan for the communities. It should be one that commands conformance, rather than a planner's dream that is adjusted to meet every area objection.

The many communities that make up the Central Ohio Community will reap the full potential of the Blue Plan only by a willingness to make the necessary local concessions for maximum mutual benefits.

March Of Dimes Faces New Challenge

The National Foundation — March of Dimes campaign is moving into high gear locally in the continuing battle against crippling birth defects and arthritis. Leaders of the N-F are hopeful that a concerted effort, as persistent as the program that triumphed over polio, can achieve similar success in treatment and eventual prevention of birth defects.

The Ohio branch of N-F points out that approximately 15,000 babies born in Ohio in 1964 will have serious birth defects. These defects, they say, will claim as many as 1,200 lives before the year is over.

On the hopeful side is the belief of Franklin County Campaign Director Jerry Spears, Jr., that substantial gains in the arthritis-birth defect battle will be announced in three to four years. Children's Hospital is one of the 69 research and treatment centers.

Historically, Franklin County has benefited beyond local cash contributions to March of Dimes campaigns. In the past 25 years, $2,314,037 has been spent in Franklin County, about $100,000 more than local donations.

The traditional Mothers' March will be conducted this year on Tuesday, Jan. 28. About 7,000 volunteers will participate in the door-to-door campaign for solicitations. A local innovation will find a committee of 60 prominent local business men seeking pledges from industry in Franklin County.

The fight against polio at one time seemed a virtually hopeless task. But determination, persistence and public support turned the tide to victory. A continuation of this formula will surely lead to a similar result in the fight against birth defects and arthritis.

Keep Vows Sacred As God Commands

Ecclesiastes 5:4-5 When thou vowest a vow unto God, defer not to pay it; for He hath no pleasure in fools: pay that which thou hast vowed. Better is it that thou shouldest not vow, than that thou shouldest vow and not pay.

It is a little late to talk about New Year's resolutions, but I saw a cartoon a few days ago that caused me to ask the question, "just how much value do we place upon our vows or resolutions?" In this cartoon a man was sitting engulfed in a cloud of smoke; standing in the door was his wife. She was saying to him "Last year you vowed to stop smoking, now what gives this year?" This would be very amusing if it did not reveal a basic fault of man, the low esteem he places upon his sacred vows. Let me remind you that when you say "I resolve" this is under God and unto God and not to man.

Rev. Coyle

I do not know what resolutions you may have made, if any, but may I urge you to keep them if they were worth making, and you will be a better, stronger, happier person throughout the year.

If you did not make any vows for 1964 I would like to suggest a few. First, may I suggest that you resolve in 1964 to acquire a better understanding of the Bible. If the Bible is the Word of God, and we believe it is, (II Timothy 3:16) (II Peter 1:20-21) we ought to know what God has to say to us. You may acquire this understanding by reading the Bible and by attending a church where the Bible is honored as God's Word.

Second, I would like to urge you to resolve to respect the Church as the body of Christ, purchased by His blood. (Acts 20:28) I call upon you to honor the Church as a divine institution, for Jesus said in Matthew 16:18: "I will build my Church and the gates of Hell shall not prevail against it."

Third, I ask you to resolve to assemble with the Church regularly. (Hebrews 10:25.) There is a strength gained from regular worship that is as vital to our spiritual life as food is to our physical life.

Finally I ask you to remember four things concerning Jesus Christ:

1. There is only one way to be saved, and that through Him. (Acts 4:10-12.)
2. Remember Christ who lived an absolute sinless life is our example.
3. Remember that our bodies are temples of the Holy Spirit (I Corinthians 6:19-20) and we should not defile the temple of the Holy Spirit.
4. Remember that while God is love and Christ died for us because He loves us, He has also told us in John 3:18 that unbelief will bring condemnation to our souls. In fact, Jesus states in this text that if we do not believe we are condemned already.

Keep these things in mind as you face the New Year and your journey will be happy and prosperous.

An Editor's Outlook . . . by Jenkin Lloyd Jones

Teach Children The Joy Of A Bargain

"No, sir. My kids aren't going to have it tough like I had it. When I was young we scrimped and patched and did without. We never bought anything but what we weighed and shook it and tried to figure out how to put the nickels back in the pig. Well, I've got a little dough now, and my kids are going first class."

The ample gentleman in his tuxedo at the banquet table was in an expansive, jovial mood. He obviously had much more than "a little dough." He was obviously an adoring parent. And if his youngsters weren't being ruined they were probably being cheated of one of the authentic pleasures of living — the pleasure of treasuring a bargain.

Jones

Parents who protect their children from the economic facts of life do them no favor. There is a lot of difference between what Thomas Gray called "chill penury" and an idiotic ignorance of the value of a dollar. How to make the most of one's money should be as much a part of the education process as learning how to spell.

The indulgent father said his kids would "go first class." But when? If you can swing it it makes a lot of sense to go first class on a transatlantic liner. But it makes practically no sense on a transatlantic airplane. For the $200 extra on the liner you spend from five to 10 days eating the finest foods and enjoying the biggest cabins and broadest decks. For the $200 extra on the plane you have six and one-half hours of a broader seat, more leg room, and as much "free" drinks and filet mignon as you can swallow in that brief time. At four bits a minute it isn't worth it.

The quickest way to learn the value of money is to earn it. The silly beanie hat at the county fair costs 50 cents. What is 50 cents? It is four hours of backbreaking labor to the fellow dipping water into an Egyptian irrigation ditch. Or it is six minutes of unearned increment on a million dollars worth of five percent bonds. But to the boy who gets a dollar for mowing the lawn it is the mowing of half a lawn. He looks twice at the beanie.

Every child should be introduced to the problem of when to buy for quality and when to buy for price.

The 15-cent pocket comb, made of a superior plastic, will last 10 times as long as the five-cent comb. And it will comb hair just as well as the $5 gold-plated comb.

The 25-cent mechanical pencil will write just as well and just as long as the $10 gold-filled mechanical pencil. A mechanical pencil is merely a long screw holding a bit of graphite.

But the $15 fountain pen will give 50 times the satisfaction of the $2 fountain pen, for the good fountain pen is a precision instrument requiring close tolerances and a precious-metal nib.

It is idiotic to buy a cheap razor blade unless you have the kind of beard that a cheap blade shaves beautifully. Otherwise, the difference in cost-per-shave between the cheapest blade and the most expensive is less than a penny. But there is little difference between the standard shaving cream and the most expensive except in the perfume.

You might shop around for an inexpensive tree surgeon, but not for an inexpensive brain surgeon. There is a world of difference in watches and cameras, but aspirin is aspirin — a standard drug made to government specifications.

How many parents, with mistaken kindness, have insulated their children from the fascinating perplexities of prices and values? Many a promising marriage has been wrecked because either or both partners were brought up as shopping morons.

By the time a girl reaches high school she should have learned how to read the net weights on the packaged food. The "economy size" isn't always the most economical. When she marries she owes it to her family to save hundreds of dollars a year by watching the ads.

Every high school boy should know how to figure interest and "carrying charges" on an installment-paid automobile. At high school age one should be too sophisticated to be dazzled by a low down payment. One of the most forgotten truths in modern America is that you are going to pay more and get less if you spend your life using things that have been bought with other people's money.

Your money's worth. You don't buy cheap champagne for your daughter's wedding reception, for you hurt yourself if you choose that occasion to brand yourself a skinflint. You don't try to argue your wife into joining the Easter parade with a dollar bonnet off the basement hat bar. You don't hoard money aimlessly until you die without ever having stood on the edge of the Grand Canyon or gazed upon the Tetons.

But the quest for your money's worth is both a legitimate and an exciting part of living. It is like making a little slam with a 15-count or learning how far to lead the ducks with your 12-gauge. It is a technique that can well spell the difference between general satisfaction and perpetual frustration.

The moment your child is old enough to spend, teach him the joy of a bargain.

Urge Foundation Member To View Television Show

To the Editor:

Beginning in September, 1962, the professional staff of the South-Western City Schools inaugurated a new program designed to revitalize the teaching of patriotism in our schools. This program reaches 12,000 students in our 23 schools in this, the second largest school system in the Metropolitan Columbus area.

In the spring of last year, newspapers carried stories of awards made by the Freedoms Foundation of Valley Forge, Pa., to individuals and schools in the metropolitan area. These awards were made for outstanding efforts in the very area in which we were then, and still are, working.

Officials of our school system contacted the Freedoms Foundation to determine the method used in making these awards. The reply indicated that in order to be considered there must be a recommendation from a member of the Freedoms Foundation. Unfortunately, we do not seem to know any such person.

We have written this letter to the editor in the hope that someone who is a member of Freedoms Foundation will watch our television program to be presented on TV-4 on Sunday, Jan. 19, on the "Open Classroom" program, presently scheduled for noon. This short 20-minute film will indicate a part of the activities we use in "Teaching Patriotism in Our Schools."

If any member of the Foundation sees this film and decides that this program in our schools is worthy of consideration, we would appreciate the recommendation.

Paul S. Noblitt,
Supervisor of Community Relations

STRICTLY FRESH

Some of us don't know what we have, but feel sure we don't have it.

Even a mosquito doesn't get a slap on the back until he starts working.

One wallpaper and paint store we know about won't let husbands choose colors unless they have notes from their wives.

Frosting On The Cake

By "UNCLE DOC" ROSS — U.S.A.

"Politics" is a business that the professionals work at every conscious moment of their lives. The real tragedy is that too many of our free millions are not nearly so interested in our system of government as the professionals have to be.

This year is going to be a political "doozie." Every prominent name with long political background is getting his two-cent bid into the hopper. Ike has led the way in naming names, but he is so much smarter now, politically, than when he was President, he has made no first choice. All Ike is doing is shoving some fresh tinder under the pot.

President Johnson is already showing signs of the awful "internal turmoil" that many of us have already mentioned in our columns. He is just one human being after all, and all of his past is part of his NOW, politically speaking. Many things he has said will be the "chickens coming home to roost." Much that he will say in the next year will be a combination of trial balloons, second guessing, back tracking, and a little bit of "adventure in audacity" because too many of his intimates are interested solely in their own political hides.

Every artifice known to the political breed will be brought out to confuse and confound the real issues next November. But, more and more citizens are aware of the fact that Mr. K. is not only a pathological liar, he is also an evil genius who will change his spots only when he has to flee the Communist camp to save his own hide. No one in his right mind ever tries to "negotiate" with a rattlesnake.

President Johnson is this minute stewing in the hottest political kettle he ever has been in at any time in his life. We are really in for a show this year. How many additional voters have waked up since 1960, will determine the outcome.

Variety . . .
by I. F. Howell

FAME'S ORPHANS

Men win their little victories
In their small time and place
And think that they have made a mark
That time cannot erase.
But few have ever heard of them
Beyond their street and town,
For they are not the children of,
But orphans of renown.

Of all the millions, a few become famous. The rest of us are run-of-the-mill, perhaps not too obscure, and certainly not well known beyond a limited place and a few friends.

You hate to roll out of the hay and greet the day. But, after the necessary physical rituals, some nourishment, and the stimulus of caffein and nicotine, you're not too much astonished to see that the old planet is still turning on its axis. And you decide you've got an even chance of pulling through another day without too many wounds and of walking through your front door at eventide to a table and a pair of lovin' arms to greet you.

You like to think, too, that after the long pull, after you've done all this and more for the last time and your friends are gathered round to bid you a last farewell, one of them might say, "He could have been worse." Another might say, "If the Lord ever thought of making any mistakes, he wasn't one of them." Still another just might have a thought to quote the Bard and say, as
It says here . . .

"His life was gentle and the elements so mixed in him that Nature could stand up and say to all the world, "This was a man'."

One Man's Opinion . . .

Community newspapering has often been termed "grass roots journalism." And as the population grows, so do the numbers of community newspapers. Thus, just like wheat for bread, newspapers grow both individually and in numbers to meet another need — information.

Perkowski

But there is something of a paradox: while newspapering grows, grass roots are disappearing. Other than between sidewalk cracks and the contracting distance from sidewalk to building, grass is becoming more extinct each year.

The reason: houses and buildings are being constructed closer together, and now we are going up. Where it ends no one knows as yet.

And there is still another paradox: although more people may live in a city block, there are fewer "neighbors" than ever before. Almost incongruously it appears that the closer two people live to each other, the greater the possibility they will not know each other.

It would seem, therefore, that community newspapers have a greater challenge than ever. And a greater responsibility as well.

Communities in which the people do not identify with each other are communities slipping into a future where there is no future.

What can a newspaper do?

It can report what area, civic, political and service groups are doing, thereby encouraging the support of the community; it can bring attention to the achievements of individuals and groups, so that unknown "neighbors" may get together.

A newspaper can do many things, but above all, it must inform. It is information which lights the path to knowledge. And it is only through knowledge that we come to know others and our community, our churches and our schools—the many institutions that now form the oldest institution—our society.—ROBERT PERKOWSKI

THEY ARE RALLY BOUND

TEENAGERS AND YOUNGER children at the South Side Settlement House are working on posters that will be placed on the buses and cars that will form a caravan to the civil rights rally scheduled at Vet's Memorial Sunday, Jan. 19. Above are, from the left, Patsy Allen, 480 Oipp-av; Gloria Portia Gore, 723 Stambaugh-av and Cheryl Anderson, 271 Barthman, members of the Market Club. Standing is Miss Rebecca Gifford, staff member. The caravan will leave the St. Ladislas parking area at 2 p.m. sharp and there will be transportation for any Southsiders who wish to attend the rally. The teenagers, who will usher at the rally, will also be busy selling equality buttons at various shopping centers Saturday. The caravan is being sponsored by the Settlement House, St. Ladislas, the Clair Methodist Church and St. Stephens Community House.

The vocal and instrumental departments of South High School will present a concert at the school on Saturday, Jan. 18, at 8 p.m.

The Band and Orchestra Parents Club will have a bake sale. All kinds of goods will be available in the front hall.

Area members of the Guilds of St. Ann's Infant Home and Hospital will be among those attending the annual banquet and installation of the new officers tonight (Thursday) at the Desert Inn. A social hour at 7 p.m. will precede the 8 p.m. dinner.

Bishop Clarence Issenmann will attend the banquet Mrs. Margaret Oliba, of the staff of St. Ann's, will be the toastmistress, while Sister Maryanna, O.P. of St. Mary of the Springs will be the featured speaker.

Two South Side women are included on the executive board of the group. They are Mrs. Donald Allwein, of 1174 Ellsworth-av, first vice-president, and Mrs. Charles Sahr, 1451 Lockbourne-av, financial secretary.

The Children's Theatre Company of the Ohio State University will present "Jack and the Beanstalk," at 10:30 a.m., 1:30 p.m. and 3:30 p.m. on Saturday, Jan. 18, and 1:30 and 3:30 p.m. on Sunday, Jan. 19. "Rip Van Winkle" will be presented on Jan. 25 and 26, with the same time schedule.

Also on top for the amusement of the younger generation is the Captain Kangaroo appearance, Saturday, Jan. 18, at Veterans Memorial, at 10:30 a.m., 1 and 3:30 p.m.

The voting age segment of birthdayites includes: Carl Heil, Betty Justus, Wanda Hiser, Nellie McGiven, Jewel Castle, Marie Lyle, Jeannie Graham, Magdalene Loudner, Serina Wood, Tim Souder, Milt Bonnette and Walter Denney.

Anniversaries are the big events in the lives of Betty and Charles Walker and Mr. and Mrs. Homer Doty.

A Saturday, Jan. 18 wedding will unite Rita Marie Boring, 915 Studer-av, and Michael Dietlin, 1336 E. Gates-st, in marriage, at St. John's Catholic Church.

A ceremony on Sunday, Jan. 19, at the Gates Street Church of Christ will be performed for Sharon Kay Held, 2021 Linwood-av, and Timothy Green, of Mason, O., at 3:30 p.m.

An open church ceremony at St. John the Evangelist Catholic Church will unite Mary Vath, 717 Wilson-av, in marriage with William Rade, 672 Derrer-rd.

Sympathy is extended to the family of Mrs. David Hamilton, who passed away in December.

The ailing list includes Mathew Milton, in Children's Hospital, as was Kitty Church, 575 Lock-av. Nettie Burch was to undergo surgery at Doctors Hospital last week. Other ailing residents include Madeline McDade, Mr. and Mrs. Jim Robinson, Mrs. Henry Caves and Arthur Bogard Betty Ellis, 225 Southwood-av, is coming along nicely, we're happy to report.

Meetings, here and there . . .

The South Side "Y" Mothers Club will utilize Dr. George Crane's "Test For Wives" when they meet Tuesday, Jan. 21, at 9:30 a.m.

Ruth Circle of South Methodist Church will be the hostess group when the church's WSCS meets at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday, Jan. 22.

The social meeting of St. Paul Luther League will feature a pizza party at 7:15 p.m., Sunday, Jan. 19.

The Ladies Bible Class of Washington Avenue EUB Church will meet at 7:30 p.m., Monday, Jan. 20.

Since many groups have a change of officers the first of the year, this seems a good time to remind secretaries, publicity chairmen, etc., that we welcame an inclusion on your group's mailing list. This includes ALL groups that have a South Side connection; church, school, charitable, civic, male and female. We can only be as all-inclusive as your secretaries help us to be.

The 46th annual report meeting of the South Side Branch YMCA will be held at 7:30 p.m., Monday, Jan. 20, at the "Y," 190 Southwood-av. Refreshments will be served at the conclusion of the evening's program by the Mother's Club, assisted by Young People's Inter-Cnurch Council.

The program will feature a song-fest and selections by the Optimist Junior Boys Glee Club. T. Kline Hamilton will show slides featuring "Pilgrimage to the Holy Land."

The Credit Union of the Columbus Firemen will hold a dinner-dance and meeting on Saturday, Jan. 18, at the Arts and Crafts Building at the fairgrounds. The 6:30 p.m. dinner will be followed by a meeting at 8 p.m., with round and square dancing scheduled to begin at 9:30 p.m.

Paul and Millie Barnhill have moved from 1426 Miller-av and are now residents of 1644 Bostwick-rd. The Esswein family, formerly of 883 Bruck-st, now reside at 2487 Schaaf-dr.

John Conaway, 1182 Smithrd would be most happy to hear from friends and neighbors while in the service. His address is: AB John M. Conaway, AF 23565543 Box 1510 Flight 158, Lackland AFB, Tex.

New arrivals bringhtening their parents' lives this winter include the daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Everett Holbrook, and Mr. and Mrs. Pearl Murray, new sons are the wee ones in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Smith, Mr. and Mrs. David Clark, Mr. and Mrs. David Sagstetter, Mr. and Mrs. Dick Baird, and Mr. and Mrs. Jim Mitchell.

The Church Shelby orchestra will provide the 8:45 to 11:45 p.m. dance music at the YWCA on Wednesday, Jan. 22.

With plans to be made for the 25th reunion of the 1939 class of South High, Jean Stertzer Thompson and Ed Findley have scheduled a meeting Wednesday, Jan. 22. 7:30 p.m. at the South Side Branch YWCA, 190 Southwood.

Committee members are needed and the names and present addresses of the alumni are being sought. Mrs. Thompson asks that anyone who can turn out for the meeting, and that everyone help by calling her at BE. 5-6682 or Finley, BE. 5-2759, with names and addresses.

Eight-year-old Ken (Buzz) Christy, son of Mr. and Mrs. George W. Christy of 249 E. Markison, injured his le when he fell at Barret Junior High. Thirty-two stitches were required to close the wound. He is now at home.

As It Should Be

News of the past week, with Col. John Glenn's hat being thrown into the political ring, has been about as shaking on the political front as his flight around the world in a capsule.

Speculation continues to run high as to the outcome of this and many a thing can happen between now and election in November.

I do not concede that Col. Glenn is a push-over. Yet, it must be remembered that at this stage he has practically no political strikes against him.

The Democratic state convention on Thursday was a refreshing incident and the fact that the people of Ohio will go to the polls in May to select the Democratic candidate of their own choice is rather unusual. But, by any standards, according to my books, this is as it should be.

Americans generally recognize the worth of the party in politics but party politicians step far afield when they go all out for only endorsed candidates in primaries.

It is too bad that a Col. Glenn hat in the ring was the only thing that could force such a decision in state politics. If another hero could step forward in the Republican ranks, Americans might be encouraged to enter the field of politics more readily with the knowledge that they do not have to buck their own party in a primary.

Decisions

I am reminded of the story about the lad who was employed as a potato sorter. He worked in a packing plant where he put the big spuds here and the little ones there. One day after several years on the job he quit. His reason: "These decisions are killing me."

This past week I had occasion to pay for a seven cent service in a local institution. I handed the young man in this trusted position a dollar bill and two cents.

DEDICATED SERVICE was recognized Monday night when the Significant Service Awards were given to three who had gone beyond the call of duty in working for the South Side Branch YMCA. From the left are James Wagner, executive secretary; Miss Magdalene Bostic, Fornof teacher, and Howard Henry, postman.

South 'Y' Makes Service Awards

Just for once, Jim Wagner was the last to know what was going on behind closed doors at the South Side YMCA.

When arrangements were being made last week for pictures to be taken at the annual "Y" meeting, he disclosed, confidentially, to the South Side Leader, that two persons would be recognized for their Significant Service to the YMCA and to their community.

He was right — as far as he went.

The service of Miss Magdalene Bostic and Howard Henry was indeed recognized.

But what "Big Jim" didn't know was that he had been selected for a like award.

Three other men's contribution to the "Y" were noted when they received the Red Triangle Awards.

Don Lund, Oscar P. Wiecher and Kenneth N. Olbert were the power behind the three drives that finally brought the new building into reality last year for the 46-year-old organization.

Lund, a board member from 1957 to 1960, served as the branch chairman of the YM-YW Capital Funds Campaign which made construction possible. Wiecher had chaired the Charter Membership drive in 1962 which provided funds for furnishing and equipping the building. He has also served on the board during the past two years.

Olbert, who is a member of the Community Program Council and principal of Barrett Junior High, was chairman of the first Annual Membership Enrollment. It was upon this program that the operation of the "Y" depends.

✦ HATS OFF TO ✦

Miss Bostic

When Miss Magdalene Bostic received the Significant Service Award, many years of teaching and 14 years of YMCA activity were recognized.

Coming to Columbus in 1935 after more than 10 years of teaching in Southern Ohio, Miss Bostic has served the Fornof School District since that time — as a teacher, a counselor, a librarian and with the PTA.

During the past seven years she has contributed her time and love to the youth of the community as advisor to the

Jim Wagner

Literally thousands of young people have been influenced by Jim Wagner since he first became interested in recreation after graduation from high school in Marietta in 1936.

Before entering the Army he became active in Washington County Co-Op youth groups and after discharge came to work for the South Side YMCA in 1946 as part-time associate secretary while attending Ohio State University.

As full-time associate secretary after graduation, he spent much of his time with the development of the South Y-Park, a project close to his heart. He lived in one of the cabins there for 10 years, supervising the work and activities.

When his administrative duties increased with his appointment as executive secretary two years ago, upon the retirement of "Cap" Hoover, he still found time for close contact with the youth of the community.

A square dance enthusiast,

H. F. Henry

If any man can be called indispensable to a program, the designation must surely go to Howard Henry who since 1958 has served as church athletic director for the South Side Branch YMCA.

During the past year he has supervised 93 church teams, including both men's and boys' basketball teams, girls', boys' and men's softball and men's slo-pitch and volleyball teams.

He also was the key worker in forming YICA Club and is its advisor.

Henry's volunteer efforts have included building supervision and volunteer painting.

MILEUSNICH EXPLAINS LOCKBOURNE RD. SITUATION

Street Improvement Must Be Included In Sidewalk Plans

If South Siders know a bargain when they see one Mike Mileusnich of the Council of South Side Organizations should have no difficulty circulating the petitions he has ready.

When residents of Lockbourne-rd living between Frebis and Groveport-rd went to the CSSO for help in obtaining sidewalks to eliminate their children's walking the heavily traveled thoroughfare to and from school, the matter was in Mileusnich's lap.

He soon learned that the city would not approve sidewalks for the area unless a general street improvement was undertaken simultaneously.

And that is where the bargain comes in.

For an assessment of only $12 per front foot, property owners can take steps that will lead to the street being widened to 40 feet, curbs, gutters, storm sewers installed and sidewalks laid.

Payment would be spread over a 20-year period on the tax duplicates of the landowners.

Before city council can act, according to Mileusnich, at least 51 percent of the property holders must signify their willingness to undertake the expense by signing of petitions.

In the preliminary groundwork that Mileusnich has laid, he has secured verbal assent to the proposal of three businesses in the area.

He explained that the consent of business owners is often easier to come by than that of owners of large tracts of land that is currently not built up.

In the residential areas along this portion of Lockbourne, there is relatively little rental property, with most owners being residents. Exceptions are the apartment buildings near Smith-rd.

Although Robert Werner, city engineer, has suggested to council's representative that the request be limited to the area from Frebis to Marion-rd, this did not meet with CSSO approval.

Mileusnich expressed hope that at least the improvement can continue to the railroad tracks immediately south of Refugee-rd. This is in the immediate area of property owned by Swift and Co. and S. M. Flickinger Co., Inc.

Even if the petitions were signed today, it is unlikely the project would begin immediately.

In 1959 residents of Fairwood-av from Frebis north to an alley just south of Whittier filed a similar petition.

Not until Dec. 16 of 1963 did city council pass a resolution of necessity.

A spokesman from the city engineer's office explained that as soon as the property owners are notified, the next step will be adoption by council of an ordinance to proceed which will include appropriations for the city's share of the cost.

The final step before construction can begin is the passing of the note ordinance to finance the improvement until such time as the money due has been collected by the auditor.

Mileusnich does not foresee such a delay on the Lock-

EDUCATION AT CROSSROAD

Strike Out Grade Levels . . . Or Return To Three R Basics?

Progressive education versus the Three Rs; how schools should be run, and what should be taught and how . . .

Poles apart in their approach are the two concepts of teaching to be aired by nationally prominent educators in Columbus Sunday and Monday, Feb. 23 and Feb. 24.

Under discussion will be the progressive plan of a non-graded elementary school with the removal of grade designations, allowing youngsters to progress by their own capability rather than be limited by a grade structure.

The opposite, "Amidon" philosophy of education, stresses the Three Rs and the academic subjects, on the premise that schools' primary purpose is to educate for intellectual power.

The debates will be aired on Columbus Town Meeting Feb. 23, and at seminars sponsored by the Education Committee, Franklin County Mental Health Association Feb. 24 at the downtown YWCA, from noon until 3:30, and from 5 to 8:30 p.m.

The two major and different concepts of education will be represented on Town Meeting by Harvard professor Dr. Robert H. Anderson, co-author of "The Non-Graded Elementary School Plan," and by Dr. Carl Hansen, superintendent of schools, Washington, D. C., proponent of the Amidon School Plan. Dr. Hansen will be in town only for the Sunday session.

The two are recognized na-

Dimes Drive Set Saturday

More than 8,000 volunteer Marching Mothers will take part in the annual Franklin County March of Dimes Drive Saturday, Jan. 25, 2 to 5 p.m., Sunday, Jan. 26, 3 to 5 p.m. and Tuesday, Jan. 28, 6:30 to 9 p.m.

"Money solicited by volunteers of the Mother's March will be used to fight birth defects and arthritis," said Mrs. D. L. DeCenzo, chairman of the 1964 Mother's March.

In an effort to contact every resident in Franklin County, the Mother's March will need more volunteers. They have set their goal at $60,000. Last year they collected $50,-881.58.

CONTEST WILL TELL

Does He, Doesn't He Bake A Better Cake?

Who says women have all the skill with a skillet? Or that they can make the most captivating cupcakes?

The men of the Alton Community Institute certainly won't go along with that.

They are having a men's cake baking contest again this year at Alton Institute (Jan. 24, 25) and they have promised to reveal their prize winning recipe in time to be included in the Hartley Newspapers Cook Book Recipe Contest. The results will be published Mar. 5 and 6.

Alton is a small rural community on Rt. 40, just west of Columbus. The institute is a two-day information session and social gathering which goes back to "gosh knows when." The men of Alton, most of them dyed-in-the wool farmers, believe that the woman's place is in the kitchen —364 days of the year, that is. For . t one day, however, the men drop the tractor throttle to take a turn with the spatula.

Every year since the contest began, in 1958, the blue ribbon has been awarded to Tom Smith of Hubbard-rd, Galloway, except for last year when he lost the award to, of all people, his son, Kody.

This year the Smith boys and other cake baking men of the Farmers' Institute will be out to garner the institute's prize as well as try for the Hartley Newspapers prizes.

Saturday, Jan. 25, will tell the tale. Whether the Hartley entrants can dethrone the Smith boys is, well, all in the mix.

All that you need to do to get into the scramble is to submit your favorite recipe with the coupon printed in this newspaper.

The following rules govern the Hartley Newspapers Cook Book Recipe Contest.

1. There are five divisions, teenagers, brides of not more than one year, homemakers, senior citizens and men.

2. Any reader of the seven Hartley Newspapers may submit one recipe a week. Each coupon accompanying the recipe will entitle the participant to a chance for the valuable prizes.

3. Election of the winners will be in the hands of a committee of judges active in the field of home economics and homemaking.

Clip the cook book coupon and start sending in your entries right now. Judges reserve the right to print any or all recipes submitted.

LET'S HOPE THEY MAKE IT. These youngsters are on their way home from Smith Road school by way of Lockbourne-rd. With no sidewalks in the area, they have no choice but to compete with the traffic for space on the narrow 35-foot pavement. From the left, in the foreground are Vic Rossiter, Elizabeth Graham, Mike Price and Bill Graham. In the back, from left are Bill Richards and Cynthia Edger.

Euchre Set Saturday

HAMILTON CENTRAL ELEMENTARY School PTA will hold a euchre party Saturday, Jan. 25, 8 p.m. at the school, located on Rathmell-rd. At left is Jackie Davis, chairman, 5119 Edgeview-rd. RECEIVES HONOR

Miss Cora M. Weber, 580 E. Town-st, was elected 1964 Secretary of the Year of the Columbus Chapter of National Secretaries Association (International) at a recent meeting. Miss Weber is secretary to Robert H. Atkinson, executive of Ohio-West Virginia Area Council YMCA's.

There is a need to look back occasionally to get our bearings for the future. Past experiences often guide future action. What has proved good and profitable in the past will often prove to be the same in the days ahead. Serving God and our country through our churches and through civil and community service has always elevated us as a people and contributed to our image as a free and just country. We will not go wrong in adhering to these practices. Attend the church of your choice this Sunday and receive inspiration and courage for the future.

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for men to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny; the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.

Molly Babbitt Wed In Bridal Gown Made By Mother And Grandmother

Groveport Zion Lutheran Church was the setting Nov. 16, for the marriage of Miss Molly Babbitt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Orin C. Babbitt, to Mr. Joseph R. Nicholson. Rev. George Troutman officiated the double ring ceremony before an altar decorated with white mums, yellow carnations and seven branch candelabra.

The bride wore a gown of of peau de sole designed and sewn by her mother and embroidered by her maternal grandmother. The gown was styled with a basque waist, pearl-centered scalloped neckline and long sleeves. The bell-shaped skirt was accented with luster embroidered scallops and decorated with pearl encrusted miniature roses. An arrangement of two larger roses and petals adorned the black waistline.

Her fingertip veil of illusion was held in place by a princess crown of pearls and crystals and she carried a cascade of white carnations and ivy. A single strand of pearls, a gift from the bridegroom, was her only jewelry.

Mrs. George Silvat of McKees Rocks, Pa., served as matron of honor. Miss Barbara Sims served as bridesmaid, and Cheryl Silvat as flower girl.

The attendants were attired in identical styled dresses of olive green velveteen and bittersweet velveteen. They wore matching open crown pillboxes with circle veils and carried crescent bouquets of contrasting carnations in shades of yellow and bittersweet with accents of wheat.

Attending the bridegroom as best man was Mr. Gary White. Ushers were Mr. Ronald Snyder, Mr. J. Daniel Knode and Mr. Fred A. Babbitt, brother of the bride.

The couple is residing at 718 Blacklick-st, Groveport.

OBETZ-HAMILTON TOWNSHIP

● Ruth Borden 491-1033

A euchre party will be held at Hamilton Central Elementary School on Saturday, Jan. 25, at 8 p.m. Public is invited.

Regular monthly meeting of Obetz PTO will be held Thursday, Jan. 23, at 7:30 p.m. Don't forget the date of Saturday, Feb. 8, when the PTO will sponsor its winter festival at the school. It begins at 4 p.m., and serving in the cafeteria will begin at that time also. A complete menu will be served, cafeteria style. Many attractions will be sponsored by the different classes, plus added attractions by the PTO.

Homecoming game will be played at Hamilon High this Friday evening when Hamilton Township meets Rosary. On Saturday night, Hamilton Township will play Amanda.

A new series of lectures on "Fundamentals of the Christian Life" started Sunday, Jan. 12, at Zion Lutheran Church, Obetz-rd. Anyone interested in stduying the doctrinal position of the Lutheran Church is welcome to attend. Attendance does not place anyone under any obligation to join the church. Classes are held each Sunday at 4 p.m.

The annual World Day of Prayer Service will be held Friday, Feb. 14, 7:30 p.m. at Zion Lutheran Church. Churches in zones six and seven are having World Day of Prayer Services at Thurman Avenue Mehodist Church 1:30 p.m. This includes all denominations, uniting together to join in prayer with Christians around the world.

The world theme, "Let Us Pray," was prepared by Dr. Madeline Barot, executive secretary of the Department on the Cooperation of Men and Women in the Church, Family and Society of the World Council of Churches, Geneva, Switzerland. Obetz Christian Church will be participating in this service at Thurman Avenue Methodist, and you are urged to unite with them or go to the service of your choice on Feb. 14.

Election Material Available At Parsons Library

With domestic politics in the headlines, background material is available at the Parsons Branch Library, according to Margaret Bausch, head librarian.

Johnson's attempt to govern the congress will be even more interesting to those who read of the relationship of the President to Congress, and Johnson's former position as majority leader, in Ernest Griffith's, "Congress, Its Contemporary Roll."

Johnson's stands during the Kennedy administration, are reviewed in "To Turn the Tide," by the late President Kennedy. Johnson's own statements can be reviewed in recent periodicals.

The views of Governor Rockefeller, Senator Goldwater and other prominent Republicans are also covered in recent periodicals. The library also has Senator Goldwater's books, "Conscience of a Conservative" and "Why Not Victory?"

'Desperation' Recipe Is First Contest Entry

Mrs. E. C. Martin of 266 S. Harris-av, is a homemaker and the mother of five girls and one boy. The daughters range from pre-school to one being married, the son is in the service.

Her recipe for Kidney Bean Pepperoni was one of the first receipes entered in the Hartley Newspapers Recipe Contest. "With a family the size of mine," said Mrs. Martin, "cooking is a must and a hobby. I love recipes and have a shelf in the basement that s loaded with thousands of of them that I have saved over the years, and some I have invented myself.

"I call the Kidney Bean Pepperoni my desperation invention," she continued. "I had out-of-state company unexpected, and the day before pay day. There wasn't much in the refrigerator, so I decided to make the most of what we had.

"The recipe was so successful and so tasty we have used it over the years and enjoyed it very much. Necessity was the mother on invention in this case, but I adjust all recipes to suit the family's taste," she concluded.

Kidney Bean Pepperoni

1 pound hamburger, 1 number 2 can kidney beans, 1 can concentrated tomato soup, 1 large onion, sliced, 1 green pepper, diced, 1 teaspoon pepperoni, salt and pepper to taste, 1 tablespoon sugar, fat as necessary.

Shape hamburger into tiny patties, brown. Remove from skillet. Fry onions and green pepper until transparent. Add remaining ingredients, including hamburger. Cook until sauce thickens, about 20 minutes. Serves four.

Serve with buttered noodles or parsley potatoes. Round out the meal with a citrus salad and cauliflower. Molasses cookies with your coffee makes a nice dessert.

First Man Enters With Dip For Chips

E. Dean Potts entered the Hartley Newspapers Recipe Contest, and his variation of a chip dip recipe was the first entry received in the Men's Division.

Potts, who is married and lives at 338 S. Terrace-av, is associated with the Ernest B. Potts Realty. He is the father of two daughters.

"I wouldn't consider cooking a hobby," he said "I enjoy fooling around with snack recipes and it is pleasing when friends like the things I prepare. I find people enjoy foods that are not too hot but very tasty. And I vary the ingredients to suit not only my family but my friends," he concluded.

CHIP DIP

Mix one package dry onion soup mix with one-half pint sour cream. Add one-half cup mayonnaise, one level tables spoon of mustard, a pinch of garlic salt, and one minced hot pepper to mixture. Mix well and store in refrigerator for about one-half hour before serving.

Local Civitan officers, as well as the district's six lieutenant governors and other elected officials will attend.

Eastern Civitan Club, Ferenc M. Relle, 3487 Roswell-dr, president, will be host for the meet. Approximately 75 Civitans are expected for the one-day event.

Charles A. Lindbergh refused to take his mascot, a pet kitten named "Patsy," on his pioneering transatlantic flight in 1927 because he felt it would be "too dangerous a journey to risk the cat's life."

Give To Fight Birth Defects and Arthritis . . .

The heartbreaking problem of birth defects and the mystery of crippling arthritis cry out for solutions. You can help support research and care by giving generously now to The March of Dimes.

In Ohio it is estimated there will be 15,200 babies born in 1964 with serious birth defects.

More than $19 million has been spent in Ohio for March of Dimes programs of medical care and related services for victims of polio, birth defects and arthritis.

This is March of Dimes Month and funds collected will be used to support these most worthy causes. Children from all parts of Ohio, with significant birth defects, will continue to receive treatment at Children's Hospital.

Here's How What You Don't Know Can Hurt...

As we had mentioned just about one year ago, high school wrestling is just about the fastest growing sport around the country.

Each year more and more schools are introducing the sport on a competitive basis in their regular athletic programs.

TODAY, only Pennsylvania, New York and California have more boys participating in high school wrestling than has Ohio.

Wrestling's "following," although not ready to cut deeply into the basketball crowds, has been encouraging and enthusiastic.

Local wrestling is going through "growing pains," however, and most coaches are eager to move ahead.

State-wide "road" results have given an indication that area wrestling for the most part needs a vigorous shot in the arm if it is to answer the demands of competition.

The problems are basically two — facilities and an educational process.

Many area wrestling meets are now conducted in school lunch rooms, converted temporarily to the needs of the wrestlers.

SUCH FACILITIES are acceptable now but what happens when more and more fans hop on the bandwagon? Scheduling, which must give consideration to basketball, finds meets scattered all through the week.

Prospective fans, such as parents of the participants, find the mid-week afternoon meets difficult to fit into their daily schedule.

But the toughest obstacle for the high school wrestling coach to hurdle is the TV version of so-called "professional" wrestling.

THE TV IMAGE, often confused with an entirely different approach on the amateur level, subjects coaches to a "hands-off" decree on the part of worried parents who don't desire to see their son's arm unscrewed or his youthful body spun widely like some guided missile.

"If we could get them away from the TV set and out to the matches, they'd see that the two forms are entirely different," one local coach laments.

High school wrestling is not dangerous. Statistics taken from three neighboring states on athletic program injuries show wrestling accidents at less than one per cent as compared with football's 68.8 per cent.

THE REPORT, taken by an insurance company over a period of 13 years, is a pretty fair endorsement for the safety of the sport.

The reason for the growth of high school wrestling and its subsequent safety is due to the number of rules that have been set up to protect the participant.

For example, most of the holds you see on TV wrestling are illegal and barred in high school competition.

ANOTHER basic problem for the wrestling coach is the education of the public on the "weight control" aspect of wrestling.

Mothers who see their seemingly healthy Johnnys trimming off pounds prior to and during the season become concerned and cry malnutrition.

In most cases, high school boys can drop off between five (145 pounds and below) and 15 percent (145 pounds and above) of their body weight during the season without endangering their health in any way.

THIS IS OFTEN the case in sports such as basketball and track but since regular weigh-ins are not required (as in wrestling), few realize or notice the weight loss.

Studies on weight control have indicated that 70 percent of all wrestlers maintain that weight reduction does not affect their strength.

In fact, "making weight" increases strength rather than decreasing it (Physical Fitness Index shows gain of nearly five points when proper weight is established).

ACTUALLY, athletic participation in any sport tends to decrease weight for a time but an increase in the size of the muscular structure results in a subsequent increase in weight.

The all-important factor, as far as health is concerned, is the way in which weight control is established.

Starvation diets, steam boxes and the use of laxatives are strictly taboo for the responsible wrestling coach.

THE SAFE and proper method is simply hard, physical exercise in which the athlete works off solid fat (burning as fuel and energy in increased activity) and liquid fat (water) by perspiring.

Naturally, a proper diet is also important. Reduction of liquid intake, plus plenty of meat and vegetables, is essential.

Items such as whole milk (drink skimmed milk), butter, potatoes, bread and all starch and sweet products are discouraged.

WRESTLERS, when down to their proper weight, vary little from insurance company statistics which establish a proper height-weight ratio.

Few other sports can offer the psychological benefits of high school wrestling.

The training program is perhaps more demanding than any other in high school athletics. There's no "after the meet pizzas" here.

ALTHOUGH a team sport, wrestling offers individual competition. There's no one around to cover up for a missed assignment when you face your opponent in the center of the mat.

How many competitive high school sports can offer the pride of a "starting" assignment and varsity letter to the "little guy" (103-pounder) as well as the big boy (185 pounds up)?

But then you'll never know, will you, unless you stop in sometime and watch these boys in action?

And you know something? We bet you'll come back a second time.

The British are the world's most avid newspaper readers, followed by the people of Sweden and Luxembourg.

TERRIERS, RAMS SPLIT AS . . .

Tigers Tame South; Rosary Takes Two

John Colmery's South quintet was defeated for the second straight game by a league mate Friday night as East tripped the Bulldogs, 77-70.

The loss dropped the Bulldogs out of immediate contention for the City League crown and made the South record read 3-2 in loop play.

EAST CAME on strong after solving the harassing Sotuh defense mid-way in the first period.

Marion Iverson (6-3) got into foul trouble early and the taller East squad got second and third chances at the bucket due to the Reb's height shortage.

Joe Middendorf brought the Southerners back in the second half with some fine 18 to 20 foot jumpers that netted the Bulldog ace 25 points in a losing effort.

THE SCRAPPY BULLDOGS didn't quit though, and came back to within seven at the finish to make the Tigers sweat out the victory.

Rosary copped two big wins over the weekend, as the Cruisders tripped New Albany and DeSales.

The Bud Trapp five clipped New Albany, 81-76, Friday night at N-A as four Crusaders hit double digits.

RICK STOKES LED the onslaught with 25 tallies while Ed Roehrenbeck (17), Jim Groce (15) and Ray Arnold (11) added icing to the Crusader cake.

The Crusaders pulled out a hairline win at DeSales where the Rosary five managed a 46-45 win Saturday evening to make the Bud Trapp boys own a 5-6 slate on the season.

The Rosary cagers led most of the way and had to stave off a late surge by the Stallions to make Ed Roehrenbeck's 14 tallies lead the way for the Crusaders.

AQUINAS LOST to Central's Pirates, 71-57, on Friday night when the Bucs unleashed a devastating fast break that offset 14 markers by Terrier Don Lynch.

Saturday night was a different story though, as the Terriers downed St. Charles, 46-43, for win number five of the year against the same amount of losses.

The Terriers led most of the way until the Cards tied it up at 35-all at the third period gun, but Don Lynch (14) and Mike Stafford (13) proved too much for the Cards in the end.

ST. MARYS measured the old grads at the Ram rectangle Friday evening as the alumni fell to the varsity, 64-62.

Jim Yates led the Ram win with 16 markers while ex-Ram Dave Barker garnered 18 tallies for game honors.

The Rams didn't have such good luck at Ready on Saturday evening as St. Marys lost to the Silver Knights, 60-48.

THE VISITING RAMS never led in this contest, as 14 tallies by Jimmy Yates went for naught.

In the only other contest in the area, North bested Marion-Franklin by an 81-58 count to make the Red Devil slate read 4-5 on the campaign.

Steve and John Jackson of M-F led the Red Devils with 22 and 15 counters, respectively.

THE WEEKEND basketball review reads like this: New Albany (2-8) at St. Marys (2-8), Aquinas (5-5) at South (7-2), Marion-Franklin (4-5) at Linden-McKinley (8-2), and Rosary (5-6) at Hamilton Township (6-6) to round out Friday night action.

Saturday evening action pits St. Marys at Mt. Vernon St. Vincent and Dayton Roosevelt at South's tenacious Bulldogs.

During the average lifetime a person consumes 38 tons of food.

Inexperience Haunts Aquinas Swim Hopes

Hopes to improve on a 1-6 '62-'63 mark aren't too bright this year for the Aquinas swimming squad.

The Irish tankers, currently splashing through another Central Ohio League swim schedule, were forced to face the new season without the services of four top '62-'63 performers.

GONE FROM the Terrier team are Tom Heinmiller (200, 50 and 100 free-style), Brian Langlus (butterfly), Mike Grady (400, 50 and 100 free-style) and Gary Foster (100, 50 and 400), the latter pair present school record-holders.

Back to key Aquinas hopes this season are the Terrier co-captains, Steve Simmons (100 yard breaststroke) and Bob Arrowsmith (100, 50 yd. freestyle).

Big things are also expected of Paul Carter, a new diving specialist for the Irish.

THREE returning lettermen—seniors Joe Kozman (breast stroke) and John Lane (free style) and junior Mike Pahl (butterfly and back)—should also bolster Terrier hopes.

Other members on the Aquinas swim roster include: Dick Arrowsmith, Fred Borowitz, Gary Carpenter, Jim Cronin, Dennis Duggan, Mike Pickell, Dom Gentile, John Jauch, Mike Lane, John Lascola, Tom Lombardo, Denny Maciejewski, Joe McCarthy, Bill McNamara, Dan Murray, Dick Nadalin, Mike Young and Dick Williams.

HERE IS the remaining Aquinas slate:

Y Church Loops Open Volleyball, BB Play

THERE OFF — 51 teams representing 25 churches left the starting gate as action got underway last week in the South Side Branch YMCA Inter-Church Winter Sports Program.

VOLLEYBALL

Brookwood Presbyterian took over the early lead by taking two games from Southwood Church of Christ while Groveport Lutheran and St. Paul Lutheran deadlocked 33 apiece, splitting their two game series, and Scottwood Community nipped St. Paul United 27-26 as they exchanged victories.

BASKETBALL

Girls

St. Paul United, Grace United and Brookwood won opening games against Washington Avenue EUB, Hope Lutheran and Ohio EUB respectively. Top scores included Carol Arbaugh, Lynn Hemmerly, Peggy Dupler, Sue Wardlow, Judy Cohen and Diana Cary.

Junior

DEFENSE took a back seat in this circuit as the league sharpshooters kept the nets hot with their offensive maneuvers.

Emmanuel won over St. Paul United, 26-17 and Hungarian United scored 30 points in down ing St. Paul Lutheran while last year's champion Oakwood started out in the right way by taking South Methodist as they hit for 38 markers.

Intermediates

In this ten team loop Trinity Lutheran caused a few raised eyebrows by upsetting St. Paul United, Livingston eked out a one pointer over St. Paul Lutheran, Oakwood rolled into the victor's circle by downing Hungarian, Ohio Avenue EUB was awarded a win over St. John United and, Southwood looked strong in all departments as it slipped past South Methodist.

Bill Howard (14) Tom Lewis (14) Roger Crum (12) Andy Poczik (10) Mike Badger (10) Tim Christy (10) and Tom Wright (9) led the scorers.

Seniors

JERRY AGGAS led his Redeemer Luther five to a thrilling victory over a fine Oakwood Methodist crew, Frebis Church of God proved too much for Scottwood and Williams-rd. Presbyterian won via the forfeit route from Hope Lutheran in opening night play.

Top pointmakers were Jim Apel (17), Chuck Graver, Terry Aggas (14), John Evans (13) and Dale Goff (10).

League and Tournament play in the above mentioned leagues and the Junior and Intermediate divisions of the Southeast Church program will continue through mid-March with award parties scheduled for early April.

BULLDOG ESCAPE — South's Paul Hunt (11) dribbles away from a Tiger trap Friday night at East as the Bulldog cager eludes three Bengals intent on gaining possession of the roundball. From left are Gil Mathews (44), Bill Bullock (33) and Jim Brown (22).

BROWN BUCKET — East's Jim Brown (left) turns the corner on South defender Marion Iverson Friday evening on the Tiger hardwood to drive in for a Bengal bucket. East maintained its City League lead with a 77-70 victory over the Bulldogs.

Summer Boating Trips Demand Early Planning

INSIDE ON THE Outdoors By ROD COCHRAN

Outboard cruising is becoming a sport of its own among boaters in these parts, and right now is a good time to make some plans for next season.

Of course, cruising is not done to the exclusion of everything else. Fishing, water skiing, skin diving and the like are all part of a cruise.

AN OUTBOARD CRUISE can be as simple or detailed as you wish. To my notion, cruising is best done with one or two boats. A fleet has always seemed too much for me, but I realize that boat club members often like to take to the water with a group.

One of the best examples of a boat club in this area, one that plans excellent cruises, is the Aqua-Nomads. Its very name indicates that this is a cruising club.

But, back to planning. Learn the conditions of the waterway you will be following. The major oil companies put out considerable information in the way of maps and folders on the major water routes.

BOTH THE Coast Guard and the Corps of Engineers publish detailed maps of navigable waters. These maps are inexpensive and of great help to all boatmen.

The Ohio Department of Natural Resources, 1500 Dublin-rd, can help with information about Ohio waters. Lake maps, available at this address, are especially helpful. If your cruise will take you out of the state, then a letter to the appropriate state agency will bring a lot of material. Some resort areas have active Chambers of Commerce that will also send cruising material.

With your route and destination set, compute the total distance to travel and break it down into daily runs. Don't try to see how far you can go each day but rather how much fun you can have.

PLAN TO END each day's run where you can obtain fuel, oil, food, water, ice and other necessities as well as sleeping accommodations or camping areas.

Take your time and indulge your interests. Fish, photograph interesting points on the trip, swim or just loaf. The main point is to have fun.

If you go with more than one boat there should be some method of signaling to each other so that you know when the others are going to shore, stopping or changing directions. Radios would be fine but they are expensive. Shouting isn't always possible, so the easiest and most positive way of communication is by hand signals.

Cruising in your boat will be a lot of fun next year, but you'll have to start planning now.

GG Entry Deadline Sunday; Tourney Tickets On Sale

Columbus Golden Gloves officials have completed plans for the '64 tourney which is set for the first week in February.

The tourney is open to all boys 16 years and over who are properly trained and can meet AAU physical requirements.

ENTRY BLANKS and information can be obtained by contacting Tournament Manager Jack Gibbs (BR 4-9312) or writing 74 Clarendon-av, Cols. 23.

The adline for entries is Sunday.

Boys will be paired in both novice and open divisions with competition open in all weight divisions.

PHYSICAL examinations and preliminary weigh-ins have been set for Sunday at 2 p.m. at the Lincoln Health Studio (771½ E. Long-st).

The official weigh-in will take place the day of the bouts.

Three days of the GG Tourney (Feb. 5-12-14) have been slated for the Fairgrounds Coliseum (8 p.m.) in an effort to combat parking and traffic problems which have previously hampered the tourney at the Old Memorial Hall location.

TICKETS are now on sale for the Tourney at the Central Ticket Office, 37 N High-st, for $2. (ringside) $1.25 (general admission), 50 cents (children under 12-general admission only).

Tickets will also be on sale at the door each night before the bouts.

Two tourney dates (Feb. 1 and 8) will be telecast live from the studios of WTVN-TV from 12:30 p.m. till 2 p.m.

THESE two events will not be open to the public.

OLD TIMERS PACE PIKETON PIN LOOP

All Share Prayers During Octave of Christian Unity

"O God, that there may be only one flock and one Shepherd, Gather together all separated Christians" is the identical prayer of Protestant, Orthodox, and Roman Catholic Churchmen this week during the second annual observance of the Octave of Christian Unity.

This year's theme, "The Great Shepherd of the Sheep," calls Christians to express their common aspiration for unity in Christ.

Each day during the Octave of Christian Unity (Jan. 18-25) prayers are offered by all Christians for one facet of the complex drive toward a reunified Christendom.

"Special Intentions" for the remainder of the week include:

Jan. 23 — Prayer for the United Churches; Jan. 24 — Prayer for the Proclaimation of the Gospel in all lands and Jan. 25 — Prayer for the Peace of the Whole World.

Roman Catholic clergy are conducting services daily at 7 p.m. Daily services are also scheduled at Trinity Episcopal Church at noon; Brookwood Presbyterian Church at 7 p.m.; First English Lutheran Church at 7:45 p.m.; and First Congregational Church at 5 p.m.

A Service of Prayers for Christian Unity will be given by Fr. Anthony P. Sarris at the Greek Orthodox Church of the Annunciation, Sunday Jan. 26 following the Liturgy at 11:30 a.m.

Local Problems, Projects, Town Meeting's Topic

On Sunday, Jan. 26, Columbus Town Meeting's topic will be "Columbus: A Look at the Problems and Projects."

Mayor M. E. Sensenbrenner, John Stanley, finance director, and Warren J. Cremean, service director, will appear with City Councilmen William Fornof and Robert Southwick.

The program will be presented by WBNS-TV at 4 p.m. and rebroadcast by WBNS Radio at 9:10 p.m. Sunday evening.

FOOD MARKETS THIS WEEK

Lower Citrus Prices Unlikely Before '64-65

By ESTELLE B. FRANKS

THIS WEEK LOOK FOR:

Fruits — Apples, Navel oranges, grapefruit, bananas, canned grapefruit sections.

Vegetables — Potatoes, cabbage, carrots, spinach, leaf lettuce.

Other — Canned and frozen vegetables, dried beans.

How much longer will the prices of citrus fruits stay high? This question becomes especially important at this time of year when we usually depend on one serving of citrus fruit daily to supply the major portion of vitamin C we need.

Production of citrus fruits in Florida appears to be making a strong recovery from the big freeze of 1962. However, U.S. Department of Agriculture's crop report released Jan. 10 says we cannot expect production to increase greatly before 1964-65. It will take that long for the industry to recover from the freeze.

Mrs. Franks

The total orange crop for 1963-64 is expected to run about 20 percent below average, in spite of the better crops for Navel and Temple oranges. Valencia oranges — the main one for juice — will start to market in February. This crop is forecast as 19 percent larger than the 1962-63 crop, but seven percent below average. And, don't miss the fine Temple oranges in markets now — they are the deep reddish — orange colored ones, so good for hand-eating and for salads. They have a short season.

The grapefruit crop is down only seven percent from last year, but that's 24 percent below average. Notice the larger sized ones now appearing in stores. The quality is excellent.

Vegetable counters at this writing, are in good shape for the time of year. Florida is shipping a wide variety of the tender ones, and all the hardy stand-bys are in good supply. Vine-ripe tomatoes are much improved and prices down a bit. Head lettuce is suffering its ups and downs in supply, quality and price due to weather, leaf and Boston lettuce are good. Cucumbers stay high since our chief source is now from the Bahamas.

DRIED BEANS ARE BUDGET BUYS

Dry beans — and their cousins, dry peas and lentils — can be used in a variety of warming winter dishes ranging from the old Southern favorite "hopping john" to a company-fare baked dish of curried lima beans and pork chops. Or, how about old-fashioned bean soup?

They are a real budget buy. For example, a pound of dry beans will make seven to nine and three-fourths cup servings — and all are substantial foods, good for energy. They contain calcium and B vitamins, especially thiamine and are a rich source of iron. A cupful provides half of a day's needs. They also supply an incomplete protein which is most useful when combined with the types of protein in meat, cheese or eggs.

OHIO BELL REPORTS

Touch-Tone System Part Of '64 Expansion

Ohio Bell has announced a $16.6 million expansion and modernization program for its Columbus district in 1964, with $8 million of it earmarked for exchanges in Greater Columbus.

Part of a record $92.3 million state-wide program for the telephone company, the Columbus district floure is $3.8 million more than 1963. Details of the local program were presented Tuesday morning by Ohio Bell President Frederick R. Eckley at a meeting with newsmen at the Deshler-Hilton Hotel.

Eckley disclosed that Touch-Tone telephone service will be offered this year in Columbus exchanges. They are Reynoldsburg and Worthington and in the "451," "471" and "491" exchanges.

The new service, which first must be approved by the state utilities commission, features pushbuttons and musical tones in place of the conventional rotary dial. Touch-Tone phones are easy and faster to use than telephones.

"Before this service can be offered," Eckley continued, "each exchange must be modified to accommodate Touch-Tone equipment, so the exact date on which it will be available will be announced later this year."

One of the principal construction projects this year will be the completion of the new Reynoldsburg - exchange at a cost of $1.7 million.

Highlights of the company's 1964 plans for Greater Columbus include:

- Additional trunk lines between exchanges in Grove City, Gahanna, Lockbourne, Reynoldsburg, Worthington and Columbus. About $1.5 million will be spent on these connections.
- Microwave systems will cost more than $1 million this year in the Columbus district. Two networks are now under construction, one from Columbus to Newark, and the Columbus portion of a long-haul Cleveland-Cincinnati system. Both will be used to carry broadband services such as commercial and educational television as well as long distance calls.
- Special business services. Ohio Bell will spend $509,000 this year on Centrex service for business and industry. Now being used by state offices in Columbus, Centrex permits direct inward and outward dialing.
- Expanded coverage for the Bellboy pocket page system, equipment to automatically identify the calling number on long distance calls and special repeater equipment will cost another $421,000.
- Installation of 36 more information operator switchboard positions in the downtown CApital (22) exchange will be completed at a cost of $210,000.

The remaining $4.4 million will be spent to meet regular telephone service demands of Metropolitan Columbus. This includes replacing dialing and switching apparatus, underground and aerial cable, telephones and related equipment.

Elsewhere in the Columbus district, Eckley said the phone company plans to start construction later this year on new exchanges in Canal Winchester, Grove City and Westerville. Construction costs plus cable, switching apparatus and telephone equipment will bring the total 1964 investment to $912.000 in these three communities.

Another $1 million will be spent at Ohio Bell's new exchanges in Gahanna and Lockbourne to modify equipment so it can accomodate more customers who are now being served through older exchanges.

The balance of expenditures in the Columbus district will go for routine growth and modernization, the Ohio Bell president said.

Concerning all-digit telephone numbers, Eckley said that by the summer of 1966 all customers in the Columbus district will have a seven-digit number. About 45 percent of the telephones here already have all-digit numbers.

Reservations Required For Summer Camp

Applications for two conservation education camps to be sponsored in June by the Ohio Forestry Association are now being accepted, according to an announcement from Robert R. Paton, association executive director.

The adult camp for teachers, youth leaders, woodland owners, agricultural technicians and conservationists has been scheduled for June 7 to 13. The youth camp for high school students, ages 15 to 18, will be held the following week, June 14 to 20. Both sessions will be held at Tar Hollow State Park.

Paton stressed that reservations for both camps are limited by the park facilities and will be accepted on a first-come basis. Total fee for each camp is $35.

Complete information and application blanks may be obtained by writing or calling the Ohio Forestry Association, Southern Hotel, Columbus, O.

Wohl To Speak Before Wesleyan Service Guilds

Bernard Wohl, director of Southside Settlement, will be guest speaker at the annual dinner meeting of the Columbus District Wesleyan Service Guilds, Tuesday, Feb. 4.

Members and their guests will meet in the parlor of the King Avenue Methodist Church for a fellowship coffee between 5 and 6:15 p.m. before the 6:30 p.m. dinner meeting, which will be held in the church dining hall.

Mrs. Marguerite Williamson 244 W. North Broadway, and Miss Joanna Horst, 1600 N. High-st, will accept reservations.

Will Show Three Films At Park

Three films, "Monument Valley," "Animals at Work in Nature" and "Manitoba Trails" will be shown Sunday, Jan. 26, in Beech-Maple Lodge at Blacklick Woods Metropolitan Park. The films will be shown at 1:30 and 3 p.m.

"Monument Valley" shows scenes of natural monuments in Arizona, Colorado, New Mexico and Utah. It also describes life of Navajo Indians. "Animals at Work in Nature" includes close-up scenes of various animals building homes, raising their young and acquiring and storing food. "Manitoba Trails" describes the frontier history of Monitoba and shows it today.

Nature walks will originate at the Trailside Museum in the Nature Center at 1:45 and 2:45 p.m.

Legion Arranges Ohio Conference At Youth Center

Legionnaires from the Hartley Newspapers [illegible] will participate Sunday, Jan. 26, in the annual mid-winter conference of the Ohio American Legion at the Youth Center on the Ohio Exposition grounds.

Haskell E. Brands, 1498 Efner-dr, first vice-commander of the 12th District (Franklin County), will tell how his district's membership campaign lifted it to second place in the state. State Second Vice-Commander C. William Heacock, 1652 Bostwick-rd, will act as chaplain for the program, and the Flying Dutchmen color guard of Southway Post 144 will advance the colors at 10 a.m. Sunday.

Main speakers for the event will be National Commander Daniel F. Foley, of Wabasha, Minn.; Perie Whitehead of Cincinnati, retired Boy Scout executive, and U. S. Rep. John M. Ashbrook of Johnstown, O., member of the House Committee on Un-American Activities. State Commander Donald L. Gruenbaum, Marysville, will preside.

Obviously we have a new breed of economic thinkers—the New Deficiteersmen . . . Sen. Everett Dirksen.

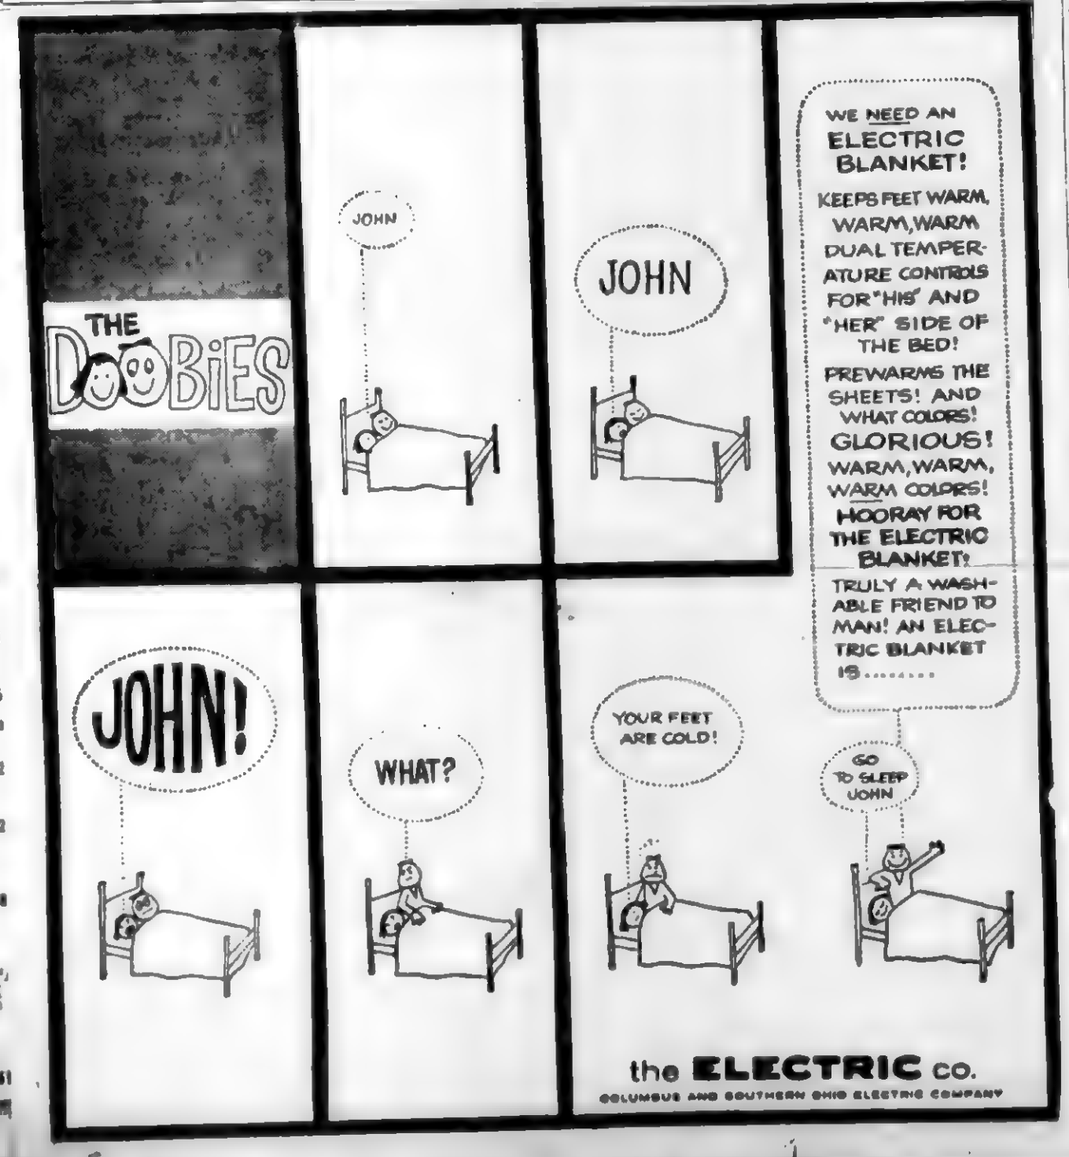
Senior Citizens Center

275 McDowell-st



On Thursday, Jan. 23, an afternoon tea and dance will be held for members and their guests at the Senior Citizen's Recreation Center, 275 McDowell-st. Music for dancing, from 2 to 4 p.m. will be from records selected by Mrs. Ruth Marion of the center staff. Tea will be served during the hours.

This is the first afternoon tea dance and has been planned for those who do not find it possible or convenient to attend the dances held at the center each Wednesday and Friday evenings. If there is sufficient interest in this new type of dance, one will be planned each month.

The Service Circle of the Senior Recreation Center, which meets each Tuesday from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m., will begin working soon on cancer pads and need contributions of used bed sheets, pillowcases ad cotton blankets. Anyone wishing to contribute to this service project may bring these things to the center or call 221-6090 and someone will be happy to pick them up.

The Gadabout

Priscilla LaRue Lewis
HI. 4-1851

At times a salute is in order, for the men and women who continue toward youthful goals under pressures that make the faint-hearted quit the race. One of the stouter-hearted South Siders is today's Outstanding Personality, Joan Tabor.

Joan is worthy of recognition because she is a college student in her senior year at Capital University. This is nothing special, in itself, but it is indeed, when one has a husband, and three children (aged 13, 11 and seven) to care for and a home to maintain.

Reeb-av was the home street of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Pfeifer when their daughter Joan was born one chilly Mar. 14. Joan and her brother, Edwin, attended Reeb, Main Street and Siebert elementary schools, Barrett Junior High and South High. Following her 1946 graduation, Joan enolled in Capital University and received her two-year certificate in 1948. In June, 1948, she became Mrs. John Tabor.

Although John is also an alumnus of South, the two did not meet there, for his graduation preceded hers by several years. Their first meeting took place at a church choir rehearsal, and proved so harmonious that the two decided to make it a life-time duet.

After marriage, Joan laid aside her school books and learned to read cook books until 1950, when her reading material consisted of "How to Raise Your Baby" type of literature. This was necessitated by the advent of Richard Alan, named for Joan's deceased brother. In 1952 and 1956, Richard acquired two sisters, Liesa and Christina.

Throug the years, Joan has enjoyed the friendship of "Our Gang," a group that has met periodically since class days at Barrett Junior High. In addition to Joan, the group includes Leidra Zwilling Busenerg, Evelyn Hostetler Calendine, Rose Nirote Fitzsimmons, Martha McCune Harris, Doris Hickman Harble, Liz Shrieves Seemueller and Barbara Martin Sharp.

One of the remarkable aspects of Mrs. Tabor's return to school is that she has not had superb health to draw upon, for there was a period of time when illness was her constant companion. She is thankful now that part of her life has been conquered.

Until her return to Capital as a part-time student in 1960, she busied herself with the usual occupations—PTA worker, church worker and leader of Girl Scout Troop 646. Naturally, all other chores have had to be regulated to a minor position, these past years, but she still continues with her Girl Scouts and is now in her fifth year with the group. She also works part-time as a legal secretary for the Ballou Agency. She belongs to Circle 1 at Hope Lutheran Church and the Ladies Auxiliary for the National Association of Letter Carriers.

She laughingly declares her title is "part-time," since she works part-time, goes to school part-time, works as a substitute teacher, and serves as a substitute Sunday School teacher.

When time permits, she enjoys hobbies such as embroidery, horseback riding (a new one) and most unusual, sledding.

The Tabor family love to travel to historic spots and to indulge in swimming and horseback riding when their many busy schedules permit a chance to do things together.

While interviewing today's Outstanding Personality, we learned that she feels, in addition to the cooperation of her immediate family, much credit for her return to college should be given to her parents. She is grateful also to her friends and neighbors who have helped her in so many ways. The Tabors reside at 680 Siebert-st.

We don't know the date of Capital's 1964 graduation, but of this fact we're sure the proudest persons there will be the friends and relatives of Joan Pfeifer Tabor, the part-time student who is finally receiving a long-delayed degree.

Ruth Circle of Gates-Fourth Methodist Church will sponsor its annual home made vegetable soup sale on Wednesday, Jan. 29, at the church. Patrons will be served a 50 cent luncheon from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m, and will be served soup, crackers, fruited Jello, cookies and coffee. For persons desiring to consume the soup elsewhere, the price is 60 cents a quart, and it is requested that patrons supply their own containers.

The Brotherhood of Hope Lutheran Church will meet at 8 p.m. Tuesday, Jan. 28. Kenneth Olbert, principal of Barret Junior High, will be the featured speaker. He will discuss the work being done by the First English Lutheran Church in its "Neighborhood Center" program.

"Heights and Sights of South America" will be the armchair tour presented at the YWCA tonight (Thursday) at 7:30, by Mrs. Lucinda Madden.

Birthday gifts in a teen age category will be necessary for this segment of the list: Eddie Speakman, Diane Schodorf, Doug Meszaros, Nancy Trumps, Johnny Komives and Mike Tabor.

Adults we musn't forget this week include Ruth Karch, Glee McNutt, Leona Satorius, Homer Doty, Jo Ann Crabtree, Grace Brown, Franklin Dunkle, Anna Fraggiotti, Wilma Martin, Jack Castle, Nina Franz, Vonda Wesner, Crafton Miller, Frieda Minor, Marie Waldner and Alex Miklos.

The youth of Livingston Methodist Church will hold a rally on Sunday, Jan. 26, at the host church, First Methodist Church.

Anniversary celebrations are the anticipated feature of the week for these couples: Jim and Betty Rothwell, Sam and Delores Humes, Nancy and Charles Enis, Tim and Helen Souder. Belated greetings to Paul and Virginia Fisher, who observed an anniversary earlier in the month.

The YWCA mid-week dance for Wednesday, Jan. 29, will feature music of the Frankie Bush Orchestra, from 8:45 to 11:45 p.m. The dance, as always, is "stag or drag." The 85 cent admission includes refreshments. Everyone is welcome.

The South High Bulldog Basketball team will host the Aquinas team on Friday, Jan. 24.

Meetings, here and there . . .

The annual "Pollyanna Banquet," an anticipated event for women of the St. Paul's United Church of Christ, will be held at 6 p.m. on Wednesday, Jan. 29. New chairmen for 1964 include Maxine Gerlach, thank-offering; Marty Call, Christian Education, and Evelyn Evans, telephone.

Dr. Martha Lang of the Mental Health Association will be the guest speaker for the Mothers Club of the Southwood Church of Christ, Tuesday, Jan. 28, at 8 p.m. The Fidelis Class will meet at 6 p.m., Saturday, Jan. 25.

A 5 p.m. super meeting will precede the annual congregation meeting to be held Sunday, Jan. 26, at First English Lutheran Church. Sunday services, 10:30 a.m. to 11:30 a.m., are now being broadcast each week on WTVN-FM, 96.3 on the dial.

The new Loyal Union of WCTU will hold a noon covered dish luncheon today, (Thursday), at the Washington Avenue EUB Church, with the program scheduled for 12:45 p.m.

PEBS, Chapter 2, will meet for a noon dessert luncheon in the home of Mrs. Donald Ryan, 816 S. 17th-st, on Tuesday, Jan. 28.

The Christian Day School PTO of St. Paul's Lutheran Church meets tonight, (Thursday), at 7:45 p.m. The Junior Luther League will meet Sunday, Jan. 26, 2:30 to 4:30 p.m. Rev. Long will discuss "How St. Paul's Church Operates." Games and refreshments will follow the discussion. The Mission Circle will meet at St. Paul's on Tuesday, Jan. 28, at 8 p.m. Mrs. Evelyn Schmitt will conduct devotions. Mrs. Hugo Schweizer and Miss Minerva Priar will serve refreshments.

The Youth Revival of the South High EUB Church will be held from Friday, Jan. 24, to Sunday, Jan. 26, with the banquet scheduled for Saturday, Jan. 25. Rev. Richard Pettibone will be the speaker.

The ailing list includes Nancy Esselsteen, Beech-st, ill at home; Mrs. Orville Rader, 1287 City Park, who has been in Mt. Carmel Hospital; Mary Stoneburner, 1440 S. Fourth-st, convalescing from surgery.

Mr. James R. Allen will show slides as he discusses "History of German Village" on the Homespun Hour, 10:30 to 11:30 a.m., at the downtown YWCA today, Thursday. The World Affairs Hour, 11:45 a.m. to 12:45 p.m., will ask the question "Whether Columbus and the Inner City?" On the book review segment, 1:45 to 2:45 p.m the discussed book will be "The Group."

The three C. E. groups of the Southwood Church will hold an open house at 6:15 p.m. Sunday, Jan. 26, the first day of "Youth Week" activities.

James P. Berry

James Berry Wins VPA Series Award

A Central High graduate, James P. Berry, won first place in the series category of the Virginia Press Association annual competition, Jan. 4.

Berry, who is in the Petersburg, Va., news bureau chief of the Richmond Times-Dispatch, wrote a series of articles on Virginia's mental hospitals.

He also won an honorable mention for a news-picture story of an escape from a penal institution.

Berry's mother, Mrs. Della Hizer, lives at 687 E. Mithoff-st and formerly lived in the 400 block of W. Rich-st. His sister, Mrs. Helen Shaffer, lives at 3291 E. 13th-av.

Berry, his wife and two sons live in Petersburg, Va. After working on a Navy ship newspaper, he joined the Hilltop Record in 1953 and worked on the paper for several months time.

Tight Games Feature Play In Gra-Y Circuit

The South Side Gra-Y Leagues got off to a fast start last week as Beck nipped the Southwood Wolverines, 15-13. Southwood Terriers defeated Lincoln Park's Raiders 17-5, and Livingston downed Reeb, 18-4.

Southwood Wolverines, down by one point at halftime, put together a strong second half (led by Jeff Mason's nine points) but failed to catch Beck in the closing minutes. Beck was paced by Sherman Hancock's 10 points.

THE SOUTHWOOD Terriers, having better luck than their running mates, were never behind as they rolled to an easy win over the Lincoln Park Raiders.

Bill Keeny paced the winners with 14 points while Steve Massie led the Raiders with three points.

Livingston's attack, led by Bruce Nelson's 10 points, was too much for Reeb. Alex Fleloes netted three points for Reeb.

IN THE Thursday Loop, the Heyl Celtics defeated the Siebert Bearcats, 17-7, Heyl Spartans defeated the Siebert Flyers 9-4, Heyl Globetrotters downed Stewart, 20-13 and South Optimist hung on to drop Dehler 14-12.

The Celtics, paced by Mike Scott and Ricky Harmon with six points each, were too much for the Bearcats. Dave Holbrook scored five points for the losers.

The Spartans and the Flyers both had trouble finding the hoop and at halftime the Spartans held a slim 3-2 lead. However, the Spartans improved the second half behind the scoring of Larry Fillinger who netted five big points in the closing minutes.

THE GLOBETROTTERS got off to a fast start with four out of five starters hitting early baskets. The halftime score was 12-1. The third quarter the Globetrotters increased their lead to 20-1.

Stewart refused to give up and, with 2:15 showing on the clock, they began their rally behind the shooting of Rhaden.

Don Foraker led the winners with eight points and Rhaden the losers with five points. Both teams displayed fine sportsmanship.

THE FINAL tilt between Deshler and the South Optimist was as hair-raising as its predecessors. The Optimists led 8-2 at intermission.

But Deshler came on strong in the second half before fading in the final seconds 14-12.

West paced the losers with six points. Arthur Haves and Denver Scarberry led the victors with five points each.

Bearcats Tab MVPs At League Banquet

The Ohio Bearcat Football Association held its 1963 football banquet last week and several awards were presented by noted personalities.

Lou Berliner, sports writer for the Columbus Dispatch, presented the awards that were donated by the Schiff Shoe Company.

Earl Ross, treasurer of the association, was toastmaster and Capt. Herb Swofford and Dusty Miller were honored guests.

THE ANNUAL All-Star game's "Most Valuable Player" award went to Curtis Holloway of the Westgate Bears, coached by Bill Poling.

Individual team MVP awards were presented to Rick Marcum of the Lockbourne Skyhawks, Steve Thompson of the Westgate Bears, Arthur Armstrong of the Southside Eagles, Arthur Thomas of Milo-Roc AC, Frank Hanson of the West Side Pirates and Anthony Coleman of Maryland AC.

A trophy was also presented to Bob Rand's 1963 league-winning Maryland AC team by Bill Poling of the Westgate Bears, the 1962 team champs.

LARRY DAVIS of Maryland AC was honored for leading the Bearcat League in scoring last season with 94 points.

Stokes' Goal Sinks Vikings

A last-second, 40-foot shot by Rick Stokes that dropped as the buzzer sounded provided Rosary with a 64-63 win over Academy Tuesday—the Crusaders fifth win in their last six starts.

Four Rosary starters hit the double scoring column as Ed Roehrenbeck (17), Jim Groce (23), Ray Arnold (12) and Stokes (10) gave the Crusaders a balanced scoring attack.

Academy's Terry Larrimer shared point honors with Groce with 23 markers while teammate Ken Holzman dropped in 14 more.

The loss dropped the Vikings mark to 3-7. It was Rosary's fourth straight win against FCL opponents.

DeBerry, Guyer To Lead Capital Against Lockbourne

Capital University will meet the Lockbourne AFB Cagers at 8 p.m. Saturday night in Alumni Gym and all admissions will be only 25 cents per person.

This exhibition contest will spotlight two of Central Ohio's better cagers in Jim DeBerry and Dick Guyer.

DeBERRY, former Hilliard cager, currently leads the Crusaders in scoring (15.6 ppg.) and is second in team rebounding (10 plus) and has shown steady improvement every game.

Guyer, a 5-8 guard from Columbus South, has hit for a 10 point average a game while ranking third in team rebounding despite his size. The little senior also sports an 81.5 percent mark from the free throw mark.

John Beach, Steve Kick, and Dave Mumau round out the Capital quintet that will go into Saturday's contest sporting a 6-3 record.

Ram Frosh Top Rosary

St. Marys' freshman basketball team pulled above the .500 mark last week (6-5) with a lopsided 42-16 win over Rosary.

The Ram defense limited the Crusader frosh to four points in the first half, taking a 26-4 intermission lead.

It was the second win over Rosary for St. Marys this season. The Rams next game is Friday at Academy (4 p.m.).

BRYAN RETURNS

John C. Bryan, yeoman third class, USN, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Bryan of 1226 Ann-st, is serving aboard the seaplane tender USS Valcour, which returned to Little Creek, Va., Dec. 20, after a seven-month cruise in the Middle East.

Feb. 25, 1901, U.S. Steel Corp. was incorporated, beginning the era of billion-dollar companies.

Antiques Becoming Popular With Youth, Dealer States

By MIKE COSTELLO

The general conception about the youth of today is that they care only for the modern, be it art or authors. But Mrs. LaDonna Hirsh, proprietor of LaDonna Hirsh Antiques, 2624 S. High-st, says that it is the younger rather than the older people who are now purchasing antiques.

Perhaps this trend is an attempt to return to what they have heard about "grandmother's day" or perhaps it is an attempt to find a balance for the ultra-modern. But more than likely it is a growing awareness of the pure beauty of the almost impossible to find hand made articles.

Although the machine stamped plate is adequate, the hand-painted plate is not only useful but it has an unparalleled charm about it.

To just browse through Mrs. Hirsh's shop is a tour of memories as well as a trip of artistic beauty, with Mrs. Hirsh the informative guide.

Having been in the business for 15 years, three of which have been spent at her present S. High-st location, Mrs. Hirsh is an authority in her field and easily explains things to novice antique collectors.

She carries a general line of antiques, including cut and pattern glass, hand-painted plates, furniture, dishes and lamps. Most of her wares are American, but other countries are also represented. For example, she has an old English armor breast plate and an old English shotgun, both of which would make decorative display pieces.

It is a common belief that antiques are beyond the budget, but for only 35 cents Mrs. Hirsh has butter pats, which are not only decorative but useful. Although some antiques might have been made for purposes which are no longer practical, Mrs. Hirsh says buyers are finding new and different uses for them.

bourne-rd project, once the petitions can be filed.

"If council hems and haws on the thing, that will be the time for the public to bring pressure," he stated.

Asked whether he believed that a competing project such as the Fairwood-av plans which will probably begin this summer would slow up the advancement of the proposal for Lockbourne-rd, Mileusnich was emphatic that it would not.

"The improvement of any part of the South Side is good for the entire community," he said, adding that once area residents become accustomed to streets and walks with proper drainage that civic pride will demand the same all over.

Supply Center Awards Contract

The Defense Construction Supply Center of Columbus has awarded a contract for reconditioning steel tubing to Industrial Platers, Inc., 818 Febis-av.

The contract; valued at $27,589, calls for reconditioning corrosion resistant tubing in random lengths up to 12 feet, according to applicable specifications. The firm was one of two responding to the 15 invitations-to-bid issued by the center.

Among his countless church activities is his starting Christmas church services at Postal Station E of which he is a letter carrier. The custom has spread throughout Columbus.

Extremely active in the local branch of the National Association of Letter Carriers, he also has served as secretary of the Post Office Athletic Committee.

President of the Council of South Side Organizations in 1958-1959, he has filled the post of secretary since leaving the presidency.

Of Henry it was said, "He seeks opportunity and the thrill of fulfillment."

Recognition of his work came earlier when in 1960 he was nominated for the South Side Leader's "Best Citizen" award, and in 1962 he was appointed to five-year term on the City Recreation Commission.

He served last year as president of the St. Paul's United Church of Christ's council, on which he has worked for eight years, and has represented his church on a national and state level.

Wagner is currently executive secretary of the CSSO, served as president of the Southeast Lions Club last year and is a member of the OSU Alumni Association, the VFW and the Modern Woodman of America.

The Long And Short Of It...

Beware the ides of April—it's income tax time again. And, although the "touching" experience of settling up with Uncle Sam has been with us as long as most of us can remember, the rules do change from time to time.

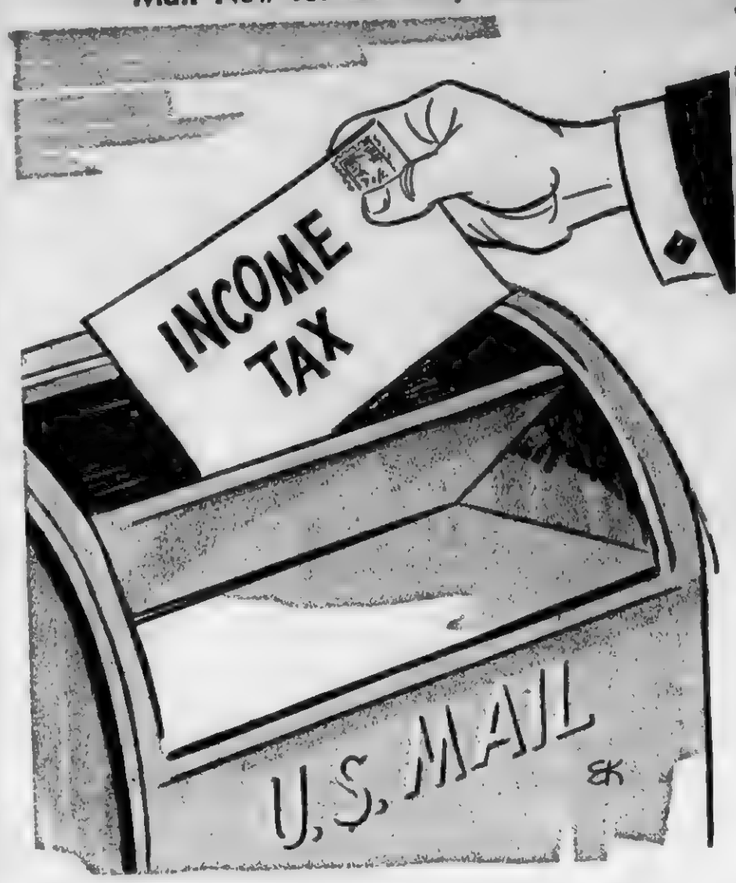
Every citizen or resident of the United States, including minor children, who had gross income of $600 or more in 1963 must file a return. But if the taxpayer's 65th birthday is on or before Jan. 1, 1964, he is not required to file unless his gross income was at least $1,200.



Those taxpayers whose income was below the allowed minimum, but who have had income tax withheld from their pay, must file a return in order to get a refund.

Self-employed persons such as businessmen, farmers, and most professional people must file a return if net earnings from self-employment were $400 or more.

Under the tax laws, employers are required to furnish Form W-2, showing social security and tax information, to all employes on or before Jan. 31.

And to those of you planning to use the easier "short form" for filing, may we suggest that you investigate the alternative of the "long form." You may well find that itemizing allowable deductions will be well worth the effort.

Whole Community Applauds Phil Gibbs

This past Thursday noon several hundred people gathered to pay a tribute to J. Philip Gibbs on the occasion of his completion of three years as chairman of the Better Business Bureau of Central Ohio.

A SCROLL of appreciation, signed by scores of community leaders, was given in a surprise ceremony Thursday to J. Philip Gibbs.

Being chairman of such a board is in itself not an unusual thing. Many business men of this area volunteer their services to worthy causes.

The whole affair was, in effect, a presentation of flowers to the living with Mr. Gibbs as a symbol of a particular kind of leadership in this community.

Many hats were off to Phil not only for his position in the BBB but also as a past president and board member of Columbus Convention Bureau; a member of the Airport Commission; a very active participant in the Columbus Area Chamber of Commerce; a member of and active in Ohio Chamber of Commerce; Columbus Bar Association; Downtown Area Committee; member of the Board of Columbus Symphony; member of the Board of Lions Club of Columbus; member of the Board of University Club; organizer of the Columbus Council of Navy League.

Phil initiated the American Heritage Program of the Navy League which was responsible for the distribution of 276,000 copies of the 23-page "Scriptographic Presentation of the Constitution of the U.S." to all school children in Central Ohio.

Too numerous to mention are all the volunteer acts performed by Phil when called upon to serve his community in a civic way. His contribution has been a great one, one that is appreciated by the Columbus community, and certainly by his firm, Ohio Bell Telephone Company.

Today we single out Phil Gibbs and congratulate him on this most recent honor and do so in the hopes that more and more capable men will be encouraged to keep America strong through their efforts in voluntary organizations.

Guest Pulpit . . .

Blessed are the youth who love God and do as they please, for others will see Christ in them.

Blessed are the teenagers who hot-rod not, for they shall live long enough to live life fully.

Blessed are the students who cheat not, for the success they achieve will be with honor.

Rev. Selvey

Blessed are the young who respect their elders, for they too, in time, will earn the respect of youth.

Blessed are young lovers who know the body as "the temple of God" and treat it so, for they will know true love in time.

Blessed are the students who thirst for knowledge, for life will never be boring to them.

Blessed are the young who never expect hand-outs, for they will never be without.

Blessed are the youth who can stand courageously for right, sit humbly to learn truth and kneel reverently before God, for they will love life.

Blessed are the teenagers who win friends but do not use them, for they will never be friendless.

Blessed are the young adults who "dream dreams and have visions," for with them is the destiny of the world.

Cites Biblical References

To the Editor:

The recent editorial entitled "Religious Rights Challenged" presents some challenging thoughts for every humble Bible reader.

(Commenting on the statement: "it is a time when many strangers exchange smiles of friendship and greetings") . . . It is obvious that many do this because of sentiment rather than out of love for Christ. The Scriptures plainly show that God is not pleased with those who reject His Son.

("It is a religious day shared by many religious and respected by all religions . . .") The apostle Paul rebuked the Galatians for observing days, etc. (Galatians 4:10). The Bible says it is wrong for true believers to be divided into "many religions." (John 17:20-23; Romans 15: 5, 6; Corinthians 1:10). The important consideration is not how many believe a certain thing but rather how Scripturally sound it is.

BANNING BOOKS

In this good land, especially in recent years, we have faced the problem of determining what is best for all in the matter of public morals as affected by books, movies, publications, radio and TV.

Many factors are involved, and perhaps not all are well known or sufficiently considered. No satisfactory solution for any problem can be found so long as any pertinent factor is unknown or ignored. This problem may be too big for us.

Any intelligent, normal adult knows obvious indecency when he sees it. Properly we have laws defining and prohibiting things and actions plainly inimical to the public welfare. Society's right and duty is to protect itself against anything that offends against decency. The character of a people is the net of its virtues balanced against its sins. That character can be strengthened by the suppression of indecency by law and opinion. But there is another phase of the present problem that is more baffling.

Most human beings live, think and act in a realm somewhere between unredeemed, unrepented immorality and saintly asceticism. Few are incurable bums, and perhaps fewer yet are sinless saints. That leaves the most of us, neither too good nor too bad.

How are we to decide what is good for us and especially for our children? Necessarily we see, read and absorb many things. What is too bad to be tolerated or too good to be understood?

The federal government, through appropriate channels, lays down basic rules of decency in radio and television. It also prevents, when possible, the sending of indecent literature through the mails. But there is great danger that public power can become tyrannous, especially when handled by little men in big chairs.

Some towns ban the sale of books they consider indecent. But often that becomes a boomerang. Tell a man he can't do a thing and he'll find a way to do it. Ban a book and you advertise it.

It says here . . .

Public opinion is the only viable kind of censorship.

Frosting On The Cake

By
"UNCLE DOC" ROSS — U.S.A.

It is now official. Lt. Col. John H. Glenn, Jr., has announced his entry into the May primaries for Senate nomination, Democratic party. So, it is now polite and respectable for all of us who strive to report the political scene to get in our personal observations. Also to report comments that have been heard.

1. Many believe that Candidate Glenn will inject some "fresh air," long overdue, into the Ohio political scene. All seem to be in agreement that he is a 100 percent "name candidate," but refreshing to a high degree.

2. Many say they are pleased that we appear to have a real big-name contest shaping up. Others still remember the silly gratuitous insult that Senator Young handed the respected Frank J. Lausche, the day he (Young) was sworn in as Ohio's new senator. Senator Young has never lived that down. Lausche has been so decent about the whole incident ever since that people are giving him added credit for possessing lots of balance.

3. A surprising number still doubt that Young will file for the primary election next May. Comment is more than ordinarily objective on that score. Senator Young's personal friends are in just as much of quandary as his more outspoken enemies, and he does have plenty who feel that way toward him.

4. Everyone expects to see Taft nominated for the senate on the Republican primary ticket. Therefore, given that Glenn is nominated by the Democrats, we will have a genuine big-name battle next November. No one seems willing to question the ability or personal integrity of either man.

5. The side effects of Glenn's candidacy upon Republican high command strategy will become more obvious as the picture unfolds. Many who say they will vote for Taft, as regular registered Republicans, do say they doubt that Taft, Jr., has anywhere as much "on the ball" as his late and great father. Bob Taft had every mental and moral right to be president and when he was destroyed in 1952 at the Chicago convention by a "deal between Dewey and Nixon" the man's great soul was mortally wounded. His constitutional decline was inevitable and rapid. I saw that happen on Wednesday noon, when the word first reached Taft that such a deal against him had been made.

6. There are so many spectacular similarities this year in the buildup for the Republican nomination for President. The same "one worlders" who destroyed Taft are leaving no stone unturned to destroy Goldwater. What a refreshing shock it would be to the entire political circus if Goldwater should confound the "smoke filled room boys" and get the nomination because the professionals and king makers make stupid and costly mistakes that render their party highly vulnerable at the polls in the fall election.

This political year is going to be "hotter than a little red wagon." No pun intended.

An Editor's Outlook . . . by Jenkin Lloyd Jones

The Gentle Thieves – You May Be Living Next Door To One

You may see him at the country club having three drinks at the 19th hole where, you recall, it used to be his habit to have only one.

You may sit next to her on the city bus. Her conversation will be cheerful and she will laugh often. But there will be pauses when she looks out the window with a fixed stare.

Jones

The boss may know him as an old and trusted employe who this year says he really doesn't need a vacation and would as soon keep on working.

These are the white collar thieves, the gentle embezzlers. These are the men and women who carry a great secret with them — a secret that absorbs them until it is the biggest fact of every hour. No matter what they are doing they think about it—and think about it—.

Dolly Gee was the only woman manager among the Bank of America's 950 branches. She had run the Chinatown bank in San Francisco since 1929 and everyone admired and trusted her. Currency would come in letters from Hong Kong and Singapore addressed to Dolly. Dolly might or might not make a little note in Chinese.

Dolly had a sackful of press clippings about herself, for hers was a remarkable career. In recent years she had been drinking more than she should, and playing mah jong at $1 a point. But everyone assumed Dolly just liked a good time. And at 64 she should be looking forward to retirement.

Looking forward? Retirement next November would begin the time when other eyes would be reading the Chinese records. So just before Christmas Dolly called on the president of the Bank of America. Her lawyers say that she's "in" about $300,000.

Three years ago the little town of Sheldon, Ia., was electrified at the arrest of the "nicest lady in town." Mrs. Burnice Iverson Geiger, 58, daughter of the bank's president, had served as assistant cashier for 38 years.

She was so "devoted" to her job that she almost never left town. Townspeople joked that "Burnice would not trust the books to anyone." She and her husband lived modestly, but she made generous gifts to all the good causes in northwest Iowa, and she invested heavily in a new industry that would make jobs for her townspeople.

The shortage was $2,126,859—largest in the experience of the Federal Deposit Insurance Corp.

Eddy Gilbert had had a bitter dispute with his father over money matters and he was determined to show the old man he could really wheel and deal. He gained control of the staid Memphis hardwood firm, E. L. Bruce Co. He got a box at Metropolitan Opera and cultivated Elsa Maxwell so that he would know the right people.

Then he started a drive to take over Celotex. He had 14 per cent of the stock on a thin margin when the market took a header. One afternoon he walked into the Bruce board of directors, resigned, and that night took a plane for Brazil. He had diverted $1,953,000 in company checks in an effort to save his Celotex holdings.

Dolly Gee said she got in wrong trying to cover up a shortage inherited from her father.

Burnice Geiger tearfully admitted that she had wanted to be loved.

Eddy Gilbert, when he returned to face the music, said he didn't mind going to jail, but "couldn't stand solitary."

Weep for them. The hardened thief needs no sympathy. The gent who grabs a handful of cash and runs into the night, laughing, is an object of disgust, not pity. Weep, instead, for the ones who were going "to put it back."

Lester A. Pratt, the famed Washington auditor who once outlined 210 different ways to rob a bank from the inside, says that many bank embezzlers have been trapped by tiny dots they have entered beside looted accounts to help them remember where to restore the money.

The temptation of the moment. The prospect of a killing in grain futures. The fast profit in real estate. The hot tip in the third race at Hollywood Park. Then the growing desperation. The resort to longer and longer chances. The point of no return. And finally the sleepless nights, the weighing of suicide plus public disgrace or jail plus public disgrace.

Arrests are the top of the iceberg. Fidelity claims have risen 130 percent in the past 10 years. Embezzlement arrests have more than doubled in that time. But who can say how many frantic men and weeping women saved themselves today by secret appeals for money from relatives and even friends? "Resignations" will be announced tomorrow, sometimes even with face-saving "regrets" from the boss. But the people who count most will know. The wound never heals.

You think you've got troubles. But that pleasant fellow across the aisle on the morning bus may be thinking he'd sell his soul to wear your shoes. He hasn't had much appetite lately. His wife thinks maybe he should see a doctor.

The pleasant fellow closes his eyes. There was this old Greek legend. Something about a guy named Damocles sitting at a banquet under a sword that was hanging by a horsehair. He didn't eat much either.

3 Boys Win Top Citizen Awards

Phil Lewis — Frank Carroll — Tyrone Ware

Boys took the honors at Barrett Junior High School when three were selected as Citizens of the Month by the faculty. The awards are based on the student's attendance, punctuality, conduct, cooperation, courtesy, respect, responsibility, scholastic effort and sportsmanship.

The three boys named are Phil Lewis, Frank Carroll and Tyrone Ware.

Phil, although only a ninth grader, has a part-time job and is saving his money for college. He is vice-president of the Barrett Hi-Y club, belongs to the Boys Glee club and the Optimist Glee Club and is a varsity trackman. His hobbies are swimming and ice skating.

Eighth grader Frank is on Student Council and plays with both the senior band and orchestra. He is a visual aid assistant and is interested in radio and electronics. He belongs to the South Congregational Church.

Tyron, grade seven, plays the cello and is a basketball and football player. He is a member of the Junior Usher Board at the First Church of God.

The name "salt water taffy" originated in Atlantic City, N.J. Actually, the candy contains no salt water.

Police Hold Two Youths In Attack

Two of four youths apparently involved in the Saturday beating of a 13-year-old South Side boy are being held at the Franklin County Juvenile Detention Home. Columbus Juvenile Bureau officers report that a pick-up order has been issued for two 19-year-olds also said to be involved in the beating.

A police report said that one of the juveniles was identified by a witness to the attack, and that his apprehension lead to implication of the three other youths.

Victim of the beating was Bill Estep, of 43 E. Beck-st. He was treated at Children's Hospital for head injuries. The injured youth and three companions, including his brothers, Larry Estep, 15, and Wilbur Estep, 18, were en route downtown when the incident occurred on S. High-st near the Fulton Expressway construction site.

Music Instructor Of 48 Years Dies

Requiem High Mass was offered at St. Francis Church for Anna C. Broekhoven, 86, of 1077 Neil-av who died Saturday, Jan. 18, at the home of her nephew, Edwin, of 984 Ellsworth-av.

A piano teacher in Columbus for the past 48 years, she studied the instrument in Maastricht, Holland, and in Antwerp, Belgium, and later played with the Cincinnati Philharmonic Orchestra.

She and her brother, Joseph, who studied the violin, then opened the Broekhoven School of Music at the present address.

She is survived by nieces and nephews.

South High News 'n Notes

South High School will participate in the "World Day of Prayer" to be observed the first Friday of Lent, Feb. 14.

Sponsored by the women of Protestant and Orthodox Communions, this year's theme is "Let Us Pray."

With a primary purpose of prayer and gifts for the world-wide missions of the churches the observance is also planned to bring people together across denominational, racial, national and cultural boundaries to carry out the functions of churches.

Those taking part from South High under direction of Mrs. Karyl Meyer are Stanley Barnette, Sally Ebright, Cynthia Bland and Tom Ewing.

Pit Orchestra Selected

To accompany the musical "Plain and Fancy," to be presented Mar. 20-21, a pit orchestra has been selected from members of the South High orchestra and concert band.

Ask Glee McNutt---She'll Know

WHAT'S NEW IN HONG KONG?

"If God gives you a job, he gives you the strength to do it."

With these words, Glee Olveta McNutt shrugged away anything unusual about a woman her age (she is 70 today) leading a life that would send most women screaming to the nearest doctor for a pot of tranquilizers.

Mrs. McNutt, 380 E. Whittier-st, writes about 6,000 letters a year, publishes a semi-monthly news-letter that goes all over the world, and is forever sewing. These tasks are accomplished in leisure moments not filled with the nursing of her mother who has been bedfast for seven years, and her husband Laurence who can no longer care for himself.

Back in 1934 it all began.

A friend of Mrs. McNutt while in a tubercular hospital began to correspond with eight or 10 other shut-ins. When she recovered and eventually gave it up, Mrs. McNutt took it over, and there began the Friendly Page Hobby Club.

The Pagers, as the club members call themselves, devote themselves to promoting hobbies and helping shut-ins.

This past Christmas the Columbus unit sent out over 300 gifts and this unit is but one of a dozen of the international chain.

A look at a recent list of new members reads like a mailing list of the United Nations.

Mohamed F. Massamir of Egypt will correspond in English, French or Arabic; Eleanor Tweedie of Kouchibouguac in Canada collects stamps; Syouke Uzife, 15-year-old from Tokyo claims that she is a nice letter writer; Eva Thompson of Lancaster, England, has just moved and Miss Marry Weaver of Slayton, Minn., who collects buttons lists herself as "silent."

To the remarkable Glee McNutt, these are not names on a roster; they are her friends, many of whom she has met.

She knows what their hobbies are, which ones have been hospitalized recently, who is expecting a new grandchild soon and what the latest news is from Trinidad.

She keeps track of 1500 birthdays and everyone knows his Easter note will include a little remembrance.

And it is all done on a shoestring.

The local club members are inveterate scroungers. What someone is ready to throw away they salvage.

For example, one of the hospitals donates its worn-out uniforms to the club. The best of them are mended and sent to missions. Those that are past mending are made into dressings for an African hospital that often resorts to banana skins as bandages, and the remaining scraps are used to piece quilts or make doll clothes.

Asked about her rather unusual name, Mrs. McNutt indicates "it didn't come easy."

A family argument concerning the relative merits of Ruth and Jane as a name for her wasn't settled until she was six months old. Her father came into the house one day and announced he was tired of having a baby without a name and suggested Glee as a compromise for a child who always wore a smile.

But not until she was in school did it occur to anyone that she needed a middle name.

A literal minded teacher informed her everyone, simply everyone, had a middle name, so a little belatedly her mother quieted her Glee's howls of shame as being "under-named" by digging up Olveta from a list of Indian names.

Mrs. McNutt, a devout Catholic, also came by her faith in a round-about fashion.

Her mother a Methodist, her father an atheist and her husband a Baptist she found her religion by way of a soup line in San Francisco.

When she was 12 she and her mother accompanied her father, a construction iron worker, to San Francisco where they moved into a home with a door with half a dozen locks.

The first night in their new home, her mother carefully locked each device, declaring, "Now we are safe."

The next morning the family awoke to the horrors of the San Francisco earthquake and fire.

For days Glee and hundreds of others were dependent upon the kitchens set up by the sisters of a neighborhood mission, and from them sprung her life-long love of the Catholic Church.

In 1960 Mrs. McNutt took off on a three-month trip to the Far East, visiting Pagers in Tokyo, Hong Kong and the Philippines. She recalls arriving in Manila in the wee morning hours and being met by five car loads of Pagers who had known her only through her letters.

Next summer there's a world cruise on her schedule dependent only on her "grandma sitter" arrangements working out.

Pagers have included the famous actors and actresses (Humphrey Bogart and Dick Powell were among them) and the late President Franklin Roosevelt was a member.

Mrs. McNutt's basic faith in human nature is blended with a bit of Yankee caution.

Whenever someone apoleces for membership she checks the names out with the local postmaster. Amazingly, out of the thousands of Pagers, only two have proved to be fakes. They were, she said a banker and a theater-owner who had only one thing in common—they wanted something for nothing.

Mrs. McNutt will not admit it, but there are some who believe she has discovered a secret long sought by others—an eight-day week.

She certainly must have. Anyone can tell you it's impossible to write over 100 letters a week, and all in longhand.

DISPLAYING ONE of the quilts made by the Friendly Page Hobby group is Mrs. Glee McNutt who directs the varied activities of the group. Quite a hobbyist herself, Mrs. McNutt "collects" with apparently boundless enthusiasm. In addition to 500 pairs (at last count) of salt and pepper shakers she has an estimated 50,000 picture post cards, close to 100 incense burners, a collection of oriental art and more than 1000 handkerchiefs.

A KANGAROO salt shaker with the pepper shaker tucked away in its pouch is only one of the hundreds of such unusual sets Mrs. McNutt has gathered from all over the world. Another pair that is a sure attention-getter is the miniature marriage license containing salt with the accompanying engagement ring to hold pepper.

NO, IT'S not a toy engine with its tender, but just one more unique item of the collection of salt and pepper shakers Mrs. McNutt has collected during her lifetime. With every cabinet and shelf in her home filled, she has five trunk loads packed away in her basement.

Mrs. Balcom Appointed New Stewart Principal

Mrs. David R. Balcom, 2738 Westmont-blvd, will become principal of Stewart Elementary.

Her appointment, effective Friday, Jan. 31, will fill the vacancy created by the leave of absence granted to Mrs. Marilyn Foreman who at the Tuesday meeting of the Columbus Board of Education.

Now completing the Administrative Cadet program at the Columbus Board of Education, Mrs. Balsom has taught at Southwood, Oakland Park and Kenwood elementaries and at the University School. She has also served as a member of the Superintendent's Advisory Council for the Columbus Public Schools.

She received her master's degree in elementary school administration in 1962 from Ohio State where she has done her undergraduate work.

Columbus Board of Education formally declared its intention Tuesday afternoon to apply for Ft. Hayes, when it is abandoned by the Federal Government, as its first official step in requesting the property.

The resolution stated that the board will make application to Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare for transfer of the property, and Superintendent Harold H. Eibling was authorized to act as agent for the board.

Intensive study during the past few weeks has indicated Columbus Schools have a definite need for the 60-acre tract, and a priority list is now being compiled to determine which of 30 and 40 possible uses of the land is most pressing.

Columbus Schools operate 30 or 40 highly specialized functions. The Ft. Hayes acreage would lend itself to the development and expansion of many of these programs.

MRS. BALCOM

The Federal government will retain a ten-acre section in the southwest corner of the 70-acre tract, leaving 60 acres.

Columbus School Board was the first qualified agency to express an interest in the property when the Federal government announced that it would vacate the land.

At a meeting held in December, attended by all qualified agencies in the tract, an official briefing was held on how to make formal application for the ground. First step in the procedure is the announcement of the agency's official intent by its governing board.

On Public Relations

One of my growing pet peeves is the increasing use of public relations departments and firms to get free advertising for their clients.

Every mail contains stacks of releases ground out at great lengths to publicize this or that event, this or that new product, this or that movement and intended to create a good impression on the reader.

For the most part such materials serve only to increase the time taken to open the mail, but with a little training a smart secretary will find the shortest route of such materials to the waste basket.

The press party has become a popular tool intended to get a news handout in exchange for a food and cocktail handout. I'm sure these are appreciated by hungry newsmen who take advantage of the further opportunity to have a little fellowship hour but I doubt if many such parties are directly responsible for any better treatment of the subject at hand.

And then there is the public relations approach of Uncle Sam. He does it up in a big way with invitations to far away places and at the expense of the taxpayer.

Personally I've never felt too generous with the old uncle when I stop to think how he takes my hard earned cash and stuffs it down so many rat holes all over the world.

If I can convince myself that our stock in trade is the space in our paper and make up my mind not to give it away through free publicity releases, we'll have a lot more for honest to goodness news and a lot more money to buy more good features.

Reward

This past weekend a large leather handbag was stolen from a parked car in the Steelton area on Parsons-av. A liberal reward is offered for information leading to the recovery of the bag and its contents. Details are found in an ad elsewhere in our paper today.

Spring Tonic

While in Greenfield this past week my good editor of The Times, Pat Shrock, shared with me the package of sassafras bark sent to him by Bainbridge storekeeper Rodney Gragg.

Years ago, down on the West Virginia side of the Ohio River, I dug up the tender roots of the small sassafras bush in the early spring and delighted in the sweet aroma and taste that comes only from sassafras.

Old timers then said sassafras tea had a special medicinal value . . it thinned the thick blood of winter . . . just like getting an oil change.

So, if I seem to have a renewed vigor and vitality today, and you observe that there is a lot of spring in the body even though the roof is white, it's just because I've had my spring tonic . . sassafras tea.

Thanks To Jaycees

I'm grateful to the Prairie-Lincoln Junior Chamber of Commerce for the honor of having received its "Boss of the Year" award. I merely look upon myself as one who has been tapped on the shoulder as a representative of a lot of other "bosses" who are equally proud to be able to offer opportunities to young men like those in the Jaycee organization.

We can all do well to look to the JAYCEE CREED:

We believe—

That faith in God gives meaning and purpose to human life:

That the brotherhood of man transcends the sovereignty of nations:

That economic justice can best be won by free men through free enterprise:

That government should be of laws rather than of men:

That earth's great treasure lies in human personality:

And that service to humanity is the best work of life.

WE WON'T TELL, BUT . .

CAN YOU GUESS WHO in the picture is soon going to celebrate an 80th birthday? It is the young in heart such as Mrs. Margaret McCarley and Norbert Archer who have started a rumor that water from Ponce de Leon's fabled fountain is piped into Sunshine Terrace, towering in the background. Mrs. McCarley, 38 times a great-grandmother, lives in the high-rise and Archer is on the waiting list and impatiently waiting a vacancy. We took a peek into the lives being lived there recently. To learn what we found out, turn to Page 11. (Photos by Harley Groom.)

DAVE WILSON NAMED CHAIRMAN

'Y' Membership Drive Coming Up March 30

The volunteers now banding together on the South Side are all alike.

They're got something to sell.

When Dave Wilson was named campaign chairman for the South Side Y's 1964 membership drive he made it clear his workers won't be asking for something for nothing.

True, they hope after the drive is over the first week in April, the YMCA will hear the comfortable rustling of $12,000.

But thousands of Southsiders will have bought with their memberships the key to better living.

The new 'Y' at 190 Southwood-av and the 'Y' Park on Rohr-rd seven miles to the south can mean many things to many people.

Some will gain from the recreational facilities offered; others from the club activities and hobby groups. Scores of organizations throughout the year will use the meeting rooms and kitchen facilities while the 'Y' Park will attract still more.

Wilson explained that several types of memberships will be sold when the week-long campaign kicks off Mar. 30. First, there are all activity memberships for families, youth and adults. Secondly families and individuals can purchase the privilege of using the Y-Park without participation in the year-round program at the Southwood building.

The last type is the Partner with Youth membership allowing the opportunity to support the youth of the community.

When Wilson, a northsider, accepted the responsibilities of heading the drive he was asked "Why?"

He explained that when he was a teenager in the thirties that he thanked "Cap" Hoover, long time executive secretary for the fun he'd had on a camping trip.

"Cap" told him he could best be thanked if Wilson, as an adult, would remember what the 'Y' had done for him and would try to pass it on to another generation.

The YMCA, which has never veered from its original concept of being first a Christian organization, is supported partially by its membership in United Appeal.

Jim Wagner, executive secretary, joined Wilson in stressing that it is the "Y" memberships that fill the gap between UA funds and actual operating expenses and per-

NOT THE IDES of March, but Mar. 30 is the deadline Dave Wilson, 3080 Fishinger-rd, must keep in mind. As campaign chairman he must see that 280 volunteer workers are "ready to roll" by that time. By Apr. 8 they plan to take the story of the "Y" into every South Side home. Their goal? Memberships totaling $12,000.

World's Fair Trip Top Contest Prize

"Off we go into the wild blue yonder!"

That will be the song in the hearts of two people as they take off in one of American Airlines finest planes for a whirlwind trip to the World's Fair.

Hartley Newspapers, in cooperation with American Airlines, has arranged an all-expense paid trip for two to New York to visit the fabulous World's Fair as the grand prize in the Cook Book Recipe Contest.

In addition to the round trip flight, the lucky winner and a guest will be staying at one of New York's finest hotels, dining at restaurants to be remembered, and touring the fair for two full days.

The World's Fair, covering hundreds of acres, will have exhibits from all four corners of the world. Whether your interest lies in science, travel, products from other countries, entertainment, or just plain looking, you will have the time of your life as the winner in the big contest.

And how do you get in on all this "pie in the sky?"

All you need to do is submit your favorite recipe in the Hartley Newspapers Cook Book Recipe Contest with the following rules:

1. There are five divisions, teenagers, brides of not more than one year, homemakers, senior citizens and men.

2. Any subscriber of a Hartley newspaper may submit one recipe a week. Each coupon accompanying the recipe will entitle the participant to a chance for the valuable prizes.

3. Election of the winners will be in the hands of a committee of judges active in the field of home economics and homemaking.

4. Employes of this newspaper and their families are not eligible.

Judges reserve the right to print any or all recipes submitted.

In addition to the grand prize of an American Air-

City Planners Attempt Area Zone Change

Wednesday's agenda for the Columbus City Planning Commission included an attempt to change zoning to conform with existing conditions for an area bounded by Washington-av, Stanford, Pearl-st and Barthman-av.

Although presently zoned commercial, a City Planning Commission staff study shows the area consists predominately of one-to-four family residences. The commission sent letters to more than 100 property owners affected, suggesting that city council be petitioned to change the zoning to one-to-four family residential.

The zoning problem was discovered when an area resident, Viola Settles, 277 Innis-av, secured a permit for a two-car garage at 292 Innis-av, and subsequently converted the structure to residential use. She was denied use of the property as a residential unit because of the existing commercial zoning classification.

Approval of the proposed zoning change for the entire area would include the Settles property at 292 Innis-av,

DR. BRUCE GRAHAM SEES HOSPITAL ROLE CHANGING

Comparing modern medicine to an old fashioned three-legged milking stool, Dr. Bruce D. Graham, new chief-of-staff at Children's Hospital, stressed the delicate balance that must be maintained in today's hospital between teaching, research and exemplary care.

At a recent press conference at which Dr. Graham appeared with Dr. Richard L. Meiling, dean of the Ohio State Medical School, he pointed out the changes in the practice of medicine during recent years.

"Within the last five or six years, our knowledge has doubled," he stressed.

This new knowledge and a growing population has started a trend toward a great deal of out-patient care both in the physician's office and in clinics of the larger hospitals of the nation.

"Now it is usually only the child with complications of a disease rather than merely the disease itself that requires hospital care," stated Graham, mentioning pneumonia, which responds well to antibiotics as a prime example of this situation.

Both doctors emphasized that this trend was not back toward the home treatment of another, less busy generation, but to private office care.

Dr. Meiling quoted statistics at University Hospital where during recent years the load for the out-patient clinic had averaged 26,000 cases annually. During the past year the figures jumped to 153,000 which does not include approximately another 50,000 patients who were brought to the emergency wards and dismissed.

This indicates that future hospitals and addition to present centers, will devote a proportionately larger area to diagnostic centers and clinics and less to hospital rooms and wards.

Admitting that from a hospital viewpoint as well as that of the patient, it is economically more feasible to treat on an ambulatory basis, Dr. Graham mentioned that per capita use of hospital beds in British Columbia where socialization of medicine prevails is 50 percent greater than in England where patients are responsible for their own hospital bills.

One of the problems with extensive service, and short-

FOR ST. STEPHEN'S MEETING

Longo Has A Message: Why Not Call It A Day?

The challenges faced by today's community center will be the subject of Frank Longo when he speaks at the annual meeting and banquet of St. Stephen's Community House, Wednesday, Feb. 5.

His speech, entitled "Why Not Call It a Day?", will follow the installation of 1964 officers by Mayor M. E. Sensenbrenner.

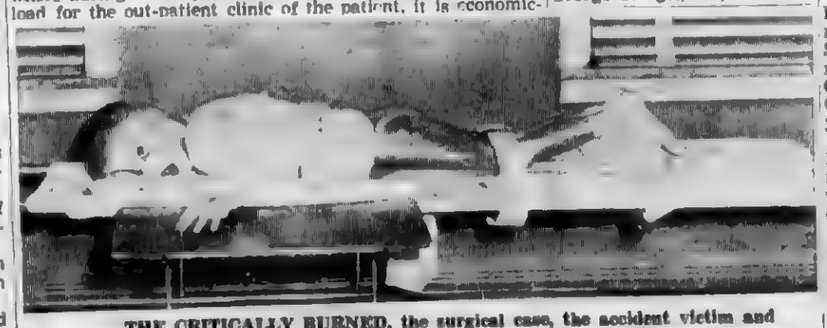
Ernest Barta has been re-elected chairman of the board. Other officers who will take office are Judge Joseph Van Heyde, vice-chairman; William Carr, treasurer, and Mrs. Lucille Burke, secretary.

Mrs. George DeNucci, George J. Igel, Jr., and Carl Graf will be appointed to the board for three-year terms.

St. Stephen's feels that Longo, assistant professor of social work at OSU, should be well-versed on his subject as from childhood he has been connected with settlement houses.

From eight to 18 he was a member of Alta House of his Cleveland neighborhood. After graduating from Kent and receiving his master's degree from Ohio State in Social Group Work he became a detached worker for the Neighborhood Settlement Associations of Cleveland in various settlement and camp settings.

He was director of the Rehabilitation Therapies Department at the Columbus State School for four years and director of the Summit County Children's Home and of its Group Life program for six years.



A member of St. Timothy Parish, Longo has published a number of papers on group work and child welfare in social work magazines.

'SUFFER LITTLE CHILDREN–'

NO GREATER honor did the Sertoma Clubs of Eastern Ohio have to bestow than the District Service to Mankind Award. When Otto Heinzerling, left, director of the Peck O' Wee Ones, learned that the award was his, he was cheered a little. You see, he had been pretty discouraged recently when within seven short days three of the little ones for whom he provides a haven had died. He knew, deep in his heart, that death was inevitable (even merciful, perhaps) for the children, but it just isn't in Heinzerling to stop hoping for each and everyone. While he holds one of the few tots in the home who can move around a little he talked to Bob Stokes about his work. Stokes, of Eastern Sertoma, became interested in Heinzerling when he read of his work with hopelessly mentally retarded children in a Hartley Newspaper last fall. After personally investigating the home and the man behind it, Stokes became convinced of the dedication of Heinzerling and the wonders his love was accomplishing. Upon his nomination, the service club recommended Heinzerling for the district award which is now his. His service will now be matched against that of nominees all over the world for the International Award. Stokes is convinced, "Our man deserves it; our man will win it."

THE CRITICALLY BURNED, the surgical case, the accident victim and the child with the unusual medical problem are among the ones to whom hospital care is the only answer. For the youngster less seriously ill, according to Dr. Bruce Graham, chief of staff at Children's Hospital, the trend is toward out-patient care whenever possible. The child above, seriously burned, is confined to a stretcher-type bed where he can be kept motionless. Change of position is effected by turning the bed rather than the patient.

Expect Children To 'Steal The Show' During Lilliputian Fashion Parade

Shrub will be served at 11 a.m. at the annual Lilliputian affair followed by a noon luncheon.

The grand parade of children will begin at 1:30 p.m., featuring the kiddies "dressed in their best," and adult fashions will be shown at 2:15. Using the theme of a Wishing Well, Brace IV members (Franklin County Society for Crippled Children) will combine yellow and purple for an Easter time effect.

Six judges will be looking for the complete Spring ensemble, a 1964 Easter bonnet and the most original ensemble. Chet Long will pick "Chet's Choice," three men will select "Men's Mania," and three women will choose "Women's Whimsey."

Miss Pat Bowers, 250 E. Stewart-av, is decorations chairman and committee members are Mrs. J. Brantner, Groveport, and Mrs. D. North of Canal Winchester.

Tom Beaman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Beaman, will model in the children's division.

Reservations may be made with Mrs. Ernest Reeder, 2712 Brandon-rd or Mrs. Charles Schwenker, 2631 Berwyn-rd.

NERVOUS GIGGLES are exchanged between Blythe Bethel and Anne Runyan as they are taught the way "real models walk and stand" for their roles in the forthcoming Lilliputian luncheon and style show. Instructing them are their mothers, Mrs. R. W. Bethel, 3199 Dale-av, and Mrs. Robert J. Runyan, 300 S. Gould-rd.

Don't Yawn Now . . .

"RIP VAN WINKLE" the man who slept for 20 years, catches the eyes of these children. They are seated from left: Thea Dinitz, 298 N. Cassady-rd, and Susan Schottenstein, 389 Northview-dr. Standing from left are: Jeff Dinitz and Ricky Schottenstein. Sponsored by the Columbus Chapter of Hadassah, the production will take place Sunday, Feb. 2, at Bexley High School Auditorium. Performances will be staged at 1:30 and 3:30 p.m. Tickets are 75 cents and may be obtained by calling Mrs. Norbert Kruger, BE. 1-0844 or Mrs. Simon Dinitz, CL. 3-3947 or purchased at the door. For mail orders send a stamped self-addressed envelope to Mrs. Melvin Kobre, 2988 Maryland-av, Columbus 9.

St. Joseph Mothers Plan 'Prelude To Spring' Show

The traditional Valentine luncheon sponsored by the Mothers Club of St. Joseph Academy will be held Thursday, Feb. 6, 1 p.m., at the auditorium, 331 E. Rich-st.

The theme, "Prelude to Spring," will feature a fashion and wig show with prizes going to the most smartly accessorized ensemble and the most chic chapeau. Judges will be Mary Selleck, Jane Fitting, and Helen Jones Barrett.

General chairman is Mrs. Richard Brooks. She will be assisted by Mrs. Richard Thompson, Mrs. Warren Hicks, Mrs. William Spires, Mrs. Dudley Briggs, Mrs. Al Brandt, Mrs. John Kern, Mrs. Robert Hasson and Mrs. Chester Croce. Tickets may be obtained for $3 by calling Mrs. Chester Croce, AM. 3-8922.

Guild To View Slides At Wednesday Meet

LOCAL SERVICES LISTED

Women The World Over Plan World Day Prayer For Peace

The 77th observance of the World Day of Prayer by women across the world will center on the theme, "Intercessory Prayer." Services will be held on the first Friday of Lent (Feb. 14), as is traditional. Mrs. C. J. Koenig is general chairman for the day's programs locally.

At least 22 individual meetings will be held in the area. While the women are praying for peace, gifts will be contributed to home and international missions.

Baby sitting will be provided in some churches, and the public is invited to attend local services.

Among churches serving as hosts for 1:30 p.m. meetings are:

Woodlawn Christian, Mrs. Luzzeta Moss, chairman; Glenwood Methodist, Mrs. Robert Howison, chairman; Thurman Avenue Methodist, Mrs. Anthony Christ, chairman; Bexley Methodist, Mrs. R. C. Coney, chairman; Calvin Presbyterian, Mrs. Jack Edmonds, chairman; First Congregational, Mrs. Benjamin Hazen, chairman.

Village Park Methodist, Mrs. Wilber Leslein, chairman; St. Timothy Lutheran, Mrs. Samuel Van Horn, chairman; Gahanna Peace Lutheran, Mrs. R. L. Poth, chairman; New Albany Methodist, Mrs. A. J. McKinney, chairman, and Reynoldsburg Presbyterian (East), Mrs. C. E. Burnett, chairman.

A 7:30 p.m. service is planned at Hopewell Methodist Church with Mrs. William Alspach as chairman.

Services will be held at 8 p.m. at the following churches: Canal Winchester EUB, Mrs. Don Weiser, chairman, and Dublin Community, Mrs. Howard Bennington, chairman.

DELTA ZETA mothers will entertain the mothers of the new pledges Tuesday, Feb. 4, 1:30 p.m., with a luncheon at the Chapter House, 212 15th-av.

CORPUS CHRISTI Rosary Altar Society will meet Tuesday, Feb. 4, 8 p.m., at the Ohio Fuel Gas Co.

Business meeting will be held at 2 p.m., followed by dinner at 5:30 p.m. Evening session will begin at 7. Price is $3 and reservations must be given to each chapter secretary.

LOCKBOURNE AFB adult Catholic parish will hold a Mardi Gras potluck Sunday, Feb. 2, 6:30 p.m. at chapel one annex. Costumes may be worn. Bring a covered dish and table service for two. Single airmen are invited.

Christian Endeavor Rally Set

Christian Endeavor's 83rd anniversary will be marked by a birthday rally Sunday, Feb. 2, 2:30 to 4:30 p.m., at East Columbus Christian Church, according to David J. Hildreth, president of the Franklin County Christian Endeavor Union.

The theme, "Through Christ I Can," will be presented by Dr. Harold Scott, minister of Indianola Church of Christ. Dr. Joe Belcastro, pastor of the host church, will also participate. Headquarters of the International Society of Christian Endeavor are located at 1121 E. Broad-st. There are more than 3,000,000 Christian Endeavorers around the world, in over 80 denominations.

Brotherhood Fish Fry Set

St. Paul United Church of Christ Brotherhood will hold its annual fish fry Friday, Feb. 7, 5 to 7 p.m., at the church, 225 E. Gates-st.

Prices are $1.25 for adults and 75 cents for children under 12.

Tickets may be purchased from members of the brotherhood or by calling 866-5381 or 444-7634. A limited number of tickets will be available at the door.

Public is invited.

Congregational Sing Is Feature Of Revival Meets

Harrisburg E.U.B. Church will hold its Central Area Crusade beginning Sunday, Feb. 9.

Public is invited to attend Evangelistic services at Pleasant Corners Church, Sunday, Feb. 9 through 16, at 7:30 p.m. each evening.

Similar services will be held at the Harrisburg Church the following week, Monday, Feb. 17 through 23.

All services will feature old-time congregational singing and special numbers in music and songs by local and visiting talent.

The pastor, Rev. R. Mann, will deliver revival messages.

The person bringing the most guests during the two weeks period will be awarded a free picture.

Sparks Plan Fete, Invite All To Join

The newly formed Sparks of the Peck O'Wee Ones will hold a hat and kitchen party at the home of the president, Mrs. Paul O'Day, 1865 Fairwood-av, Monday, Feb. 3, 8 p.m.

Slides will be shown of the children sheltered at the home, located at 4216 E. Main-st.

The group was organized in October and is unique in the fact that it is the only guild devoted to fund-raising efforts for the uneducable children. Their aim is to enlist new members and eventually more guilds to assist them in their efforts.

For RSVP and further information call HI. 4-5885.

Hungarian Pastries Are Offered At Sales

Women's Guild of the Hungarian E and R United Churches of Christ will hold bake sales Saturday, Feb. 1, beginning at 9 a.m., at the Modernette Beauty Salon, 1745 Parsons-av and Super Duper Grocery, 1776 Parsons-av. Hungarian pastries will be featured.

Healing Lecture Planned Sunday At Third Church

Spiritual healing will be the subject of a one-hour public talk Sunday, Feb. 2, by Florence C. Southwell, a member of the Christian Science Board of Lectureship.

The talk will be sponsored by Third Church of Christ, Scientist, and will be presented at 3 p.m. in the church edifice at 3989 N. High-st. "The Healing Way of the Christ" is the title of the lecture.

Mrs. Southwell has been an authorized teacher and practitioner of Christian Science for the past several years. She was formerly assistant manager of a Florida business firm, but left in order to devote full time to her religion.

This lecture will be broadcast over WBNS-Radio.

Wing 50 Reviews '63; Elects New Officers

Wing 50 of Nightengale Cottage met Jan. 15 and elected the following officers for the 1964 season:

Mrs. Robert High, chairman; Mrs. Orin Babbitt, project chairman; Mrs. Chester Baker, secretary; Mrs. George Lockett, treasurer; Mrs. Ralph Campbell and Mrs. Bill Adams, Wing council representatives.

Wing 50 contributed $400 to Wing Council in 1963 and through members' pledge, sent five cases of baby food and one case of broth to the cottage as a Christmas gift. Toys for the children are donated by Ruth Lyons 50-50 Club.

Reception To Honor Faculty And Guests

Capital University Mothers' Club will hold its annual reception for the faculty and guests of Capital University, Sunday, Feb. 2, 3 p.m. at Trautman Hall on campus.

Dr. Fred Meuser, professor of historical theology at Capital University, will speak on "Study of Relationships of Protestant and Catholic Religions in Europe."

It takes little to stampede a flock of turkeys. A paper fluttering in the wind may cause hysterical birds to dash to a corner of their pen and pile up in a fatal crush.

WE APOLOGIZE

In an article printed last week concerning the 54th anniversary of the Saxon Club, the name Saxon was inadvertently spelled Saxton. We sincerely regret the error.

"a way of healing"

There's a way of healing both mind and body. It's a way that penetrates right to the heart of things — a way of love and regeneration. Looking deeper, it's a way of glorifying God. Everyone can follow it. Everyone can learn about it. A lecture called "The Healing Way of the Christ" will be given by Florence C. Southwell, of The Christian Science Board of Lectureship. Everyone is welcome.

TOGETHER

Brothers — together — helping one another. We are our brother's keeper and his helper. Comfort, cheer, and encouragement should be given to each other.

There should be a willingness on the part of each to sacrifice for the other.

A Divine Example was sent to us, and these are His words: "This is my commandment, that ye love one another, as I have loved you. Greater love hath no man than this, that a man lay down his life for his friends."

You are invited to attend church Sunday to learn more of the One who gave us this commandment.

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny; the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.

"WE WANT TO SHOW ourselves and our country as we really are," emphasized Mrs. Genevieve Jackson far right, whose sophomore English students at Marion-Franklin are corresponding with a similar class in Korea. The local students were amazed to learn that their foreign pen pals, with an average of five years study of English, approached or even excelled their own proficiency in writing English. From the left are Harvey Riffle, Charles Tischer, Patricia Nutter and Joyce Drake.

M-F English Pupils Find Korean Friends

The pen-pals of the sophomore English students of Mrs. Genevieve Jackson at Marion-Franklin are going to be disillusioned.

When the first pack of letters was mailed to a class in Taegu, Korea recently it carried the news that all Americans are not rich and happy, nor are they all six foot-blondes with blue eyes, as the Korean students believed.

But along with the disillusionment the Koreans will learn they have much more in common with teenagers in the United States then they had realized.

Believing that understanding of each others problems and culture can go far to relieve today's political tensions, the People-to-People program, headed by former President Eisenhower, enourages our schools to correspond with classes around the world.

Mrs. Jackson adopted the program this year with a three-fold purpose. Her students would inform those in Korea of their world and learn of a new one. But first they became interested in attaining a clear picture of themselves.

IT'S BEEN YEARS since Mrs. Lulu Rogers appeared in vaudeville, but her star will shine again when she appears in productions of the drama club at Senior Citizens Center. Currently she is hard at work on revising some of the numbers with which she entertained 50 years ago, and not so hard at work on the diet her doctor has recommended. She's going to start that "next week."

Recreation Center Activity Proves You're Just As Young As You Feel

It's only a few steps from Sunshine Terrace to the Senior Citizens Recreation Center.

But those few steps make the difference between contentment and loneliness to many.

Mrs. Joseph Galen of Arlington and Mrs. Leata Hamilton of West Jefferson summed up the reaction of the members to the Senior Citizen Recreation Center, built side-by-side with Sunshine Terrace.

"We wouldn't come all this way several times a week if we didn't have a bushel of fun," one explained as she was busy at the shuffleboard scoreboard.

When Sunshine Terrace was planned it was located adjacent to the center as a ready solution to the recreation needs of the older people who would be living there.

It is surprising to learn that many have not joined the club.

With dues amounting only to $2 annually, it does not present a financial problem.

The answers to why many stay away differ sharply.

Some indicated that they had never been good mixers and had no desire to change a lifetime of habit and preference.

One person who has been an extremely active club woman all her life stated she simply does not have time for it. Although she has changed her residence, she has not changed her routine and spends her time with activities to which she is long accustomed.

One man's answer was simple and directly to the point: "I think its stupid for people our age to be dancing!"

A few of those who find gossip objectionable believe that frequenting the center exposes them as subject matter. Others said they can see enough old folks without going to the center where there are even more.

But those who actually have spent any amount of time there seem to thoroughly enjoy it.

There's something offered for every taste. Among the hobby groups are ceramics, bowling, embroidery, music, drama, painting, bridge, euchre, and photography.

Several mentioned the very legitimate excuse that they were not taking advantage of the center as they had not been feeling "up to snuff" recently and either didn't want to impose their aches and pains on others or just weren't "up to all the excitement."

Those who do not attend the center's functions seem to be short-changing themselves.

It is too easy for the elderly to let opportunities slide by that could give them a broader and more interesting life.

It is a good bet that some of those who are too shy to try it would find that the "water is fine" once they plunged into the activities.

One elderly gentleman stated that he needed no recreation — that reading his Bible was his hobby.

Though no one can criticize him for his devoutness, he might remember Abou Ben Adhem's words, that those who love their fellowmen are with the love of God blest.

The opportunity for an interesting and creative autumn of life awaits any who will make the effort.—J.R.

IT IS NOT play alone that fills the hours Mrs. Leata Hamilton, left, and Mrs. Joseph Galen spend at the Senior Citizens Recreation Center. Although they are energetic shuffleboard players, amateur painters, ceramic students and bridge fans, they also contribute generously of their time to the Service Circle. This group makes surgical pads for the Cancer Clinic, stuffs envelopes for drives such as Heart Fund and March of Dimes, sews for the Peck O' Wee Ones and does Red Cross work.

At Sunshine Terrace . . .

LIFE IS WHAT YOU MAKE IT

HOME MAY WELL BE WHERE the heart is, but to Mr. and Mrs. Everett Halterman, former Hilltop residents, it is also where their house plants are. While a few residents of Sunshine Terrace claim their apartments are strange to them, the Haltermans are perfectly at home with their pride and joy, the split-leaf philodendron they have nurtured from a tiny shoot, their bird, and Mrs. Halterman's collection of figurines. No, the philodendrons aren't sporting poinsettia blossoms this year—the Haltermans just added a few artificial flowers for color.

BY JANE ROBINSON

No one at Sunshine Terrace has found a pot of gold.

But each has found in his new home a treasure money can't buy.

It is INDEPENDENCE.

The tenants get up when the notion strikes them, eat what and when they care to, come and go as they please and—in spite of their age—even kick up their heels occasionally.

The high rise apartment building at 272 Gift-st, which provides housing exclusively for those 62 years or older is unique, not only that it represents the first cooperative effort in the field beween a municipality and the federal Metropolitan Housing Authority, but that it is accompanied by a recreation center for senior citizens of the entire county.

Realizing that the eyes of the nation are on the pilot program, we spent a day recently in the Terrace "just visiting." We wanted to know what the people living there like about it, and what, if anything, they'd like to see changed.

The pull-bars over the tubs, the "catch-all" storage room in each unit, the extra deep bowl for "dabbling out" laundry in the double sink are among the little things that mean a great deal.

Naturally, there are a few flaws but the only one that causes actual discomfort is a heating system which doesn't know when to let well enough alone.

They are not all enjoying the tropical climate, but with the good so far outweighing the bad, they accept it with good grace and open the windows.

The excessive heat was not planned, and every effort is being made to correct the situation, officials said.

But the comments of those who have lived at Sunshine Terrace for well over six months could serve as a guide for similar projects that are still on the drawing boards.

The lack of a door on the clothes press in the bedrooms is a source of annoyance to everyone.

One woman (the only truly unhappy person we talked with) insisted, "It's like being in jail."

Those who had previously lived in apartments find nothing amiss in the arrangement. Those who moved from homes yearn for small yards where they can "sit out" and raise a few flowers.

The bus stop is only about a block away and most of our senior citizens are gadabouts. They go to church, they go shopping, and they go back to their familiar friends and neighbors.

The apartments (efficiencies, and one and two bedrooms) are painted in pastels acceptable to most tenants. However, one woman stated that she would appreciate being consulted on the color scheme before her apartment is repainted.

The concrete block walls are objectionable to many for one of three reasons. Most feel that they will not clean satisfactorily, they present a problem when hanging pictures, and to some they are extremely offensive esthetically.

One woman declared she had trained herself not to look at them.

Half of the two-bedroom apartments are designed without any divider between the cooking and living areas which some find objectionable, but which one, whose wry humor marked her far from the Pollyanna type, admitted it made good housekeeping mandatory.

When 188 families are thrown together, pre-selected only by their age and the fact that no one has an adjusted income (allowance is made for excessive medical expenses) reaching $3,000 annually, the old picture of the American melting pot is again seen.

The residents are of Protestant, Catholic and Jewish faith. They are of the white and Negro races, though the latter is in the minority. There are widows and spinsters, bachelors and widowers, married couples, and one woman with an adult daughter who requires her mother's care.

They've traveled many walks of life and have formed a wide scale of values.

There are extroverts, accustomed to stepping forward all their lives. You'll find them working as receptionists, hostesses and floor monitors. (The monitor system, the only hint of institutional life, is welcomed by everyone. In it someone is responsible for making daily checks to make sure no one is critically ill.)

And there are those who do not mix, nor do they care to.

The atmosphere varies even from floor to floor. While on some levels doors are closed and chained, on others most of the apartments are wide open, with the camradie of a sorority house prevailing.

One situation has arisen that is distasteful to many, and for which a solution is being sought.

The lobby has been taken over by some as a place to loaf, and according to many, it quite a hotbed of gossip.

Three first floor units are being kept vacant. The administration plans to convert them to social rooms to avoid the congestion in the lobby.

Fears that the residents might find living exclusively with older people monotonous are largely ungrounded. Many of the people at Sunshine Terrace had tried living with their children or other relatives and didn't like it.

Some frankly admitted they were glad to be away from their grandchildren except on occasional visits. Rock 'n roll, telephonitis, and the high spirits of youth apparently are a little exhausting to those far from their teens.

"I hope people don't get the wrong impression about us," one woman said. "We don't live under a lot of rules or unnecessary supervision.

"And neither are we paupers," she added.

Rent is based upon income. No one pays less than $32 a month for an efficiency, or more than $62 for like accommodations. The two-bedroom apartments range from $36 to $72 monthly.

Rumors that only a certain amount of clothing can be owned, that birds and fish are banned, and that housekeeping is subject to daily inspection are untrue.

The only persons who enter the rooms uninvited is the exterminator who makes regular rounds and staff members who call once a year to check maintenance and general housekeeping standards.

Some worried when electric meters were installed in each apartment. The tenant is now liable for current used over a certain minimum each quarter. However, the majority feels only a few cents will be involved.

A by-product of the project is the peace of mind it has brought the families of those living there.

As one daughter said of her father, "What a blessing it is to know that Dad is comfortable and contented."

To some their new homes represent a true haven—for example, the old gentleman who had been shoved around three times as urban renewal kept him on the move.

Others regard the housing simply as economical and acceptable living quarters.

But even the few who are not enthusiastic about living at Sunshine Terrace agree that "so much for so little" is not available elsewhere.

Today the waiting list stands at around 600.

Almost without exception the present occupants plan to live out their lives right where they are.

But there is one hope for a few vacancies. There is romance in the air, and it can be expected that with wedding bells there will be some "doubling up."

And Here's What They Are Saying..

RETIRED ACTRESS: I've come here to live, not to hibernate.

RETIRED JANITOR'S WIFE: We need more young people around us to keep us young in heart and to keep our minds off our health.

FORMER RAILROADER: I wouldn't trade this home for a hundred-dollar-a-month apartment.

SALESWOMAN: I'm so glad to get away from shoveling snow and worrying about a garden that always got ahead of me.

RETIRED BEAUTY SHOP OWNER: Some say I should still work, but I'm tired of the business world and am perfectly content to work as a hostess here without pay.

PHYSICIAN'S WIDOW: Those with gossiping for a hobby annoy me. I prefer cards, dancing and rug hooking.

BACHELOR: I'm leery of all these women trying to give me their pies and cakes. I've cooked since I was seven years old and don't need any help.

MECHANIC'S WIDOW: It's too hot here, but I certainly would rather be too warm than too cold.

FORMER SECRETARY: I feel safe here. I used to sleep with a revolver under my pillow.

POSTMAN'S WIDOW: I thank my God, reverently, that I am here.

RIVETER AND WIFE: Here at last we are away from the noise of the big trucks day and night.

COUPLE RETIRED FROM STATE: Someone should have run behind the workmen on this building to see they performed their tasks in a workmanlike manner. The painting is sloppy.

RETIRED HOSPITAL DEPUTY: I wish the windows would open from the top for better ventilation.

RECENT WIDOWER: I don't have many visitors and don't want them. I welcome my privacy.

FARMER'S WIDOW: It's as quiet as the country and even my son who objected to my coming here now agrees it is perfect for me.

FORMER BUSINESS WOMAN: Anyone who can find fault here must have been accustomed either to a great deal or nothing at all.

CAR OWNER: Visitors take over the closest parking area. We need assigned parking spaces.

ALMOST EVERYONE: The most wonderful thing that could be added would be a chapel so we could attend church in all kinds of weather.

"HE'S A WONDERFUL cook, but it's a full time job cleaning up after him," laughed Mrs. John Anderson when her husband demonstrated how to make one of his favorite sauces, Bechamel, which consists of chicken stock and cream plus a few secret ingredients. A hotel chef, Anderson now pursues his art as a hobby, thoroughly enjoying the enthusiasm with which his gourmet dishes are met at pot-luck suppers. His kosher macaroni made with cottage cheese rather than cheddar went far to boost his fame recently at Sunshine Recreation Center.

Paper baking cups in contrasting colors make chic doll hats, play-party fishes or gay turrets for castles made from building blocks.

Donkeyball – A Recipe For Weary Athletes

About this time of year, when the local farmers are ordering their seed for the coming spring, John Spicer of 919 S. Warren-av is busy scheduling basketball and baseball contests for his Buckeye Donkeyball Co.

In this strange game, Spicer is operating one of the most unique and entertaining money raising schemes that has ever been devised in the sporting world.

A FORMER minor league baseball player, Spicer started in the business in 1937 with his brotherin-law, Frank Barthen of Derby, O., and is now entering his 27th season with the donkey troupe. In 1941 he moved his headquarters to Columbus where the company's office is presently located.

The donkeyball games are relegated mostly in the basketball and baseball areas with local players riding the animals and conducting the unusually hilarious contests.

Spicer provides insurance, donkeys, announcers, and even football helmets to participants who might mount up on a 'reluctant' steed.

DONKEY BASKETBALL is the current rage according to Spicer. All five of his donkeyball units play approximately 500 roundball contests per cage season which stretches from November to the early part of May.

In basketball, the contest is relatively simply, since any of the donkey's four feet can be used as a pivot foot with the stipulation that the animal cannot switch its tail in the opponent's face. Gnawing and biting is also strictly taboo for all donkey participants engaged in or out of the contest.

Spicer has two troupes touring the Eastern seaboard while two other units work the Midwest nine months of the year.

John's newest unit is located in the far West and tours California, Oregon, and Washington while the five combined units travel approximately 25,000 miles a year and perform before an estimated 300,000 people all over the United States.

EACH UNIT has a manager who is a combination bookkeeper, trainer, janitor, truck driver and veterinarian. There are only three such companies in the United States, but Spicer considers his troupe the best. His company is the only show that provides lighting for summer games by its own generators plus having canvas sidewalls.

Spicer's exhibitionists attract crowds wherever they go, but he feels Eastern crowds are the largest due to the gym sizes in that locale. Ohio is an excellent territory that always draws well, according to Spicer with Cleveland and Dayton being the strongest areas entertaining the sport while Columbus is just starting to gain interest for donkeyball.

John also added that the donkeys are very durable as well as intellectual, contrary to most opinion. Spicer contends that the donkey is basically easy to teach and learns the sport through repetitious exercises and training.

The donkey is also flexible and doesn't seem to notice that the rubber shoes he wears during a contest prevent basketball floors from being damaged.

SPICER HAS some animals that have weathered 20 years of the sport with about 100 games a year played in each season to accent the donkey's durability.

Donkey baseball and softball is gaining in popularity also. The troop enters the diamond sport Decoration Day and plays 300 games annually up until Labor Day when the animals take a short breather before once again hitting the road on the winter tour.

A PROFILE IN COURAGE

ANY REAL basketball fan will tell you that referees never stand still because a moving target is always harder to catch in the cross-hair scope. Our "Captain Courageous" award goes this week to Chuck Berry, official at last week's University-Reynoldsburg game, shown here doctoring an ailing tweeter. Diagnosis for the woebegone whistle — 37 personal fouls.

The Crow's History Is Written In Black

INSIDE ON THE Outdoors By ROD COCHRAN

It is rather likely that the two best known birds in this country are the robin and the crow. Both are found over wide areas, both are hardy and adaptable, and both are easily observed.

The robin is universally liked and admired; the crow is cordially hated, and, in many ways, unjustly villified. The two birds are at the opposite ends of popularity and dislike.

What about the crow? Is he as black in character as he is in plumage?

CROWS ARE FOUND from coast to coast and from Canada to Mexico. Crow depredations of bird nests are a matter of record and have been publicized far and wide and have branded the bird a bandit.

I once watched from our living room window while a crow scared an incubating dove off her nest and ate the two eggs. Here was the classic struggle — the dove, symbol of peace, being raided by a crow.

But crows eat many things, including corn which makes up 38 per cent of their diet. As farmers know, they can pull up seed corn but most of this comes from waste grain scavanged by the crows. Seventy-two percent of a crow's food is vegetable matter, with other grains ranking high.

THE REMAINDER of the crow's diet is animal, but along with bird eggs there is a long list of tasty items such as grasshoppers, crickets, beetles, cutworms, caterpillars, crayfish, snakes, lizards, mice, rats and some young rabbits.

Carrion makes up a good portion of their food, and some of the game animals eaten were killed by another cause. It is a common sight to see crows eating road-killed animals.

Without a doubt, crows will raid a nest and quickly gobble a tender nestling. But they eat many other things and the total effect may well be beneficial to man. A number of hawks are in this same category — it's probably a good thing that we haven't been able to kill them off.

THE CROW'S WISDOM is legendary. And the reputation for "smartness" is not without good cause. Probably no other extermination campaign has been so extensive as that aimed at crows.

Guns, nets, poison, dynamite and fire have destroyed hundreds of thousands of crows, yet there are more of these black birds in the country today than when the Pilgrims landed.

While lesser means were adequate to destroy the last passenger pigeon, the crow still thrives. Little wonder why superstitious people link the bird with the power of the lower regions and maintain that it is in league with the devil!

RIGHT NOW is the season when crows are most noticeable, and you will sometimes see huge flocks of them. They have favorite roosting areas, and will fly back to these each night.

A person can hear a lot of crows in the spring as they fly around in pairs cawing, but once nesting begins, they become black ghosts and little is heard from them until the young are about ready to leave the nests.

So, when you next hear the raucously familiar "caw-caw" don't run for the shotgun, he will either be gone or outsmart you when you return anyway. And I'm speaking from experience.

Local Guard Unit Plans Boat Handling Course

Columbus' own Auxiliary Coast Guard will begin a spring public instruction class on small boat handling on Feb. 3 at Ives Hall on the Ohio State University campus at 8 p.m.

This course is free of charge and the program will run for 10 consecutive Monday evenings with a nominal fee of $2 asked for class material.

For further information on the course contact Ralph E. Thompson at CA. 1-9612 or Glenn Miesse at BR. 4-3291.

Park Schedules Films, Bird Walk, Slide Lecture

"Land of the Red Goat," "What Is a Bird" and "What Is a Mammal" are the films to be shown Sunday, Feb. 2, in Beech-Maple Lodge at Blacklick Woods Metropolitan Park. There will be two showings of the films: the first at 1:30 p.m. and the second at 3 p.m.

Walks along the nature trails, at 1:45 and 2:45 p.m., will originate at the Nature Center.

An early bird walk also will be conducted on Sunday, Feb. 2, at Blacklick Woods Metropolitan Park. Participants will meet the naturalist at the Trading Post at 9 a.m. Binoculars and check-lists will be furnished.

A full-color slide presentation of Isle Royale National Park will be given by Stephen Veirs, Jr., at Beech-Maple Lodge, on Wednesday, Feb. 5, at 8 p.m.

Isle Royale National Park consists of a group of islands in Lake Superior. These islands are among the few remaining areas where timber wolves and moose may be found.

FOR A NOTEWORTHY CAUSE

CUT-UPS CUT OUT decorations for the forthcoming "Evening of Musical Flairs" dance sponsored by Red Cross members from 40 area high schools. Having a "ball" before the ball are from left: Tarie Brigham, Bishop Hartley; Bill Biegler, Brookhaven; Florence Clark, Grandview and Larry LeMaster, West High. The dance will be held Saturday, Feb. 1, 8 to midnight at the Youth Center on the fairgrounds with proceeds going to United Cerebral Palsy.

Nice Work, If . . .

Scheduling isn't always the easiest process in the world.

Consider the plight of Amanda Clearcreek's basketball team this Saturday evening.

The Aces had a pre-season schedule that included away dates at Teays Valley and Canal Winchester — both on Feb. 1.

Amanda did a little juggling and will face C-W Saturday. The Teays Valley game was played Jan. 3.

WEATHER SIGN An icicle is one sign that real winter cold has arrived. Another is when you notice it takes more heat to keep you comfortable inside the house.

To provide this extra warmth your gas furnace works longer and harder. During the winter months, and especially during severe cold, you will be using more natural gas to heat your home. Your gas bill will be higher.

But, no matter how cold the weather, you can be assured of the best heat with gas heat. And as gas customers in Ohio your gas rates are among the lowest in the nation.

SPORTS

IRISH STAB — Aquinas eager Jim Duckworth (45) blots out South's Bill Bullock (34) as the Irish forward pulls down a rebound in first quarter play Friday night on the Eastmoor court. The Bulldogs downed Aquinas, 56-46, to "hang on" in the CL scramble.

TERRIERS TUMBLE BUT —

Bulldogs Take Pair; Prep For Panthers

The South 'express' is back on the winning track once again as the Bulldogs took two victories at the expense of Aquinas and Dayton Roosevelt over the weekend.

The Bulldogs entertained the Terriers at Eastmoor Friday evening and came home on the long end of a 56-46 ledger as three Rebs hit double digits.

BILL BULLOCKS rung up 12 while Joe Middendorf cashed in with 10. Lloyd Pate added 12 more (including four fielders in a row) to the winning South total while Don Lynch garnered 13 for the Terriers.

Dayton Roosevelt visited the Bulldogs at Mohawk Jr. High the following evening and the Teddies came out on the short end of an 85-69 score as little Roger Harper led the rout with 22 counters.

Lloyd Pate (20), Bill Bullocks (17) and Paul Hunt (14) picked up the slack for injured Reb Joe Middendorf as South upped its record to 9-2.

JOHN COLMERY'S five will have their hands full Friday as Linden (9-3) provides the opposition.

The Panthers stand 5-2 in CL play and want to tighten their grip on third place with a win over the Bulldogs in the area's contest of the week.

The Rebs have other plans though, and are hoping to bag the Panthers and continue in the thick of the hot City League chase.

Pirates Down Rebs

South suffered its third consecutive City League loss Tuesday at the hands of Central, 61-53, as the Pirates broke open the game with a series of fast breaks after trailing most of the way.

Bill Bullocks (17), Paul Hunt (17) and Lloyd Pate (10) couldn't keep the Rebs' record from falling to 4-3 in the league and 9-3 overall.

AQUINAS HAD tough opposition at home Saturday night also as the Terriers bowed to West by a 67-55 count. Don Lynch (13) and Jim Duckworth (12) couldn't avoid Aquinas' record from falling to 5-7 on the year.

Ray DeCola's St. Mary Rams split two games on their agenda by winning 42-40 over New Albany at home and losing 62-52 to Mt. Vernon St. Vincent on the road.

Roger Whaley's 13 tallies led the Ram win Friday while Jim Yates gunned in 19 counters in a futile effort on Saturday at Mt. Vernon.

THE RAMS (2-9) journey to Rosary (6-8) on Friday for an important FCL scrap and visit Lancaster Fenwick on Saturday in a non-leaguer.

In a single contest, Marion-Franklin bowed at Linden McKinley as the host Panthers eked out a 53-41 decision over the Red Devils.

Jumpin' John Jackson crammed in 13 markers for the Koebel-rd crew in a losing effort that saw M-F slip to an 0-6 CL mark and a 4-6 slate overall.

THE RED DEVILS plan on hitting the win column this weekend when M-F invades Walnut Ridge (2-10) for a contest on Friday night and host the Whetstone Braves (5-5) at home on the following evening.

Bud Trapp's Rosary quintet fell at Hamilton Twp. Friday night as the Rangers outscored the Crusaders, 57-48.

Rick Stokes couldn't quite duplicate last week's heroics although he led the Crusaders cause with 18 big points.

THE GREEN AND ROSE fell to a 3-3 County Loop mark and a 6-8 ticket for all games as the Rosary crew preps for Friday evening's hassle with FCL mate St. Marys at the K of C gym.

JUMPIN' JOE—South's Joe Middendorf (foreground) drives around Aquinas eager Don Lynch for a field goal attempt in early play Friday in the Bulldogs' battle with the Terriers. Middendorf, one of three Reb players to finish in the double digits, helped pace South to its fourth win in City League play.

Strong Field Enters '64 Golden Glove Bouts

Approximately 100 Golden Gloves boxing entrants registered at the preliminary weigh-in and examination Sunday at the Lincoln Health Studio, 771½ E. Long.

Entrants from nearly all of the Columbus recreation centers signed up while TICO (Training Institute of Central Ohio) also has hopefuls in the tourney.

OTHER BOXERS from various parts of Ohio and West Virginia have submitted their applications in the program also.

The 1963 Columbus area champ, Beatty Recreation Center, will once again field a host of talent that brought that center three individual champions, a national runner-up, and a national semi-finalist one year ago.

Beatty tutor Ed Williams hopes that Ernie Taylor, Frank Glover, Harvey Wilson, George Haskett, Sylvester Glover, and Dick Thomas can bring the title back to the center again.

WILLIAMS IS also counting heavily on Jim Childs, Virg McClendon and novice Craig Morton for important points.

Ernie Taylor of Beatty has a 10 year history of Golden Gloves championships throughout Ohio and West Virginia and was a member of the AAU National team in 1963.

Frank Glover of the same center has also held several Ohio championships and has ranked third in his division for the past two years.

BILL CUMMINS of Windsor Terrace has a national champ in 160 lb. Bill Douglas who won his division last year in Chicago.

Recreation leaders and officials of this year's Golden Gloves tourney feel that 1964 entrants are the best group of boxers to sign up in the program in several years.

The tournament will unfold at the Fairgrounds Coliseum Feb. 5-14 with tickets on sale at 37 N. High with prices ranging from 50 cents on up to $2. All fights will commence at 8 p.m. sharp on each of the nights.

Livingston, Heyl Fives Lead Gra-Y Circuit

In the South Side Gra-Y Loop, Livingston won its second in a row by downing the title contending Beck squad 18-8. In other games the Lincoln Park Jaguars defeated Reeb by a score of 30-6 and Lincoln Park Raiders outscored the Southwood Wolverines 20 to 11.

Beck put the pressure on Livingston in the first half and led by a low score of 3 to 1. However, Bruce Nelson and Gregory Bell found the netted hoop in the second half, scoring nine and six points respectively, while Beck was paced by Sherman Hancock and Dick Stevens wth three apiece.

THE JAGUARS opened their season with an impressive 30-6 win over Reeb.

Reeb showed improvement offensively, but it was not enough to equal the Jaguar scoring trio of Charles Baily, Vincent Wilson and Oliver Hughes who scored nine, eight and six points respectively. David Linsey led Reeb with four points in a losing effort.

The Raiders and Wolverines found the nets early and at the half the Wolverines were down by five points. The Raiders' height began to tell in the second half.

LED BY Bill Spenz' 11 points, the Raiders were able to pull away for good. Ronnie Linville and Bill Sayre played a good floor game for the Wolverines, while the losers' leading scorer was Larry Pack with four points.

IN THE THURSDAY loop, the Heyl Spartans led 10 to 3 at the halftime and put together a 10-point half and won 20-9 over the South Optimists. The Spartans were paced by Ricky Tedrick and Bob Williams with eight points each.

The Heyl Celtics, staying with their running mates, downed the Siebert Flyers 21-4. The Celtics jumped to a 10-0 lead behind the shooting of their tall center, Ricky Harmon, who meshed six points. Harmon ended up with 10 points while Herb Schromberg, his teammate, tallied six points.

THE BIGGEST upset of the evening was when Deshler downed the Heyl Globetrotters 11-9 in a sudden death overtime.

The Globetrotters led at halftime by a score of 6-2. However, Deshler rallied and with five seconds showing on the clock, West knotted the score at seven all.

In the overtime, the Globetrotters' Don Foraker and Brad Hoffman made two clutch foul shots and again the score was tied at nine.

THEN IN the sudden death period, Deshler's Douglas Byrd sank the winning basket to end the contest abruptly.

The final game was just as close as its predecessor, as Stewart edged the Siebert Bearcats 13-11.

Siebert, behind 7-2 at the intermission, rallied behind Dave Holbrooks' seven points but Stewart refused to fold. Stewart was led by Hackett who tallied seven points in the big win.

Ohio Archers Plan Schedule, Eye Automation

Tournaments, election of officers and automation were just a few of the items accomplished or discussed at the recent Winter Meeting of the Ohio Archers Club.

Charles Lutz, 285 E. Cemetery-rd, Hilliard, was named president of the club at the meeting.

THE CLUB, presently in the process of re-organization, announced that it will assume the responsibilities of archer classification in Ohio—a task previously handled by the National Field Archery Association.

Also on the "new business" docket of the local organization was the decision to return to the method of "on the spot" awarding of state championship trophies and the interpretation of amateur standing.

Announcement of the '64 tournament schedule was a highpoint of the session.

MOST TIMELY and significant of local interest was the announcement that the Flaming Arrow Club of Lockbourne Air Force Base will host the State Indoor Flint Championship Tourney, Feb. 15-16, at the base.

An investigative report on the possibility of building automated indoor archery lanes also came to light at the meeting.

Such an operation is already beyond the planning stages at Olentangy Lanes, a club spokesman announced.

Kiwanis O-I Sportsman's Club Invites New Members

The Owens-Illinois Company has initiated a family-style Sportsman Club which will hold its first scheduled meeting, Monday, Feb. 10 at the O-I Club House at 711 Southwood-av.

The club, which will center its activities around fishing, camping and boating, is open to all employes of Owens-Illinois who are interested in gaining membership.

THE CLUB presently has 75 members but officials hope to swell the membership to 300. A schedule of planned activities for the club is already in the planning stage.

Any O-I employe interested in joining the Sportsman Club should attend the meeting at 7:30 p.m.

ON AREA WRESTLING MATS . . .

W-R, East Continue Unbeaten; 'Perfect Mark' List Shrinks

Walnut Ridge and East remained as the only two area mat squads with unblemished marks when the dust cleared on weekly wrestling activity.

The Scotties zipped their mark to 10-0 with a 24-18 "prestige" win over Groveport and an easy 40-2 verdict over hapless Granville.

THE TIGERS of Jim Porter, buoyed by a big win in their Invitational Meet two weeks ago, rapped Circleville, 34-3.

In other invitational fare, Upper Arlington rode high over seven other opponents to take honors in Pleasant View's Invitational while DeSales captured laurels in a four-team Catholic Tourney.

In other dual matches, Eastmoor clobbered North, 29-6, Central upended Watterson, 27-14, and Pleasant View pinned DeSales, 27-14.

ONLY OTHER action saw West spill Hilliard Friday.

Jerry Lynn, Kerney Pinkston and John Roop maintained spotless individual records as Ralph Webster's Scotties downed Groveport.

W-R took three of the final four matches (Roop, Jack Brown and Tim Hansley) to hand the Cruisers their second straight mat setback.

CHRIS GRAVES (heavyweight) remained as Groveport's lone unbeaten as Roop decisioned Louie Kisner, 15-2, to hand the 154-pounder his initial loss of the campaign.

Against Granville, the Highlanders swept through 10 of 11 matches (one draw) to win going away.

Roger Young and Jim Hough ran their personal streaks to 12 straight as East sped through the final eight slots victoriously to snow Circleville.

ROGER DUMAREE'S Central Pirates came from behind, winning the final six events, to pin Watterson.

Bob Arnett, Dick Gilliam, Skip Parks, Willie Hoke, Warren Jennings and Dan Pullins combined to set the Pirate string as Hoke remained unbeaten in seven decisions.

Wins by Larry Meade and Kurt Bauer in the final two matches clinched Pleasant View's verdict over DeSales.

JIM FERRELL'S Eastmoor grapplers took wins in the opening four weight divisions and then coasted to an easy victory over North.

Pete Johnson (138) secured the Warriors lone win via the pin route.

Arlington replaced Franklin Heights as kingpin in P-V's Invitational by nabbing four final wins after gaining spots in 10 of 11 berths in the semi-final section.

THE GOLDEN Bears piled up 115 points as compared to runner-up host P-V's 54.

Other finishes included: West, 47; Circleville, 44; Franklin Heights, 39; Grove City, 29 and Grandview and University, 14 each.

Individual winners among area competitors included: 105—Gordon Brooks (West); 112 — Chuck Driesbach (P-V); 122 — John Bedell (G-C); 129 — Don Davis (F-H); 140 — Gary Medors (P-V) and 177 — Mike Long (F-H).

THE P-V invite was a Waterloo for West heavyweight Larry Moore who absorbed loss number one after 13 straight verdicts.

Host DeSales accumulated 99 points to runnerup Watterson's 76 as the Stallions won the Catholic Invitational.

Hartley placed third with 58 markers while Ready took fourth with 37 points.

Area winners included Hartey's Dave Erwin (135) and Pat Burkey (167) and Ready's Bill Paxton (122). Erwin was selected as the meet's "most outstanding wrestler."

A full card of mat activity is set for the coming week as many clubs prep for the upcoming City League Meet (Feb. 7-8) at Central.

FEATURE matches find Groveport looking to snap a two-meet loss streak while entertaining Pleasant View.

Here is the schedule:

THURSDAY
Eastmoor at West (3:15)

FRIDAY
Pleasant View at Groveport (4:30)

SATURDAY
Whitehall at Worthington Invitational (12:30 p.m.)

TUESDAY
Franklin Heights at Hilliard; University at Whitehall (4 p.m.)

Lenten Series Begins Feb. 16

Fr. Robert A. Klee, a member of Bishop Hartley High School faculty and Diocesan Director of Apostleship of Prayer, will again host the "Your Life" program during the Lenten season.

Beginning Sunday, Feb. 16, the program will be seen seven consecutive Sundays at 11:30 a.m. on WTVN television.

Montana, North and South Dakota, and Washington states were all admitted to the Union in 1889.

Congress may have its scoundrels, its scandals and its abuses, but . . . it is our only protection against the arbitrary and unauthorized use of power by the powerful executive branch . . . Clark Mollenhoff, Washington newsman.

Size Up Petitioners Now

Petitions for elective public and political party offices are now in full bloom in anticipation of the May primary elections. Filing deadline for all such petitions is Feb. 5.

Public officers to be elected in 1964 include president, vice-president, U. S. senator, U. S. representatives, Ohio Supreme Court judges, state senators, state representatives, and Court of Appeals judges. On the county level, candidates will vie for May ballot spaces for judges, commissioners, clerk of courts, coroner, engineer, prosecuting attorney, recorder, sheriff and treasurer.

Political party representation will be decided in the May primary election for delegates to the national conventions of the Republican and Democratic parties. In May the political parties will also elect district representatives to the state central committees and cimmitteemen to the county organizations.

Petitions for elective office may be signed only by registered voters who are of the same political party as the candidate in whose behalf the petition is being circulated. A registered voter who does not show a (primary) voting record as a member of either political party may sign either a Democratic or Republican nominating petition—but not both. Signatures on a petition to place a candidate's name on the ballot cannot be withdrawn after the petition is filed with a board of elections or with the secretary of state.

Any qualified elector is eligible to take out petitions for elective office, but must declare his party affiliation in doing so. If filing as a partisan, he can file only as a member of the political party to which he belongs, as determined by his voting record.

Primary Election Day in May is equally as important as the November General Election. It is in May that the people of each political party express their preference for candidates who will carry their party's banner in November.

It is not too early to begin to know the candidates who are asking to be your representatives.

Let's Hope for a Cloudy Day

And Now, A Word For The Girl Scouts

The Girl Scout Cookie Sale campaign (Feb. 7-17) is proof positive that much can be accomplished when many give a little.

An estimated 13,000 Junior, Cadette and Senior Girl Scouts will give of their time in a doorbell-ringing campaign in the 10-county Seal of Ohio Girl Scout Council area. They will be taking orders for five different kinds of cookies. Proceeds from sales will assist in a wide variety of scouting activities.

Last fall, cookie funds helped buy the 424-acre camp Douda Dale, near McConnelsville. A new year-round camp building, built partially from cookie proceeds at Franklin County Camp Ken-Jockety, will be dedicated this spring. Activities such as special troop community service projects and trips to points of historic and scenic interest are also aided by cookie funds.

The annual cookie sale also helps keep camp fees low so that each Girl Scout, regardless of her financial status, can receive the rich rewards of learning about nature and the out-of-doors through camping experiences.

The Girl Scout salesgirls will offer you a five-variety choice in cookies. But you can offer a much wider variety of help by your purchase, and help the Girl Scouts to help themselves.

Guest Pulpit . . .

Jesus said, "But you shall receive the power of the Holy Ghost having come upon you, and shall be my witnesses both in Jerusalem, and in all Judea and in Samaria, and unto the extremity of the earth." (Acts 1:8 Gobey translation)

Power; spiritual power; Holy Spirit power; power for victorious living; power of eternal accomplishments — where is it?

Rev. Gilkerson

I look to the world and I see political power; financial power, social power and even moral power; but no dynamic, Spirit-empowered lives. The world continues to travel the road of selfishness, greed and gain. "Every man for himself," is the popular creed. "By hook or crook," are the standards most often followed. Guilt and remorse are the fruits reaped, while the power of the Holy Spirit is an unknown truth. The words of Jesus might well have never been spoken.

So, I look to the Church. Surely, here I will find the spiritual power we all need so much. I am disappointed. Power of influence is evident; power of teaching can be appreciated; power of numbers is often displayed.

Great buildings speak of powerful construction, and powerful fund raising campaigns. Great sermons depict the power of well trained ministers; beautiful choirs sing of powerful talents and well organized services proclaim powerful ritual.

I am heartsick as I look at the well filled pews, but powerless of the Spirit of God. I am ashamed as I listen to the well prepared sermon, but void of Holy Ghost Power. The counseling room is encouraging; the organized worship is intellectual; fund raising drives are a success but all are poor substitutes for the power that Christ spoke about. Is there no demonstration of this power left?

Then I saw a man. I knew him. He had at one time been a selfish sinner. He lived carelessly and indifferently. One day the power of conviction seized him; he went to the church altar for prayer; by the power of the Spirit he was converted; by this same power he lived a victorious Christian life. Later he consecrated his life to God and was filled with the power of the Spirit.

I knew him before and I know him now and in my heart I know that here is the power that Jesus expressed. My friend is a father, a factory employer, a church member, he worships. He not only goes to work; he also witnesses of God's love. He not only cares for his family; he also gives them an example of a Spirit-filled man.

Yes, the power of Christ is still with us. It is in the heart of every "born-again" Christian, in the lives of every Spirit-filled man or woman—and He the Spirit of God can empower your life.

An Editor's Outlook . . . by Jenkin Lloyd Jones

Jones Rebels; Buys A Stick Shift

I've got a new car with a four-on-the-floor stick shift.

My wife keeps shaking her head and repeating rather dully, "but that fool thing cost as much as an automatic!"

My 22-year-old daughter asks, "Daddy, what's a clutch?"

Ha! (Varoom! Varoooom!)

Jones

The stick shift is my rebellion. It's a banshee yowl against our over-automated-age. The new car doesn't drive me. I drive it.

Over in Europe last fall I rented a little German heap that had to be shifted all the time. Gradually it occurred to me that I had been missing something with these wonderful modern automatic transmissions designed for gear-grinding old ladies who used to keep trying to go from low into reverse.

Here I was downshifting and doubleclutching — tricks long forgotten — around the Alps and Pyrenees and it was refreshing. So now I've got a conversation piece sticking out of the transmission hump between the bucket seats. Anyone else for the Middle Ages?

There comes a time when man instinctively rebels against that which is overslick. He yearns for the crude and the fundamental. A guy drives out to the golf course behind a marvelously precise gasoline engine while he sits on torsion bars, helical springs and foam rubber. Then what? His pleasure starts when he hits a stone with a stick. True, it's a rubber stone and a steel-shafted stick. But the whole game is so clumsy, so primitive, so error-prone that he finds it fascinating.

We keep thinking we want it easier. Advertising tells us that if we're not doing whatever we're doing the easiest way we're creating ourselves. Well, the easiest way to get a fish is to call up the market and have them send one over. It's usually the cheapest way, too.

But we outfit ourselves in elaborate gear and go magnificent distances to stumble around on wet rocks or bake in open boats in a dubious effort to outwit one of nature's feeblest brains. Surely, here is the quintessence of inefficiency.

Commercial fishermen have developed excellent sonar fish-finders to locate schools, and experiments are well advanced on portable fish-finders so sophisticated that they may soon be able to spot an individual pike or bass and give you the course and distance thereto. And when that happens the fun will go out of fishing.

Venison is worse meat than corn-fed beef. Wild turkeys are tougher than tame turkeys. Why does man idiotically go forth into the woods to track down food at the risk of having his head blown off by another human idiot? Because the skin-clad man with the spear and the throwing stick is in us.

The most expensive apartment buildings now advertise genuine fireplaces. It takes a lot of money to put in the flues necessary to carry away the smoke of 10 or 20 fireplaces stacked one on top of the other. It certainly shows up in the rent.

And what is a fireplace? In a city it is the most costly, the messiest and the least efficient heating system you can find. But man sits before an open fire, even if he is encased in a steel-and-brick cocoon 200 feet above the ground, and as he stares at the leaping flames he dreams just as his ancestors dreamed as they stared at the cavemouth fires. Who likes to stare at a thermostat?

And people have to feel useful, even if what they are doing is really useless.

I have a friend, an oil company lawyer, who lives in a big house 10 miles out in the suburbs. But he goes to the downtown post office every day for his mail. It seems he was raised in an Iowa village and never could kick the habit. More power to him.

Vance Packard in "The Hidden Persuaders" says that the manufacturers of prepared cake mixes found that dried eggs included in the mix worked perfectly. But the mix that was most popular with housewives required the user to break two eggs into it. Thus, the "cooks" felt useful, that they really had something to do with preparing the cakes. Machiavellian, but effective.

There are, of course, limits to our fascination with the hard way and our preoccupation with the primitive. We may think it's fun to camp in a tent, but practically no one wants to live in a tent. The first time you climb the mountain the trail may be great, but the tenth time up you want the chair-lift.

It's wonderful that this new car of mine requires no priming of petcocks, no cranking of the engine, no lighting of acetylene lamps. It has tires made out of something better than baloney skins, runs forever without greasing, and it rides like gossamer upon a zephyr. In short, it's almost all modern.

All but the four-on-the-floor shift. This is my two-eggs-in-the-cake mix. This is my illusion of indispensibility. It puts me in command. I am a man again.

Vroom! Snick. Varoom! Snick. Vaarr-o-o-m! Snick. Purrrrr.

Frosting On The Cake

By "UNCLE DOC" ROSS — U.S.A.

This country is this moment reaping the whirlwind of two generations of "progressive education idiocy" and yet parents and police and judges say they just can't understand it.

WORK is still God's best policeman and constant free money without earning it will force the present mess from bad to worse.

Newspaper boys who really hustle for new subscribers and who learn how to keep their route collections up to date are building good business habits and performance that will pay off the rest of their lives.

Ohio's new experiment under Judge Fogle's direction has great promise if he will keep the silly theorists off his back and make these choice kids work like horses and observe the most absolute rules of conduct. This new effort may give a lot of boys, who are presently headed wrong, a new perspective and accomplish wonders in building a new set of habits which cultivate both self-respect and genuine respect for law and order.

Many of these kids are not too much to blame. With parents who loll around gin mills and beer joints most of their time, squandering money that should go for sane family operation, what chance does such a kid have to keep out of bad company?

Every citizen with instincts of decency and belief that kids can be taught the rules of the game of life should see to it that Judge Fogle has complete backing.

OLDEST CEMETERY

According to S. A. Fitzpatrick and U. S. Morris in their "Centennial History of Franklinton, 1897," the old burying ground now known as the Franklinton Cemetery was the first in Franklin County. It is at the east end of McKinley-av between Davis and Souder-avs.

The West Side Board of Trade cleaned the old cemetery, which had been neglected for years, and had a substantial stone wall built around it. So far as possible, fallen stones were reset, and those not identifiable with proper graves were put into a neat pile in the southwest corner of the lot. Many have quaint verses on them, still legible. The City of Columbus now maintains the cemetery.

A committee of the board of trade, of which our Mr. Hartley was a member, erected a 26-foot granite obelisk in the center of the lot. Speaker for the 1931 dedication was Andrew B. Rodgers, a grandson of Lucas Sullivant, founder of Franklinton in 1797, and who was buried in the cemetery in 1816. (Later, his body was moved to Green Lawn.)

The Franklin County Historical Society dedicated a marker at the south gate of the cemetery May 3, 1962, the sesquicentennial year of Columbus. According to it, the cemetery ground was given by Lucas Sullivant in 1799. A total of 100 were buried, with 71 still marked.

The Rev. Seth Noble, a soldier of the Revolution, was the first minister of the first church, given by Lucas Sullivant, to be built in Franklin County. That was in 1811. Research director Gilbert F. Dodds wrote the inscription on the historical society's marker.

It says here . . . .

Knowing the past gives some assurance of the future.

Mart Sales Increase

To the Editor:

Those who worked so diligently on the project are very happy to report that $1635.61 was realized by the persons entering merchandise in the 1963 Senior Citizens' Selling Mart which represents a sizeable increase over the 1962 Mart. The value of the program is inherent; the success of the program lies in the devotion, interest, and hours of effort on the part of well over a hundred volunteers.

We have already started our thinking toward the 1964 Selling Mart and set the dates for Nov. 9-13 to be held again at the Senior Citizens' Recreation Center.

On behalf of the 131 contributors, may we say a most sincere thank you for your work in the planning, promoting and carrying out of this valuable community project.

N. J. Barack
Recreation Superintendent
Mrs. J. A. Davis,
Selling Mart Chairman

Thanks Rally Supporters

To the Editor:

We wish to express our sincere appreciation for the very fine support which made the Columbus Civil Rights Rally a success.

The members of the press, various business concerns, the 195 sponsoring organizations all contributed to showing one of the major purposes of the Rally — that there is a wide body of support in this community for the principle of equality of opportunity. We are sure that the thousands who attended, as well as those who listened to the program on the radio, know that making real the teachings of our democracy is the responsibility of every citizen.

Russell M. Jones,
executive director and coordinator for Columbus Civil Rights Rally

Jaycees Thank Donors

The Prairie-Lincoln Junior Chamber of Commerce wishes to express heartfelt thanks to people of the community on their cooperation, time and contributions given in our recent food collection for the Franklin Village Children's Home.

We are sure a group of lonely children at the village had a much nicer holiday meal, warmed with the thought that they were remembered.

Teens' Drive Successful

To the Editor:

West High students collected a total of $850 in the "Taps for Teens" (March of Dimes) on Jan. 11.

This program was started in 1954, during the polio epidemic. Since this program started the above is the largest amount ever collected by an individual school.

In all, 150 sudents participated from West. Thanks to all of them for a job well done.

We can't thank the merchants and businessmen enough for their fine cooperation in allowing us to collect in front of their places of business. Most of you even invited us in to get warm.

Here's the Answer

AM I COMING IN LOUD AND CLEAR?

SPANISH TESTS THAT formerly took three periods to administer can now be given in five minutes in the brand-new language laboratory installed at Marion-Franklin High School. Mrs. Joan Sturgill, Latin teacher, is shown at the control board of this massive unit which allows her to record and broadcast tapes as well as to audit and communicate with individual students. The 30-unit teaching aid includes five special desks where the more advanced student can progress at his own rate of speed. The laboratory is especially helpful, according to Mrs. Genevieve Jackson, English and French teacher, in aiding the students in Spanish conversation. The tapes which the children are taught to imitate are made by natives of every Spanish speaking country of the world.

Grandmother Is First Graduate To Get Diploma With Distinction

By MARTHA NEWTON

"I didn't know that I could learn after so many years," said Mrs. Clarence A. (Lorene) Lowe, who received a diploma of graduation with distinction from the Evening High School of Columbus, 75 S. Washington-blvd, Wednesday, Jan. 29.

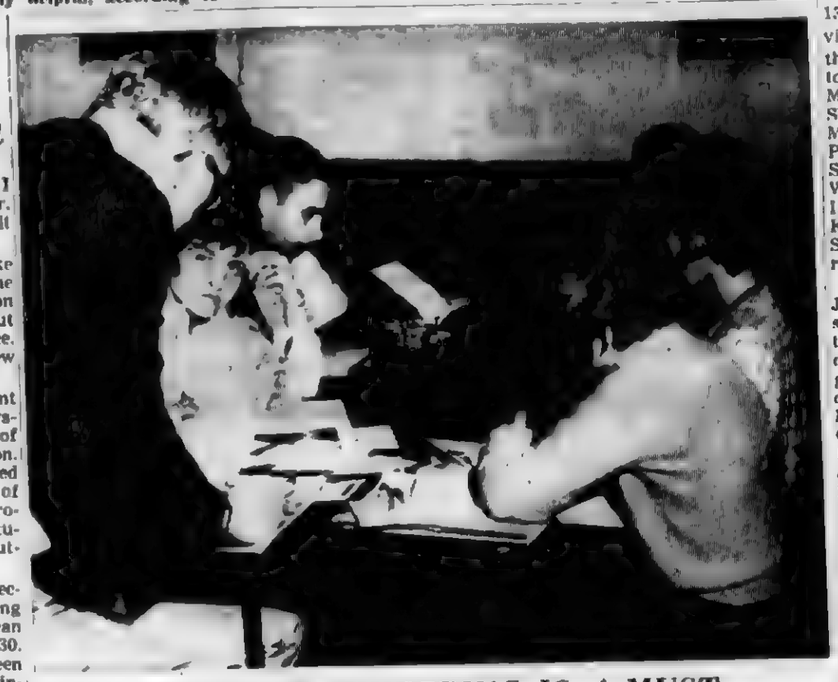
Lorene is a happy, good-looking grandmother. She was born in the German Village and now lives at 372 Northridge-rd. Of necessity, she quit high school when a junior to go to work. First, however, she took a course at a business college and graduated from it.

In 1922, Lorene married Clarence, who had a manufacturing plant. Lorene was the bookkeeper, but, during the war, when there was a shortage of manpower, she would often drive one of the trucks.

"Through the years," said Lorene, "I would often dream about taking tests but never finishing them."

This was particularly true when she was employed in the offices of attorneys. For 15 years now she has been secretary for eight judges in Common Pleas Court of Columbus.

"Two and a half years ago a niece of mine decided to go to evening school and she reminded me that since I often spoke about more learning I ought to go along with her. This I did, and enjoyed it ever since," she said.



"I'll never forget. I felt like a child—scared to death—the first time I was called upon to recite," she related. "But I've enjoyed it ever since. Each subject opened up a new world to me," she said.

Lorene is the first student in the Columbus School system to receive a diploma of graduation with distinction. The diploma has been created by the Columbus Board of Education to provide appropriate recognition for students who achieve an outstanding school record.

Registration for the second semester at the Evening High School of Columbus can be made on Thursday, Jan. 30, or Monday, Feb. 3, between 6 and 9 p.m. For further information call CA. 4-3243.

MRS. IRENE LOWE displays the first certificate of graduation with distinction given by Columbus Public Schools. With her are James B. Smith, 1828 Bryden-rd, vice-principal, and G. B. Newton, 1980 Indianola-av principal, both of the Evening High School.

GOOD BOOKKEEPING IS A MUST

THE "TEENAGE TYCOONS" are being counseled in the techniques of bookkeeping by Paul Fry, executive secretary of Junior Achievement of Columbus. From the left are Fry, Karen Smith of Marion-Franklin High, Wayne Willis of West High, Judy Crawmer of Sacred Heart High and Nancy Walker of Eastmoor. A trade fair is being held this Saturday at Central Point and Northern Lights Shopping Centers where the products of 37 miniature industries will be exhibited and sold. The teenagers under the sponsorship and guidance of Columbus companies are provided with business experience and an introduction to the world of free enterprise through the program in which 750 teenagers are employed this year

Baumann Seeks Post As State Representative

James L. Baumann, 1365 Aven-dr announced this week he would be a Democratic candidate in the May primary election for state representative.

Baumann is a partner in the Baumann Brothers Plumbing and Heating Co. He is a member of the South Side Business and Industrial Association, served as president of the Plumbing and Hydronic Contractors Association of Greater Columbus, and as a chairman for the second year of a local legislative committee of Home Builders Association of Greater Columbus.

Baumann recently served on a committee jointly with the Mechanical Contractors Association to draft a modern plumbing code.

A graduate of St. Charles College, he served with the United States Army. He is a member of the Knights of Columbus, and serves as a captain for the United Appeal Drive.

Bauman is a member of Christ the King Parish, and is the father of five children.

County Dems Name Local, State 'Picks'

The Franklin County Democratic Steering Committee added six endorsements Tuesday to its list of preferred candidates for local and state office. The six included five candidates for state representative and one for state senator.

State representative candidates endorsed included Jerry O'Shaughnessy, 405 E. Town-st; James L. Baumann, 1365 Avon-dr; James T. Foley, 435 Trevitt-st; Don L. Woodland, 265 E. Stafford-av, and Russell Volkema, 662 Marburn-dr. John T. Gordon, 5406 Milton-av, won backing for the state senator race.

The steering committee endorsements for the county commission races went to Columbus Councilman William P. Horemle, 2434 Beverly-pl, and Harold M. Cooper, 2685 Sonata-dr, general manager of the Columbus Jets Baseball Club.

Municipal Court Judge Fred L. Shoemaker won endorsement for the Common Pleas Court post, and Theodore R. (Ted) Saker, former assistant attorney general, was the choice in the race for county prosecuting attorney.

Carl L. Noble, 874 Binns-blvd, who has operated the West Side Special Police Co. for the past 15 years, was endorsed in the sheriff's race; Dr. John H. Rosemond, 3300 E. Livingston-av, was the choice for the county coroner's post, and James J. Yoder, insurance agent, was selected in the race for county clerk of courts.

The steering committee will name two more endorsed candidates for the state representative race, but will refrain from endorsing candidates in the races for Congress.

a City Planning Commission spokesman said. A separate hearing for the Settles petition was also scheduled, with a request for a zoning change from commercial to one-to-four-family residential.

Also scheduled for hearing on Wednesday were two other South Side zoning change requests.

A conditional use permit was sought for property at the southeast corner of Parsons and Markison-avs, for construction of a drive-in restaurant. Petitioner was Larry Wade and Co., Realtors, 873 E. Broad-st,. The property is zoned commercial.

Leroy Casto, 2653 Parsons-av, petitioned for a rezoning from single-family residential to a manufacturing designation to accommodate a small grocery store.

Area Policemen Sell Annual Ball Tickets

The 32nd annual Police Ball will be held at Rollerland, Mound and 18th-sts, on Tuesday, Feb. 25, 9 p.m. to 1 a.m.

Music will be provided by the Al Wasion Orchestra and vocalist Ellie Russell. Waslon was formerly with Jimmy Dorsey and is well known by dance fans. The band, composed of local musicians, is in popular demand for the entertainment of many groups throughout this area.

ened hospital stays, according to Dr. Meiling, is getting the public to accept it. He indicated that though obstetricians are convinced that the three-day or less confinement for new mothers that is average in United States Hospitals today, compared with nine and a half a few years ago is adequate, some patients do not agree.

When asked in what direction research would lead in the near future, Dr. Meiling reminded, "Medicine does not grow by design."

However, the congenitally handicapped child will probably be helped, he said, as more and more it is realized the physically defective child is not necessarily an intellectual cripple.

He added that one of the frontier areas of research is that of the effect of what enters the mother's system on the unborn child, as so tragically demonstrated by Thalidomide.

Dr. Graham's own latest work in research deals with the psychological adjustment of the new born. He also has particular interest in pulmonary function in children and respiratory diseases and metabolism of the new-born infant.

The new chief of staff came to Columbus from Canada where he was chief of pediatrics at Children's Hospital in Vancouver, and head of the Pediatric Department at the University of British Columbia.

Dr. Graham is a native of Wisconsin, received his medical degree from Vanderbilt in 1942 and completed his internship and residency at the University of Michigan Hospital.

He and his wife Louise and their three children are living at 3730 Surrey Hill-pl.

Robert Parker

Scholer is general chairman for the ball, and Capt. Marty Winters is chairman of ticket sales.

Tickets went on sale Monday, Jan. 20, and the price is still $1. To avoid repeated contacts by different officers, they are continuing the policy of having only a few officers selling tickets.

Officer Gail Van Gorden of 2722 Atwood Terrace, and Officer Robert (Don) Parker of 855 Stanley-av, will be selling tickets in the South Side.

Tickets may also be obtained by calling Police Headquarters at 221-1166.

Proceeds from the ball are used to provide for the widows and children of deceased police officers.

Liquor Board Denies Transfer

The application of transfer of a D-5 permit held by Lawrence J. and Martin Freedman, 997 Lilley-av which allows the sale of beer, wine or spirituous liquor by the glass until 2:30 a.m., has been denied by the Ohio Department of Liquor Control.

Departmental investigation disclosed that transfer of the permit from 997 Mt. Vernon-av to 1964 Parsons-av would locate an additional permit premises in on area already "more than adequately served" by existing permits, and would materially increase the burden of maintenance of law and order.

The department also noted that there have been an inordinately large number of incidents occurring in and about the applicants' previous premises, leading to arrests and/or convictions for violations of law and order.

The monthly euchre party of the Harmony Glee Club, 435 E. Kossuth, will be held Saturday, Feb. 1.

Meetings, here and there. . . The South Side "Y" Mothers' Club will celebrate its first anniversary of existence with a birthday party on Tuesday, Feb. 4, at 7:45 p.m. The social chairman, Mrs. Walter McCain, will be in charge of the entertainment.

The St. Frances Romana Society will meet Wednesday, Feb. 5, at the Germania Hall, 543 S. Front-st, at 8 p.m. The business meeting will be followed by games and refreshments.

"Thursday at the YWCA" for Jan. 30 will include a display of 34 dolls in authentic dress to illustrate the 10:30 a.m. talk, "First Ladies of the White House." Mrs. P. E. Semester will be the speaker. At 11:45 a.m. Dr. Frederick Zeller, of OSU, will discuss "The Changing Status of Women." For the 1:45 p.m. book review, Mrs. Myron Gessaman will discuss "Uneesy Lies The Head."

The four circles of Hope Lutheran Church will meet within the week, three at the church. Circle 4 will meet Monday, Feb. 3, at 8 p.m. We have no information about the location of the meeting. Circles 1, 2 and 3 will all meet Wednesday, Feb. 5, at the church. The meeting times are: Circle 1, 9 a.m.; Circle 2, 12:30 p.m., and Circle 3, 7:30 p.m.

The public affairs luncheon of the YWCA will be an event of Friday, Jan. 31. The weekly mid-week dance at the YWCA, Wednesday, Feb. 5, will feature the music of Chuck Selby. Admission is 85 cents for the 8:45 to 11:45 p.m. affair.

The youth of the South High EUB Church will attend a skating party to be held at the Grove City Rink this evening (Thursday).

A shower of cards would help the morale at this time of Bobby Thompson, 640 Woodrow-av, a patient in room 859, University Hospital. The 15-year-old South High student has undergone three eye operations since August, two within the last month.

An auto accident hospitalized the entire Dixon family of 1400 S. Sixth-st, we're sorry to report. The father, James, is in St. Anthony Hospital. The mother, Rachel, and daughters, Pat and Bonnie, were hospitalized in Mercy Hospital.

The mid-year scholastic break provides an opportunity for the South High Bulldog basketball team to play two games, Friday, Jan. 31, the Linden team will be guests of the local school, while the Saturday, Feb. 1, game will be played at Central.

Mary Circle of Trinity Lutheran Church will meet at 12:30 p.m. Wednesday, Feb. 5, at the church. Hostesses will be Mrs. William Evans, Mrs. Thomas Edison, Mrs. William Wittmann and Mrs. Dale Fuller.

WARNING CONCERNING COPYRIGHT RESTRICTIONS

The copyright law of the United States (Title 17, United States Code) governs the making of photocopies or other reproductions of copyrighted material.

Under certain conditions specified in the law, libraries and archives are authorized to furnish a photocopy or other reproduction. One of these specified conditions is that the photocopy or reproduction is not to be "used for any purpose other than private study, scholarship, or research." If a user makes a request for, or later uses, a photocopy or reproduction for purposes in excess of "fair use," that user may be liable for copyright infringement.

This institution reserves the right to refuse to accept a copying order if, in its judgment, fulfillment of the order would involve violation of copyright law.

Materials within the collections of The Ohio Historical Society may be subject to the Federal Copyright Law. The Society permits use and copying of such materials only to the extent authorized by Sections 107 and 108 of the Federal Copyright Law. Any person or organization making, ordering or using a copy of such materials from the collections of The Ohio Historical Society warrants to The Society that his, her or its use of such copy is authorized by the Federal Copyright Law.
